SHIPBUILDING IS AT STANDSTILL

The shipbuilding industry in the western end of the city has come to a standstill, the Riverside plant entirely closed with the exception of a few watchmen and employes in the office, and on Monday the Polk street plant of the McDougall-Duluth company will close, according to notices which are said to have been given the few that still are working in that plant. Only the steel foundry department has been operating for the last two weeks at the latter place. About fifty men have been working in the steel foundry department at the Polk street plant and these it is said will be out of work on Nov. 15.

"We are not in a position to say how long the plant will be closed," General Manager A. Miller McDougall said. "The present condition of the steel market is not satisfactory for accepting work. Until the market becomes more stabilized we will be unable to make any announcements."

"The men have been given notice that they will be laid off on Nov. 15, and to seek other jobs for the winter," said an employe of the Polk street plant. "From the notice we understand that the plant will be closed indefinitely."

MANY CANDIDATES FOR DENFELD BASKET BALL

The boys of the different classes at Denfeld high school met at the school last night to organize their teams for the interclass basket ball tournament which is to be held between now and the opening of the interschool season. The rivalry, both for positions on the teams and between the classes, is reported to be very keen.

With eight basket ball lettermen out for the school team and the usual amount of new talent presenting itself Denfeld considers her chances for a championship team very bright. Of the men from teams of other years the following are out for the team this year: Harris, captain; McNelis, Bratt, Sullivan, Anderson, Myles, Gagnon and Bodin.

Covers were laid for thirty-two at a dinner in their honor. Music and games followed the dinner. The celebrants were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Schmitz have lived at the Head of the Lakes for almost thirty years and have a large number of friends in Duluth and Superior.

FORMER LEADING CITIZEN DIES IN TENNESSEE

Maj. J. H. Upham, former well known resident of Duluth and who, as a member of the dredging firm of Williams, Upham & Daugherty, was well known all over the Great Lakes, died this week at Lawrenceburg, Tenn. The body has been brought to Duluth by his son, John H. Upham, Jr., and the latter's wife, of Ashland, Wis., and will be interred in Forest Hill cemetery tomorrow. The funeral will be private.

Surviving relatives are the widow, Mrs. J. H. Upham of Duluth; Mrs. Clark Fagg, a daughter, of Milwaukee and a son, John H. Upham, Jr., of Ashland, Wis.

Maj. Upham was a veteran of the Civil war and came to Duluth to live in 1869. In the early days he was a member of the firm of Williams, Upham & Daugherty, which carried on extensive dredging operations on the lakes. He was a potent factor in the early development of Duluth. A number of years ago Mr. Upham moved to California where he made his home most of the time until his death.

PITTSBURGH PLUS FIGHT REOPENED; HEARING MONDAY

The fight against Pittsburgh plus, which has been consistently fought for some years, has been reopened through a decision of the Federal Trade commission, and the hearing will be held in Washington Monday. T. T. Hudson, who appeared for Duluth at previous hearings, will again represent Duluth's interests at this hearing.

The hearing for Monday is the result of the trade commission voting 4 to 1 to reopen the case on the petition of the Western Association of Rolled Steel Consumers. The action of the commission suspends its previous decision of July when it voted 3 to 2 to dismiss the complaints brought by 700 Western steel manufacturers and the state of Minnesota through the governor and the attorney general.

Attorney General Hilton and H. C. Flannery, assistant attorney general in charge of legal affairs of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, will leave late this week for Washington to represent Minnesota's interests.

Mr. Hilton will represent the interests of the Western Association of Steel Fabricators and of Minnesota, Wisconsin and other central and western states in the case.

PREMATURE BABY'S LIFE DEPENDS ON KINDNESS OF SOME OTHER'S MOTHER

The tiny thread of life of an infant prematurely born at St. Mary's hospital may be severed unless some nursing mother in Duluth is willing to come to the rescue at once. The child was born yesterday to Mrs. Charles Randall, 1105 West Fourth street. Although the child is premature it is well developed and healthy, but is threatened with starvation because its mother is unable to supply it with mother's milk. An appeal is made to some nursing mother to assist in saving the child's life.

BURGLARS, NOT SANTA CLAUS.

Santa Claus is only welcome in Superior at the regular time. When he comes out of season, he has to take his chances on being locked out.

When J. Dudley, Jr., aged 7, 1820 Hughitt avenue, asked his daddy this morning whether Santa Claus had already been there, the latter denied it laughingly. The youngster then led him to a second floor window to look for himself. Footprints marring the newly fallen snow were plainly in evidence. The tracks led up to all the doors and entrances in the house.

Further examination proved that burglars had also tried every window in the house. A patent lock, however, kept them out.

ROTARIANS HONOR DEAD; ARMISTICE DAY FEATURES

Dr. Walter Brown, associate director of the health service section of the American Red Cross, addressed the members of the Rotary club this noon at the Spalding hotel on the work of the Red Cross.

The club voted approval of a report of its civic committee recommending that the matter of Duluth's water supply be called to the attention of the city council and urging an expert examination, with immediate action.

The club also paid silent tribute to the men who died in the war. A short Armistice day exercise was in charge of Dr. R. A. Kent, superintendent of schools.

GRIFFIN WILL CONTEST ELECTION OF SWANSTROM

Earl W. Griffin, defeated candidate for election as county commissioner in the Third commissioner district of St Louis county at the general election, has instituted election contest proceedings against County Commissioner Walter A. Swanstrom, who was declared elected by a margin of fifty-five votes.

Contest papers were served today on Commissioner Swanstrom by John B. Richards, attorney for Mr. Griffin. The usual claims of mistakes made by election officials are set up in the papers. The official count in the Swanstrom-Griffin race was 3,183 for Swanstrom and 3,128 for Griffin.

TOO MUCH POLITENESS
Courtesy of Men Slows Up Service in Nashville.
(AERA)

That there is such a thing as being too polite, even in the South, where men are famed for their chivalrous bearing toward women, is the contention of a patron of the Nashville Railway & Light company, who wrote the following to "Read as You Ride" published by that company:

"I have often observed that when a car stops at a corner where there are several men and women waiting, in spite of the fact that the men are nearer to the entrance door than the women, the men persist in waiting back until the women enter first. This practice is a foolish and unnecessary waste of time as it delays everybody on the car. What on earth does it matter who gets on the car first? The women are as much concerned in getting home quickly as the men, therefore why waste time? Climb on with your fares ready, and keep things moving. I do not believe that any women or anybody else considers it a discourtesy for a man to get on a street car ahead of a lady.

"What about it, ladies?"

NO OFFICIAL KNOWLEDGE OF MATTER, SAYS HAITIAN

President of Haiti Appears Before Naval Board of Inquiry.

Indiscriminate Killing of Natives Never Brought to His Attention.

Says People Have Rejoiced at Coming of the Americans.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Sudre Dartiguenave, president of the republic of Haiti testifying today before the naval board of inquiry, declared he had no official knowledge of the charge of indiscriminate killing of natives by United States marines. Speaking through an interpreter, the president said he was without means of proving the existence of cases of homicide or violence that may have been committed by the marines, adding: "They had been accused by public clamor."

M. Dartiguenave was the only witness testifying, and after he had left the chair, Judge Advocate Dyer announced he had no further witnesses or evidence. The court then adjourned to reassemble upon call by Admiral Henry T. Mayo, president of the board of inquiry, and it is not probable another session will be held before next week.

Pleased to Testify.

The Haitian president with democratic simplicity, walked from the palace to the court room, climbing the two flights of stairs. He expressed his pleasure in informing the United States government what he knew. Answering a direct question if he had knowledge regarding alleged indiscriminate killings, he said:

"Officially, no. I have heard of regrettable acts perpetrated at Hinche, St. Marc, Croixes-Douquets, Grande Revera du Nord, Mirebalais and Las Cahteas. When people have been reproached for not having kept the government informed of all that was being said, the answer, rightly or wrongly, has been they were afraid of being caught by martial law. Victims or their parents have never brought their grievances to me because leaders of the revolution gave them to understand there was no Haitian chief of state.

Welcome Americans.

"The people with a few exceptions, such as may be found in every country, have rejoiced at the coming of the Americans. They were expecting their liberty, prosperity and respect for their person and property, but 'compulsory road labor' has been practiced despite advice by the counsel of the government. This has given rise to discontent, which led to the revolt of the Cacos bandits. Misdeeds, however, are always possible in cases of repression."

Asked if he had knowledge of any cases where marines who had been accused had not been tried, the president said:

Had no Knowledge.

"Not having had to report any acts of violence or oppression, I had no interest in finding if persons engaged in the naval service who might be guilty of such acts had been tried by the naval court. My answers to these questions show I had no means at my disposal to prove the existence of cases of homicide or violence that may have been committed by marines."

Judge Advocate Dyer is privately seeing many witnesses but as the inquiry is limited to facts bearing on charges it seems difficult to secure those able to testify as to events they know have occurred.

GALE PUTS END TO HARDING'S FISHING

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—President-elect Harding's tarpon fishing was interrupted today by a thirty-five-mile norther that churned the Point Isabel fishing grounds into a tumbling field of foam and drove the temperature down to the shivering point..

Deciding to stay ashore, he read and rested during the morning in his cottage overlooking the lagoon, but hoped before the day was over to take a motor trip to Brownsville for a game of golf. He expressed keen disappointment that unfavorable weather had overtaken his fishing ventures, and said he expected to get a chance to try his luck once more before he leaves here early next week.

SETTLEMENT UNAPPROVED

United States Has Not Acted on the Adriatic Question.

Washington, Nov. 12.—State department officials declared today that the government had not yet approved the settlement of the Adriatic question agreed upon by Italy and Jugo Slavia. Details of the settlement have not yet been received.

Hears of Approval.

Rome, Nov. 12.—Count Sforza, the Italian foreign minister, has received from the Italian charge d'affairs at Washington a telegram reporting that the American government has formally declared it will be happy to approve any solution of the Adriatic question reached by direct agreement between Italy and Jugo-Slavia, it is announced by the semi-official—Stefani agency's dispatch from Santa Margherita.

The American ambassador at Rome, adds the agency, has handed an identical communication to the Italian foreign office here.

Agree on Text.

Rome, Nov. 12.—The Italian and Jugo-Slav delegations who have been conferring at Santa Margherita concerning the Adriatic problem have reached a complete agreement on the text of a treaty between the two countries which will be signed this afternoon, says a Santa Margherita dispatch to the semi-official Stefani agency today.

PRESIDENT OF HAITI WHO APPEARS BEFORE BOARD

SUDRE DARTIGUENAVE.

MUNSEY AND HEARST ARE MUCH LIKED

Two Editors in High Favor With President-Elect Harding.

Agree With Senator in Opposition to Elihu Root's Views.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—President-elect Harding may be fishing for tarpon but he probably has no idea of the number of people hereabouts who are fishing for jobs.

All the hooks known to politics are in use. The persons who have the real pull with Harding are in demand. Plans are being made by Republican leaders everywhere to bring to the attention of Senator Harding the names of those who want cabinet portfolios. Some of this urging is merely perfunctory—the natural way of paying a political obligation incurred by leaders to men of influence during the campaign. Many of the men who present names will not be themselves disappointed if Senator Harding politely turns them down.

But aside from those who are really seeking cabinet portfolios, there are certain men who are being sought—not necessarily by Senator Harding but by others close to him. One of the men who is being discussed in the so-called Harding circle of friends nowadays is Frank A. Munsey of New York, who is being talked of for secretary of commerce. Mr. Munsey owns the New York Sun and Herald and Baltimore News and has been a staunch opponent of the League of Nations from the very beginning.

Power Behind the Throne.

The Harding administration will feel kindly toward editors and publishers anyway, but the intimacy between Mr. Munsey and Mr. Harding is not merely that of fellow-editors. It is a fact that Mr. Munsey has been one of the powers behind the throne throughout the campaign. He has frequently been in communication with Mr. Harding and one interesting story given is that at a time the anti-league faction in the Republican party were most apprehensive about the effect upon Mr. Harding of the advice rendered by Elihu Root, a message was sent to Mr. Munsey by Senator Harding reassuring him about the league issue. The message left no doubt how Senator Harding stood on the subject of Mr. Root.

To the outside world it may be a surprise that Senator Harding and Former Senator Root are not going to be as close as the public supposed. There isn't anything personal in it at all—simply a divergence of view and difference of opinion. For instance, Senator Harding believes in exempting American ships from the payment of Panama canal tolls, a matter covered by treaty with Great Britain. Elihu Root insisted on standing with President Wilson on that issue and would hardly be able to reverse himself without considerable embarrassment as an international lawyer. Moreover, Mr. Root favors American entrance into the league with proper reserva-

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES FOR SOLDIERS MUST BE MAILED EARLY

Washington, Nov. 12.—Christmas packages for American troops on the Rhine must reach Hoboken by Dec. 5 to insure delivery before Christmas day, the war department announced today. They should be sent care of the general superintendent, army transport service, Hoboken.

Parcels for men stationed in Hawaii and the Philippines should reach the depot quartermaster, Fort Mason, San Francisco, not later than Dec. 5, while those for shipment to the Panama canal zone and Porto Rico should be in the hands of the general superintendent, army transport service, pier 3, army supply base, South Brooklyn, N. Y., by Nov. 20.

Packages for Germany must not exceed seven pounds in weight and seventy-two inches combined length and girth. Those to men on duty in the canal zone and insular possessions are limited to twenty pounds in weight and two cubic feet in volume.

MILLER SLATED AS HEAD OF PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Former Duluth Congressman Is Favored for Governor-General.

Claimed That He Is Highly Qualified for the Post.

Spent More Than Year Among Filipinos Investigating Situation.

A Washington dispatch says that Clarence B. Miller, former congressman from the Duluth district and at present secretary of the Republican national committee, is slated to be governor-general of the Philippine islands under the Harding administration, according to gossip in well informed Republican circles at the national capital

Outside the cabinet and ambassadorships, the Philippine post is one of the best at the disposal of the president. In addition to being a position of great responsibility it pays a salary of $18,000, which ranks in a financial way with the highest diplomatic post.

The Philippine commission, of which the governor-general is head, is a branch of the war department together with the Porto Rican government. The bureau of insular affairs is directly responsible for both the Philippines and Porto Rico.

Francis B. Harrison is the present governor-general of the Philippines and will go out with the Wilson administration March 4. The appointment is presidential, subject to the approval of the senate.

Miller Has Harding Favor.

President-elect Harding is represented as having great admiration for Mr. Miller. He watched the Minnesotan in congress as a member of the house from the Eighth district of Minnesota and also as a political worker during the campaign. With the wholehearted support of Senators Knute Nelson and Frank B. Kellogg there is no doubt the senate will consent to the Miller appointment in case it is made by Mr Harding. Both the Minnesota senators regard Mr. Miller as an exceptionally capable man.

Aside from political considerations, there is a very strong reason, it is said, why Mr. Miller should get the Philippine post. This is that he is qualified for the job. He probably knows as much if not more than any other American about conditions in the islands. The Philippines were a hobby with him during his long service in the house of representatives.

Mr. Miller spent more than a year among the Filipinos investigating every phase of the situation there. In 1913 he made his first trip with the house committee on insular affairs, spending several months on the island. He went again in 1915 with the same committee and was there for a long period.

Voluminous Reports Prepared.

Voluminous reports on conditions in the Philippines were prepared by Mr. Miller. Some of this material was used for speeches in the house, and newspaper articles. Illustrated lectures on the Philippines were delivered generally over the United States by Mr Miller, the last three years he was a member of congress.

It was while studying conditions in the Philippines that Mr. Miller became intimately acquainted with the big men of the army. Later in congress they had the benefit of his help when legislation, affecting the islands, was before the house.

Mr Miller's work with the national committee since he left congress, first as special investigator and later as secretary, has won praises of all the party leaders. From a purely political standpoint, it is agreed the Minnesotan is entitled to the utmost consideration by the president-elect.

TO WELCOME ASSISTANCE

Organized Labor Favorable to Research, Says President Gompers.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Organized labor will welcome whatever assistance research and science can offer to modern industry, President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, today told delegates gathered here for the preliminary conference on industrial research. A part of organized labor's own work, he said, has been directed toward the scientific study of conditions surrounding production, and to the assemblage of data.

"A persistent effort has been made to saddle upon labor the odium of opposition to improved methods and machinery in production," Mr. Gompers said. "This is not true as a general statement. What labor has opposed is an effort to exploit them by the use of improvements that are intended as a blessing to mankind. Labor is rightly suspicious of changes which are introduced without explanation and whose effect upon their welfare is not considered.

Increased Production Not Opposed.

"Labor is not opposed to increased production or improved methods. Quite the contrary. We recognize there can be no permanent betterment of standards of living for all except by increasing the things that contribute to better and more satisfactory living. But we hold as a fundamental that material products are not the ultimate of production, but service is a better life for humanity.

"I take it all of us have too much vision and experience to think we can solve the labor problem. That is a life problem that will last as long as life.

Industrial Government.

"This conference is concerned with the field of industrial government which we can for convenience divide under two heads, the law making function and the administration. Experience has taught organized labor that we can only maintain opportunity for freedom and well being when laws for industry are made by those directly concerned—the management and the workers. Clearly the formulation of laws to govern industry is not to be the function of any organization suggested by this conference. Science and research may furnish the lawmakers

WILL PROBE ALL RUMORS

New Angle to Wall Street Explosion to Be Investigated.

New York, Nov. 12.—District Attorney Edward Swann planned today to question all of the men mentioned by the Evening World yesterday in its "solution" for the Wall street explosion here on Sept. 16, the motive of which was declared by the newspaper to have been revenge on the part of members of a house wrecking union by a rival organization headed by Robert P. Brindell, a central figure in the "building trust" investigation now under way here.

The publication of the Evening World analysis of the tragedy which resulted in loss of life to thirty-nine persons and injury to several hundred also brought forth other theories of its origin today from the police and department of justice officials.

To Question Foreman.

Mr. Swann said he was particularly anxious to question Raymond Clark, who was a foreman on the house wrecking job diagonally across from the scene of the explosion and who was quoted at length in yesterday's Evening World article. He said, Clark's statement to the newspaper was at variance with a previous statement made by him to Assistant District Attorney Alfred E. Talley, shortly after the explosion. Mr. Swann wished, he said, to ascertain whether Clark had made either of the two statements under intimidation.

Horseshoer Identified.

Coincident with the Evening World story, came the announcement from Acting Inspector Coughlin, head of the detective bureau, that the identity of the farrier who shod the horse which drew the explosive laden wagon into the financial district, had been established, as well as that of the person who took the horse to be shod. Search of this man, who seems to have vanished since the explosion, is being made.

No Substantiation.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Federal agents have developed no evidence, department of justice officials said last night, as to the Wall street bomb explosion tending to substantiate the solution of the mystery published by the New York Evening World and linking the explosion with the "building trust graft," under investigation in that city.

Robert T. Scott, assistant to the attorney general, said that agents of the department working on the explosion had not found thus far any tangible clew having any bearing in the direction suggested by the newspaper. The government still hopes to solve the problem, he added, but its expectations lay in another direction, if the criminals ever are found

WILL TEST RULING ON SALE OF HOPS

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 12—Suit to test the recent ruling of the prohibition enforcement bureau prohibiting the sale of malt extract and hops to any one except confectioners and bakers was to be filed in the United States court here today by a local distributing company.

Counsel for the company declared they will carry the case through to the United States supreme court.

"They have no ground to stand on and no doubt will lose the case," said James A. Shearer, prohibition director for Ohio.

Malt and hops dealers here assert their products are not the main components of home brew.

It was asserted by Timothy S. Hogan, former attorney general, one of counsel for the plaintiff, both malt sugar syrup and hop, principal products sold, have many medicinal purposes, and "much suffering will be caused if the sale is prohibited."

KILPATRICK NOT DEAD BUT HELD PRISONER

Paris, Nov. 12.—Washington reports that Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick, American Red Cross worker in South Russia, was not killed by the Bolsheviki, but is being held a prisoner, were confirmed in a telegram received at the Paris branch of the American Red Cross from Sebastopol today. The telegram was filed in Sebastopol on Nov. 8. The telegram reads:

"Definite information that Kilpatrick is a prisoner was received from Russian officers who escaped from the group of prisoners which included Kilpatrick. This group left Lavkia under guard in the direction of a prison camp at Klovaka (Kahkovka?) on the Dnieper."

Hasbrouck, which were declined by the officers last year, were deposited in the bureau of navigation at the navy department awaiting the action of the officers concerned.

FRANCE OPPOSED TO GERMANY'S ENTERING LEAGUE AT PRESENT

HOME RULE BILL PASSED BY COMMONS

Irish Measure Given Third Reading by Vote of 183 to 52.

Premier Lloyd George Declares Bill Is a Generous Measure.

London, Nov. 12.—The Irish home rule bill passed the house of commons on its third reading last night, after a motion for a rejection of the measure proposed by William C. Adamson, the opposition leader, had been defeated by 183 to 52.

The measure passed without any noteworthy incident in a rather tame debate. The Liberal and Labor members who have boycotted it through most of its stages as a sign of their conviction of its hopelessness as a settlement of the Irish problem, were again absent. The final stage was reached in a small and rather listless gathering of members of the house.

Former Premier Asquith appealed for advantage to be taken of the associations and emotions aroused by the anniversary of Armistice day, which could not be put to worthier use than an endeavor to find a basis of real settlement for Ireland.

Generous Measure.

Premier Lloyd George, replying, contended that the present bill was a generous measure, but the Irish people were not in a temper to give it proper understanding and consideration.

He declared that documents, to be published at an early date, found in the possession of Sinn Fein leaders in 1918, proving they were involved in a German plot, would show the necessity of England retaining complete control of Irish harbors.

To give Ireland the power to raise a conscript army, he said, would be a dangerous menace to Great Britain, and he warned the Laborites that with an army of that kind in Ireland under full powers of Irish dominion rule, conscription in England would become inevitable.

The influence of the armistice anniversary was clearly marked in all the speeches, which showed a desire as far as possible to avoid controversy.

Principles of Bill.

The fundamental principles laid down by the British government in the Irish home rule bill are:

First—That the people of the six Ulster counties shall not be brought administratively under an outside parliament in Ireland.

Second—That there shall not be any weakening of the reservations which have been made by the government for the purpose of safeguarding the vital interests of the United Kingdom.

Under the bill two legislatures with upper and lower houses would be set up, one for the north of Ireland and the other for the south.

If less than half the members of either legislature are validly elected or fail to swear allegiance to the king, the king may dissolve the parliament and place the government in the hands of a committee appointed by the lord lieutenant.

A "council for Ireland," composed of forty members, half of whom would be selected by each parliament, also is provided. The powers of the council would be limited to those granted it by the legislatures.

THINK MEN PERISHED

Searchers Find No Trace of Aviators Lost on Lake Michigan.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 12.—Patrolling the western Lake Michigan coast from Two Rivers, Wis., to a point well below Sheboygan, coast guard and fishing boats today continued their search for the missing Great Lakes naval station seaplane which has been missing since Wednesday afternoon. Nothing definite as to the fate of Lieut. Harry E. Barr, the commander, and Ensign Edwin M. Clark and Gunner's Mate John Caesar, who were on board the craft, has been learned.

Experienced lake sailors and coast guard officials expressed the opinion that the men had perished. A rumor that a body had been found off Two Rivers, Wis., could not be confirmed. The man in charge of the coast guard station at Two Rivers said he had heard such a rumor but that so far as he knew it was untrue.

Stay in Port.

Tugs from Manitowoc and Two Rivers which yesterday searched for the missing seaplane through a bitter blizzard today stayed in port. The Arctic of Manitowoc was laid up because of an injury to Capt. Andrew Clark, who sustained two fractured ribs when he slipped on the ice and fell while leaving the tug last night. The Two Rivers tug could not go out until repairs were made, the high waves of yesterday having broken every window in her cabin.

Lake men at Manitowoc expressed the opinion that if the men ever were found it would be on the eastern coast of the lake. They said that with the strong northwest gale that blew all day yesterday and continued today, the seaplane doubtless was blown across the lake. They also said that any bodies or wreckage likely would be blown to the east shore.

Continue Search.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Search directed from the Great Lakes naval training station at Lake Bluff, Ill., was renewed early today for the seaplane which has been missing from the station since Wednesday.

A bitter cold and rising wind, added to raging seas, caused the abandonment of the rescue work last night.

Efforts to reach the port where they were last seen, near Two Rivers, Wis., were prevented by bad weather.

U. S. ATTACHE AT PARIS IS PRESENTED WITH MEDAL

REAR ADMIRAL MAGRUDER.

Paris, Nov. 12.—Hugh C. Wallace, American ambassador to France, conferred the distinguished service medal today on Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, naval attache to the American embassy here, and Capt. C. D. Stearns, and the navy cross on Capt. Z. H. Madison.

HUNGER STRIKE IN CORK PRISON IS CALLED OFF

Nine Men on Ninety-Fourth Day of Fasting Will Eat.

Prisoners Are Reported to Be in Deplorably Low State.

Cork, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The hunger strike of the nine Irish prisoners in the Cork jail was called off today, the ninety-fourth day of the strike.

This was revealed when a message received by Lord Mayor O'Callaghan from Arthur Griffiths, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, was given out: "I am of the opinion," read the message, "that our countrymen in the Cork prison have sufficiently proved their devotion and fidelity and that they should now, as they were prepared to die for Ireland, prepare again to live for her."

This message has been transmitted to the nine surviving hunger strikers in the Cork jail.

The men were reported today in a deplorably low state.

The announcement of the receipt of the Griffiths letter closely followed an appeal made by Bishop Cohalan of Cork that there be a cessation of the strike, which, he declared, would only be a waste of lives.

The Cork hunger strike began Aug. 11. There were originally eleven strikers. One of them, Michael Fitzgerald, died Oct. 16, and another, Joseph Murphy, Oct. 25, the latter within a few hours of the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork in Brixton prison on the seventy-third day of the lord mayor's hunger strike. The nine survivors are: John (Sean) Hennesy, Michael Burke, Matthew Reilly, Thomas Donovan, Joseph Kenny, Christopher Upton, John Power, John Crowley and Peter Crowley.

The eleven men were arrested early in August in connection with disorders in Ireland and announced their intention to abstain from food until they were released, denying, as did Lord Mayor MacSwiney, the right of the British government in Ireland to imprison them.

Advised to Quit.

Cork, Nov. 12.—The condition of the nine Irish hunger strikers in the Cork jail, was described as "shockingly low" on this the ninety-fourth day of the strike.

Bishop Cohalan of Cork in a letter made public today in which he voices a strong appeal that the strike be called off immediately, expresses belief that it is still possible to nurse the men back to health.

"Lord Mayor MacSwiney's strike accomplished the purpose of attracting world attention," he adds. "The nation got value for his life, but the continuance of the present strike is only a waste."

Mrs. MacSwiney to Visit U. S.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The committee of one hundred investigating the Irish question announced today it had accepted the offer of Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late lord mayor of Cork, to come to the United States to testify in the hearings which the committee plans to begin Nov. 17.

Mrs. MacSwiney, the committee said, had been asked to come, if possible, not later than Dec. 6.

AUSTRIA ASKS FOR ADMISSION TO LEAGUE

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The secretariat of the League of Nations today received Austria's formal application for admission to the league.

Dixon, Ill., Bank Closed.

Dixon, Ill., Nov. 12.—The Union State bank of Dixon was closed today by the directors and a notice declaring the bank closed pending examination by the state auditor was posted. Filing of a petition in bankruptcy by E. J. Countryman, until a few weeks ago cashier of the bank, is said to have precipitated the action.

UNALTERABLY AGAINST ANY SUCH ACTION

Intimate Some Drastic Move Would Be the Result.

More Lenient in Regard to Austria and Bulgaria.

Paris, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The French government is unalterably opposed to the admission of Germany to the League of Nations at this time, it was stated at the foreign office today. Some "drastic action" would be a consequence if the league voted to admit Germany, it was intimated.

Discussing the admission of enemy countries to the League of Nations, the Echo de Paris declares that Great Britain has, so far as Germany is concerned, made a formal promise not to favor the removal of the interdict against that country for the time being. Georges Leygues, the French premier, is declared by the newspaper to have recommended that French delegates at the meeting of the assembly of the league at Geneva withdraw if Germany is admitted over the protest of France.

"As for Austria and Bulgaria," the newspaper adds, "one is inclined to take toward them a more lenient attitude, in view of conditions."

Favors Admittance.

Geneva, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lord Robert Cecil, one of the chief authors of the League of Nations Covenant, who is coming to the assembly of the league as a delegate from South Africa, will support the proposed immediate admission to the league of former enemy states it is expected here. Italy, Switzerland, the Scandinavian states and some of the South American nations are understood to be favorable to such a plan.

France, Belgium, Roumania, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia will resist the admission of Germany and Hungary although they are not unfavorable to Austria and Bulgaria. There are indications in league circles that the drift toward admission of former enemy countries is strong.

The sentiment is growing that, whatever may be the merits of the case the discussion in the session is likely to develop a sharp controversy, which the leading members of the league desire to avoid. At the first session it is probable the immediate admission of Austria and Bulgaria will be proposed and an effort made to have action in the case of Germany postponed to another meeting of the assembly.

Attention is being directed to the anomaly of admitting Germany while she still is technically at war with the United States.

LOOK FOR BODY IN OLD WELL

New Hampshire Authorities Searching for Missing Woman.

Langdon, N. H., Nov. 12.—An abandoned well on the farm of William B. Whitney, filled with rock and debris, was reopened today by county authorities in a search for the body of Whitney's second wife. The search was ordered as a result of a declaration alleged to have been made by John Whitney, 15-year-old child of William Whitney by a former marriage, that he saw his father strike down his stepmother in their home four years ago, take her body to the haymow and later bury it in the well.

W. B. Whitney disappeared Oct 30 after eight years residence here in which he gained a reputation as a solid citizen. In his wake came bankruptcy petitions and charges he had duplicated mortgages on his home.

The family was originally named Doolittle, the son said, and lived at Madison, Me., where the mother died. The father was charged with passing a worthless check, his son said, and calling his children to him, told them he was leaving for the West, and that their names thereafter would be Whitney. He went to Montana and lived several years, returning East in 1912 with a second wife, and settled here.

Family Reunited.

The family was reunited, the four sons by his first marriage being brought into the home with their stepmother. On the night of June 30, 1916, Whitney and his wife went to a lecture in the neighboring town of Alstead, returning late. John, according to County Solicitor Hurd, told friends he was awakened by a dispute, and looked through the hot air register into the room below. He said he saw his father grasp a stick of firewood and beat his stepmother with it.

The woman was apparently killed by the repeated blows, the boy said adding that he saw his father take the body out of the house to the haymow in the barn. There it lay for several days before Whitney prepared the well to bury it. Then he placed the body in the waterhole, threw stones and debris on top of it and told his son if he ever told any person what had been done he would kill him, the boy said.

Mrs. Whitney had been planning a visit to relatives in Ohio, and Whitney told neighbors his wife had gone there. Subsequently her relatives wrote to inquire why she had not arrived and the letters went unanswered. The relatives apparently placed the matter in the hands of Ohio police, because official inquiry was made and in the summer of 1917 county authorities went to the farm to investigate. After they left, young Whitney said, his father built a haystack over the well.

President of Haiti Appears Before Naval Board of Inquiry.

Indiscriminate Killing of Natives Never Brought to His Attention.

Says People Have Rejoiced at Coming of the Americans.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Sudre Dartiguenave, president of the republic of Haiti, testifying today before the naval board of inquiry, declared he had no official knowledge of the charge of indiscriminate killing of natives by United States marines. Speaking through an interpreter, the president said he was without means of proving the existence of cases of homicide or violence that may have been committed by the marines, adding: "They had been accused by public clamor."

M. Dartiguenave was the only witness testifying, and after he had left the chair, Judge Advocate Dyer announced he had no further witnesses or evidence. The court then adjourned to reassemble upon call by Admiral Henry T. Mayo, president of the board of inquiry, and it is not probable another session will be held before next week.

Pleased to Testify.

The Haitian president, with democratic simplicity, walked from the palace to the court room, climbing the two flights of stairs. He expressed his pleasure in informing the United States government what he knew. Answering a direct question if he had knowledge regarding alleged indiscriminate killings, he said:

"Officially no. I have heard of regrettable acts perpetrated at Hinche, [illegible] Mais, Croixes-Bouquets, Grande Riviere du Nord, Mirebalais and Las Cahobas. When people have been reproached for not having kept the government informed of all that was being said, the answer, rightly or wrongly, has been they were afraid of being caught by martial law. Victims or their parents have never brought their grievances to me because leaders of the revolution gave them to understand there was no Haitian chief of state.

Welcome Americans.

"The people, with a few exceptions, such as may be found in every country, have rejoiced at the coming of the Americans. They were expecting their liberty, prosperity and respect for their person and property, but 'compulsory road labor' has been practiced despite advice by the counsel of the government. This has given rise to discontent which led to the revolt of the Cacos bandits. Misdeeds, however, are always possible in cases of repression."

Asked if he had knowledge of any cases where marines who had been accused had not been tried, the president said:

Had no Knowledge.

"Not having had to report any acts of violence or oppression, I had no interest in finding if persons engaged in the naval service who might be guilty of such acts had been tried by the naval court. My answers to these questions show I had no means at my disposal to prove the existence of cases of homicide or violence that may have been committed by marines."

Judge Advocate Dyer is privately hearing many witnesses but as the inquiry is limited to facts bearing on charges it seems difficult to secure those able to testify as to events they know have occurred.

GALE PUTS END TO HARDING'S FISHING

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—President-elect Harding's tarpon fishing was interrupted today by a thirty-five-mile norther that churned the Point Isabel fishing grounds into a tumbling field of foam and drove the temperature down to the shivering point.

Deciding to stay ashore, he read and rested during the morning in his cottage overlooking the lagoon, but hoped before the day was over to take a motor trip to Brownsville for a game of golf. He expressed keen disappointment that unfavorable weather had overtaken his fishing ventures, and said he expected to get a chance to try his luck once more before he leaves here early next week.

SETTLEMENT UNAPPROVED

United States Has Not Acted on the Adriatic Question.

Washington, Nov. 12.—State department officials declared today that the government had not yet approved the settlement of the Adriatic question agreed upon by Italy and Jugo Slavia. Details of the settlement have not yet been received.

Hears of Approval.

Rome, Nov. 12.—Count Sforza, the Italian foreign minister, has received from the Italian charge d'affairs at Washington a telegram reporting that the American government has formally declared it will be happy to approve any solution of the Adriatic question reached by direct agreement between Italy and Jugo-Slavia, it is announced by the semi-official Stefani agency's dispatch from Santa Margherita.

The American ambassador at Rome, adds the agency, has handed an identical communication to the Italian foreign office here.

Agree on Text.

Rome, Nov. 12.—The Italian and Jugo-Slav delegations who have been conferring at Santa Margherita concerning the Adriatic problem have reached a complete agreement on the text of a treaty between the two countries which will be signed this afternoon, says a Santa Margherita dispatch to the semi-official Stefani agency today.

PRESIDENT OF HAITI WHO APPEARS BEFORE BOARD

SUDRE DARTIGUENAVE.

MUNSEY AND HEARST ARE MUCH LIKED

Two Editors in High Favor With President-Elect Harding.

Agree With Senator in Opposition to Elihu Root's Views.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—President-elect Harding may be fishing for tarpon but he probably has no idea of the number of people hereabouts who are fishing for jobs.

All the hooks known to politics are in use. The persons who have the real pull with Harding are in demand. Plans are being made by Republican leaders everywhere to bring to the attention of Senator Harding the names of those who want cabinet portfolios. Some of this urging is merely perfunctory—the natural way of paying a political obligation incurred by leaders to men of influence during the campaign. Many of the men who present names will not be themselves disappointed if Senator Harding politely turns them down.

But aside from those who are really seeking cabinet portfolios, there are certain men who are being sought—not necessarily by Senator Harding but by others close to him. One of the men who is being discussed in the so-called Harding circle of friends nowadays is Frank A. Munsey of New York, who is being talked of for secretary of commerce. Mr. Munsey owns the New York Sun and Herald and Baltimore News and has been a staunch opponent of the League of Nations from the very beginning.

Power Behind the Throne.

The Harding administration will feel kindly toward editors and publishers anyway, but the intimacy between Mr. Munsey and Mr. Harding is not merely that of fellow-editors. It is a fact that Mr. Munsey has been one of the powers behind the throne throughout the campaign. He has frequently been in communication with Mr. Harding and one interesting story given is that at a time the anti-league faction in the Republican party were most apprehensive about the effect upon Mr. Harding of the advice rendered by Elihu Root, a message was sent to Mr. Munsey by Senator Harding reassuring him about the league issue. The message left no doubt how Senator Harding stood on the subject of Mr. Root.

To the outside world it may be a surprise that Senator Harding and Former Senator Root are not going to be as close as the public supposed. There isn't anything personal in it at all—simply a divergence of view and difference of opinion. For instance, Senator Harding believes in exempting American ships from the payment of Panama canal tolls, a matter covered by treaty with Great Britain. Elihu Root insisted on standing with President Wilson on that issue and would hardly be able to reverse himself without considerable embarrassment as an international lawyer. Moreover, Mr. Root favors American entrance into the league with proper reserva-

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES FOR SOLDIERS MUST BE MAILED EARLY

Washington, Nov. 12.—Christmas packages for American troops on the Rhine must reach Hoboken by Dec. 5 to insure delivery before Christmas day, the war department announced today. They should be sent care of the general superintendent, army transport service, Hoboken.

Parcels for men stationed in Hawaii and the Philippines should reach the depot quartermaster, Fort Mason, San Francisco, not later than Dec. 5, while those for shipment to the Panama canal zone and Porto Rico should be in the hands of the general superintendent, army transport service, pier 3, army supply base, South Brooklyn, N. Y., by Nov. 20.

Packages for Germany must not exceed seven pounds in weight and seventy-two inches combined length and girth. Those to men on duty in the canal zone and insular possessions are limited to twenty pounds in weight and two cubic feet in volume.

MILLER SLATED AS HEAD OF PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Former Duluth Congressman Is Favored for Governor-General.

Claimed That He Is Highly Qualified for the Post.

Spent More Than Year Among Filipinos Investigating Situation.

A Washington dispatch says that Clarence B. Miller, former congressman from the Duluth district and at present secretary of the Republican national committee, is slated to be governor-general of the Philippine islands under the Harding administration, according to gossip in well informed Republican circles at the national capital.

Outside the cabinet and ambassadorships, the Philippine post is one of the best at the disposal of the president. In addition to being a position of great responsibility it pays a salary of $18,000, which ranks in a financial way with the highest diplomatic post.

The Philippine commission, of which the governor-general is head, is a branch of the war department together with the Porto Rican government. The bureau of insular affairs is directly responsible for both the Philippines and Porto Rico.

Francis B. Harrison is the present governor-general of the Philippines and will go out with the Wilson administration March 4. The appointment is presidential, subject to the approval of the senate.

Miller Has Harding Favor.

President-elect Harding is represented as having great admiration for Mr. Miller. He watched the Minnesotan in congress as a member of the house from the Eighth district of Minnesota and also as a political worker during the campaign. With the wholehearted support of Senators Knute Nelson and Frank B. Kellogg there is no doubt the senate will consent to the Miller appointment in case it is made by Mr. Harding. Both the Minnesota senators regard Mr. Miller as an exceptionally capable man.

Aside from political considerations, there is a very strong reason, it is said, why Mr. Miller should get the Philippine post. This is that he is qualified for the job. He probably knows as much if not more than any other American about conditions in the islands. The Philippines were a hobby with him during his long service in the house of representatives.

Mr. Miller spent more than a year among the Filipinos investigating every phase of the situation there. In 1913 he made his first trip with the house committee on insular affairs, spending several months on the island. He went again in 1915 with the same committee and was there for a long period.

Voluminous Reports Prepared.

Voluminous reports on conditions in the Philippines were prepared by Mr. Miller. Some of this material was used for speeches in the house, and newspaper articles. Illustrated lectures on the Philippines were delivered generally over the United States by Mr. Miller, the last three years he was a member of congress.

It was while studying conditions in the Philippines that Mr. Miller became intimately acquainted with the big men of the army. Later in congress they had the benefit of his help when legislation affecting the islands was before the house.

Mr. Miller's work with the national committee since he left congress, first as special investigator and later as secretary, has won praises of all the party leaders. From a purely political standpoint, it is agreed the Minnesotan is entitled to the utmost consideration by the president-elect.

MAY BE GOVERNOR GENERAL AT A SALARY OF $18,000

TO WELCOME ASSISTANCE

Organized Labor Favorable to Research, Says President Gompers.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Organized labor will welcome whatever assistance research and science can offer to modern industry, President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, today told delegates gathered here for the preliminary conference on industrial research. A part of organized labor's own work, he said, has been directed toward the scientific study of conditions surrounding production, and to the assemblage of data.

"A persistent effort has been made to saddle upon labor the odium of opposition to improved methods and machinery in production," Mr. Gompers said. "This is not true as a general statement. What labor has opposed is an effort to exploit them by the use of improvements that are intended as a blessing to mankind. Labor is rightly suspicious of changes which are introduced without explanation and whose effect upon their welfare is not considered.

Increased Production Not Opposed.

"Labor is not opposed to increased production or improved methods. Quite the contrary. We recognize there can be no permanent betterment of standards of living for all except by increasing the things that contribute to better and more satisfactory living. But we hold as a fundamental that material products are not the ultimate of production, but service is a better life for humanity.

"I take it all of us have too much vision and experience to think we can solve the labor problem. That is a life problem that will last as long as life.

Industrial Government.

"This conference is concerned with the field of industrial government which we can for convenience divide under two heads, the law making function and the administration. Experience has taught organized labor that we can only maintain opportunity for freedom and well being when laws for industry are made by those directly concerned—the management and the workers. Clearly the formulation of laws to govern industry is not to be the function of any organization suggested by this conference. Science and research may furnish the lawmakers

WILL PROBE ALL RUMORS

New Angle to Wall Street Explosion to Be Investigated.

New York, Nov. 12.—District Attorney Edward Swann planned today to question all of the men mentioned by the Evening World yesterday in its "solution" for the Wall street explosion here on Sept. 16, the motive of which was declared by the newspaper to have been revenge on the part of members of a house wrecking union by a rival organization headed by Robert P. Brindell, a central figure in the "building trust" investigation now under way here.

The publication of the Evening World analysis of the tragedy which resulted in loss of life to thirty-nine persons and injury to several hundred also brought forth other theories of its origin today from the police and department of justice officials.

To Question Foreman.

Mr. Swann said he was particularly anxious to question Raymond Clark, who was a foreman on the house wrecking job diagonally across from the scene of the explosion and who was quoted at length in yesterday's Evening World article. He said, Clark's statement to the newspaper was at variance with a previous statement made by him to Assistant District Attorney Alfred E. Talley, shortly after the explosion. Mr. Swann wished, he said, to ascertain whether Clark had made either of the two statements under intimidation.

Horseshoer Identified.

Coincident with the Evening World story, came the announcement from Acting Inspector Coughlin, head of the detective bureau, that the identity of the farrier who shod the horse which drew the explosive laden wagon into the financial district, had been established, as well as that of the person who took the horse to be shod. Search of this man, who seems to have vanished since the explosion, is being made.

No Substantiation.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Federal agents have developed no evidence, department of justice officials said last night, as to the Wall street bomb explosion tending to substantiate the solution of the mystery published by the New York Evening World and linking the explosion with the "building trust graft," under investigation in that city.

Robert T. Scott, assistant to the attorney general, said that agents of the department working on the explosion had not found thus far any tangible clew having any bearing in the direction suggested by the newspaper. The government still hopes to solve the problem, he added, but its expectations lay in another direction, if the criminals ever are found.

WILL TEST RULING ON SALE OF HOPS

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 12.—Suit to test the recent ruling of the prohibition enforcement bureau prohibiting the sale of malt extract and hops to any one except confectioners and bakers was to be filed in the United States court here today by a local distributing company.

Counsel for the company declared they will carry the case through to the United States supreme court.

"They have no ground to stand on and no doubt will lose the case," said James A. Shearer, prohibition director for Ohio.

Malt and hops dealers here assert their products are not the main components of home brew.

It was asserted by Timothy S. Hogan, former attorney general, one of counsel for the plaintiff, both malt sugar syrup and hop, principal products sold, have many medicinal purposes, and "much suffering will be caused if the sale is prohibited."

KILPATRICK NOT DEAD BUT HELD PRISONER

Paris, Nov. 12.—Washington reports that Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick, American Red Cross worker in South Russia, was not killed by the Bolsheviki, but is being held a prisoner, were confirmed in a telegram received at the Paris branch of the American Red Cross from Sebastopol today. The telegram was filed in Sebastopol on Nov. 8. The telegram reads:

"Definite information that Kilpatrick is a prisoner was received from Russian officers who escaped from the group of prisoners which included Kilpatrick. This group left Lavkia under guard in the direction of a prison camp at Klovaka (Kahkovka?) on the Dnieper."

Sims Medal Awaits His Pleasure.

HOME RULE BILL PASSED BY COMMONS

Irish Measure Given Third Reading by Vote of 183 to 52.

Premier Lloyd George Declares Bill Is a Generous Measure.

London, Nov. 12.—The Irish home rule bill passed the house of commons on its third reading last night, after a motion for a rejection of the measure proposed by William C. Adamson, the opposition leader, had been defeated by 183 to 52.

The measure passed without any noteworthy incident in a rather tame debate. The Liberal and Labor members who have boycotted it through most of its stages as a sign of their conviction of its hopelessness as a settlement of the Irish problem, were again absent. The final stage was reached in a small and rather listless gathering of members of the house.

Former Premier Asquith appealed for advantage to be taken of the associations and emotions aroused by the anniversary of Armistice day, which could not be put to worthier use than an endeavor to find a basis of real settlement for Ireland.

Generous Measure.

Premier Lloyd George, replying, contended that the present bill was a generous measure, but the Irish people were not in a temper to give it proper understanding and consideration.

He declared that documents, to be published at an early date, found in the possession of Sinn Fein leaders in 1918, proving they were involved in a German plot, would show the necessity of England retaining complete control of Irish harbors.

To give Ireland the power to raise a conscript army, he said, would be a dangerous menace to Great Britain, and he warned the Laborites that with an army of that kind in Ireland under full powers of Irish dominion rule, conscription in England would become inevitable.

The influence of the armistice anniversary was clearly marked in all the speeches, which showed a desire as far as possible to avoid controversy.

Principles of Bill.

The fundamental principles laid down by the British government in the Irish home rule bill are:

First—That the people of the six Ulster counties shall not be brought administratively under an outside parliament in Ireland.

Second—That there shall not be any weakening of the reservations which have been made by the government for the purpose of safeguarding the vital interests of the United Kingdom.

Under the bill two legislatures with upper and lower houses would be set up, one for the north of Ireland and the other for the south.

If less than half the members of either legislature are validly elected or fail to swear allegiance to the king the king may dissolve the parliament and place the government in the hands of a committee appointed by the lord lieutenant.

A "council for Ireland," composed of forty members, half of whom would be selected by each parliament, also is provided. The powers of the council would be limited to those granted it by the legislatures.

HUNGER STRIKE IN CORK PRISON IS CALLED OFF

Nine Men on Ninety-Fourth Day of Fasting Will Eat.

Prisoners Are Reported to Be in Deplorably Low State.

Cork, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The hunger strike of the nine Irish prisoners in the Cork jail was called off today, the ninety-fourth day of the strike.

This was revealed when a message received by Lord Mayor O'Callaghan from Arthur Griffiths, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, was given out: "I am of the opinion," read the message, "that our countrymen in the Cork prison have sufficiently proved their devotion and fidelity and that they should now, as they were prepared to die for Ireland, prepare again to live for her."

This message has been transmitted to the nine surviving hunger strikers in the Cork jail.

The men were reported today in a deplorably low state.

The announcement of the receipt of the Griffiths letter closely followed an appeal made by Bishop Cohalan of Cork that there be a cessation of the strike, which, he declared, would only be a waste of lives.

The Cork hunger strike began Aug. 11. There were originally eleven strikers. One of them, Michael Fitzgerald, died Oct. 16, and another, Joseph Murphy, Oct. 25, the latter within a few hours of the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork in Brixton prison on the seventy-third day of the lord mayor's hunger strike. The nine survivors are, John (Sean) Hennesy, Michael Burke, Matthew Reilly, Thomas Donovan, Joseph Kenny, Christopher Upton, John Power, John Crowley and Peter Crowley.

The eleven men were arrested early in August in connection with disorders in Ireland and announced their intention to abstain from food until they were released, denying, as did Lord Mayor MacSwiney, the right of the British government in Ireland to imprison them.

Advised to Quit.

Cork, Nov. 12.—The condition of the nine Irish hunger strikers in the Cork jail, was described as "shockingly low" on this the ninety-fourth day of the strike.

Bishop Cohalan of Cork in a letter made public today in which he voices a strong appeal that the strike be called off immediately, expresses belief that it is still possible to nurse the men back to health.

"Lord Mayor MacSwiney's strike accomplished the purpose of attracting world attention," he adds. "The nation got value for his life, but the continuance of the present strike is only a waste."

Mrs. MacSwiney to Visit U. S.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The committee of one hundred investigating the Irish question announced today it had accepted the offer of Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late lord mayor of Cork, to come to the United States to testify in the hearings which the committee plans to begin Nov. 17.

Mrs. MacSwiney, the committee said, had been asked to come, if possible, not later than Dec. 6.

AUSTRIA ASKS FOR ADMISSION TO LEAGUE

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The secretariat of the League of Nations today received Austria's formal application for admission to the league.

Dixon, Ill., Bank Closed.

Dixon, Ill., Nov. 12.—The Union State bank of Dixon was closed today by the directors and a notice declaring the bank closed pending examination by the state auditor was posted. Filing of a petition in bankruptcy by E. J. Countryman, until a few weeks ago cashier of the bank, is said to have precipitated the action.

LOOK FOR BODY IN OLD WELL

New Hampshire Authorities Searching for Missing Woman.

Langdon, N. H., Nov. 12.—An abandoned well on the farm of William B. Whitney, filled with rock and debris, was reopened today by county authorities in a search for the body of Whitney's second wife. The search was ordered as a result of a declaration alleged to have been made by John Whitney, 17-year-old child of William Whitney by a former marriage, that he saw his father strike down his stepmother in their home four years ago, take her body to the haymow and later bury it in the well.

W. B. Whitney disappeared Oct. [illegible] after eight years' residence here in which he gained a reputation as a solid citizen. In his wake came bankruptcy petitions and charges of having duplicated mortgages on his farm.

The family was originally named Doolittle, the son said, and lived at Madison, Me., where the mother died. The father was charged with passing a worthless check, his son said, and calling his children to him, told them he was leaving for the West and that their names thereafter would be Whitney. He went to Montana and lived several years, returning East in 1912 with a second wife, and settled here.

Family Reunited.

The family was reunited, the four sons by his first marriage being brought into the home with their stepmother. On the night of June 30, 1916, Whitney and his wife went to a lecture in the neighboring town of Alstead, returning late. John, according to County Solicitor Hurd, told [illegible] he was awakened by a dispute and looked through the hot air register into the room below. He said he saw his father grasp a stick of firewood and beat his stepmother with it.

The woman was apparently killed by the repeated blows, the boy said, adding that he saw his father take the body out of the house to the haymow in the barn. There it lay for several days before Whitney prepared the well to bury it. Then he placed the body in the waterhole, threw stones and debris on top of it and told his son if he ever told any person what had been done he would kill him, the boy said.

Mrs. Whitney had been planning a visit to relatives in Ohio, and Whitney told neighbors his wife had gone there. Subsequently her relatives wrote to inquire why she had not arrived and the letters went unanswered. The relatives apparently placed the matter in the hands of Ohio police, because official inquiry was made and in the summer of 1917 county authorities went to the farm to investigate. After they left, young Whitney said, his father built a haystack over the well.

SAULT TRAFFIC BIG IN OCTOBER

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 12.—Freight traffic through the American and Canadian canals here during October showed an increase over September of a little more than 1,000,000 tons, according to the monthly report of L. C. Sabin, superintendent of the American canals. The total for the month was 13,000,299 short tons as compared with 11,713,131 tons in September. Compared with October 1919, the report shows an increase of almost 4,000,000 tons.

Coal shipments to the West continued heavy, the month's total of 2,870,295 exceeding the September total by 500,000 tons. Eastbound shipments of flour, wheat and copper exceeded the previous month's total, while there was a slight decrease in lumber.

Improvement in dispatch of loading and unloading was indicated by an increased number of vessel passages over September, of seventy-one. In October 2,745 vessels were handled.

A heavier passenger traffic than for the same period of the two previous years also was recorded.

Scow Crews in Peril.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Capt. Harry Colter of the tug Nellis put into Port Colborne last night after being compelled to abandon two derrick scows six miles off port when the tow lines parted in a storm. Each scow carried two men. All were from Cleveland. At Port Colborne it was feared the scows had capsized.

BANK CLERK ADMITS HE ROBBED VAULT

Ottawa, Ill., Nov. 12.—Admission that he "engineered the whole thing himself," was made last night, according to county officials, by Francis J. Carey, 21, teller of the National City bank of Ottawa, who gave himself up yesterday, following Wednesday's robbery of the bank. Most of the $45,000 taken has been recovered.

Carey was found at the farm house of Mat Corwin, four miles south of Utica, Ill., into which he staggered late yesterday footsore and weary. Following a telephone call to President Charles P. Taylor of the bank, in which Carey said he would await the arrival of Sheriff G. S. Ayer, he was brought to Ottawa and made his reported confession.

In the presence of his mother, Mrs. Mary Carey, Sheriff Ayer announced that Carey made this statement:

Did Whole Job.

"I did the whole job. I engineered the whole thing myself. I cannot explain the presence of anyone in the alley. When I went home to supper I stuffed $500 bills in my pocket. At home I hid it under the mattress. After supper I went back to get the rest of the money. When I left the bank, I ran out for the road. I walked for miles and miles in the dark."

Carey denied, the sheriff said, knowledge of the disappearance of $4,000 of the loot. He had $2 in his pockets. Authorities said a charge of burglary probably would be placed against Carey.

It was first thought that Carey had been locked in the vault by robbers and strenuous efforts were made to open the vault door. Finally, with the aid of two local garage employes, who melted off the door with torches, entrance was gained to the vault to find it empty. A search was begun at once for Carey.

MUTTON AND LAMB WEEK

Plan Being Followed Again This Year; Big Development Recorded.

One year ago the idea of featuring lamb grown in this section of the country was a novelty, but the plan was received with enthusiasm mainly because it was something new. Today "Cloverland honeyed mutton" has become quite common and is being used everywhere, but that the consumer may not loose sight of the value of lamb as a staple food and again to bring before the people of this region the great value that has accrued as a result of bringing in thousands of sheep and lambs to fatten on the cut-over lands of Northern Minnesota, Lamb and Mutton week is again being featured and will become an annual event.

To induce every householder and hotel or restaurant keeper in the city to feature lamb on the menus today and tomorrow, the Duluth Commercial club has arranged with Swift & Company to feature selected lambs raised and fattened on the cut-over lands of this section of the state. Every lamb to be sold during the next few days was grown not far from Duluth and according to authorities, these have a quality that is excelled by no other section of the country. Every butcher in the city will also feature the sale of lamb as a leader in the advertisements for Saturday and Sunday, the Commercial club was assured.

Featuring lamb as a product of Cloverland has been the means of stimulating the consumption of this class of meat almost 50 per cent during the last year, according to local meat packers. The increase during the next year is looked to more than double that of last year, they declare.

The sheep industry through this and adjoining counties has also increased during the last year to a surprising extent. At Ely the Northwestern Sheep & Wool company is wintering more than 500 sheep. The Pike River Ranch company had as many as 1,700 sheep on its ranch last summer. Gibson & Galloway have 500 ewes and lambs. These are only a few of the ranches that are carrying sheep over the winter. Thousands of acres of cut-over lands are being cleared throughout the county for the accommodation of stock raisers who will bring in many thousands of sheep next spring. It is only a question of a very short time, according to members of the Cloverland committee of the Commercial club, before Cloverland will be known throughout the country as the best sheep and cattle country, not even excepting the Western grazing lands.

BUSH HONOR GUEST.

Retail Grocers Give Banquet to Head of Association.

M. R. Bush, who has served as president of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association for the last twelve years, was the guest of honor at a banquet given by members of the association and their wives at the Rex hotel last night. It was the first get-together meeting since the suspension of social activities three years ago.

Frank X. Gravel, responding to the toast "Co-operation," presented Mr. Bush with a leather traveling bag filled with various small gifts. The speaker emphasized the importance of regarding the civic viewpoint in business transactions.

C. G. Scott, sales manager of the Gowan-Lenning-Brown company, spoke on "Practical Merchandising." He stressed the importance of careful business policy under present market conditions. George M. Peterson, secretary of the association, spoke on "Armistice Day." Simon Cark served as toastmaster.

NEW YORK MAYOR WAS VICTIM OF LABOR RING

New York, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Under severe questioning by the committee's counsel, Mayor John F. Hylan, on the witness stand before the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust," yesterday admitted he had been made a victim of John T. Hettrick's "labor union game in the interests of the Limestone ring."

Hotly resenting any imputations that any "personal interest" had caused him to submit to the requests of Hettrick, alleged promoter of the contractors' clearing house for bidding, Mayor Hylan said he had been "fooled" into sending suggestions made by Hettrick of the building committee of the board of education that resulted in contracts involving $15,000,000 worth of work, going to stone contractors instead of terra cotta interests.

These suggestions contained in a letter to the board of education "explaining" the advantages of limestone over terra cotta, Mayor Hylan said, were based solely upon information contained in a memorandum drafted for him by Hettrick, whom he said, he did not know. This letter Samuel Untermyer branded as "pure fabrication and a pack of lies."

While the mayor was on the stand, he was continuously in a clash with Samuel Untermyer of the committee's counsel. It was a battle of wits, which brought demonstrations from the large crowd of spectators who jammed the hearing chamber and filled the lobbies of the city hall. Several times Senator Lockwood, chairman of the committee, threatened to celar the room if the noisy demonstrations continued.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN COST $3,416,000, REPORT

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 12.—The Republican national campaign cost $3,416,000, according to figures given out there last night by Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican national committee, who is here for a brief rest. He stated that the deficit amounted to $1,350,000.

Street Fight at Walla Walla.

Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 12.—A street fight followed by a demonstration at the police station resulted last night when two ex-service men were arrested by the police on charges of disorderly conduct. Other ex-service men who were taking part in a street celebration gathered hurriedly and the four officers had to fight their way to the police station. Gun butts, night sticks and fists were freely used. A crowd of over 200 gathered outside the jail and began jeering and yelling. Finally the two men were released and the crowd gradually dispersed.

SAYS WORK OF BOARD MAKES GOOD SHOWING

New York, Nov. 12.—Commander L. B. Clements, executive assistant to Admiral Benson, chairman of the United States shipping board, yesterday told the congressional committee investigating the affairs of the board that "considering everything, it is a remarkable tribute to the board that the United States secured as near 100 per cent value as it did."

The witness referred to the work of the board in building up new trades and told of the business connections established that were proving remarkably successful. He declared conditions in different trades such that a general operating contract covering everything was a "dream."

The United States shipping board now employes 10,000 men with an annual payroll of $19,000,000, said Commander Clements. The size of the organization is being gradually reduced, however, he added.

Commander Clements was on the stand all day testifying as to his personal knowledge of the charges contained in the report to the committee made by Secretaries Fisher and Richardson. Of a majority of the matters, he said, he had but little personal knowledge—his work consisting mainly on "matters of the future" having particularly to do with trade routes.

Prior to coming to St. Louis Rabbi Spitz had charges in Milwaukee and Chicago.

REACH AGREEMENT ON ADRIATIC QUESTION

Washington, Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Italian embassy communicated yesterday to the state department a dispatch from its government saying that Italy and Jugo-Slavia had reached an agreement on the Adriatic question. The dispatch was not made public, but it was stated the boundary line agreed upon was virtually that proposed in the demands of the Italian government.

The new line runs through the Julian Alps and down the Dalmatian coast well to the eastward of the original line proposed by President Wilson and closely approximates the line laid down in the treaty of London signed between Italy and France and Great Britain in 1914.

No Statement Yet.

State department officials would not say whether the settlement would be unobjectionable to the American government, explaining that they had not had time to study the matter. It was said that a summary of the dispatch would be given out, but would not be made public at this time.

Under the agreement, Fiume becomes an independent state, without any control by the League of Nations such as was proposed by President Wilson. It was stated that Fiume immediately would undertake negotiations of customs agreements so that commerce could be freely developed.

While state department officials withheld comment on the settlement, in some official and diplomatic quarters, the opinion was expressed that the arrangement in general conformed to the views of President Wilson as stated in his last note on this subject.

Girl Horsewhips Youth.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 12.—In view of hundreds of Armistice day celebrants who engaged themselves in the "noise celebration," a girl, becoming indignant because a shower of talcum powder had been thrown in her face, turned upon her youthful persecutor and gave him a severe thrashing with a horsewhip here last night.

JANITOR FALLS HEIR TO SNUG FORTUNE

Port Wayne, Ind., Nov. 12.—Charles Wineland, an $85 a month janitor at the city hall here, leaned on the handle of his broom long enough to read a letter yesterday and then a few hours after started to California to claim a 114-acre fruit farm on the outskirts of San Francisco, and $28,000 deposited in a bank there.

The letter informed him that his brother had died, leaving his estate to the janitor and a sister, Mrs. Caroline Bowman of Burlington, Ind. The farm is appraised for taxation at $78,000, according to the letter.

MURPHY AFTER FORMER POST

Would Be Chief of Police Again; Will Press His Claims.

John Murphy, former chief of police of Duluth, and recently acquitted of a charge of conspiracy to transport intoxicating liquor smuggled into this country, wants to be reinstated as chief. He has personally appealed to each of the commissioners to use their influence to bring this about by pleading with Commissioner W. F. Murnian, in charge of the safety department, but this, it is understood, they have refused to do. Commissioner Murnian must decide the question for himself, they declare, as he is the only one who is authorized to make the appointment of a police chief.

A visit to some of the city commissioners by Mr. Murphy yesterday was followed by another today at which he urged the commissioners to support him. He claims he has been vindicated by trial in the courts and is entitled to reinstatement. It has been stated that in case Commissioner Murnian refuses to reappoint him, he will engage an attorney and take his case before the city council at the next meeting, Monday.

Action Up to Murnian.

City commissioners, who object to taking any part in the controversy, declare they have no part in the appointment; that it comes solely under the province of the commissioner of public safety, and that the council, except as a whole, has no jurisdiction in the matter. It is believed, however, that Mr. Murphy will appear before the council Monday to appeal to the council for reinstatement.

Commissioner Murnian refused to say what his action would be, although he has repeatedly said that he has already decided what action he will take when the time comes. Asked as to when he considered the right time would be, he declared it would not be before the first of next week and possibly not then.

Friends of Mr. Murphy declare that every pressure possible will be brought to bear upon Commissioner Murnian and the council to compel his reappointment. If Commissioner Murnian refuses to reinstate him, then the appeal will be made to the city council.

Acquitted of Two Charges.

Murphy was charged on two counts with conspiring to transport and smuggle intoxicating liquor. He was acquitted on both charges, the last trial coming to an end last Wednesday. At the time of his arrest, he was chief of police and immediately following he offered his resignation to Commissioner Murnian, which was accepted. Since that time, Capt. A. G. Fiskett has been the acting chief.

It has been rumored many times since the trials of Mr. Murphy began, that Commissioner Murnian would reappoint him in the event he was acquitted, with the understanding that he resign the first of the year. This was never confirmed by Commissioner Murnian, who has steadily refused to declare his intentions in regard to the reappointment, although his friends have always asserted he would not reappoint Mr. Murphy, but would announce the new appointee after the close of the trials.

tions. Senator Harding may eventually come to the same position, but for the present he is disposed to try out the Knox policy of keeping America completely detached from any world organization except one that gives United States an absolutely free hand and without any obligation, physical or moral.

Feels Kindly Toward Hearst.

Senator Harding feels kindly toward the men whose views he shares. Mr. Munsey is one of them, Senator Knox is another and William Randolph Hearst is another. The part that Mr. Hearst played in the campaign—his opposition to the League of Nations—was especially pleasing to the folks at Marion. It is significant that what one hears at Marion as the reason for not selecting Elihu Root to the cabinet—his alleged connection "with international bankers"—is exactly what Mr. Hearst has been saying and still says of the former secretary of state. Mr. Hearst has telegraphed his various newspapers from Santa Barbara, Cal., a criticism of Will Hays for asking Elihu Root's opinion on foreign policy, and says in part:

"Mr. Root's opinion, stripped of the verbiage put in to make it hard, would appear to be in essence the opinion of Mr. Wilson and the Wilson party, and Mr. Root undoubtedly belongs to the Wilson party, along with Mr. Lamont, Mr. Morgan and other international bankers. Why Mr. Root's ideas should be asked on questions of foreign policy and American public opinion by Mr. Hays is a matter of much mystery, unless, perhaps, there is a sort of connection that the public does not know about between the incoming Republican administration and Mr. Root's employers—the international bankers. If there is such a connection the public can best learn it by watching the attitude of Mr. Harding's administration toward Mr. Root."

Marion Talks Similarly.

The inference may be drawn that Mr. Hearst doesn't believe there is going to be much connection between Mr. Root and the Harding administration and that he feels sure of it. Anyway, people at Marion who know Harding's views talk about Root in exactly the same phrases as used by Mr. Hearst.

All this may sound like premature strife inside the Republican party. The fact is the lines of cleavage developed during the campaign and have been known to most everybody on the inside, but it is only now that the news of it is coming out. The importance of it is that Senator Harding is showing a friendliness to the policies of Mr. Hearst and Mr. Munsey, and that these two men will be more influential in the next administration than any two editors in the United States have ever been in the past. Senator Harding conscientiously believes in exempting American ships from Panama canal tolls. He is steadfastly opposed to foreign entanglements of any kind and he is naturally sympathetic with those who are sympathetic with him.

MADE CLOTHES FOR ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Ayr, Scotland, Oct. 25.—(By the Associated Press.)—George Silker, who has just died here at the age of 102, claimed that as a tailor in America he made clothes for Abraham Lincoln. Silker also fought in the American Civil war on the side of the North and later saw service in the Franco-Prussian war.

In Conference With Gompers.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Representatives of the labor organizations that participated in the steel strike last spring were in Washington today at the call of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to confer with the federation's executive council which is holding its regular fall meeting here.

Officers of the federation, it was said, planned to discuss with the leaders of the steel workers measures for opposing reductions in wages and attempts to restore the "open shop" in industries where organized labor has succeeded in obtaining a "closed shop." It also was expected that plans would be laid for reorganizing and strengthening the labor bodies in the steel trade.

The wage question figured prominently in the discussion yesterday at the executive council meeting. Labor leaders participating in the conference, it was said, were agreed that steps should be taken to resist reductions in wages, at least until there has been a marked slump in the cost of living. Several officers of the federation were said to have declared they favored calling of strikes if cuts in wages were in violation of existing contracts.

The executive council during the next few days will frame a legislative program which labor will push at the coming session of congress.

GEN. BARON WRANGEL WITHDRAWING FORCES

Sebastopol, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Gen. Baron Wrangel, head of the South Russian anti-Bolshevik government, is withdrawing forces in Northern Crimea toward the main defense line, which runs through the village of Lushun, about nineteen miles south of the town of Perekop. This operation is being carried on in the face of attacks in force by soviet troops.

Consideration is being given to the removing of civilians from this city and it is probable they will be sent away soon, as the situation is admitted to be critical.

Gives Up Part of Line.

Paris, Nov. 12.—Reports to the French foreign office indicate Gen. Wrangel has given up parts of his first line of defenses before Perekop, making its defense more difficult but not vitally weakening his position. It is believed here the entire situation depends upon the "white" army holding the Crimean isthmus.

The allies, as well as the French, are said to be concerned over developments in the Caucasus. The foreign office confirms the signing of an armistice by the Armenians and Turks and fear is expressed that the possible imminent junction of the Bolsheviki in that region with the Turkish nationalists might have grave consequences resulting even in an eventual clash of the Bolshevik forces with the allied troops in Turkey.

RABBIT RANCH IS PROFITABLE

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 12.—Thomas Smith is the owner of the smallest ranch in British Columbia, land of a thousand ranches, some of which comprise 100,000 acres. This tiniest of ranches is 33 by 90 inches and is in the heart of Vancouver. It is a rabbit ranch.

Mr. Smith was once modestly wealthy. He owned land in Vancouver with an assessed value of $70,000. Financial reverses left him practically penniless at the age of 69. In prosperous days he had bred a few rabbits for amusement. He now turned his attention to rabbits for a livelihood. He rented a cottage and established a hutch of Belgian hares on the premises.

He now owns the place and has a yard of Flemish Giants which are regarded as one of the most valuable herds in Canada. His Princess Bell recently won first prize at the Vancouver pet stock show. This rabbit weighs sixteen pounds and is valued at $100. Mr. Smith, as a side issue, does a good business in rabbit furs, for which there is a strong local demand. He makes a good living for himself and family from his rabbits and has a handsome balance in the bank.

MUCH WHEAT SAVED FROM GRASSHOPPERS

Regina, Sask., Nov. 12.—Saving $2,000,000 worth of wheat from the ravages of grasshoppers which overran the province last year cost the government and farmers of Saskatchewan $70,000, according to the annual report of the field crop commissioner, M. P. Tullis.

About 75,000 acres of growing wheat were destroyed within the infested area, representing approximately 21 per cent of the crop acreage in which the locusts were working, says Mr. Tullis.

FINDS MUCH GOLD IN LINING OF A TRUNK

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—An old trunk for which she paid $1 to a junk dealer in Scranton, Pa., before she moved from that city recently has added $395 in gold to the capital of Mrs. Alfred Bitterlin of Collingdale, Pa.

Believing the trunk had outlived its usefulness, Mrs. Bitterlin started to burn it. A jingle attracted her attention, the fire was extinguished and Mrs. Bitterlin extracted the gold pieces from the lining of the trunk.

WENT TO HOLLAND BY DUTCH QUEEN'S CONSENT

The Hague, Oct. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The often repeated and often denied statement that the former German Emperor William came to Holland with the pre-arranged consent of the Dutch Queen Wilhelmina is now made by one of the German officers, Lieut. Count Detif Moltke, who said he himself accompanied the emperor from Spa to Amerongen.

Moltke's article in the Journal of the National Bund of German Soldiers, reprinted in the Dutch press, says that the Dutch consul in Brussels warned his government on the night of Nov. 10, 1918, of William's plan and the emperor, by telegraph, asked permission of the queen to enter her country.

On arrival in Holland William was informed that the queen had put Bentinck's castle at his disposal, asserts Moltke.

DISCUSSING COMPULSORY EDUCATION METHODS

R. A. Kent, city superintendent of schools, and Milton Daughty, attendance officer, are in Chicago today to attend a conference of the National League of Compulsory Educational officers called by P. P. Claxton, Federal commissioner of education.

Methods of increasing school attendance and decreasing truancy will be discussed. It is claimed that last year the direct waste of school funds in the United States because of absence of children from school was $200,000,000 when it is considered that the nonattendance of school children does not lessen the cost of maintaining the institutions. It is also pointed out that the absence of children from the studies for a period is responsible for holding back other children who are regular in their attendance.

The conference will come to a close tomorrow night.

ASKS CENSURE OF ACADEMY DOCTORS FOR PUBLICITY

An illustrated newspaper article describing the work and equipment of the Academy of Clinical Medicine was declared by Dr. S. H. Boyer, speaking before the St. Louis County Medical society last night, to be a violation of the ethics of the society.

"It has often happened that physicians have been expelled from medical societies for less than this," Dr. Boyer said. "While I appreciate the fact that these younger doctors of the association are able and highly respected, I feel that they are at least deserving of censure."

Dr. F. M. Turnbull, a member of the academy, has answered with a statement that he believes the physicians of the Academy feel that they need no defense before the community. Other members of the Academy are Doctors L. L. Merriman, A. H. Schwartz, E. L. Posey, B. F. Davis, C. H. Schroeder, V. N. Leonard and A. J. Huderle.

Dr. Walter H. Brown, assistant director of the Red Cross health service, spoke on "The Future Practice of Medicine." He approved the organization of medical men into clinics as an efficient method of giving the community the benefit of specialized service. Dr. Arthur N. Collins read a paper on "Peritonitis and Intestinal Inturbation."

WENT TOO FAR.

Lewiston, Me., Journal: It was one of the good old Isaac Watts hymns. The congregation had just risen at the Congregational church in Augusta to sing.

"We will omit the first and fourth verses," said the Rev. Dr. Ecob. "And I'll tell you why. You will notice that the two verses in question begin like this: 'Great God, how infinite thou art —What worthless worms are we.' Now, it is bad enough to be a worm, but to be a worthless worm is more than I think we ought to be called upon to endure."

As a consequence the two verses in question were omitted.

NOT WORTH HIS JOB.

London Tit Bits: "Daddy," piped the little darling, "is the sea a mile deep?"

Daddy, who was also an editor, glanced up irritably from a huge pile of manuscript. "I don't know!" he snapped.

The little darling looked disappointed. A little later she asked:

"Is the moon really made of cheese, daddy?"

Again came the response: "I don't know!"

Another look of disappointment, another silence, and another question:

"Do cannibals use postage stamps?"

No less savage than the cannibals themselves was the distracted manuscript reader as he roared, for the third time: "I don't know!"

"Well, I say, daddy," exclaimed the youthful inquirer, very seriously, "who made you an editor?"

DECENT OF HIM.

Tid-Bits: Brownsmith and Johnson were junior M. P.'s, returned, somewhat to their own surprise, at the general election. Although they sat on opposite sides of the house, they were great pals, and their frequent meetings in private life were often enlivened by frank and trenchant criticism of one another's parliamentary proceedings.

"It's all very well to pick flaws in other people's speeches," said Brownsmith. He was rather nettled by something Johnson had said chaffing him. "But I don't remember that you ever opened your mouth in the house during the whole of last session."

"Oh, yes, I did, my dear chap," retorted Johnson. "Every time you spoke; only I had the decency to put my hand before it."

TO REBUILD CREAMERY.

Farmers of Askov Locality to Do Work Themselves.

Askov, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the Askov Creamery association, meeting here, decided unanimously to rebuild the creamery recently destroyed.

The new building will be constructed of hollow tile on the same site as the old one, but will be a little larger. Work has already been commenced, the debris from the burned building having been cleared away.

The farmers have decided to do the work themselves, taking turns and thus a large force will be there each day and they will save the labor cost in cash. With favorable weather they expect to have the building completed in a few weeks.

Buttermaker Christ Christiansen and C. M. Jorgensen were in Minneapolis Tuesday and purchased a new supply of machinery for the creamery which will be delivered as soon as the building is up.

KINGDOM OF THE HELLENES

Greek Nation Is Now Close to Its Cherished Ambition.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The question of succession to the throne of King Alexander of Greece turns world interest once more to Southeastern Europe. The changes Greece has undergone territorially and the part it has played in the wars and crises of its corner of the world are discussed in the following bulletin issued by the National Geographic society:

"What is Greece?

"In the light of the past the answer might well be tentative, for a definition of Greece's area at any time during the thousands of years of its history would have held good hardly for a quarter century; and in latter years so swift have been the changes in the New Greece, each decade has seen the fixing of new boundaries.

"A Sea Surrounded by Land."

"Not until modern times—except during the momentary empire of Alexander—has 'Greece' meant a nation. In the Grecian golden age, as well as before and since, Greece was a house divided against itself. Its detailed history would mean the history of more than 150 separate states. And yet there was at all times some feeling of Hellenic nationality even though the rivalries among the various groups stood in the way of fusion into a single nation.

"While Great Britain may be described as a land surrounded by seas, Greece may be said to be 'a sea surrounded by land.' The Hellenes have always been a sea-faring folk and the Mediterranean sea and more particularly the Aegean have been their own particular 'herring ponds.' The islands of the Eastern Mediterranean became Greek territory in their entirety and this was true also of the island-like Peloponnesus and some other portions of the Greek peninsula. But an equally important part of Greece—or better, of the land of the Hellenes—were the settlements made by its mariners on the shores of the mainland that hem in the Mediterranean. These settlements constituted an unbroken fringe of Hellas along the shores of Asia Minor, and scattered communities on the shores of Italy, in Sicily, even in Northern Africa and what is now Southern France. This was the loose 'Greece' or Hellas at its greatest—a domain of one people but of many states.

Had League of Nations.

"Greece gave the world its first league of nations: the Delian league, organized in 447 B. C. by way of mutual protection against the 'external aggression' of Persia, which had a sort of Berlin-to-Bagdad ambition of its own in those days. Athens was the only 'principal power' in this league and was the recognized leader of the organization.

"Later came the hegemony of Athens by force, the paradoxical empire of a democracy, bereft even of the trappings of monarchy. At this period and under what may be termed the empires of Sparta and Thebes, a close approach to a Greek nation may be said to have existed; but in none of these eras were most of the territories peopled by Greeks included, and even large parts of the Greek peninsula itself were governed by other Hellenic states. For a brief period under Alexander the Great, Greece reached the status of a nation, but it was a fusion forced by a virtual outsider and contained much territory inhabited by others than Greeks; and on the death of the great military genius the Hellenes separated again into numerous governmental units.

"Greece, expanding from the city state, had comprised for a moment almost the whole civilized world; but the great dilation was followed by an equally great contraction. Greece fell under the rising power of Rome, and became a mere province in the western empire.

"The military ability and power of the Greeks died under the Roman yoke; but when the Eastern empire was formed, with Constantinople as its seat, Greek culture conquered where Greek arms could not, and Byzantium became in reality a great Greek state. Once more the territory that, by construction at least, can be regarded as Greece, spread outward until it held within its boundaries much of Southeastern Europe. It is on reviving the glory of this period in Grecian history that Greek ambition, when it could live at all, has dwelt.

Snuffed Out Territorially.

"The night of Greece's martyrdom was not under the Roman yoke, but in the long period from the fall of Byzantium to modern times. During that time Greece was all but snuffed out territorially, while the blood of its people suffered dilution from the hordes of conquerors and immigrants of almost every nation of Europe that poured in upon it—Albanians, Slavs, Teutons, Spanish, French, Venetians, Turks. In 1669 Turkey finally gained complete dominance of what had been Greece.

"Greece, as a nation, was born again in 1829 as a result of a most turbulent war of independence against Turkey, which was at the same time a series of civil wars among contending leaders and factions. The new Greece which emerged under the joint protection of Great Britain, France and Russia comprised besides the Cyclades islands and the nearby Peloponnesus, a strip of land about forty miles wide across the peninsula north of the Peloponnesus. It has been the constant ambition of modern Greece to push its boundaries outward from this region which it considers only a nucleus until much if not all of 'Hellas Irridenta' should be included. This ambition has led to a continuous series of internal crises and external wars.

Close to Cherished Ambition.

"Now ninety years after the achievement of Greek independence, the territory of the kingdom is approximately three times as great as when it was established. Thanks to the great war and the dismemberment of Turkey, Greece now includes much of old Macedonia and Southern Thrace, practically all of the islands of the Aegean, and a large part of the province of Smyrna on the coast of Asia Minor. The Greek flag flies almost within a stone's throw of the Dardanelles—a bare fifty miles from Constantinople. Greece has advanced far toward attaining her ambition.

"The modern kingdom of the Hellenes—as Greece is officially known—has had five rulers. Not one has served until his natural death or voluntary abdication. The first ruler, president of the abortive Greek republic, organized before independence was entirely assured, was assassinated. Otto, prince of Bavaria, who was given the throne in 1832, was deposed in 1862. Prince George of Schleswig-Holstein, who was then called to the throne, ruled for fifty-one years but was assassinated in 1913. His son Constantine was deposed in 1915 because of his sympathy for the German cause. The death of Alexander, who succeeded Constantine, was due to an unusual accident."

TAX COMMISSION DECISION TUESDAY

Members of the state tax commission will announce their decision Tuesday on the tax assessment controversy in the Chisholm district, where mining companies are protesting against the $9,000,000 increase in mining assessments by the Chisholm village board of equalization.

Final arguments were heard yesterday before the commission on evidence presented at hearings in St. Paul on Oct. 19, 20 and 21 and in Duluth on Oct. 26.

The range of discussion in the arguments covered a wide field, including general business conditions, the total available tonnage of iron ore in the district, the rate of consumption, the life of the Mesabe range, the character and value of the deposits in the Chisholm district and the probability of rapid exhaustion.

The village was represented at the hearing by Mayor Joseph Austin and Village Trustees Drew, Tramontin and Syme and Attorney George H. Spear of Duluth. Representatives of the various mining companies at the hearing were: Oliver Iron Mining company, George D. Swift and Attorneys George W. Morgan and Elmer Blu; Shenango Furnace company, E. J. Maney and Attorney W. D. Bailey; Hanna Ore Mining company, Earl Hunner and Attorney Francis W. Sullivan. Fee owners of certain of the mines were represented by Douglas Freeman of Eveleth. Dean W. R. Appleby of the University of Minnesota school of mines was also present at the hearing.

EIGHT AMERICANS ARE PROTECTING ORPHANS

Constantinople, Nov. 11.—The Rev. Dr. Ernest Yarrow, a missionary stationed in Turkey-Armenia, telegraphs from the Caucasus that eight Americans at Kars are protecting 40,000 orphans and the stores there. Refugees to the number of 25,000 have reached Alexandropol, panic stricken.

The Georgian National Guard and the mobilized Georgian army, says the dispatch, now number 50,000 men. The constituent assembly has decided to maintain its war footing, apparently contemplating assisting the Armenians who are struggling against the Turks.

NEWSBOYS' FRIEND BURIED.

Ed Rogers, State Fire Ranger, Laid to Rest Here.

Ed Rogers, aged 60, timber cruiser, and later state fire ranger, and for many years a mysterious friend of newsboys, who died a few days ago at Center lakes, was buried yesterday afternoon at Forest Hill cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. George Brewer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The body was brought to Duluth by Percy Vibert of Cloquet.

As far as is known there are no relatives. If there are any Mr. Vibert would like to communicate with them. Mr. Rogers, it was discovered recently, was the mysterious stranger who often took newsboys to dinners, shows and other entertainments when in the city.

INDIANS SANG MASS.

Scribner's: "I heard the old Indians singing mass," once wrote Robert Louis Stevenson in a California newspaper. That was a new experience and one, I think, well worth hearing. There was the old man who led, and the women who so worthily followed. It was like a voice out of the past. They sang by tradition, from the teaching of early missionaries long since turned to clay:

King Pandion he is dead,
All your friends are lapped in lead.

"And still in the roofless church you may hear the old music. Padre Casanove will, I am sure, be the first to pardon and understand me, when I say that the old Gregorian singing preached a sermon more eloquent than his own. Peace on earth, good will to men, so it seemed to me to say, and to me, as a barbarian, who hears on all sides evil speech and the roughest bywords about the Indian race, to hear Carmel Indians sing their Latin words with so good a pronounciation, and give out these ancient European chants with familiarity and fervor, suggested new and pleasant reflections. Here was an old, medieval civilization, and your old primeval barbarism, hand in hand, the one devoutly following the other. And I could not help thinking that if there had been more priests and fewer land sharks and Indian agents, there would have been happier days for a considerable number of human bipeds in your American continent."

GOOD AS POSSIBLE.

Detroit News: "This isn't a very good picture of your little baby brother, is it?" said the visitor.

"No, ma'am," replied little 5-year-old Alice. "But, then, he ain't a very good baby."

On an average a spinster's hair turns gray five years sooner than a married woman's.

N.M.D.A. HERE NEXT WEEK

Timely Subjects Will Be Dealt With by Various Speakers.

The program for the annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association to be held at the Commercial club rooms here next Wednesday, is almost complete. The program will begin promptly at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. President E. E. McDonald of Bemidji is in California and therefore the meeting will be called to order by Vice President A. P. Silliman of Hibbing, who will preside during the meeting. After the usual addresses of welcome and reply and the annual report of the secretary, committees will be appointed. Addresses will be delivered by the following: James Arneson, "Land Clearing and Its Relation to Immigration;" Henry H. Hindshaw, "The Value of Peat;" Daniel E. Weigle, "Co-operation Between City and Country;" Prof. C. G. Selvig, "Agricultural Problems in Northern Minnesota;" Bentley P. Neff, "Lakes to the Ocean;" W. B. Getchell, "Pittsburgh Plus;" Representative R. W. Hitchcock, "Tonnage Tax;" Senator P. H. McGarry, "Highways Everywhere;" State Forester W. T. Cox, "The Status of Forestry."

Will Hold Evening Session.

It is expected that this program can be completed by holding an evening session at which it is hoped Duluth will be largely represented. The report of the resolutions committee is to be made, unless otherwise ordered by the meeting, at the evening session. Election of officers and members of the executive committee will be the last order of business in the evening. Secretary M. N. Koll says that in the opinion of the executive committee, this meeting will be the time to take stock on the previous accomplishments of the association and continue to blaze the way of progress in Northern Minnesota. All men who have the interests of Northern Minnesota at heart will be welcome at the meeting. County boards, farm bureaus, farmers' clubs, commercial clubs and other associations will be represented.

DRIFTED ALL NIGHT ON LAKE OF WOODS

Warroad, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden Saunders and others from Roseau had an unpleasant experience on the Lake of the Woods Monday night. They were on board the launch Emma, going north, when the rudder broke near Garden island. They drifted all night in the storm across the lake and finally landed in the muskeg near Willow creek, where they managed to get ashore and found a shack, in which they made themselves more comfortable. The launch Emma is still out there and chances are that it will remain there until next spring.

CLOQUET TO HAVE NEW PAPER MILL

Cloquet, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The closing here yesterday of what is known as the water power will mark the passing of Cloquet's oldest mill as it was built twenty-eight years ago. It will be dismantled to make room for a new mill to be erected by the Northwest Paper company upon the same site. Plans for the paper mill are understood to have been decided upon some time ago and work can proceed as soon as the contract is let. Figures as to the size and cost of the new plant have not been announced.

The steam mill also closed yesterday for the winter. After a complete overhauling the Johnson-Wentworth mill will start on its winter sawing schedule next Monday. A new engine room has been built and the mill is declared to be in fine shape.

Sawed Much Timber.

The water power mill was built twenty-eight years ago by Capt. Paine and Mr. McNair of Minneapolis and they used the water for power for four years. Then they combined both water and steam for power. Later Mr. Shaw took over the mill and ran it by steam alone.

After successfully operating a number of years Mr. Shaw sold out to the Weyerhaeuser interests. This mill in twenty-eight years of sawing days only for the summer months, has cut almost 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber. For a number of years before the fire, several months each season it cut lumber for the Eastern Lumber company of New York state, cutting white pine for the Eastern markets and abroad.

Two Aitkin Weddings.

Aitkin, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wilbur Henry Greer and Miss Marian Gray, both of Aitkin county were married Nov. 6 by Rev. Frank E. Wilson of Superior. The witnesses were H. C. Gray and Esho Greer. Ernest Chris Nelson and Miss Tessie May Detzler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Detzler, were married Oct. 30 at the courthouse by Judge Frank Hense and have gone to Crosby to live.

FARM LAND SALES AROUND BAUDETTE

Baudette, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. J. Cleaver and family of Bisbee, N. D., who purchased the William Robertson farm east of this place, arrived this week with their effects. They have much good stock to put on this splendid farm. Wilbur Smeltzer and family of Zion, N. D., arrived this week and have moved on the R. W. Mick farm near Graceton, which they purchased last summer. All of their stock is pure-bred short horn. Gus Nordstrum of this place moved on his farm near Graceton which he purchased last summer.

Williams Rulien returned Tuesday from International Falls where he closed a deal with E. W. Backus whereby he purchased a 144-acre farm belonging to John Kyler of Spooner, just west of this place. This gives Mr. Backus 1,000 acres all in one block of the finest land in Northern Beltrami county. Men have been working on this land since last winter and it is the expectation of the owner to put it all into clover as soon as possible.

Snow flurries throughout the week made light sleighing possible. The roads are frozen and not cut up which will aid the farmers in bringing in their timber this winter.

Eat more Cloverland lamb this week. Ask your butcher. Swift & Co.—Advertisement.

WOULD ORGANIZE INTELLECTUAL WORK

New York Nov. 12.—Scientists, educators and men of letters throughout the world have been asked to consider a plan to establish, in connection with the League of Nations, as international bureau to organize the world's intellectual work. The proposal comes from the French association for the League of Nations and is made public by the secretariat of the league in the form of a communication from P. Appel, rector of the University of Paris and president of the executive council of the French association.

The proposal contemplates the formation, as a permanent department of the league, of an organization for "intellectual intercourse and education" like that already in existence for labor. The authors believe that such as organization will give the work of the league both permanency and power by promoting "more intimate and active interchange of ideas, impressions, scientific studies, moral improvements and literary and scientific publications, a wider diffusion of languages and an increased frequency of missions and congresses and international intercourse of every kind."

The French association has gone so far as to have a fairly detailed plan for such a bureau drafted by M. Julien Luchaire, chief of the cabinet to the French minister of public instruction.

Brewery Site for School.

Ironwood, Mich., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The purchase of the old brewery site as an addition to the North Side school grounds was directed by the board of education at a cost of $6,500. The old brewery recently was razed.

The program will begin promptly at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. President E. E. McDonald of Bemidji is in California and therefore the meeting will be called to order by Vice President A. P. Silliman of Hibbing, who will preside during the meeting. After the usual addresses of welcome and reply and the annual report of the secretary, committees will be appointed. Addresses will be delivered by the following: James Arneson, "Land Clearing and Its Relation to Immigration;" Henry H. Hindshaw, "The Value of Peat;" Daniel E. Weigle, "Co-operation Between City and Country;" Prof. C. G. Selvig, "Agricultural Problems in Northern Minnesota;" Bentley P. Neff, "Lakes to the Ocean;" W. B. Getchell, "Pittsburgh Plus;" Representative R. W. Hitchcock, "Tonnage Tax;" Senator P. H. McGarry, "Highways Everywhere;" State Forester W. T. Cox, "The Status of Forestry."

Will Hold Evening Session.

It is expected that this program can be completed by holding an evening session at which it is hoped Duluth will be largely represented. The report of the resolutions committee is to be made, unless otherwise ordered by the meeting, at the evening session. Election of officers and members of the executive committee will be the last order of business in the evening. Secretary M. N. Koll says that in the opinion of the executive committee this meeting will be the time to take stock of the previous accomplishments of the association and continue to blaze the way of progress in Northern Minnesota. All men who have the interests of Northern Minnesota at heart will be welcome at the meeting. County boards, farm bureaus, farmers' clubs, commercial clubs and other associations will be represented.

DRIFTED ALL NIGHT ON LAKE OF WOODS

Warroad, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden Saunders and others from Roseau had an unpleasant experience on the lake of the Woods Monday night. They were on board the launch Emma, going north, when the rudder broke near Garden island. They drifted all night in the storm across the lake and finally landed in the muskeg near Willow creek, where they managed to get a boat and found a shack, in which they made themselves more comfortable. The launch Emma is still out there and chances are that it will remain there until next spring.

CLOQUET TO HAVE NEW PAPER MILL

Cloquet, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The closing here yesterday of what is known as the water power will mark the passing of Cloquet's oldest mill as it was built twenty-eight years ago. It will be dismantled to make room for a new mill to be erected by the Northwest Paper company upon the same site. Plans for the paper mill are understood to have been decided upon some time ago and work can proceed as soon as the contract is let. Figures as to the size and cost of the new plant have not been announced.

The steam mill also closed yesterday for the winter. After a complete overhauling the Johnson-Wentworth mill will start on its winter sawing schedule next Monday. A new engine room has been built and the mill is declared to be in fine shape.

Saved Much Timber.

The water power mill was built twenty-eight years ago by Capt. Paine and Mr. McNair of Minneapolis and they used the water for power for four years. Then they combined both water and steam for power. Later Mr. Shaw took over the mill and ran it by steam alone.

After successfully operating a number of years Mr. Shaw sold out to the Weyerhaeuser interests. This mill in twenty-eight years of sawing days only for the summer months has cut almost 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber. For a number of years before the fire, several months each season it cut lumber for the Eastern Lumber company of New York state, cutting white pine for the Eastern market and abroad.

FARM LAND SALES AROUND BAUDETTE

Baudette, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. J. Cleaver and family of Bisbee, N. D., who purchased the William Robertson farm east of this place, arrived this week with their effects. They have much good stock to put on this splendid farm. Wilbur Smelzer and family of Zion, N. D., arrived this week and have moved on the R. W. Mick farm near Graceton, which they purchased last summer. All of their stock is pure-bred short horn. Gus Nordstrum of this place moved on his farm near Graceton which he purchased last summer.

Williams Rulien returned Tuesday from International Falls where he closed a deal with E. W. Backus whereby he purchased a 144-acre farm belonging to John Kyler of Spooner, just west of this place. This gives Mr. Backus 1,000 acres all in one block of the finest land in Northern Beltrami county. Men have been working on this land since last winter and it is the expectation of the owner to put it all into clover as soon as possible.

Snow flurries throughout the week made light sleighing possible. The roads are frozen and not cut up which will aid the farmers in bringing in their timber this winter.

WOULD ORGANIZE INTELLECTUAL WORK

New York, Nov. 12.—Scientists, educators and men of letters throughout the world have been asked to consider a plan to establish, in connection with the League of Nations, an international bureau to organize the world's intellectual work. The proposal comes from the French association for the League of Nations and is made public by the secretariat of the league in the form of a communication from P. Appell, rector of the University of Paris and president of the executive council of the French association.

The proposal contemplates the formation, as a permanent department of the league, of an organization for "intellectual intercourse and education" like that already in existence for labor. The authors believe that such an organization will give the work of the league both permanency and power by promoting "more intimate and active interchange of ideas, impressions, scientific studies, moral improvements and literary and scientific publications, a wider diffusion of languages and an increased frequency of missions and congresses and international intercourse of every kind."

The French association has gone so far as to have a fairly detailed plan for such a bureau drafted by M. Julien Luchaire, chief of the [illegible] to the French minister of public instruction.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

SOLVE FOREST FIRE PROBLEM

Disaster Averted This Year; State Forester Confers With Duluthians.

The forest fire problem in Northern Minnesota has been virtually solved and never again will this region see another such fire as wiped out Cloquet and Moose Lake two years ago, was the declaration of State Forester W. T. Cox yesterday at conferences with county agents and representatives of the Duluth Commercial club, the Duluth Automobile club and the Rotary club. There were more forest fires this year than two years ago, he said, but the preventative measures taken prevented a repetition of great loss of life and property.

Cox Explains Situation.

During the afternoon, Mr. Cox met the county agents in the courthouse and in the evening the civic organizations at the Commercial club. At the afternoon session he explained where the funds for forest fire prevention had come from. Only one-third of the amount was apportioned by the state and the other two-thirds came from private institutions, he said. Organized townships spent $140,000 last year employing forest patrolmen and establishing a telephone system to use in case of fires and to send out warnings when necessary. Railroad companies contributed $100,000 and lumber companies $50,000 towards maintaining patrolmen and hiring crews to burn slashings and brush. The mining companies also contributed considerable towards this fund, he said.

The meeting last night was to outline plans whereby greater publicity could be given to the personnel of the forestry service and the headquarters of the patrolmen. It was desired by the different civic organizations that the names of every patrolman and forest ranger and their addresses and telephone numbers be sent to every taxpayer in the county. The offer was made to Mr. Cox that if this information was placed at the disposal of the civic organizations they would see that cards bearing this information reached every man in the county. It was also decided to ask county commissioners to have the name and address of the nearest forest ranger added to the county road signs that are erected on all the county roads.

Phone Exchanges to Help.

It was also decided to ask that every telephone exchange be furnished with this information, so that in the event of a warning coming the operator could immediately call and notify the ranger nearest to the fire.

T. W. Walker, representing the good roads committee of the Rotary club, originated the movement for greater publicity and has been the means of interesting the other civic organizations in the movement.

SALE OF HOPS AND MALT RESTRICTED BY "DRY" RULING

Washington, Nov. 12.—Prohibition enforcement officers throughout the country have been instructed to prevent the sale of malt and hops to others than bakers and confectioners, but details of the order which tightens the ban on home brewing were lacking today.

In the absence of Commissioner Kramer, officials at the prohibition enforcement bureau said that the sale of hops and malt as component parts of home made beer had been ruled to be in violation of the Volstead act. They would not discuss, however, details of the new order which is said to have resulted from a construction placed on the law nearly two months ago.

A document was started at that time through regular channels for the purpose of obtaining a decision from the treasury in the matter, but it has not yet been approved by Secretary Houston. Officials admitted the existence of the proposed treasury ruling but would not comment concerning it.

It was said at Commissioner Kramer's office that litigation was expected to result in orders to determine the jurisdiction of the government. The bureau, it was said, is convinced that sale of malt and hops is a violation of the prohibition law and is prepared to test the question in the courts.

PUPILS URGED TO BE LOYAL.

Warren E. Greene Addresses Central School on Armistice Day.

Armistice day was celebrated at the Central high school yesterday. At the end of the third study period, the pupils passed to the assembly hall for the chapel. The program began with a selection by the orchestra, which lasted about ten minutes.

A few patriotic songs were song by the students and the Girls' Glee club gave a selection. Principal Young gave a patriotic talk and introduced County Attorney Warren E. Greene, who was the speaker for the day. Mr. Greene urged patriotism and loyalty. He emphasized the sacrifices of the "boys" made and the how they helped to make the world safe for democracy. At the end of his speech, he appealed to the pupils to live up to the standard of those who fought. The program ended with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

WILL READ RESOLUTION TO AID A. R. C. IN CHURCHES

The resolution indorsing the work of the American Red Cross and asking all to aid in the yearly membership drive, as adopted by the meeting of the representatives of the Norwegian churches and societies at the Commercial club Monday night, will be read at all the Norwegian churches in the city Sunday. The resolution reads as follows:

"Be it resolved, That the members of the Norwegian churches and societies in the city of Duluth in meeting assembled recognize the splendid humanitarian work performed by the Red Cross society, not only during the recent great war, but also in the time of peace wherever their aid is needed, and be it further resolved that the members of the Norwegian churches and societies of Duluth pledge themselves to cooperate and do their best in making the proposed Red Cross drive for memberships a most complete success."

TO PROTECT MUSKRATS.

Closed Season After Dec. 1 Ordered by Governor Burnquist.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 12.—A closed season on muskrats in Minnesota between Dec. 1, until "the close of the 1921 regular session of the legislature, unless sooner revoked or modified," was ordered late yesterday by Governor Burnquist, on recommendation of Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner.

Questionnaires had been sent by Commissioner Avery to fur dealers, trappers and farmers in every county in the state and 900 of the 1,000 replies favored a closed season on muskrats. Extermination of the muskrat unless it was protected was feared, according to the majority of the letters, Mr. Avery said.

ROAD PROGRAM CAUSES BIG INCREASE IN COUNY TAX RATE

Approximately 10.3 Mills Will Be Levied; 8.8 Last Year.

Almost Three Times Rate of Ten Years Ago.

St. Louis county's mammoth 1921 road program, for which $2,166,000 has been levied by the county board, is largely responsible for the highest rate for county taxes ever known here.

The county tax rate, which has averaged 3.27 mills during the last thirty years, will jump to approximately 10.3 mills on the 1920 taxes to be paid next year.

The lowest tax rate during that period was 2.6 mills which prevailed in 1892, when the county's assessed valuation was approximately $12,000,000.

In 1899 the rate was 3 mills and the valuation was $42,890,103; in 1900 the rate 2.77 mills and the valuation $44,290,184. The assessed valuation for the county this year is estimated at $361,000,000, or about four times as great as it was in the nineties but the increase in valuation has not served to keep the rate down. Within the last five years it has steadily climbed and is now almost three times as great as the average or normal rate for the county for the preceding thirty years.

Jumps in Decade.

Between 1890 and 1900 the average county rate was 3.82 mills, between 1900 and 1910, 3.29 mills, but between 1910 and 1920 the average jumps to 4.8 mills. The following table shows the county tax rate has climbed within the last decade:

Year	Rate in Mills	Assessed Valuation
1910	2.9	$272,150,359
1911	3.19	[illegible]
1912	2.72	311,383,376
1913	3.67	311,817,268
1914	[illegible]	323,964,970
1915	5.25	321,256,070
1916	4.50	326,219,253
1917	5.62	355,056,977
1918	6.70	361,808,513
1919	8.8	357,787,544
1920 (estimated)	10.3	361,000,000

Roads Cause Increase.

The extensive road building program undertaken by the county during the last few years has been largely responsible for the increase in the county tax rate, although there have been normal increases in most all of the other county funds. This year the county board levied about 6 mills alone for roads when it included an item of $2,166,000 in its budget for road construction. This is an increase of about 1.5 mills over the 1919 road levy which was for $1,628,039 for roads.

The county budget also contains a levy of $135,000 or .371 mills for the poor farm commission this year whereas in 1919 no levy at all was made for the poor fund. On the other hand, in 1919 the county board levied $23,971 for the work farm and this year nothing has been levied for the work farm fund.

One Actual Decrease.

An actual decrease in the general or county revenue fund levy is reported by County Auditor Walter H. Borgen, who informed the board that the revenue fund would try and get along with $100,000 less than in 1919. The amount levied then was $764,000 and this year $661,500 is asked. The rate for the revenue fund will show a cut of more than half a mill this year but this and other decreases are more than wiped out by the levy for roads.

M. P. CHARGED WITH INCITING SEDITION

London, Nov. 12.—Lieut.-Col. L'Estrange Malone, Liberal member of the house of commons for the East division of Leyton, who was arrested Wednesday night in Dublin, where he had gone to speak on Bolshevism, was arraigned today under the section of the Defense of Realm act prohibiting language likely to cause sedition among civilians. The proceedings arose from a speech delivered by him here last Sunday. The case was adjourned for a week and the defendant was released in $2,000 bail. A large crowd of sympathizers outside cheered him as he left the court.

The crown prosecutor declared Col. Malone's speech was an "incitement to murder" and quoted the following passage:

"The Russian revolution taught us the humbug of the old parliament. . . . I hope the day will soon come when we shall meet here to pass a blessing on the British revolution when you meet here as delegates of the first all-British congress of workers, sailors and soldiers.

"When that day comes, woe to all who get in our way. We are out to change the present constitution, and if it is necessary to have bloodshed and atrocities we shall have to use the lamp posts or the wall. What are a few Churchills or a few Curzons on lampposts compared with the misery of thousands of human beings?"

Serious Rioting at Genzano.

London, Nov. 11.—Serious rioting has occurred at Genzano, near Potenza, Italy, according to a Milan dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. A priest is said to have been severely beaten during a church ceremony at which he praised Italian soldiers, and a general strike followed the arrest of 200 persons accused of having participated in the disorders. A strike also has been called at Forenza, a town in the Apennine, fifteen miles northeast of Potenza.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court today handed down the following decisions:

ST. LOUIS COUNTY.
Complaint Held Sufficient.

Kelly-How-Thomson company, respondent, vs. Merritt Development company, appellant—

The complaint upon an account stated held sufficient as against objection first made in the trial. Failure to serve a bill of particulars, though demanded, does not defeat a recovery upon an account stated where the only defense is a general denial. The evidence justified a directed verdict.

Affirmed. HOLT, J.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY.
Judgment Affirmed.

Christina C. Brown, as administratrix of the estate of John A. Brown, deceased, appellant, vs. Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company and Walker D. Hines, director general of railroads, respondents—

Under the evidence defendants' negligence, decedent's assumption of risk and contributory negligence were for the jury. The court did not instruct as to when a verdict by five-sixths of the jury could be rendered. The omission was not prejudicial, since a unanimous verdict was returned within three hours after the cause was submitted to the jury.

The instructions given were correct and complete. The court concededly gave a full and correct explanation of the meaning of assumption of risk, and it was not necessary to repeat it with every mention of the phrase.

There was no abuse of discretion in refusing to grant a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

Affidavits of petit jurors may be considered upon a motion for a new trial, based upon their misconduct, insofar only as the misconduct relates to occurrences outside the jury room or when they are not under the control of the court. They are not admissible to show the motives or reasons which actuated the jury in arriving at a verdict or disclose their discussions in the jury room. Whether misconduct of the jury, not induced by the prevailing party, should entitle to a new trial rests largely with the trial court. That prejudice resulted to plaintiff from the alleged misconduct in the instant case, does not so clearly appear that we can hold the trial court's refusal of a new trial to be an abuse of judicial discretion.

Affirmed. HOLT, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY—
As to Attorney's Fees.

A. C. Middelstadt, appellant, vs. City of Minneapolis, a municipal corporation, respondent—

Where an attorney has a lien for his services upon a cause of action under section 4955, G. S. 1913, and the action is settled by the parties before trial, the attorney may elect to enforce his lien rights by an independent action against the defendant, or by intervention in the original action. Where the latter procedure is pursued and a full hearing had, it is final, and the attorney cannot thereafter resort to an independent action.

Affirmed. QUINN, J.

MARSHALL COUNTY.
Not in Frauds Statute.

Victor Holmstrom, respondent, vs. Lars Barstad, appellant—

Plaintiff and defendant agreed to buy together a quarter section of land, each to take one eighty. Each then procured a contract from the owner for the purchase of one eighty, each agreeing to pay half the purchase price of the quarter section. It was agreed that the eighties were of equal value except that on one eighty there were some buildings. It was accordingly agreed that defandant should pay plaintiff half the value of the buildings. Held, this agreement was not within the statute of frauds and was enforceable.

Objection that the findings of fact do not sustain the conclusions of law may be raised on motion for new tiral. But, if not there raised and the motion is made on other specific grounds, the objection cannot be raised on appeal from an order denying the motion.

Affirmed. HALLAM, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Stipulation in Lease.

Benjamin A. Paust, agent, respondent, vs. Alexis Georgian, appellant—

Benjamin A. Paust, agent, respondent, vs. Mrs. Alexis Georgian, appellant—

Immoral conduct in the generally accepted meaning and understanding thereof includes only such acts and practices as are inconsistent with decency, good order and propriety of personal conduct.

A stipulation in a lease of a building in which the tenant was to conduct a book store prohibiting immoral practices on the premises, construed in the light of the facts before the parties when the contract was entered into, does not include the sale of books or magazines of an immoral nature.

A restriction of the sale of such books was not in the minds of the parties at the time and the expression "immoral practices" as used in the lease, is therefore to be construed in harmony with the general standards of moral conduct.

Judgment affirmed.

BROWN, C. J.

RAMSEY COUNTY—
Funeral Home Nuisance.

John B. Meagher, et al, respondents, vs. John W. Kessler, et al, appellants—

A city ordinance prohibiting the maintenance of an undertaking establishment and so-called funeral home, in a residential part of a city, held to be valid.

A funeral home located in a strictly residential district of a city, prohibited by ordinance, held to be a nuisance.

Where an undertaker purchases and uses, as a funeral home, a dwelling house situated in a strictly residential part of a city and thereby infringes upon the repose and comfort of those residing in the neighborhood, depresses their spirits and depreciates the value of their property, injunction is the proper remedy.

Affirmed. QUINN, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY—
Agent Gives Jurisdiction.

Merchants Elevator company, respondent, vs. Chesapeake & Ohio Railway company, appellant—

Where a foreign railway company has an agent in this state to solicit traffic for its road, jurisdiction over such company may be acquired by service of the summons and complaint on such agent.

Affirmed. TAYLOR, C.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Acceptance Waives Right.

W. W. Banik, appellant, vs. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, a corporation, respondent—

The rule that the form in which a bill of lading is taken is indicative of the title to the goods is not conclusive.

Under the uniform sales act (Chap. 465 G. L. 1917), when the seller of goods delivers them to a carrier for transportation to the buyer pursuant to the contract between the seller and buyer, a presumption arises that the property in the goods passes to the buyer. If the bill of lading issued to the seller provides that the goods shall be delivered to him or his order, the property in the goods is reserved to the seller unless it would have passed to the buyer except for the form of the bill of lading, and in such case the seller retains the property in the goods only to secure the buyer's performance of the contract.

Where the contract of sale provided that the buyer should receive and sell the goods and apply the proceeds to pay the seller's debt to him, the presumption arising from the taking of a bill of lading in the name of the seller is overcome, since the buyer could not perform the contract if the ownership or possession of the goods was retained by the seller.

An acceptance of goods not shipped in accordance with the terms of the buyer's order waives his right to insist on the seller's compliance with such terms.

Where a carrier delivers the goods to the true owner but fails to take up an order bill of lading issued to and retained by the shipper, it is not liable in an action of conversion brought by the shipper.

By the Federal bills of lading act, Chap. 415-39 U. S. states at large, congress has recognized the right of a carrier transporting goods in interstate commerce to deliver them to the true owner and to make such delivery a complete defense to an action by the holder of an order bill of lading to recover damages for a failure to deliver the goods to him.

Affirmed. LEES, C.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
One Year Is Limit.

T. B. Flannery, plaintiff, vs. Rosa Kusha, also known as Mrs. John Kusha, defendant-respondent, Theresa Schinderling and Lillibelle Digen, appellants—

An application to be relieved from a default judgment must be made within one year after notice thereof. Section 7786, G. S. 1913. Upon the conflicting affidavits referred to in the opinion, the court was justified in finding that defendant did not have notice of the judgment more than one year prior to the making of her application to vacate it.

If the application was made and notice of its hearing given within one year after notice of the judgment, the court has jurisdiction to give relief, even though the hearing is noticed for a date subsequent to the expiration of the year.

Such an application is addressed to the discretion of the court, which should incline towards giving a defendant an opportunity to establish his defense upon a trial on the merits, and the action of the lower court will not be reversed except for a clear abuse of discretion. There was no such abuse in the present case.

Defendant was foreign born; neither read nor understood English; was inexperienced in business, and was advised by a friend that she need not answer a summons and complaint which were served on her; the property sold under execution on the default judgment entered against her was worth many times the amount of the judgment. These facts justified the court in excusing defendant from the consequences of her default.

A mistake of law as well as a mistake of fact may afford ground for relief from a judgment.

One who purchases from a judgment creditor takes his title subject to defeat by the subsequent vacation of the judgment. He does not stand in the position of a purchaser at a judicial sale, but gets only the title the judgment creditor had.

Affirmed. LEES, C.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
New Trial Not Granted.

Anna E. Reinky, appellant, vs. Findley Electric company, respondent—

A vendor in a conditional sale contract providing for a forfeiture of payments upon default, and a return of the property, cannot invoke a forfeiture during the time for which he has given an extension of time of payment, though the extension is without consideration.

When the vendor wrongfully takes possession the vendee may recover in conversion. He cannot recover the payments made as upon a rescission.

Damages as for a conversion were not alleged or proved and no more than nominal damages could be recovered upon the theory of a conversion. Malice was not present nor were there aggravating circumstances. There was a breach of contract if the defendant took the property during the period for which an extension had been granted. There was no right of recovery for injured feelings or humiliation resulting therefrom.

A new trial will not be granted by this court to permit a recovery of nominal damages when no matter of permanent right is determined and nothing but damages.

Order affirmed. PER CURIAM.

Milk Toast Diet Too Much for Her

"I doctored for years with only temporary relief. My liver was very bad, after eating I would always have such a fullness in my stomach and my heart would palpitate. I could not eat milk toast without distressing me. Since taking a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, more than a year ago, I can eat anything my appetite desires." Fat Folks Read This Story

Recently, in the city of Chicago, a prominent man, burdened with excessive fat, went upon the operating table and had over sixty pounds of flesh carved from his huge, cumbersome body. Years ago the formula for fat reduction was "diet"—"exercise." Today it is "Take Marmola Prescription Tablets." Friends tell friends—doctors tell their patients, until thousands know and use this convenient, harmless method. They eat what they like, live as they like, and still lose their two, three or four pounds of fat a week. Simple, effective, harmless Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists—a good size box for one dollar. Says Pile Remedy Worth $100.00 a Box

I have had itching piles ever since my earliest recollection. I am 53 years old and have suffered terribly. I have tried many remedies and doctors, but no cure. About 8 weeks ago I saw your ad for Peterson's Ointment. The first application stopped all itching, and in three days all soreness. I have only used one 35c box and consider I am cured, not feeling any return of the trouble for 6 weeks. You have my grateful, heartfelt thanks, and may everyone that has this trouble see this and give your ointment, that is worth a hundred dollars or more a box, a trial. Sincerely yours, A. Newth, Columbus, Ohio.

Peterson's Ointment for Piles, Eczema and old sores is only 35 cents a box at all druggists. Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

Rather large formal hats have brims slightly wider at the sides than elsewhere.

Among dress silks the leading shades are browns, tans, green and blues.

The sleeves of an evening frock may be merely little shaped caps over the shoulders.

Crepe de chine brocaded in satin is for afternoon and evening dresses as well as for the most elaborate negligees.

The new velvets are beautiful, clinging and rich in color. They will be much used for afternoon frocks and for wraps for both afternoon and evening.

Long lines, tight sleeves, high collars, three-quarter-length beltless coats, skirts with narrow hems and of a length suited to the individual are some of the new features of the autumn costumes.

Can Charm Critics and Enthuse Tired Business Man; That's Grainger

PERCY GRAINGER.

The Matinee Musicale reports an unusually large sale of special membership tickets to Duluth men due largely to the appearance of Percy Grainger on their list of artists. Grainger is a man's pianist and the only pianist in the world today, it is claimed, who can enthuse the tired business man and make him cheerfully accompany his wife and daughters to a piano recital.

When this young Australian appears at the First Methodist church this evening he will give a program of wide range and include not only a Bach fugue for the trained musician, but "Molly on the Sands" and "Turkey in the Straw," played as only Percy Grainger can play them.

Local Scouts Active In Girl Scout Campaign

Further enlightening the general public as to the function of the Girl Scouts' organization and the work carried on by scout members, the Duluth branch of the Girl Scouts of America opened an interesting and very unique display in the Glass Block window this morning.

Monday, the closing day of the campaign, Girl Scouts will be in charge of booths in the downtown shops and hotel lobbies, where persons wishing to make voluntary contribution to the scout movement, may conveniently do so. No solicitations will be made. The scout leader wishes to announce that all checks should be made payable to the Girl Scouts, Inc., and those not given at the booths are to be mailed to Miss Anne MacFarlane, 305 Exchange building, Duluth.

WIPING DISHES AFTER THEY ARE WASHED SAID TO BE SUPERFLUOUS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12.—The hired maid will find her work not quite so laborious, if her employer takes the advice of the Women's Community council of Minneapolis, which organization contends that wiping dishes after they are washed is superfluous.

On the grounds that it is more beneficial from the point of health, just as sanitary, and a great saving in labor, the women's council here is espousing in a series of institutes for mothers throughout the city, that dishes be not wiped and polished, but that they be rinsed with boiling water and let to dry in a wire drain pan, instead.

Makes Remarkable Run Though Beaten for Office

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Lucretia McMillan, wife of a Milwaukee attorney, who was the first woman in Wisconsin to seek state legislative honors at the recent election, made what her friends considered to be a remarkable showing though defeated. Mrs. McMillan entered the race following the primary, as an independent candidate in the Eighteenth assembly district, being indorsed by the Good Government league, and polled approximately 3,000 votes against her regularly nominated Republican opponent who received 4,500 votes.

Mrs. McMillan is well known in educational and women's club circles throughout the state. She is a daughter of Frank D. Hinkley, member of the Milwaukee chamber of commerce.

She graduated with honors from the University of Wisconsin in 1899, being elected a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest honorary fraternity in the world and was made a member of the first chapter of that fraternity formed in Madison. She also is a member of Pi Beta Phi, one of the oldest sororities in the country. Mrs. McMillan founded the first women's club in Indian Territory, is prominent in club circles in Wisconsin and in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

AT THE THEATERS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Frank Dobson and his Thirteen Sirens.

NEW GRAND—Donald's Serenaders; other features.

NEW GRAND—A great variety of good comedy, splendid music and unusual, even sensational acts comprise the bill for the last half of the week at the New Grand, and yesterday's crowds were delighted with the opening performances. Donald's Serenaders, featuring Donald Lindley, cornetist, includes a sextet of talented musicians, two of them attractive young women. They make the greater portion of their program of the lighter and more popular music. Gayle Wyer and Sam Evens, styled "The Crackin' Couple," tell jokes and deal in witty satire principally, but also sing some and make a few costume changes. Mr. Wyer has a really splendid singing voice, which he should "let out" more. Jean Germaine has a pleasing soprano voice, which she uses effectively in a repertoire of attractive melodies. La Coste and Bonawe have one of the cleverest skits dealing with domestic life seen at the New Grand in some time. It is called "The Tamer," and any married man or married woman, or any young man or woman who expects to marry would do well to see it. The Jupiter trio would have made just as big a hit even if they had not been "Europe's foremost gymnasts," for they have a notable act on the horizontal bars and rings. The photoplay bill includes not only "The Revenge of a Fanatic," one of the "Hidden Dangers" stories, but also a Hank Mann comedy, "The Nickle-Chaser," and various short subjects.

ORPHEUM—Don't let a pressing engagement keep you from seeing Barnes and Freeman in 'A Pressing Engagement." These two justly popular funsters in this vehicle have the best melange of songs and quips that they have yet assembled and their style of putting over conversational comedy and song assures the fact that their newest offering is filled to capacity with amusement. "A Pressing Engagement" is of course light comedy. The plot is told in the three words of the title. The rest is a successful effort to amuse.

Orpheum to Produce Films.

According to reports from the West coast, the Orpheum circuit will produce films for its own showing. Pictures are gaining headway as special features over the circuit and are used extensively at the junior Orpheum theaters, such as the State Lake in Chicago. The announcement followed the visit of Martin Beck and Mort Singer to the West.

PHOTOPLAYS

NEW GARRICK — Clara Kimball Young in "For the Soul of Rafael."

ZELDA—William Russell in "The Man Who Dared."

STRAND—"Humoresque" with Alma Rubens.

NEW LYRIC—Elaine Hammerstein in "The Daughter Pays."

NEW GARRICK—A picturization of the book of the same name by one of the best-beloved as well as most famous writers of wondrously romantic stories of Old California, Marah Ellis Ryan, author of "Told in the Hills" and other great successes, "For the Soul of Rafael" brought Clara Kimball Young back to the New Garrick screen yesterday for a three-day stay. It is a tale of the Golden state in the days when chivalry and romance were at their zenith, and it is a story of love, suspense and action with a series of scenes and settings seldom excelled for beauty and artistry. The star is seen as a convent-bred girl who is pledged by her guardian to marry the latter's son, Rafael, and watch over his soul during her lifetime.

ZELDA—Have you seen William Russell in "The Man Who Dared" at the Zelda theater? The final showing will be tonight. It is the fifth picture Russell has made for William Fox and many who have seen it this week declare it is his best. He is seen as Big Jim O'Kane, boss of a lumber camp.

Viewed only as a picture of lumberjack life among the giant California redwoods, "The Man Who Dared" is a splendid spectacle; but it is much more than that. It has a gripping story of love and strife and loot. William Farnum in "Drag Harlan" will come to the Zelda Saturday.

STRAND—The loyalty and love of the women of the South during the American Civil war are admirably depicted in a new striking Paramount picturization of William Gillette's play, "Held by the Enemy," which will be shown at the Strand theater, beginning Sunday next.

The locale of the story is a Southern town newly captured by Northern troops. A young widow, who believes that her husband has been slain in battle, falls in love with a young Northern colonel, who protects her from the looters. She is about to accept his proposal of marriage, when her husband appears on spy duty. He is arrested by the colonel, and throughout the remainder of the story, the dutiful little wife makes many sacrifices in her attempts to save her husband from death. The culminating situation is one of the most dramatic ever presented on the silversheet.

The roles are enacted by an all-star cast, including Agnes Ayres, Wanda Hawley, Lewis Stone, Jack Holt, Robert Cain, Walter Hiers, Robert Brower, C. H. Geldert, Josephine Crowell and Lillian Leighton.

"Humoresque" will be shown only two more days, today and for the last times tomorrow.

NEW LYRIC—American theatergoers who revelled in "The Heart of Humanity" and capitulated to "The Right to Happiness" probably felt that Dorothy Phillips as the star and her husband, Allen Holubar, as director could never again reach such heights. In "Once to Every Woman," Dorothy Phillips' first screen role for months, which heads the new show at the New Lyric tomorrow, it is declared that they have exceeded even those successes. The popular appeal of this attraction is heightened because it deals with everyday people, and it has a theme that is old as humanity—mother love, which remains when all other loves fail. There are some immense scenes in the picture, one of them the Metropolitan opera house in New York during the presentation of an opera, more than 2,000 people being seen in the audience and on the stage. The big double bill including Elaine Hammerstein in "The Daughter Pays," and Bobby Vernon in his latest Christie comedy special, "Going Through the Rye," will be shown for the last times tonight.

GREAT DEMAND FOR TECHNICAL TRAINING

New York, Nov. 12.—The greatest demand ever witnessed in this country for technical training is now the final postwar phenomenon, according to the Knights of Columbus. William J. McGinley of New York, supreme secretary of the K. of C. and director of their educational organization, states that the requests made on the Knights for admission to their free night schools for former service men are more than double the number received last year.

"We have had to open up thirty new schools within three months," he stated, "we are accommodating approximately 60,000 former service men in these schools, and we shall have to open more schools under the auspices of the K. of C. councils in order to care for the men who desire technical training."

BARBER WINS FREE BURIAL ELECTION BET

Helena, Mont., Nov. 12.—As the result of an election bet, a barber here will be buried free of charge by a local undertaker.

The undertaker bet on the Democratic candidate for president and the barber on the Republican. If the barber lost he was to shave the undertaker free of charge for the remainder of his life. The undertaker offered to bury the barber any time he wished the job completed, but it was stipulated that the funeral should not be held until the barber had been pronounced dead by a physician.

A RICH MAN'S DAUGHTER BUT A POOR MAN'S WIFE.

"I wrestled with my books; her task was harder far than mine—
'Twas how to make two hundred dollars do the work of nine."
—From "Hannah Jane."

"A rich man's daughter but a poor man's wife."—This is the interesting way a recent letter from a letter friend is signed.

Doesn't it open up a story for you, an interesting and yet not uncommon story, the struggle for readjustment of the girl who after marriage finds herself obliged to run a house on no more, or perhaps less, than she formerly had for her clothes?

I call it a not uncommon story despite the fact that rich men are not exactly common, even in this land of opportunity, because when the daughter of even moderately well-off people marries a man who is just getting his start, she usually has to face a pretty sharp readjustment.

A Home for Three on a Clothes Allowance.

If you have read Cornelia Stratton Parker's beautiful story of her married life, you probably remember that she says she found herself faced with the necessity of running a home for three on less than her college clothes allowance.

And then again the woman who has been successfully earning her own living and who marries a man who, while he may have fine prospects, may not be making a cent more than she was—think of the problem she has to face in this new manner of living! She must not only take on entirely new duties, train her mind to concentrate on the keeping of house instead of following the channels it has been used to, but she must learn to think in an entirely different financial key. She must learn to watch the dimes and nickels and pennies sharply; she must hesitate before she stops downtown for lunch or drops into the movies; she must reorganize all her estimates for clothing (blessed be trousseaus that get us over those first hard years! I suppose that is their real reason for being). Where she used to think that a decent suit couldn't be bought for less than $75 she must learn to scout around for something for not more than $35, and so on and so on.

Does the Man Realize?

I wonder if the man in whose name all this is done, always appreciates how hard it is? True, he has to make readjustments, too, but I doubt if they are often as sharp. "A rich man's son but a poor woman's husband" wouldn't mean the same change of condition that the opposite means. And in the case where two earning powers are amalgamated into one, it is apt to be the woman who handles the housekeeping money and that is the hardest part of the financial problem these days.

Besides, he is not combining with his financial readjustment the learning of a new business, as the woman usually is.

Marriage is an evolution in a man's life, but it is a revolution in a woman's.

More Patience and More Courage.

Here's hoping that some man who is inclined to be a little impatient because his new wife does not at once master all the angles of her new job, may see this and have a little more patience.

Also that the new wife who is having a hard time with her readjustments may not make it an excuse for self-pity, but an explanation to herself of why things come a bit hard and why she will probably find the later years of married life in many ways easier than the first.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman.

IS YOUR DINING ROOM CHEERFUL?

Of all the letters I receive from my readers asking for suggestions on the interior decoration of their homes, the majority refer to the dining room. Housekeepers seem to be waking up to the fact that it is more important to have an attractive dining room than a pleasant living room, because the room where the family gathers three times a day is bound to have an unconscious effect upon the spirits of those gathered there. A drab-colored dining room depresses one; cheerful surroundings while one is eating naturally brighten the diner and make the meal more enjoyable.

Have you ever noticed how rapidly you eat when you go into a cheap resturant for a meal—and how lingeringly you eat a meal in a hotel dining room with soft music coming from behind palms and heavy velour draperies soothing the sight? The difference is—surroundings!

I believe in bright "splashes" of color in the dining room. Let the other rooms in the house carry out a formal color scheme. But in the dining room let colors run riot! And have them ever changing. Today have a vivid dish of fruit on the sideboard. Tomorrow have a yellow bowl containing nuts on the dining table. And do not forget flowers—crowd all the plants you can about the windows.

A canary bird is a nuisance for a busy housekeeper to care for, but I would like to see one in every home, hanging in its gold cage in a sunny dining room window and singing its little heart out. There is no sweeter or more cheerful music than the trill of a canary.

Cretonnes afford another means of crowding the dining room with cheer and brightness. Today with the high cost of linens, the sensible woman makes her centerpieces, buffet runners and doilies of cretonne as well as her window over-draperies and chair cushions.

A clever woman of my acquaintance found this way to achieve the possession of a beautiful nut bowl: She took an ordinary chopping bowl, painted it a bright yellow and lacquered it. Another ingenious woman made her dining room centerpiece (for between meals) of cretonne patterned with black baskets containing flowers, then stood a real wicker basket filled with real flowers upon this centerpiece.

So we all can possess these cheer-giving accessories to a dining room if we will but use our wits.

Mrs. W. A. D.—Answer: The only thing I could suggest is dipping the hat into cold water in which gum arabic has been dissolved. Make the solution quite strong, testing its effect upon some other piece of straw before dipping the hat. If this fails, you will have to take it to a professional who blocks straw hats and have this done; then if the brim feels too stiff, you can soften it by allowing it to remain overnight in a moist atmosphere. But I would wait until next spring to do this. Like you, I believe in putting away the summer garments ready to take out and don at the end of the cold weather—free of spots and in perfect condition. But there is no use in stiffening a hat now when you intend to pack it away, for the packing will only crush it again.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES

By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

HE WISHES TO SEE THE KING.

Lady Duck played the part of a spirit all the time she was listening to the story of Mr. Wolf. She also felt very sorry for him, to think that he was left all alone. But she had quarreled with O Possum, and the king of the forest was the only one that could help her out. So she ventured to say visit the king. "Why don't you go to the great king of the forest?" she asked. "He is the one who can help you out."

"I have been afraid of the king of the forest, and every time he comes near to my home I hide from him. But do tell me, Great Spirit, can the king of the forest help me out of my trouble? Tell me quick!"

"You must tell me first why you are afraid of the king of the forest," said Lady Duck. "For the king came into the woodland to help the creatures and not to do them harm. Why are you afraid?"

Mr. Wolf was frightened even to tell why he was afraid of the king. He trembled as he looked about to see if any one of the creatures might be listening.

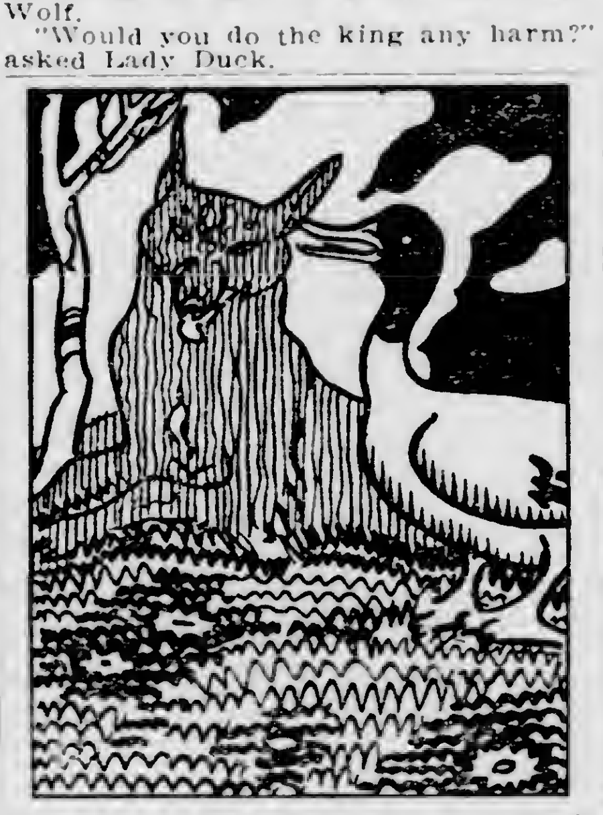
"Oh, Great Spirit," said he, "I have been so wild and done so much harm to the creatures of the forest that I am afraid to look upon the good king. And I have been afraid he would catch me and put me into a terrible place. So I hide from him every time."

Lady Duck began to see why it was that Tinker Bob wanted her to go to Mr. Wolf. Said she, "Shall I send the king to you? I know he will help you out, and if you will not harm the creatures of the forest your mate will come back to you. Shall I send the king?"

Mr. Wolf was terribly worried, for he knew that Tinker Bob knew about all of the things he had done. He had killed many of Bob White's cousins and friends, and frightened Red Fox nearly to death, and driven Dr. Coon into the top of a tree and kept him there so long that he nearly starved. With all of these things on his mind, he didn't know whether it would be safe or not to see the king.

"Will the king do me any harm if he meets me face to face?" asked Mr. Wolf.

"Would you do the king any harm?" asked Lady Duck.



He will look at your tail and talk in your ear, and see if you are old or young.

"Oh, Great Spirit, if I would touch the king of the forest, I would be willing to lay down and die," said Mr. Wolf.

"The king will feel of your nose and look at your toes and see if your teeth are sharp. Then he will look at your tail and talk in your ear, and see if you are old or young. Then he will tell you what you can do and all will be well with you."

"Then send me the king. I'll go to my cave." And Lady Duck returned to tell Tinker Bob what she had done.

FINDS DEATHS UNAVOIDABLE

Jury Says Killing of Two Kelly Lakers Could Not Be Helped.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 12.—A coroner's jury meeting at Nashwauk this morning returned a verdict that John Hurley, conductor, and C. S. Williams, brakeman, both of Kelly Lake, who were killed yesterday in a Great Northern railroad collision at Nashwauk, "met death by being crushed between a box car and caboose in a collision when a work train ran into the rear end of a freight train of empty cars, and that the accident was unavoidable." Slippery rails and a sharp curve which obstructed the view of the freight from the work train caused the accident, trainmen testified.

The remains of both men were brought to the Ryder morgue in Hibbing. Both are well known at Kelly Lake and their deaths have caused much sorrow in railroad circles. Both leave widows. The coroner's jury was made up of H. P. LaFitte, Frank Bender, J. P. Osier, A. Jaffee, E. P. Dore, W. Onles, all of Nashwauk.

Were Unloading Oil.

The freight train on which the two victims were employed was unloading oil inside the yard limits at Nashwauk, the rear cars and caboose reaching out over the River Brook ravine. Without warning the approaching engine and caboose of a work train dashed into the caboose, which, with one box car, rolled from the bridge into the ravine. The two Kelly Lake men who were in the caboose did not have a chance. Part of the caboose caught fire but water from the shallow brook soon extinguished the flames. When help arrived the two men were found dead in the wreckage, their lives having been crushed out.

E. J. Getchell of Kelly Lake was engineer of the work train and Henry Porter, fireman. Neither was hurt although their engine was more or less damaged.

VIRGINIA BOY IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leo and Thomas, ages 17 and 15 respectively, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smegel, 103 Eleventh street south, Virginia, were brought to the More hospital here in a mangled condition yesterday afternoon, the former having had his right arm severed from his body and the latter having lost his right leg, both having been run over by a railroad locomotive hauling empties on the tracks leading to the Missabe Mountain pit near the Minnewas mine, between Virginia and Eveleth. Thomas died early today.

The boys were discovered lying on the tracks about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by men working in that vicinity. Virginia police were notified and the boys were brought to Eveleth in the police ambulance. It is not known how long the boys were lying there after the accident occurred. Both boys were unconscious when found.

Physicians at the More hospital state that Leo, who lost his right arm, has regained consciousness and may recover.

EVELETHIANS WILL PROTEST TAX BOOST

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the announcement of a 50 per cent increase in the valuation of real estate in Eveleth by the state tax commission, a mass meeting of citizens has been called for this evening at the city auditorium for the purpose of making a public protest against the action.

The city council has had the matter under advisement since announcement of the increase was made and Mayor Essling declares that a fight will be waged against it, stating that it is unfair to the small property owners, and that if the tax commission is successful in putting it across, it will not only work a hardship on citizens of Eveleth, but will practically mean confiscation of property. The Eveleth Rotary club at its meeting yesterday noon expressed great resentment over the matter and will assist in anything that is done to reduce it or kill it entirely. A committee of three members of the club will work in conjunction with a committee of the city council and one from the Commercial club.

WOUNDED WOODSMAN COMMITS HARIKARI

Chisholm, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—After surviving a charge of buckshot which tore a gaping wound in his right thigh, John Hautala, age 31, died Thursday from self-inflicted knife wounds, one of which practically disemboweled him.

Hautala, who was employed at a lumber camp ten miles north of this village, left the camp last Saturday morning, according to his own story, to kill a hawk which he had seen for several days. Forcing his way through some brush and dragging the shotgun behind him the gun caught on a twig and discharged. He then rode the ten miles to town, walked into the Rood hospital and the physicians extracted nine buck shot from the wound in his thigh. He was put to bed and was reported to be well on the road to recovery.

Secures Pocketknife.

Wednesday noon Hautala showed a very mean disposition to the nurses and attendants at the hospital and shortly after 1 o'clock, while the nurse was absent from the room for a few minutes and unnoticed by any of the other three patients in the ward, Hautala secured a pocketknife and concealing his actions with the bed clothes stabbed himself in the neck, the left breast and ripped a long gash in his stomach. When the nurse returned to the room, he hurled the knife at her and then collapsed. All efforts of the physicians to save him were futile, and he died yesterday.

Although while under the influence of anaesthetic Hautala repeatedly called for his wife and two children as far as his friends of the last few years know he is a single man. He is not known to have any relatives and the remains are held at the Gillespie undertaking parlors.

EVELETH BOY KILLED BY BROTHER AGED 4

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A 12-guage shotgun, a 16-year-old boy, a 4-year-old brother and a death tell the story of a tragic accident which occurred at the Carlson addition near here yesterday.

Frank Polkovich, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Polkovich, Sr., was killed when his young brother playfully discharged a shotgun which the older lad had stood up against a chair while he was dressing to go hunting, the charge entering between the shoulders of the unfortunate boy and killing him instantly.

BULLET FIRED INTO MESABA RANGE BUS

Grand Rapids, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the sheriff's office has been working on the case, no arrests have been made in a mysterious shooting a few days ago in the Harrison location, Nashwauk, when someone fired a bullet through one of the auto busses of the Mesaba Transportation company coming here from Hibbing. The bullet, a .38-caliber, entered the center window in the back of the bus, crossed the interior at an angle and struck one of the cardboard signs near the roof. One passenger was sitting in the rear seat immediately below where the bullet entered, while another, Mr. O'Brien of Grand Rapids, was seated below where the bullet struck the angle of the roof.

The bus proceeded here, though the driver, Andrew Wickman, made a short investigation to see if he could find the person who did the shooting, but was unable to do so. Upon the arrival of the bus here the matter was reported to the office of the sheriff and an investigation started. Search of the shacks in the Harrison location where the shot was heard failed to disclose any evidence of who fired the gun.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Biting cold weather did not deter several hundred from participating in the Armistice day parade here yesterday afternoon, men and women who figured in the great war turning out to celebrate the second anniversary of the conclusion of the conflict. The following local women who served in war work braved the elements to march: Miss Eva Sorenson, overseas Red Cross worker; Elizabeth Buckbee, clerk ordinance department; Amy A. HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Advertisement.

Few objected or complained at the sudden shift from warm, comfortable weather to severe cold and few were disposed to protest when it lasted two or three days, but patience ceases to be a virtue when it is carried to extremes. A week of temperatures that continually flirt with zero is not decent, especially when we are accustomed to something else. This morning the sun rose at 7:07 o'clock and will set at 4:37 o'clock tonight, giving nine hours and thirty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Unusually high barometric pressures persist throughout the Northwest and plains states. Temperatures of zero or slightly below are the rule this morning in South Saskatchewan, Southeast Alberta and most of Montana. In general the temperature has turned somewhat colder. Areas of low barometric pressure overlying the St. Lawrence valley and the Pacific coast respectively caused snow in Eastern Canada and the lake region, and rain in North California and Oregon and snow in Nevada. The winds in the lake region are mostly westerly and moderate to fresh in force."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Minnesota and Wisconsin—Generally fair and continued cold tonight and Saturday.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature.

LOCAL FORECAST

For Duluth and vicinity: Generally fair and continued cold tonight and Saturday. Lowest temperature tonight 5 to about 10 deg. at Duluth, Superior and Two Harbors, and near zero inland and on the iron ranges. Moderate to fresh west winds.

Amen."

MME. TETRAZZINI ICEBOUND IN PRIVATE CAR; READY FOR CONCERT

MME. LUISA TETRAZZINI.

Attempting to visit Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini and her company in their private car in the Northwestern railway yards reminds one of Whittier's "Snowbound." The private car is not exactly "snowbound," but it is encircled with snow, ice, railroad tracks and other barriers to safety and Duluth proper. Although the madame has been in Duluth for several days, she has not dared to venture out upon the ice or face the cold winds. A walk of several blocks is necessary for her to get to an automobile or even a street car.

The Tetrazzini party is having a jolly time, however, despite handicaps, and while these artists are boxed up in the railway yards, they have concerts of their own. William H. Leahy, manager for Tetrazzini, says one of the most important factors in managing a great diva is to keep her happy. Tetrazzini adds much to the congenial atmosphere of the palatial home on the railway tracks, but Francesco Longo, pianist; Henri Bove, flutist, and Max Gegna, cellist, and others are doing their bit in making the stay here a happy one, for artists, after all, are but grown-up children.

Mr. Leahy is a millionaire business man, but he and his wife are so fond of Tetrazzini that he has separated himself from his own business to conduct this tour for the diva. His enthusiasm knows no bounds when he begins talking of Tetrazzini and her wonderful voice and accomplishments.

"Tetrazzini is virtually the only great artist in the world who gave up five years of her time in war work," he said. "Her interest, enthusiasm and sacrifices were so great that she was decorated by the king of Italy and also by the French government. Her decoration by the French government especially was noteworthy as she is the only woman who has received such a distinction."

Tetrazzini is proud of her service medals and they are placed among her souvenirs clasped with diamonds and rubies.

When Tetrazzini went abroad to sing for the soldiers she declared that she would not accept a penny for her work until the war ended. She even went back of the lines during some of the great battles on the Italian front and sang songs to inspire the Italian troops to drive back the Austrian invaders. Her work, more than anything else, caused thousands to remain in Venice when flight was planned.

Her final concert in Paris was a great triumph. Among her audience were President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Marshal Foch, Field Marshal Haig and scores of other famous men and women.

Tetrazzini is very unhappy to think she cannot accept invitations to sing for various societies in Duluth, but the sudden cold wave and the difficulty in getting uptown have made this impossible. She says her first duty is to sing at the concert at the Armory tomorrow night.

Francesco Longo, pianist, is something of a "card." He makes one's acquaintance instantly, as he is bubbling over with enthusiasm and good nature. You merely have to suggest that you would like to hear him play and he will execute one of his own imitations on the piano and then show you how it sounds on the phonograph. Despite the congenial relations of the party on the car he says he is lonesome. He would like to have a wife, a comfy wife, not one of the butterfly type. It is strange that a fellow of such captivating manners and personality could have escaped so long.

Tetrazzini and the other artists in the company will appear at the New Armory tomorrow night as the third number in Mrs. George S. Richards' All-Star course.

Sloan's Liniment Pain's enemy

G. H. HILL of Brattleboro, Vt., who says he never felt better in his life than he does now, although before taking Tanlac he was in such a run-down condition he wasn't able to do a day's work for three months. Says he has gained thirty pounds.

"It may sound unreasonable, but when I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 114 pounds and had not been able to work for over three months. Today I have as much strength and energy as I ever had and have actually gained 30 pounds in weight. In fact, I have never felt better in my life, and I owe the remarkable change in my condition to Tanlac and Tanlac alone.

"To tell you the truth, I don't know what would have become of me if it hadn't been for this medicine, for I had just about lost my health completely and the treatment I was taking was doing me no good. In fact, I hardly had strength enough at times to walk across the room.

"My principal trouble was indigestion, and I also suffered from catarrh and nervousness. My stomach was in such a weakened condition that I rarely ate any breakfast and had to live on a very restricted diet.

"After reading about Tanlac I decided one day to give it a trial, and it seemed to suit my case perfectly, for in only a short time I was able to go back to work. I just want to be eating all the time now, and everything—even onions and pork—agrees with me perfectly. I shall always praise Tanlac."

The above statement was made recently by G. H. Hill, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Brattleboro, Vt.

Tanlac is sold in Duluth at the W. A. Abbett drug stores under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. Also the leading druggist in every town throughout the Northwest. Wm. Isaacson, Gowan; Geo. W. Swanson, Culver; Floodwood Merc. Co., Floodwood; Wilfrid Longtin, Grand Lake, P. O. Saginaw; Fairbanks Store Co., Fairbanks; George Lestic store, McKinley.—Advertisement.

VIRGINIA CITY MAY COME BACK.

Detroit News: The Comstock Lode, once known as the richest gold mine in the world, and from which millions of dollars were taken during the height of its fame, is about to come back to its own. For years the lode was almost deserted, and Virginia City, Nev., lived along in a lethargy that included the slow crumbling of its buildings and the rotting of its sidewalks, until what was one of the most colorful, blazing, excitement-gathering towns in the United States, as well as one of the richest, became a monument to dead hopes and a mockery of its former self.

It has been discovered that thousands of tons of low grade ore now standing in giant dumps, and yet other thousands of tons resting in the mines themselves, can be made to yield as high as $10 a ton under modern methods of extraction.

KING A DOG FANATIC.

Detroit News: King Henry III of France was as near a fanatic on dogs as any man recorded in history. At one time he had 2,000 dogs in his palaces, all of them of small breeds, and classed as lap dogs. They were divided into bands of six, with a keeper for each unit. Wherever the king had a palace there was a dog room next to the royal bed chamber, and this room was furnished with silk and satin lined baskets. A courtier who invented a basket to be slung over the king's neck, like the tray of orange girls, and which would hold thirty of the pets at a time, was rewarded by the king and publicly praised.

One of Henry's greatest griefs arose each morning when he got up, over his inability to decide which dog or group of dogs would accompany him during the day. He never received a foreign minister without having two or three, or even a dozen of the dogs rolling about his feet or lolling on his lap. When the minister's words did not please him he would slyly pinch one of the pets, and in a minute all would be in an uproar so loud that it would be impossible for the angry visitor to proceed. His greatest expression of friendship consisted in bestowing a dog upon the man or woman who had pleased him, and he never gave away a dog without kissing him a number of times as if he were parting with a beloved child.

SHRINE HAS A STORY.

Detroit News: One of the pretty shrines of Japan is based on the story of a beautiful girl, and to this day Occidentals cannot figure out if the shrine was to perpetuate a tragedy or an honor. The story is that Yamatodake, one of the greatest warriors in the history of the country, halted for a night at the village of Shimodaira. He was weary of battle and strife, and sent out word to the village that he wished to be entertained by the prettiest girl there. Kemachiya was selected, and it is told how she spent the evening singing and dancing for the warrior. He went on his masterful way the next morning, leaving the little maiden to mourn his passing, and to give birth to his child in due time.

Now, the child died, as did the mother, and the village erected the shrine, and every few years it is rebuilt and made more beautiful. But what no Occidentals can discover is whether the shrine was built to remind the citizens of the militarism of the old days that trod with relentless heels on beggar and wealthy alike, and thus to pay tribute to a tragedy, or whether it was built to show that the great warrior honored the humble village by taking one of its membership to his arms.

A DIG.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I have hired a waitress who used to be with you."

"Yes. I trained that girl for seventeen years."

"So she says. The way she waits on table keeps us laughing all the time."

HELP WANTED.

American Legion Weekly: Nancy was saying her prayers.

"And please, God," she petitioned, "make Boston the capital of Vermont."

"Why, Nancy!" exclaimed her mother. "What made you say that?"

"'Cause I made it that way on my examination papers today and I want it to be right."

A HOPEFUL MAIDEN.

St. Louis Times: "Is Mr. Hansen courting you?"

"Not exactly yet. But he is approaching it step by step. When he first called he sat all the evening with the album in his lap. Next time he sat with my poodle in his lap. Next time he took my little brother in his lap. So, you see, I hope it will soon be my turn!"

THE SLEEP WALKER'S ADVANTAGE.

St. Louis Times: First Tramp—Dusty Duggins is de luckiest guy on de road.

Second Tramp—How's dat?

First Tramp—He's a somnambulist, an' does all his walkin' in his sleep. Dat leaves 'im all day to loaf aroun' an' rest in.

USUAL THING AT THE OPERA.

Yonkers Statesman: Myles—And you saw Mrs. Styles at the opera?

Fyles—Yes, she sat just in front of me.

"Covered with diamonds, as usual, I suppose?"

"No; her back was quite bare."

Over-Worked Men

The Strenuous Life We Are Living Uses Up Our Vitality Faster Than Nature Can Replace It.

To overdo anything is harmful and if continued, will wear out the strongest constitution. Overwork, worry, brain-tire, high living and dissipation waste away the most vital elements of the blood and nerves—then disease sets in. At first there is general indisposition, poor appetite, indigestion, headache and weakness, the temper irritable, the spirits depressed and the memory poor, often ending in premature decline. Chase's Blood and Nerve Tablets assist nature by building up your blood and nerve forces. They make new, rich, red blood, which gives strength to the entire system.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable.

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ-destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.—Advertisement.

START DRIVE ON RADICALS

Former Service Men Will Tear Down Red, Black and White Flags.

Bolshevists, the I. W. W. and all radicals who are advocating the overthrow of the United States government will be subjected to an organized fight in Duluth and St. Louis county by former service men. A committee of the Northwest Warriors' association is in Duluth ready to start the propaganda and drive against radicalism. These men are J. Fitzpatrick and Harold S. Adams.

Teaching of Americanism on an extensive scale will be one of the undertakings of the committee. Speakers will be scheduled to address public gatherings in all parts of the city and county and literature will be furnished and distributed to counteract the "red" literature that is given out by the agitators.

Recruit Service Men.

Headquarters will be opened in the near future in the center of the city for recruiting former service members, who will take an active part in combating the propaganda of radical soap box orators. The various parts of the city and county will be organized in the campaign. Those taking part in the campaign will be asked to sign the following pledge:

"I have served the United States of America against its external enemies in the past and still believe in the Constitution of the United States of America; and I herewith pledge myself to fight against all its internal enemies, whether they fly the white flag of pacifism, the black flag of anarchy or the red flag of Bolshevism.

"I further pledge myself to take an active part in the stamping out of the I. W. W., Socialism and any other movement that seeks to overthrow constituted government by destructive methods."

The committee's motto is taken from one of the late Theodore Roosevelt's messages to the American people. It is printed below the pledge and follows:

Adopt Roosevelt Message.

"There must be no sagging back in the fight for Americanism because the war is over. * * * Any man who says he is American, but something else also, isn't an American at all. We have room here for but one flag—the American flag—and this excludes the red flag, which symbolizes all wars against liberty and civilization, just as much as it excludes any foreign nation to which we are hostile. We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language, for we intend to see that the crucible turns out the people as Americans of American nationality and not as dwellers in a polyglot boarding house; we have room for but one soul-loyalty, and that is loyalty to the American people."

The local committee will endeavor to give lectures before various organizations, including labor unions, lodges and church organizations. One of the features of these lectures will be motion picture films entitled "Bolshevism on Trial."

Similar organized fights have been started in the Twin Cities and other cities throughout the state and nation. It is intended to teach Americanism in the home and school as well as in public places.

Big Suit and Overcoat Sale begins Saturday at the Big Duluth.

PROMPTLY REWARDED.

Edinburgh Scotsman: A few miles from Dublin there lives a worthy who can never pass the village public house without "calling in just to inquire the time."

One night recently he made up his mind to pass by. It was very hard for him to do so, and at certain intervals he stood still and said, "Stand firm resolution—stand firm."

After a hard struggle he gained a little bridge beyond the public house and, stopping again, was heard to say: "Begorra, me bould resolution, but ye did stand firm, and for that same resolution I'll go back and trate ye!"

KNEW HIS THRIFT LESSON.

Indianapolis News: The third grade was studying multiplication and some of the children were having trouble with the tables. One boy was having especially hard times, so his folks were helping him at home. One night they were questioning him, and his sister said: "Birch, if you were to go down to the store to buy nine apples and the grocer told you they were 7 cents apiece, what would you say?"

Birch answered immediately: "I'd say, 'Nothin' doin', I won't pay it.'"

FREDDY'S ALIBI.

Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph: Freddy looked into the room, saw mother was alone and advanced slowly toward her.

"Mother," he asked, "what would you do to the one who broke the flower pot in the sitting room?"

Mother looked sternly at her offspring.

"Freddy," she said, "I should give him a sound thrashing."

Freddy backed toward the door as he said: "You had better get your muscle up, because father's just broke it."

START DRIVE ON RADICALS

Former Service Men Will Tear Down Red, Black and White Flags.

Bolshevists, the I. W. W. and all radicals who are advocating the overthrow of the United States government will be subjected to an organized fight in Duluth and St. Louis county by former service men. A committee of the Northwest Warriors' association is in Duluth ready to start the propaganda and drive against radicalism. These men are J. Fitzpatrick and Harold S. Adams.

Teaching of Americanism on an extensive scale will be one of the undertakings of the committee. Speakers will be scheduled to address public gatherings in all parts of the city and county and literature will be furnished and distributed to counteract the "red" literature that is given out by the agitators.

Recruit Service Men.

Headquarters will be opened in the near future in the center of the city for recruiting former service members, who will take an active part in combating the propaganda of radical soap box orators. The various parts of the city and county will be organized in the campaign. Those taking part in the campaign will be asked to sign the following pledge:

"I have served the United States of America against its external enemies in the past and still believe in the Constitution of the United States of America, and I herewith pledge myself to fight against all its internal enemies, whether they fly the white flag of pacifism, the black flag of anarchy or the red flag of Bolshevism.

"I further pledge myself to take an active part in the stamping out of the I. W. W., Socialism and any other movement that seeks to overthrow constituted government by destructive methods."

The committee's motto is taken from one of the late Theodore Roosevelt's messages to the American people. It is printed below the pledge and follows:

Adopt Roosevelt Message.

"There must be no sagging back in the fight for Americanism because the war is over * * * Any man who says he is American, but something else also, isn't an American at all. We have room here for but one flag—the American flag—and this excludes the red flag, which symbolizes all wars against liberty and civilization, just as much as it excludes any foreign nation to which we are hostile. We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language, for we intend to see that the crucible turns out the people as Americans of American nationality and not as dwellers in a polyglot boarding house; we have room for but one soul-loyalty, and that is loyalty to the American people."

The local committee will endeavor to give lectures before various organizations, including labor unions, lodges and church organizations. One of the features of these lectures will be motion picture films entitled "Bolshevism on Trial."

Similar organized fights have been started in the Twin Cities and other cities throughout the state and nation. It is intended to teach Americanism in the home and school as well as in public places.

PROMPTLY REWARDED.

Edinburgh Scotsman: A few miles from Dublin there lives a worthy who can never pass the village public house without "calling in just to inquire the time."

One night recently he made up his mind to pass by. It was very hard for him to do so, and at certain intervals he stood still and said. "Stand firm resolution—stand firm."

After a hard struggle he gained a little bridge beyond the public house and, stopping again, was heard to say:

"Begorra, me bould resolution, but ye did stand firm, and for that same resolution I'll go back and trate ye!"

KNEW HIS THRIFT LESSON.

Indianapolis News: The third grade was studying multiplication and some of the children were having trouble with the tables. One boy was having especially hard times, so his folks were helping him at home. One night they were questioning him, and his sister said: "Birch, if you were to go down to the store to buy nine apples and the grocer told you they were 7 cents apiece, what would you say?"

Birch answered immediately: "I'd say, 'Nothin' doin', I won't pay it.'"

FREDDY'S ALIBI.

Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph: Freddy looked into the room, saw mother was alone and advanced slowly toward her.

"Mother," he asked, "what would you do to the one who broke the flower pot in the sitting room?"

Mother looked sternly at her offspring.

"Freddy," she said, "I should give him a sound thrashing."

Freddy backed toward the door as he said: "You had better get your muscle up, because father's just broke it."

HIGH COURT AFFIRMS CASE

Damage Decision Here Approved by State Supreme Court.

In a decision handed down today at St. Paul, the Minnesota supreme court affirms a verdict in favor of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company as defendant in a wrongful death action for $35,000 brought by Christina C. Brown, as administratrix of the estate of her husband, John A. Brown. The case was tried before Judge Cant last year and after the plaintiff was refused a new trial an appeal was taken to the supreme court. The higher tribunal affirms Judge Cant.

Brown was a locomotive engineer on a South Shore passenger train from Marquette to St. Ignace, Mich. On the morning of Feb. 7, 1919, the train passed the small station of Seney, Mich., where there was an old coal loading platform. The edge of the platform was about two inches higher than the window sill of the cab, along side of which is the engineer's seat. The clearance between this sill and the edge of the platform was about sixteen or seventeen inches.

On the morning in question the trained stopped at the station. The loading platform was some 600 feet further east. As the train started up Brown was seen leaning out of the cab looking straight ahead, but when within a short distance of the platform it was noticed that he turned his head down and back, presumably to watch the operation of the injector, which had given trouble that morning. He leaned out so far and so low that the corner of the platform struck his head back of the left ear. Death followed shortly. In the suit brought by the widow, negligence was charged against the company. The jury after three hours brought in a verdict for the company. Thomas S. Wood and G. A. E. Finlayson, both of Duluth, appeared as attorneys for the company.

In the case of Kelley-How-Thomson against the Merritt Development company appealed from St Louis county, the supreme court today held that a complaint upon an account stated is held sufficient as against objections made for the first time at the trial and that failure to serve a bill of particulars does not defeat a recovery upon an account stated where the only defense is a general denial. The case involved a suit to recover $597.49 and the action of the St. Louis county court in directing a verdict was affirmed by the supreme court.

JEWS ARE GOING TO PALESTINE

Vienna, Oct. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Emigration of Jews to Palestine is increasing rapidly in Central and Eastern Europe, and the new Palestine immigration regulations would allow of a controlled immigration of about 17,000 Zionists of the pioneer class during the coming year, said S. Landmann, secretary of the Zionist organization, in an interview.

Mr. Landmann, who is now in Vienna on a special mission in connection with Jewish emigrants to Palestine, said the selection of the emigrants is being made by the Zionist organization which has established Palestine offices in the important Jewish centers. Preference is given to young people, strong in body and determined in spirit, who have had actual experience in agriculture or other manual work and who know Hebrew.

Several thousands of such pioneers—known by the Hebrew name of Chalitzim—have already left and others are waiting in the large centers until proper arrangements for their transport can be made and until new openings for employment in Palestine are reported.

One of the features of the pioneer movement is that it includes a fair proportion of girls of well-to-do families who have decided to devote their lives to the new Palestine. They act as land girls and take care of the domestic arrangements in the Jewish colonies.

Duluthian to Officiate.

Crosby, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Harriett Hoover, Duluth, grand worthy matron of the Eastern Star, will be in charge of the school of instruction to be conducted here Saturday afternoon at the Armory. Mrs. Albert Humble, Crosby worthy matron, will assist. Delegations from various range towns, Brainerd and Staples are expected.

JOLT FOR PLUMBING MEASURE.

Civic Council Voices Protest: Murphy Reappointment Discussed.

The proposed plumbers' ordinance received another jolt today. The Duluth Civic Council registered a protest against its adoption and recommended that each of the delegates to the council report to his respective organization and urge that resolutions disaproving it be adopted. The council went on record as being opposed to the licensing of either master plumbers or of journeymen plumbers.

The discussion regarding the proposed ordinance brought up the subject of the city council and some of its actions. It was decided that an invitation to each of the city commissioners be extended to attend a meeting of the civic council and discuss some of the problems that the commissioners are facing. While no definite date was set, it is expected the conference will be held within the next week or two. The proposed plumbing ordinance and the question of appointing a police chief are expected to be two of the most important subjects to be discussed at the meeting.

LARGEST TOURING CAR IN WORLD IS IN PARIS

Paris, Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Complete with "cocktail bar," the largest touring motor car in the world is now in Paris, says the Daily Mail.

It was built for a Belgian millionaire to take a party game shooting in Africa and is now owned by a former naval officer, who is to use it for battlefield tourists.

The car seats fifteen persons and at night nine can sleep on spring beds with every comfort.

WILL TRY TO LAND CABLE, IS REPORT

Washington, Nov. 12.—The navy department today advised the commandant at Key West, Fla., that there was a report that another effort would be made soon to land a submarine cable from Barbadoes at Miami, Fla., without an executive permit.

The Western Union Telegraph & Cable company has sought to land a cable from Barbadoes to Miami, but the state department has withheld a decision as to granting a permit pending the conclusion of the International communications conference now in session here. Naval officers would not discuss the report that led to the instructions to the commandant at Key West.

THE SPEED DEMONS OF THE ANIMAL WORLD

New York Tribune: Two of the fastest of the smaller animals are the greyhound and the jack rabbit. The greyhound can do at the rate of thirty-two miles an hour, while his cousin, the Russian wolfhound, can beat him by five miles and has much greater powers of endurance. The greyhound, like the horse, digs in with his fore feet and uses his front legs for pulling as well as pushing with his hind legs. The jackrabbit's front legs are only crutches, but, like the antelope, he makes up for it by the power of his hind legs.

Out in Kansas a crazy jackrabbit started up beside a passenger train making forty miles an hour. The passengers crowded the platforms and the windows and whooped it up for the jack. The jack went completely insane and raced the train for miles, never losing an inch or a jump. As the train and the jack flashed past the last mile post neck and neck the jack curled up in the air in the middle of a jump and lighted squatted on his haunches and rubbed one of his forefeet over his nose. The jackrabbit is speedy, all right, but he's plumb crazy.

There is another mammal that is so fast no one has ever been able to find out how fast he is. This is the porpoise. The porpoise can do stunts in front of the fastest boat that travels the bounding wave and when he is through after several hours of clowning he flirts his tail and nonchalantly speeds beyond the horizon. The porpoise will do his tricks under the bow of a nine-knot cargo tramp or a twenty-two-knot ocean greyhound. He is like the antelope in that he sets his pace, according to the speed of the pursuer.

And let us not forget that small and hairy creature, bird, insect or beast, the honey bee. This little creature develops great speed on the Western plains. In Oklahoma there was a passenger train making the traditional forty miles an hour. It was a warm day and the windows of the cab were wide open on both sides. A honey bee flew through the cab, grazing the nose of the startled engineer, turned at right angles, flew for a dozen miles beside the engine, and then, with an intelligent hum, put on a spurt and disappeared up the line ahead of the rocking train.

AN ANCIENT ART.

Detroit News: The making of glass is an art so old that it is impossible to trace its beginning. In the British museum is an amulet in the shape of a lion's head upon which are hieroglyphics giving the date 3064 B. C. In the Metropolitan museum, in New York, are beads and ornaments which were made centuries before the birth of Christ, showing most exquisite color and in some cases rare design.

John La Farge, who has designed many of the finest glass memorial windows and altar pieces in America, was honored for his work all over the world. France honored him with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. Since his death no one has yet risen who has worked in glass with his skill and artistic feeling.

Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph: Two men were standing outside a jewelry store. They were criticizing the gorgeous display of glittering gems Presently one of them, pointing to an object on a red plush tray, said:

"Just look at that scarfpin, representing a fly. Anyone can tell that's not real."

"Of course," answered his friend. "Whoever saw a fly with such bright wings? I suppose the man who produced that fondly hoped that someone would buy it to take a rise out of his friends."

At that moment the object of their scorn flew away.

MAINTAINING HIS DIGNITY.

Harper's Magazine: Even the elevator boy has to draw the line somewhere. The maid who announced to the guest waiting at the door that she didn't hear her until she had rung three times has her match in a New York apartment house elevator boy.

"If anyone calls, Louis, while I am out, tell him to wait. I shall be right back," said the woman to the elevator boy.

There was no answer.

"Did you hear me? Why don't you answer?" asked the woman angrily.

"I never answers, ma'am," he responded, wearily, "unless I doesn't hear, and then I says, 'What?'"

STILL WORKING.

Judge: Willis—This article says there have been no new Pullman cars built for the past three years.

Gillis—Well, the fellows who used to name them have been working right along inventing names for the new soft drinks.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR NEW CHURCH

Following a recent regular meeting of the members of the United Protestant church, a large number of Morgan Park residents met at the church to discuss the building of the proposed church on the site at the intersection of Fourth street and Third street north. A resolution of the building committee was adopted to the effect that the United Protestant church of Morgan Park accepts the plans of the architect's scheme "B" and that should the funds provided by the Morgan Park company fail to cover the cost of construction and equipment, the congregation agrees to assume the deficit.

Rev. Charles W. Ramshaw, pastor of the church, explained the details of the plans and called for a frank discussion of the project by those present before submitting the resolution to the meeting for its adoption. All the speakers talked enthusiastically of the project and the resolution was unanimously adopted. Several nonmembers were at the meeting and appeared to be keenly interested. The resolution was forwarded to the Morgan Park company.

Lodge to Confer Degrees.

M., will confer the third degree on a class of candidates at a special meeting tomorrow afternoon and evening in the West Duluth Masonic temple, North Central avenue. GUN CLUB TO MEET.

Probable Site Selected; Shoots to Be Held Regularly.

The Morgan Park Gun club, which was recently organized with an initial membership of thirty-five, will meet at the Morgan Park clubhouse tonight. The officers are: Oscar Simon, president; Albert Soloman, vice president; Doctor V. D. Irwin, secretary; Foster L. Blass, treasurer, and Dean Holt, field captain.

A probable site has been selected and it is expected that bi-monthly shoots will be held until the club advances in proficiency to enable it to meet the other clubs of the city when the dates of shoots will be determined by the meets. The officers of the club extend an invitation to join to all those interested in trap shooting.

New Year's Party Planned.

The Men's club of Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will give its third annual New Year's party on the evening of Jan. 1, according to plans made at its annual meeting last night. The program will be decided on within the next month. Chester Rosborough was elected president of the club. The other officers are: Charles Nichold, vice president, and Hugo W. CLUB WILL HEAR REPORTS ON COAL SUPPLY SITUATION

The West Duluth Commercial club invites the residents of that section of the city to attend the open meeting of the club tonight at 8 o'clock. A short business meeting will precede the discussion of the coal situation and the reading of the letter to committee from John F. McGee, state fuel administrator.

The letter, according to the committee, covers the present situation completely and suggests remedies in the present situation and others should they arise. A few cars of coal have been received, but unless coal is delivered in much greater quantity immediately a great deal of suffering is bound to result.

Lutheran Conference Ends.

Rev. N. J. Lockrem of Superior was re-elected president of Duluth district of the Norwegian Lutheran churches at yesterday's meeting at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Other officers-elect are: Rev. Daniel Halvorsen, Our Savior's church of West Duluth, vice president; Rev. I. Johansen, Bethesda church, secretary; and Rev. J. Hoisjeld of Two Harbors, treasurer. MORGAN PARK LADIES! RIVERSIDE

Those nice, plump, fat chickens you see running around in our back yard are the ones our customers will get for their Sunday dinner. Order early. They're sure to go fast; we kill only enough so we have none left over—fresh killed our method. We will also have nice young farm fed spring pig roast—the kind that melts in your mouth—for your Sunday dinner.

Order your THANKSGIVING turkeys, ducks and geese early, as our supply will be limited. We are buying from the same place we got those last year that brought us so many compliments from our customers.

We will have a shipment of fancy POTATOES for winter keeping coming the first of the week which we will sell at a reasonable price for cash in two bushel or more quantities.

If you are not a customer now you should try us one month and learn the quality of our goods for yourself.

HARDING AIDS RED CROSS

The President-Elect Issues First Message; Boosts Roll Call for New Year.

The Red Cross field army, which has served valiantly in the last three annual campaigns, is again being mustered into service for the fourth annual roll call.

W. A. McGonagle will again be in charge, it was announced today by J. B. Adams, head of the Duluth chapter. His immediate assistants will include C. E. Carlson, George W. Atmore, E. J. Maney, F. J. Webb and J. W. Lyder. Committees will also be organized to handle various divisions of the work.

Last year the Duluth chapter which includes five counties had 35,000 members. Fifteen thousand were in the city. It is hoped to exceed this record this year.

Teams are being appointed to canvass downtown office buildings, various wholesale and manufacturing plants and outlying sections of the city. This work will be in charge of the men.

A meeting of a woman's committee has been called for 10:30 tomorrow morning at the Kitchi Gammi club. Mrs Adams will outline the work. The women will then effect an organization to complete a canvass of the residence sections.

Two Weeks' Drive.

The drive began yesterday, Armistice day, and will end Nov. 25, Thanksgiving day. President-elect Harding's first message, made public today, is an appeal to help the Red Cross. The text of his statement follows:

"Noting that your membership roll call for this season is pending, I have wanted to express my very sincere sympathy for your cause, and my hopes that it may be forwarded by the coming campaign.

"If, in all the world, there is an organization more entitled to be regarded as doing good universally and doing nothing else at any time or any place, I do not know what it may be. It would be peculiarly a misfortune if the Red Cross, with its magnificent organization and splendid purpose of useful achievement, should lose any measure of efficiency because the special interest and enthusiasm of wartime has ceased. Your organization has been built to serve humanity, and humanity needs its services in peace just as it did in war.

"My wishes for all success go out to you."

HEROINE OF PLOCK BURIED

Funeral of Noted Member of Poland's Women's Battalion.

Warsaw, Oct. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—All Warsaw turned out for the funeral the other day of Sergeant Sophie Poukopwiez, a member of Poland's women's battalion, who was called here "the heroine of Plock." She died from wounds inflicted with a Russian sword and the "Nahajka" or Cossack's whip which she received at Plock during the drive against Warsaw. As a final tribute the American nurses who attended her in the hospital and the entire personnel of the American Red Cross in Warsaw went to her funeral.

All Warsaw knew her story, and there were many moist eyes that gazed at the plain white painted pine board coffin containing the girl-soldier, as it was borne through the streets on the shoulders of her fighting comrades, all girls from the women's battalion.

Sergeant Sophie was a veteran of Poland's great war, which in the minds of most Poles began when the world war ended in November, 1918. She was 22 years of age and was one of the original members of the women's battalion which was formed late in 1918 for the purpose of defending Lemberg against the Ukrainians. She was wounded three times, first at Lemberg, again at Vilna and last while leading her company against the Russians at Plock.

She typified the spirit of Poland today. There are 600 like her in the women's battalion. Officers in the army from Pilsudski down admit that the mere existence of this battalion exercised a wonderful effect upon the popular imagination upon recruiting and even upon the soldiers in the recent heavy fighting.

The age limits for privates in the battalion are 17 and 33. Most of the women who have joined are of humble origin, and come from semi-stagnant industrial centers such as Lodz. The economic problem has had something to do with their continued existence as soldiers but they have shown great enthusiasm and bravery. They have had many casualties.

MEXICAN LAND OWNERS TO FIGHT ARTICLE 27

Washington, Nov. 12.—Land owners in the Mexican state of Jalisco have organized to fight Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution because of its alleged confiscatory provisions, according to Mexico City newspapers. The newspapers say the leaders of the Jalisco opposition to Article 27 propose to enlist in their fight land owners throughout the republic.

Article 27, against which for three years the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France have protested, is characterized by the Jalisco land owners in a statement printed in the capital newspapers as "an alleged law of vindication" which has been merely "a law of spoliation." The effect of the operations of the article, which expropriates lands above a certain acreage held by individuals or corporations, the land owners assert, "has been to destroy little by little agrarian property, to reduce production, to spread terror among agriculturists and to paralyze all their activities."

FRESH DROP IN WHEAT PRICE

Market Breaks Sharply Under Selling Pressure; Flaxseed Again Weak.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 12.—Wheat was firmer around the close and moderate recoveries were made.

December spring closed 4¾c off at $1.67½ bid, March 4½c off at $1.69¼ bid, December winter 4¾c off at $1.66½ nominal, December durum 4c off at $1.76 and March 4c off at $1.74½ asked.

Spot rye closed 2¼c off at $1.53, December 2½c off at $1.46 asked and May 4¼c off at $1.38½ asked.

Oats closed ½c off at 45¼c for spot and barley 2c off to unchanged at 70@92c for spot.

The markets in grains appeared to have no bottom again today. Pressure was evident in all departments in the course of trading and prices receded to new low levels on the crop. December wheat broke 5c to $1.67 up till the noon hour, and March ran off 5¼c to $1.68½. December durum broke 5c to $1.75 and March 4½c to $1.74.

December rye weakened 2c to $1.46½ and May 3¾c to $1.39.

Business in oats was nominal locally with only a few samples on the tables. Prices receded slightly. Barley sold at around yesterday's basis for spot.

Receipts of wheat were light on all the markets, but Kansas City made a better showing than has been the case up till recently with 238 cars inspected. Winnipeg inspections were down to 736 cars as compared with an average day's run of over 1,000 cars up to the present this fall. Farmers in the Canadian West are reported to have cut down their grain marketings as a result of the recent heavy declines in prices.

There were on track here for the day only 191 cars of all grains, including: Spring wheat, 6 cars; durum, 90; winter, 1; oats, 5, rye, 40; barley, 30; flax, 13, and bonded spring, 6.

No export demand for wheat from any quarter was reported today. That was attributed to the weakness in exchange. Demand from Eastern millers was also almost non-existent.

Flax Still Drops.

The flaxseed market showed weakness from the start with crushers out of the game as regards buying to cover supplies needs. Weakness in linseed oil with extreme dullness in the building trade over the country was a bearish factor. Moderate recoveries were staged around the close.

November flax closed 2c off at $2.31 bid; December, 1½c off at $2.31½ bid, and May 1½c off at $2.15 bid.

At Buenos Aires, December flax opened at $1.83. At Winnipeg, November flax closed unchanged at $2.32, and December, ½c up at $2.32 bid.

R. J. Henderson, elevator operator and grain dealer at Fort William, was a visitor on the Duluth board of trade yesterday. He said that though the movement of wheat and other grains has been curtailed this season, and farmers are still holding the bulk of their season's crops, congestion during the winter months is not feared to any extent on account of the large storage capacity of the government and other elevators over the Northwest. As illustrating the disposition of Canadian farmers to hold their wheat, he mentioned that storage receipts are held by shippers for a large proportion of the wheat on store in the elevators at the Canadian Head of the Lakes. As showing the demoralization of the market in feeds, Mr. Henderson mentioned that screenings that sold a few months ago at $24 a ton, are now quoted at $10.50. So small is the margin at the present price basis that the market will not stand freight charges for shipments to any distance, and some of the elevators are finding it necessary to get rid of their screenings by burning them. Shipments by boat of screenings from Fort William to Duluth have cut off during the last few weeks through the present situation in the trade.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—General selling forced all grain today to the lowest price level since 1916. Uncertainty over the financial outlook and industrial conditions were leading bearish factors. Besides it was said definitely that the British royal commission and the Belgian government were out of the export wheat market this morning. Opening wheat quotations, which ranged from 1¼c to 3¼c lower, with December $1.78¼ to $1.79 and March $1.71 to $1.72, were followed by a material further setback and then by a rally which, however, was not well maintained.

Subsequently indications of export business with Italy had only a transient stimulating influence. The market closed nervous, 2¾c to 5c net lower, with December $1.76 to $1.77½ and March $1.69¼ to $1.69½.

Corn went lower in sympathy with wheat. After opening ⅜c to 1¾c off, including December at 75c to 75¾c, the market recovered a little and then sagged again.

Shorts covered freely, but there seemed to be no other demand. The close was unsettled, 1½c to 2¼c net lower, with December 74½c to 84⅝c and May 79¼c to 79⅜c.

Oats reflected the weakness of other cereals, although only to a relatively slight extent, starting unchanged to ¾c down, May 53⅞c to 54c and descending a little further.

Provisions were somewhat easier owing to grain weakness.

SHARP DECLINE IN UTAH STOCK

Heavy declines were recorded in mining stocks in today's market at New York as a result of selling in some quarters. A break of $2.87 in Utah to $53.62 was a feature. It later recovered 75 cents to $54.37. Anaconda sold around the close $2.50 off at $45.62; Chino, unchanged at $23.37; Great Northern Ore, 50 cents off at $31, and Inspiration, fractionally off at $39.37.

A Detroit wire said: "Willys Overland factories at Toledo which have been shut down for inventory taking, will resume Nov. 18. Several departments will get under way on that date with others following as rapidly as possible."

* * *

A New York wire said: Transue Williams Steel Forging company's plant at Alliance, Ohio, which suspended operations ten days ago, has resumed in full."

* * *

Paine, Webber & Co. wired from New York: "The market has quieted down, but there is no sign that the short interest has covered, the demand for stocks is as large as ever and some stocks are loaning at a premium, notably American Sugar. We cannot see any line of stocks hanging over the market and we feel confident that the technical position of the market foreshadows a reasonable rally. Buy the rails like Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, C. & O., and Great Northern, preferred."

LIQUIDATION VERY HEAVY

New Low Records Registered by Stocks and Closing Weak.

New York, Nov. 11.—Gains outnumbered losses at the opening of today's trading on the stock exchange, short covering resulting from the moderate rally in foreign exchange and prospects of easier money conditions. Within the first half hour, however, a sharp reversal occurred, pressure proving especially effective in the equipment, steel and shipping groups. American Car, General Electric and Bethlehem Steel fell 2 points each. Atlantic Gulf reacted 1¾ points and American International lost 1 point. Early gains in Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum and some of the investment rails were forfeited, and food and tobacco issues featured the heavy specialties.

The market was quite reactionary, shorts uncovering new features of weakness. Leather and rubber shares were under persistent pressure. Hide and leather preferred and Endicott Johnson broke 3½ to 5 points respectively and United States Rubber dropped 2 points. Atlantic Gulf lost 4 points. Royal Dutch and the Mexican Oils were irregular and sugars weakened. Temporary rallies were led by investment rails but the cheaper or speculative transportations were heavy, notably New Haven. Fresh selling before noon was attributed to disappointment at the 9 per cent opening and renewal rate for call money after yesterday's closing price of 7 per cent.

Liquidation assumed heavy proportions at midday with many new low records for the year and a new low in United States Steel for several years at 82½. Overnight losses among equipments, shippings and motor specialties, notably General Electric, United Fruit, Atlantic Gulf, American International and Kelly-Springfield Tire extended from 3½ to 10 points.

High class rails, including Pacifics and coalers were embraced in the more extensive offerings of the final hour, at losses of 2 to 5 points. The closing was weak.

Liberty Bonds: 3½s, $93.92; first 4s, $88.70 bid; second 4s, $86.98; first 4¼s, $88.92; second 4¼s, $86.80; third 4¼s, $89.18; fourth 4¼s, $87.20; Victory 3¾s, $96.02; Victory 4¾s, $96.02.

TOO SHAKY.

Washington Star: "I'm glad," said Farmer Corntossel, "that the dancing masters' association ha ddecided to go back to the old steps."

"What difference does it make to you?"

"More than you think. The shake some of the summer boarders would put into the poetry of motion was givin' this locality a terrible reputation for malaria."

COW BELL FOR HUNTER

Chicago Grain Trader Back for Hunt; Once Lost in Big Woods.

Horace Jackson, the Chicago grain broker who nearly perished from cold and starvation in the woods near Ely, Minn., four years ago, through becoming lost while on the hunt for big game, is in the city. He is undaunted by his experiences and will leave today for a two weeks' hunt in the Cramer district. This time he will be accompanied by a guide.

Fearing for his safety in the woods, Mr. Jackson's friends on the Chicago board of trade tied a large cow bell to him after he had announced that he was about to start for Duluth en route for another big game hunt. The presentation was made in the oat pit by Harry B. Shaw, who said: "We do not want you to get lost this time, and with this bell tied on there is no danger. Ring it and scare the wolves away."

"I am not going to get lost this time," said Mr. Jackson. "I intend to take a guide with me and keep close to him. I shall hunt moose and bear. It was four years ago that I was lost in the woods."

Would Not Hold Grain.

Discussing trade conditions on the Duluth board of trade yesterday, Mr. Jackson, said that he would not advise the holding of a bushel of grain with the situation as it is. "It seems to me that farmers who are holding wheat and other grains for higher prices are going to come in for a bad slap in the face later on," he said. "It must be remembered that exchange conditions and the fact that the European countries are finding themselves able to pick up supplies cheaper elsewhere, has placed bars against exports from this country. In the meantime tenant farmers and many others are being obliged to sell, and supplies from that quarter are now sufficient to take care of domestic consumption. While oats quotations have dropped heavily, I cannot see any hope for an upturn in that department. Holdings of oats by farmers are enormous, and they will find themselves compelled to accept further price cuts when they come to market them."

600 PEOPLE IN DAKOTA IN 1858

Recent Census Figures Recall Stirring Pioneer Days.

Fargo Forum: Sixty-two years ago, in 1858, the territory now known as North and South Dakota, lying between the western border of Minnesota and the Missouri and White Earth rivers was without official recognition, name or legal government, a sort of a no-man's land.

Just three years later, the first census of this territory was taken in 1861, and a population of 600 was recorded. A few had made homes in the Red River valley, mostly French Canadians or mixed bloods. H. D. Betts was appointed by Governor Williams Jaynes to take a census in 1861, and by his sworn statement made July 26, 1861, it is seen that the whole number of white males in the Red River valley on the Dakota side of the river, was 51, of whom 42 were over 21 years of age.

The number of white women was 25. The mixed bloods amounted to 264 males, and 260 females. The total population was 600.

Just a week ago the population of North Dakota was announced by the United States census bureau as 645,730.

Early History.

North Dakota was originally a part of the Louisiana purchase bought from France April 30, 1803. There was much opposition in the United States to this purchase, which included what is now the states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, parts of Wyoming, and Colorado, and the territory of Oklahoma and Indian territory.

By the act of congress, dated Dec. 7, 1812, what is now North Dakota became a part of the territory of Missouri, and to the inhabitants of the new territory was granted a limited amount of local self government. Then, on June 28, 1834, congress set off that part of land lying east of the Missouri river and west of Lakes Huron and Erie, and north of what are now the states of Illinois and Missouri. This territory was called Michigan and included what are now the states of North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan. Michigan and Wisconsin next became states, and Dakota became a part of the Territory of Iowa and in March, 1849, a part of the Territory of Minnesota.

All of that portion of the Dakotas lying west of the Missouri and White Earth rivers all this time was called the Mandan country from a powerful tribe of Indians of that name, who resided in the territory. All of this latter portion was included in the newly organized territory of Nebraska in 1851. On May 11, 1858, Minnesota was admitted into the Union as a sovereign state and its boundaries fixed as now marked, leaving all that part of what is now known as North Dakota, South Dakota without name.

First Settlement.

The first known settler in North Dakota was a French trader who settled in the neighborhood of Fort Pembina about 1780 or 1781. Maj. Long's expedition visited in the neighborhood of Pembina in 1823 and found this trader who was said to have settled there abut 1780.

The Selkirk settlers make up a chapter of what is probably the most interesting of North Dakota history. In 1811, Thomas Douglas, Earl of Selkirk, Scotland, obtained a grant of land from the Hudson Bay company, for the purpose of planting a colony of his fellow countrymen in that then wilderness. He was a wealthy kind-hearted nobleman, and the principal idea he had was to benefit the poorer class of Scotchman, evicted crofters and others by removing them to a more congenial condition. He wrote several tracts for the purpose of urging the importance of colonizing British emigrants in these distant British possessions to check their disposition to emigrate to the United States.

In the fall of 1812, the pioneers of this settlement, a small party arrived at about the confluence of Assiniboine and Red river of the North and commenced the erection of houses for themselves and for the expected colonists. The jealousy of the employes of the Northwest company was aroused. They saw in the coming of permanent settlers the downfall of the fur trade, and so disguised as Indians they drove off the settlers and induced them to go on to Pembina. The lawless coureur des bois, voyageurs bois brules, and other employes of the fur company, threatened dire disaster if they were not obeyed, and the affrighted colonists aceded.

Thrilling Chapter.

The history of these colonists, of their troubles, of their life among the Indians, of the jealousy and how they were watched not only by the employes of the Northwest Fur company, but by the Americans, forms a chapter in history fully as interesting and thrilling as the one of John Smith and the first settlement in Virginia.

The name Pembina, according to William H. Keating, a historian, comes from the Ojibway word, Anepeminanshippi, or river of the red berry. This was the name given by the Indians to the river because of the red berry that grew in such luxuriance along the banks.

The name Dakota means "land of plenty" or "many peoples," according to Girard.

Fargo Settled.

The settlement of Fargo came with the coming of the railroads into North Dakota. The history of Fargo, while it lacks the picturesque background of the Scotch lord and his colony and the Indian troubles, is nevertheless a romantic chapter in the history of North Dakota. It marks the coming of railroads, the thing that brought people and civilization to North Dakota.

In 1871, agents of the Northern Pacific railroad, whose engineers were fast approaching the Red river, sought a place on that stream where, both banks being high, the railroad could pass without the use of a drawbridge. Many people were convinced that at the point of crossing would spring up a town, which would, so they thought, be one of the great trade centers of the Northwest.

Several parties were watching closely the action of the railroad builders so at the proper time they could locate, at least part of a townsite. Among these were the Lake Superior & Puget Sound Land company, a side issue of some of the leading spirits of the Northern Pacific railroad, among which were Jacob Lowell, Jr., H. S. Back and A. McHench. James Hale represented the railroad here. Most of these people had spent the winter near the mouth of the Elm river, thinking that would be the crossing place. They waited in vain. Finally this idea was abandoned.

Finally, on the evening of July 4, 1871, the engineers of the railroad made a rush for the site of the present city of Fargo, and the Lake Superior & Puget Sound Land company's men took possession of nearly every claim in the vicinity. The land company withdrew, however, and the railroad company received title to section 6, while section 7 was divided between S. G. Roberts, A. J. Harwood, Patrick Devitt, Gordon J. Keeney and Harriet Young.

Moorhead Laid Out.

The railroad company bought the claim on the opposite side of the river and the town of Moorhead was laid out and the crossing located. There was no town platted on the west side of the river for a while, but the high price of lots on the east side drove many squatters over and before winter Fargo, in the timber, had a population of 200 or more.

The first merchant was Terrence Martin, who opened a small store in a tent that fall. It was discovered, however, that all the ground west of the river was in the Indian reservation and this fact was used by the land company for all it was worth. All people on this land were trespassers and efforts to oust them were made. Finally troops from Fort Abercrombie were called in, and all except employes of the railroad were ordered to withdraw. The mandate was never enforced, however, the government extinguishing the Indian title and throwing the reservation open to settlement.

Settlers now began to flock into the Red River valley, so that towns, cities and villages sprang up on every hand and farms, both great and small, began to develop. The population of Northern Dakota rapidly increased and at the time of the division of the territory and the admission of North Dakota into the Union it had a population of over 75,000.

THESE DANGEROUS DAYS.

London Tit-Bits: Chug-Chug! Br-r! br-r-r! Honk! Honk! Gilligil-lug-gil-lillug!

The pedestrian paused at the intersection of two busy cross streets.

He looked about. A motor car was rushing at him from one direction, a motorcycle from another, a steam truck was coming from behind, and a taxicab was speedily approaching.

Zip-zip. Zing-glug!

He looked up, and saw directly above him an airship in rapid descent.

There was but one chance. He was standing upon a manhole cover. Quickly seizing it, he lifted the lid and jumped into the hole just in time to be run over by an underground train.

An American silver dollar was recently found in a can of pickled tongue opened in Wales.

SO THEY DO.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

For the Little Ones.

ADVENTURE OF THE TEENIE WEENIES. By Wm. Donahey. Chicago: Reilly & Lee Company.

Both in stories and pictures this book offers unusual attractions to the littler ones. The heroes of the stories are the Teenie Weenies, whose children are about half an inch high and a giant among whom is four inches high. The stories are quaintly told and will surely interest those for whom they were written. The pictures, which are by the author, are admirable.

Love and Revenge.

POOR MAN'S ROCK. By Bertrand W. Sinclair. Boston: Little, Brown & Company. $1.90 net.

This entertaining story of the salmon canning industry is given its name from a rock said to lie near Vancouver island. In season the Pacific coast salmon swim in vast schools around its base seeking young herring in its surrounding shoals and kelp beds and as only rowboats may safely brave those waters, lone fisherman go there in scores for the chance of wealth. This rock gave Jack McRae, the principal character of the book, his chance and he shortly becomes a factor in the canning industry and the leader in one of two bitterly antagonistic groups determined to ruin each other. Jack's main purpose in life is to avenge himself upon a successful cannery man who was an enemy of his father's and the story largely centers around these two and the reaction upon the hero and his rather sordid purpose, of a charming girl with whom he became enamored.

Lively Days in the West.

TRAILS TO TWO MOONS. By Robert Welles Ritchie. Boston: Little, Brown & Company. $1.75 net.

Another Western story, and a good one. "Original" Bill Blunt, inspector for the cattle stockmen of Broken Horn range, while attempting to capture Zang Wheeler, the leader of a gang of cattle thieves, incurs the enmity of Hilma Ring. Hilma's father is a sheep herder, who has been killed by a man believed to be in the employ of the cattle barons, and she knows but one desire—to avenge her father's death. The deep-seated hatred between the cattle and sheep men and the gradual change of Hilma's sentiments toward "Original" provide both action and entertainment.

A Canadian Romance.

THE CONQUERING HERO. By John Murray Gibbon. New York: The John Lane Company. $2 net.

The atmosphere of outdoor life in the Canadian Northwest, the love problems of a returned soldier and the eccentricities of life among the movie actors are blended in entertaining fashion by Mr. Gibbon in this fine story. The book has two heroines, one a Polish princess who has been imported to America from Paris to act in vampire roles, and the other a pretty Scottish girl who settles alongside the soldier-hero's farm in the Canadian Rockies. These are the devil and the deep sea between which Donald McDonald, the likable young man in the story, has to walk with considerable tribulation of spirit until he finds that the devil was not as black as she was painted.

Mr. Gibbon is a writer of parts and the reader of this vigorous and attractive sketch of Canadian life is assured of a pleasant diversion.

Gold Hunting in Arctic.

A MAN TO HIS MATE. By J. Allan Dunn. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

Jim Lund, a mighty sailor with something of the primitive though with less of the sinister qualities of Jack London's "Wolf," a villainous doctor, a San Francisco newspaper man shanghaied on a sealer for a gold-hunting expedition to the Arctic, and a tigerish young woman, daughter of the ship's captain, make up the principal characters in this walloping sea story.

The trip is full of the plots and counterplots of the crafty doctor to get the best of the giant Lund, the discoverer of the island on which the gold is located, and when he is finally disposed of and the piratical crew subdued there is a spirited encounter with a Japanese gunboat. In fact there is action in every page to the last when Lund, in possession of the gold, the girl and the ship glides towards a home port, victorious. It's a good story.

Society's Innocent Age.

THE AGE OF INNOCENCE. By Edith Wharton, author of "The House of Mirth," etc. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $2 net.

Needless to say, Mrs. Wharton always writes with fine insight, with a thorough-going and penetrating grasp of her subject from atmosphere and background to human details, and with a fine and fluent style which is always in good taste. She has the power to make interesting even the most trivial thing; and to many the "society" in which she locates this story is a trivial thing which only her art can make interesting.

The story is of New York "society" in the '70s, which she calls it "age of innocence," and deals with the coming of the breath of the new day. Ellen, Countess Olenska, an American girl who had deserted a brutal Polish husband and fled under compromising circumstances with a helpful man, comes into that society, much to its unrest and confusion. A love affair grows up between her and Newland Archer, who is engaged to marry beautiful May Welland. Of course modern society would know well what to do with so trifling an affair as this, and so would the parties to it. The story mainly is of the difference between the reaction of the parties to this affair in "the age of innocence" and the reaction that would occur, inferentially, today. It is all very graphic, all very delightfully done; and Mrs. Wharton's art does make it interesting as work of literary artistry.

A Good Story Republished.

JOSSELYN'S WIFE. By Kathleen Norris. New York: Grosset & Dunlap.

This entertaining story was written by Mrs. Norris about two years ago, but is another of the titles republished by this enterprising firm in a popular-priced edition. The story concerns a charming country girl studying art in New York and how she was picked by Fate for the role of a wealthy man's wife. Happiness is hers for several years until her husband's young and attractive stepmother artfully comes between them. Coldness and indifference on the part of the young husband follow until matters are brought to a climax with a bitter quarrel between the young man and his father and the mysterious shooting of the father during the same night. After a great deal of misery for the family the murder is explained in an unusual way and the young husband cleared. Readers who find enjoyment in mystery stories will find this much better than the average.

A Vanished Bride.

LUCINDA. By Anthony Hope, author of "The Prisoner of Zenda," etc. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $2 net.

Just when everything is ready for the very fashionable London wedding of Lucinda Knyvett and Waldo Rillington, the son of Sir Paget Rillington, a famous diplomat, the bride disappears. It turns out that she has run away with Arsenio Valdez, a gay, insouciant young scamp who is at once irresistible and repellent. That starts the story, and starts it with a thrill that is not quite sustained. The rest of the story has to do with the complications that ensue, largely those of character and temperament, and with the happy way it all works out in the end. It is a pleasant story, pleasantly told.

The Coming of the Boom.

THE ROSE DAWN. By Stewart Edward White. Garden City, N. Y.: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.90 net.

This, the concluding volume of Mr. White's California trilogy, and therefore the sequel to "Gold" and "The Gray Dawn," is a picture of California in the days of the '80s when the first "boom" came. There is a fine romance running through it like a silver thread; but the predominant element is a wonderful and colorful picture of California as it is always, but more especially of California as it was in the days when the great change began to take place. The great ranchers with their picturesque but hopelessly old-fashioned methods, and how the new tide overwhelmed them one by one, are prominent in the background and the story. Story and picture are cleverly blended so that there isn't a dull page in the book.

The Double Standard.

THE BLUE ROOM. By Cosmo Hamilton, author of "Scandal," etc. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.90 net.

With sex still the leading motive, and with sexual irregularity still the leading action, Mr. Hamilton has produced a daintier work than usual, with some very engaging characterizations in it, notably those of the Mortimers, parents of the hero, who, after lives devoted largely to love affairs pursued separately with mutual complacency, have retired to reflect consciencelessly upon the fun they have had.

Bill, their son, was going his father's path when the war took him away and then sent him back resolved to drop the old ways, marry a good girl and "be a good boy." In Martha Wainright, who qualifies as the "Miss Respectable" he is looking for, is one who has long worshiped him from afar—she is much younger—and has no slightest dream of what he has been doing. The "Blue Room" of the title is taken from the Bluebeard command, "Into the blueroom thou shalt not go," and of course figuratively it means the past of a party to a marriage contract. Should young people, when they marry, especially the wife, go into the blue room of the other party's past? Anyhow, Martha innocently blundered into the blue room in this particular case, which makes the climax of the story.

CONFERENCES ON EDUCATION

Move to Get Needed Legislation to Meet the Crisis.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Twelve citizens' regional conferences on education will be held throughout the nation, according to announcement of the bureau of education, beginning with a conference for the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin, scheduled to be held in Chicago on Nov. 29, and concluding with a conference for the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut on Dec. 18.

The regional conferences announced are the outcome of the national citizens' conference on education, held in Washington in May, as this conference voted that the commissioner of education should call another similar conference late in the fall of this year for the purpose of discussing the educational situation at that time, legislative measures to be presented to the legislatures of the several states next year, and the means of continuing the fostering of such interest among the people at large and their representatives in legislative bodies as may be necessary to obtain the needed legislation.

Regional Conferences Best.

After carefully considering the matter, the commissioner of education has decided that a series of regional conferences would be more effective than one conference for the whole country could be, as this will make possible a much larger total attendance and a more practical and detailed discussion of conditions and needs and methods of meeting them in the states of the several sections.

To these conferences there have been invited governors of respective states, mayors of cities, members of chambers of commerce, Rotary clubs, boards of trade, women's organizations, patriotic and civic associations, labor unions, farmers' unions, members of state boards of education, county and city superintendents of public instruction, presidents of universities, college and normal schools, ministers, lawyers, physicians, editors, busness men, and all who are interested as citizens in the improvement of the schools, which, as citizens, they own, control, pay for, and use in the promotion of education from the standpoint of statesmanship and the public welfare.

List of Conferences.

The following regional conferences will be held:

Conference for the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Conference for the states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Iowa.

Conference for the states of Montana, Idaho and Utah.

Conference for the states of Washington and Oregon.

Conference for the states of California, Arizona and Nevada.

Conference for the states of Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

Conference for the states of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas.

Conference for the states of Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama.

Conference for the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Conference for the states of Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Conference for the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Conference for the states of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Important things to be emphasized in coming educational campaigns were set forth in a letter recently written by Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, in response to inquiries in regard to the matter. Dr. Claxton says:

Cause of the Crisis.

"The crisis in education consists essentially in this, that whereas in the past we have been able, despite low salaries paid to teachers, to obtain for the schools a constant stream of men and women, many of whom, though without definite professional preparation, have been young men and women of more than usual native ability, many of them possessed of fine culture and fairly good general scholarship. Though these have not remained long and have had no definite knowledge of the processes of teaching and little skill in applying them, still their personality and culture have been such that it has been good for boys and girls to come in contact with them. Usually quite young, they have remained in teaching for two or three or four years while waiting for the maturity necessary for success in or even admission to other professions and vocations, and frequently have taught in order to prepare themselves for other work. Hundreds of thousands of these have become successful home makers, leaders in society, engineers, lawyers, physicians, ministers, captains of industry, statesmen. To be sure there have always been many young teachers who lack this ability and culture, but there have been very many of the class just described.

Means Deterioration.

"However, under changed conditions we may not expect many of this class in the future, and unless salaries are raised and policies changed the teachers of the public schools in the future will be made up of young men and women of very mediocre ability serving in the schools for short terms, and of those of still less ability who will remain longer because they have not the energy, personality, or ability to undertake anything else. This means deterioration and disintegration of the public school system. The only salvation against it is to increase salaries to such an extent as will induce young men and women of superior ability and culture to prepare themselves for teaching, and then adopt a policy by which they may be kept in the schools after they have proven their ability and gained power and skill by experience.

"This means a large increase in the average pay of teachers. We shall need to spend two or three times as much for this purpose as we now do spend in the country at large. And this increase of expenditures must be made at a time when taxes for other purposes, national, state and local, are unusually large.

Will Be An Investment.

"The close relationship between education and wealth and wealth-producing power must be clearly shown, so that the people may understand that this expenditure for education will not constitute a burden but rather an investment through which they may be the better able to bear the other burdens of taxation.

"But no amount of money will enable us to obtain good teachers for the schools in sufficient numbers until there are means of preparing these. For this there must be more normal schools and other training schools for teachers, and they must all be much better supported than they are now. If all the persons ever graduated from any normal school or any normal school of any kind in the United States, from the establishment of the first school at Bridgewater, Mass., until now, were still living and all teaching, there would still be need of 110,000 teachers to fill the elementary schools. The normal school graduates of last spring are only sufficient to supply about 20 per cent of the teachers needed to fill the vacancies in the elementary schools this fall. We are now spending between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 for the support of normal schools. We must spend at least $75,000,000. California is somewhat better supplied with normal schools than other states. Yet a very large proportion of the young teachers of California are not normal school graduates, nor have they had equal preparation elsewhere."

MOTOR POWERED BRITISH SHIPS

New York, Nov. 12.—British ship owners and shipbuilders, according to information obtained by the Bankers' Trust company of New York through its foreign informtion department, are not only increasing the output of motor powered ships, but have begun to standardize this type of vessel.

Standardized construction is regarded as a means by which the handicap of higher building costs of motor ships as compared to steamships, may be offset. Standardization is illustrated in a Belfast yard's contract for six 14,000-ton motor cargo ships and five sister ships to carry 10,500 tons.

In the larger ships the engines are of greater power but this does not mean a different type of engine from that installed in the smaller ships. The engines are similar excepting in number of cylinders. The larger ships are being equipped with two eight-cylinder engines, while the other ships will have two six-cylinder engines.

This standardization permits of simplified, cheaper and speedier construction. Increased cargo carrying space is an advantage conceded to the motor ship which also helps to offset the higher initial building cost.

SELL PRODUCTS BY CO-OPERATION

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 12.—More than half the farmers in California sell their products through co-operative marketing associations, according to statistics being gathered by attorneys for some of these organizations.

There are about twenty-six active associations, these figures show, which in some cases, control as high as 90 per cent of their particular crop and which range in activity from mere sales agencies to organizations that pack, distribute and advertise their products and even possess lumber mills to make their own box shook.

The California Fruit Gowers' exchange, which marketed $50,000,000 of citrus fruits last year from the orchards of 11,000 members, handling 70 per cent of the California orange and lemon crop, is the patriarch of the associations. It not only sells fruit but marmalade and fruit juices as well, and through a subsidiary concern secures box shook and other packing materials.

Among the other associations, with the number of members, their volume of business last year and the proportion of the total crop they controlled, are: California Associated Raisin company, 10,000 members, $33,000,000, 85 per cent; California Prune & Apricot Growers, Inc., 10,800 members, $22,000,000, 80 per cent; California Peach Growers, Inc., 7,500 members, $10,000,000 to $12,000,000, 75 per cent; California Almond Growers' exchange, 3,578 members, $5,000,000, 80 per cent.

The Central California Poultry Producers, Inc., who sold 9,000,000 dozen eggs last year claim to be the largest single concern in the United States handling poultry products and the second largest in the world, being surpassed only by a Danish co-operative concern.

MORE NEEDED FOR NORMALS

Larger Budget Proposed by Regents of Badger Institutions.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—A building program of $1,820,000 and a salary schedule calling for $1,050,000 are to be presented by the normal school board of regents in its biennial budget estimates to the state board of public affairs, the state board of education and the legislature for approval, according to William Kittle, secretary.

The appropriation of the 1919 legislature for operation and maintenance of the nine state normal schools was $1,427,959. Great increases have been made necessary this year by higher costs of operation and by adverse conditions during the past two years, when improvements had to be tabled because of after-war conditions, Mr. Kittle said.

Three items of expense are considered in the proposed budget—capital, maintenance and organization. They are the basis from which plans have been developed.

Building is provided for under the maintenance fund. New heating plants are urged for Milwaukee and River Falls, where conditions make improvements necessary, while the plant at Platteville needs to be completed, Mr. Kittle said. The cost of these extensions would be approximately $120,000.

About $290,000 worth of land is asked for seven of the schools, those at Eau Claire, La Crosse, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Platteville, River Falls and Whitewater. The secretary said that land was urgently needed for extension. A small farm is asked for Platteville, while adjoining property is wanted about the other schools.

New training school buildings are requested for Oshkosh, River Falls and Stevens Point. These will cost approximately $950,000, or around $250,000 for each school. Model rural schools are also included in the program.

Propose New Superior Gym.

A gymnasium at Superior to cost around $300,000 is proposed together with an addition to the one already in use in Whitewater, which needs an addition to cost about $100,000, the secretary said.

One dormitory has been requested for the biennium to be built at a cost of $250,000. It has not been decided at what school this building would be placed, Mr. Kittle said, but rather the board would wait and give consideration to the school needing housing facilities most.

This building schedule is one of the largest ever presented to the legislature. It was said that all extensions proposed were urgently needed in order that the state might effectively meet the demand of students who alone will be able to solve the teacher shortage problems of the state.

Owing to inspection by the state engineer and to the need for keeping buildings in proper repair the normal board has requested $129,000 for maintenance, Mr. Kittle said.

Salary schedules are materially increased by the proposed budget. The raise amounts to $225,000 for the 350 teachers in the nine normal schools at this time. In April, 1920, the board adopted a salary schedule for teachers and librarians. The estimates for the coming biennium are based on this schedule, which provides for the increases mentioned.

Salaries of librarians, janitors and engineers have also been increased by the proposals of the normal regents. With their schedule adopted it is felt that a high teaching standard can be maintained where it would fall down otherwise.

An increase in attendance of 190 is shown in the normal schools in 1920 over the attendance for 1919. There are now 3,900 students enrolled in the nine institutions.

IS LARGEST CONCRETE ARCH IN THE WORLD

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12.—The largest concrete arch in the world—400 feet long—is under construction here. It is one of the five arches which will span the Mississippi river at Franklin avenue.

The arch, which is made of reinforced concrete, surpasses by forty-six feet a similar one in Rome, which was declared the largest in existence.

On either side of the huge span will be a 200-foot concrete arch, with a 55½-foot one at the extremities of the bridge.

The bridge, which is fifty-six feet wide, will not be completed until the summer of 1922, in the opinion of K. Oustad, general superintendent of bridge construction. It will cost approximately $600,000, he estimated.

Because of the immense weight of the huge middle arch, it is necessary to build a portion on the middle and adjoining spans at the same time, Mr. Oustad said, so that there will be a supporting force against the reaction of the middle span.

MAIL BOXES ON THE HAMBURG STREET CARS

Rotterdam, Oct. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Street cars in Hamburg have all been equipped with mail boxes for posting letters. Telegrams, with stamps for payment affixed, may also be deposited in them. The experiment has been a great success, a Dutch correspondent says, and other German cities are expected to adopt the plan.

Peace River Oil.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 12.—One thousand gallons an hour is the production of the oil well in the Fort Norman district, where a flow was recently struck by the Imperial Oil company. The activities of the company are still progressing and drillers are full of optimism over the prospects of locating other like wells in the Peace River district where the company is boring on its leases.

DIVIDED ON PROSPECT OF TROUBLE WITH IMPURE WATER

City Commissioners Discuss Herald's Suggestion for Investigation and Report of Water and Sewer Conditions.

While all the city commissioners are in favor of constructing an intercepting sewer to protect the water supply of the city, some of them are of the opinion that this is not the entire reason for any impurities which may exist in the water, but are agreed that a thorough investigation and report on the water supply, sewage disposal and the future relation between the two should be made, as suggested by The Herald Wednesday. All are of the opinion that the present condition is not dangerous and there is no occasion for alarm, but all are also united in saying that something would have to be done soon as a matter of protection and that it is not too early to start laying plans for the construction of an intercepting sewer.

Mayor Hugo does not believe all contamination can be attributed to the sewage or typhoid epidemics to the water supply in the lake.

"I do not go as far as the mild suggestion of The Herald as to the danger," said Mayor Hugo. "As, besides the lake supply of water, a number of wells in the outlying districts are as much a menace in starting a typhoid epidemic as the lake. Even strangers come to the city carrying the germs of this disease and cause considerable havoc occasionally. One of the most serious epidemics that I know of came from the seepage of water through a high ridge into the water supply. The lake is not the only thing that is to be considered, as the few cases cited cannot all be attributed to the lake. I am not minimizing the danger and am very much in favor of taking steps while there is time, but an intercepting sewer is not the only thing that has to be considered. It is a question of a general drive against insanitation, and unless this is done an intercepting sewer will not relieve the situation entirely."

Murnian Likes Suggestion.

Commissioner Murnian, in speaking of the suggestion of The Herald, expressed himself as follows:

"The suggestion of The Herald is well founded and should be brought to the attention of the people as it is something everyone should be interested in. It is a question that will have to be considered in all seriousness; if not now, then in the near future. There is no question but that an intercepting sewer is the only way to relieve the impurities and should be constructed as soon as the city of Duluth can determine where the money is to come from."

Commissioner J. A. Farrell questioned the correctness of the assumption that all the impurities which the water supply contains or has contained, comes from the sewage.

"There is no danger now, but the city must take steps as soon as possible to prepare for the time when there will be danger," said Mr. Farrell. "That time is coming sure, as already the whole chain of lakes are more or less contaminated. Eight years ago there was no chlorine used in the water and now there are between sixteen and eighteen units being used as a precaution. There is no doubt but that the sewage should be diverted or treated through an intercepting sewer but whether or not this is the cause of the contamination, I am not sure.

Contributing Causes.

"I do not believe this has caused all the trouble. This has occurred to me: it was just eight years ago that the Great Northern Power company started building its dams, flooding vast areas and covered large tracts of vegetation. This vegetation is decaying and being carried down the streams into the lake. Anyone visiting the dams of the company will not hesitate to say that the sight of this decaying matter is not pleasant to see. Whether this decayed matter is purified before it reaches the intake pipes of the water supply or not is a question. It is seven miles from the bay to the intake pipes and it is claimed that the water would be purified in that distance. But it remains, however, that the swamp water carrying this decayed matter might have something to do with any impurities found.

"It is not too early to call the people's attention to what will soon become a necessity: An intercepting sewer must be constructed some day and that at no very distant time; and it is not too early to prepare for it and to outline the plans. I advocate a thorough investigation of the situation preparatory to constructing such a sewer."

Commissioner P. G. Phillips considered the question of a pure water supply is far more important than any other issue that confronts the city today. His opinion regarding the interception sewer is as follows:

Urges No Delay.

"I consider the editorial in last evening's Herald one of the most timely ever written concerning the future welfare of the people of Duluth, and in my opinion, the city must take immediate action looking towards the filtering of the city sewage. The question of tunnels, city hall, paving of streets and things of like nature should be placed in the background until after the question of the proper handling of sewage has been properly taken care of. As the editorial stated, there is no immediate danger, but the time required to bring out the plans and get in readiness to do this work will require some time."

"I do not believe that the enteric trouble experienced during September last was caused by impure water," said Commissioner Fred J. Voss. "The trouble came upon us almost at once and left just as suddenly. We did not have this trouble before nor have we had it since, and yet we are using the same water.

Voss Is Doubtful.

"As to the city polluting its water supply with its sewerage, I think we are unnecessarily alarmed. I believe it will be many years before we will be in any danger from that source. Water purifies itself after every storm. Still I would like the opinion of some expert in that line. What I do believe is that the reservoirs should be covered, or at least flushed more often than we have been doing in the past."

Dr. E. W. Fahey, director of health, did not care to comment on the water supply without further study of the question, although he was of the opinion that this step would have to be taken at no very distant date. The present water supply is good, he said, but how long this condition will last he was not ready to offer an opinion. He intimated he would have something further to say on the question later.

First in America to devote 21 kilns exclusively to making vitreous china plumbing fixtures

Our line includes every essential for a modern, health-protecting bathroom

The illustration shown above is a reproduction of a portion of a Literary Digest advertisement appearing this week.

Thomas Maddock's Sons Company, whose products we recommend and guarantee, was foremost in developing many of the principles by which the modern forms of sanitary equipment were achieved. Today, the entire output of 21 kilns—the largest single plant in America devoted exclusively to the manufacture of vitreous china ware for plumbing purposes—is insufficient to meet the demands for bathroom equipment of the quality that has characterized the products of this firm for more than half a century.

Made entirely of glistening, pure white, non-absorbent, almost unbreakable vitreous china which does not chip, crack or craze, these fixtures represent the highest ideals in modern bathroom appointments.

They are always easy to clean and are constructed so that they stay clean with a minimum of care. They are correct in design and provide the utmost in health protecting features. They give a lifetime of service without repairs and without even showing age.

We now have an unusual showing of the latest designs in this equipment ready for inspection. Come in and let us show you why Maddock fixtures are cheapest in the long run.

PEACE AND FRIENDSHIP

Policy of U. S. to Foreign Countries, Declares President-Elect Harding.

Brownsville, Tex., Nov. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Facing a border crowd in which were many citizens and several officials of the Mexican government, President-elect Harding proposed here yesterday a foreign policy directed toward peace and friendship but demanding full protection of American nationality and American citizens wherever they may go.

The address was his first prepared utterance since his election to the presidency and was delivered from a stand on the Fort Brown parade grounds. The cavalry sabers of the Fort Brown garrison rattled about him, but in a place of honor on his right was also a part of the Mexican garrison of Matamoros, paying a visit of compliment and courtesy.

In his address, devoted jointly to the significance of the Armistice day anniversary and to the country's foreign relations, he did not mention Mexico by name nor did he refer directly to the League of Nations.

"We crave fraternity," he said.

Wish Amicable Relations.

"We wish amicable relations; everywhere we offer peace and choose to promote it, but we demand our freedom and our own America. I believe an American eminent on the seas, respected in every avenue of trade, will be safer at home and greater in influence throughout the world. I like to think of an America whose citizens are ever seeking the greater development and enlarged resources and widened influence of the republic, and I like to think of a government which protects its citizens wherever they go on a lawful mission, anywhere under the shining sun."

Mr. Harding also suggested that the nation learn a lesson of preparedness from the experience of the World war, and spoke a word for waterway development.

Although primarily an Armistice day celebration, the program of addresses and the parade which preceded it were also planned as a welcome to the president-elect and as a boost for the Rio Grande deep waterways movement. The crowd came by the thousands from many of the Rio Grande cities and from across the border, and there were in the day's events many elements to emphasize both national unity and international friendship.

Elaborate Pageant.

In the parade, which included an elaborate pageant representing historical epochs and demonstrating productive possibilities of the valley, Mexican Consul Vasquez of Brownsville and American Consul Wilson of Matamoros rode together, each carrying the flag of his nation. Many other Mexican flags were in the procession.

"November eleventh has an abiding significance to America and the world. For America it sealed our capacity to defend our national rights and stamped our effectiveness in aiding to preserve the established order of world civilization. For the world it marked a new order of humanity, and for all time it warns ambition and madness for power that one man's or one people's domination of the world was never designed by God and will never be tolerated by mankind."

President-elect Harding's address follows, in part:

"The day is especially interesting to our own country because without American participation it might have been a later and different date, if, indeed, there had been an Armistice day at all. We do not claim to have won the war, but we helped mightily, and recorded undying glory to American arms and gave the world a new understanding of the American spirit and a new measure of American resources.

Selfishness Not a Trait.

"Whatever the world may have thought of us before, however incorrectly we have been appraised, the world has come to know that selfishness is not a trait of our national character, that commercialism does not engross us, that neutrality was conceived in fairness—not in fear—and that when our national rights are threatened and our nationals are sacrificed, America is resolved to defend, and ever will. We gave to humanity an example of unselfishness which it only half appraised before misunderstandings led to confusion.

"We helped to win the war, unaided and unmortgaged. We fought with the Allied powers but we were only an associated power, and were never committed, if fully aware of them, to the compacts of the alliance.

"History will record it correctly, no matter how much beautiful sentiment has beclouded our purposes in the World war. We did not fight to make the world safe for democracy, though we were its best exemplars. Nor did we fight for humanity's sake, no matter how such a cause impelled. Democracy was threatened and humanity was dying long before American indignation called for the republic's defense. But we fought for the one supreme court which inspires men to offer all for country and the flag and we fought as becomes a free America, and dropped the hatred, and stifled greed, when the victory for defense was won.

"We proved anew that here is free and ample America, which does not ask, but freely gives. We were American in name before the World war made us American in fact, not a collection of peoples, but one people, with one purpose, one confidence, one pride, one inspiration and one flag.

"We learned a lesson, too, of transcending importance. Righteousness and unfailing justice are not in themselves a guaranty of national security. We must ever be strong in peace, foremost in industry, eminent in agriculture, ample in transportation."

STATUE OF BRONZE FOR GEN. U. S. GRANT

Washington, Nov. 12.—Eighteen years in the making, a memorial to Gen. U. S. Grant is nearing completion here and probably will be unveiled before the end of the year. It is in the form of a magnificent equestrian statue of bronze, the second largest of its kind in the world, mounted on a granite pedestal and flanked on the left by a casting of a group of cavalry and on the right by a group of artillery, both groups done in bronze. Two huge lions in stone at the foot of the pedestal complete the memorial.

The equestrian figure stands sixteen feet high, weighs 10,700 pounds and cost $250,000. The memorial is located in the Botanic Gardnes at the foot of the capital and congress has approved the removal of a section of the iron fence on the east front of the gardens to admit the statue and to provide space for spectators at the unveiling ceremonies.

Authority for the creation of the memorial was given by congress on Feb. 23, 1901. The competition for the statue wa sheld in 1902 and the award was to Henry M. Shrady, a noted sculptor, of Elmsford, N. Y., whose design was selected by a jury consisting of Augustus Saint-Gaudens, Daniel Chester French, Daniel H. Burnham and Charles F. McKim. The pedestal was designed by Edward Pierce Casey of New York, associated with Mr. Shrady and was completed and put in place in 1906.

AMONG THE MAGAZINES

It has been said that the Youth's Companion, published at Boston, Mass., has had more readers per copy than any other publication in America. There is good reason to believe this to be true. But the important thing is that the influence of the paper upon its millions of readers has always been directed to building character. "East, west, home's best," has been its unuttered slogan. In its articles, editorial and otherwise, it has dwelt upon the importance of good citizenship. In all its contents it has aimed to give not only entertainment, but "stepping-stones to higher things." A year of the Youth's Companion brings a tremendous tide of delightful and diversified reading that cannot be found elsewhere. The fifty-two issues of 1921 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. The murder of the czar and his entire family was one of the most diabolical and atrocious tragedies in history. The full story is related circumstantially for the first time in this country in November Current History Magazine, with all its appalling and revolting details, and is accompanied by an intimate sketch of Yurovsky, the chief murderer. Another article of profoundest significance treats of the Vatican's re-entrance as an important factor into world politics, written by an eminent British publicist. Secretary of Agriculture Meredith contributes an important review of our greatest era in agriculture. A former official of the state department contributes an inside view which reveals the truth about "Soviet Russia and Sovietism." A British editor in Japan explains the causes of the recent Japanese financial crisis. An important contribution is furnished by an official of the Latin-American league on the subject of the American occupation of Haiti, in which valuable facts are disclosed. William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of New York, has an interesting article on the results of national prohibition. A valuable paper treats of recent revelations of the mysteries of the depths of the sea.

COURIER TO SPREAD UNITARIAN DOCTRINE

Representative of the Laymen's League Will Work Here Nov. 18-21.

Rev. Charles R. Joy of Pittsfield, Mass., one of the corps of ministerial "couriers" chosen by the Unitarian Laymen's league to visit the principal cities and towns in this country and Canada and present Unitarianism as a way of living "applied Christianity" seven days a week, is scheduled to be in Duluth Nov. 18 to 21.

Last spring the league, an organization that grew from 200 to 9,000 in little more than a year, sent thirteen ministers to 115 cities in thirty-three states and Canada in which 152 meetings were held before a total audience of 18,500 people. The combined distance traveled was 42,816 miles. On the present tour the speakers will set forth particularly the aims of the Unitarian religious and educational campaign, Nov. 11-21. Their addresses are keyed to reach the 65,000,000 in the United States who are not affiliated with any church, with the message that an irreligious nation cannot survive any longer than could business life or public schools if two-thirds of the business men or the pupils stayed at home every day except one.

Mr. Joy was educated at Harvard, Andover theological seminary and Harvard divinity school. He was ordained in Portland in January, 1913, and has held pastorates in Portland, Me., 1911 to 1915, and in Pittsfield, Mass., since November, 1919. During the war he served overseas with the Y. M. C. A.

He cured himself instead.

"Fellow Men and Women, You Don't Have To Be Cut Up, and You Don't Have To Be Tortured By Trusses."

Captain Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of the method that so quickly made him a well, strong, vigorous and happy man.

Anyone can use the same method; it's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. LARGE BANK ROLL NEEDED

Prices in Havana Declared Double Those in United States.

Havana, Nov. 12.—American women, disturbed by the mounting cost of living, ought to come to Cuba. The trip would make them satisfied with conditions at home.

Broadly speaking, prices in Havana are just about double the high mark in top notch American cities. One cause, according to dealers, is the unprecedented port congestion, apparently with little hope of early clearing, and which has resulted in the ruin of hundreds of tons of necessary products. Whatever the cause, the island is going through a period of high cost, described by papers here as more burdensome than that found elsewhere on the face of the earth.

Even here where it is produced in sufficient bulk to supply millions elsewhere, sugar retails on the Havana market around 24 cents a pound. Grape fruit going to waste a few miles from town sells at New York quotations. Financial depression, the demand for ready and available cash, and the moratorium, under which banks limit withdrawals to 10 per cent, have failed to start price reductions in the hope of unloading luxuries to meet wekly pay rolls. Until the moratorium ends Dec. 1, hotels will not permit patrons to sign bar and cafe checks, a time honored custom here. Cash is needed and a man pays when he eats.

Conditions in Havana are of little concern to the wealthy element from the states that will be coming here soon by the thousands for the winter and racing season. But for folk of ordinary means, with two weeks for recreation, a big bank roll is needed. About the lowest hotel rate is $7 a day for room and bath. And this is not at the best places, for there rates are much higher, and along toward the middle of November $7 rooms will fetch $15.

Women Hardest Hit.

Americans living in Havana pour out a tale of woe to friends from the states. The women seem to be hit the hardest. Price tags in stores selling men's wear show that a good pair of men's low shoes sosts as high a $28. The rainy season is not ended and $8 for a cotton umbrella is a "bargain." Flannel trousers are there for $25 and silk shirts for $30. A lot of odds and ends that a man needs cost more than twice the mark at home. The correspondent saw a panama hat valued at $450 and the dealer declared that sugar men pay it without blinking.

Cigarettes selling for 20 cents a package at home cost 60 here, and for a $2 box of American candy they ask $7. Two-cent American papers, 3 days old, cost 12 cents. You may get a reasonably fair suit of clothes out of stock for $100. In most cases women's shirt waists, it was explained, cost three times the home figure. The only exception in the upward trend is the straw hat, the cost of which is about on the American scale.

The only paper money in circulation here is American. The bills are so worn and utterly filthy that a man parts with them rather gladly.

Some Big Game Bag.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 12.—Morris Ackerman of Cleveland, the noted big game hunter and publisher, who has just concluded a big game hunt in the Canadian Rockies, near Jasper, says that the hunting in that region is the best the American continent offers. The bag he took back with him consisted of five grizzlies, one brown bear, one black bear, three Rocky Mountain big-horn sheep, six goats, five caribou and two moose.

Worn Out In Mind and Body

Your child is quick to observe disturbances in your mental attitude or physical condition. And when he asks: "What's the matter, Daddy?" there's a tone of solemn anxiety in his little voice. The depression stamped upon you reflects intensely upon him because of his profound solicitude. He at once drops his playthings and rushes to your side, but his happy smile has disappeared and his buoyant spirits are gone—replaced by a countenance of worry and a bearing of hopelessness.

You owe it to the happiness and welfare of your family to keep trim in body and keen in intellect. You are the sun and the inspiration of their lives. Dark, threatening clouds hover over their heads the instant you show signs of being "out of sorts" or "under the weather." Don't imperil their future by neglecting your health.

> (Signed) HERBERT HOOVER
>
> From a letter to The Literary Digest

In immediate response the following editorial was published in The Literary Digest of Oct. 30th:

WHEN JESUS CHRIST came upon the earth, nearly two thousand years ago, to save all mankind, His mere coming seemed to interfere with the material interests of a few people of that period, notably King Herod, who promptly decided to dispose of this "interloper," and sent forth his soldiers with orders to slay all the children of 2 years old and under. Thus was consummated the most atrocious crime against innocent childhood ever committed up to that time. It has come down to us through all the ages in song and story, and master painters have pictured it on marvelous canvases.

Today passing in review, as we look out through the windows of our comfortable homes in this great and happy land, are three and a half millions of helpless children, the innocent victims of the greatest war that has ever afflicted humanity. It matters not, as we gaze in the direction of these children, that our eyes must stretch across three thousand miles of ocean, we still can see them and we still can hear them, if we wish to do so; and we cannot help hearing the tragic appeal in their voices and seeing their tiny arms stretched out to us, and their searching eyes looking into our souls, as they say, "Help us, or we perish." And if we fail to listen to this great call of three and a half millions of God's helpless children; if we close our eyes and ears to this great demand of duty, we shall be just as guilty of the "slaughter of the innocents" as was Herod, nearly two thousand years ago.

In these lands, swept by death and filled with tragedies too deep for tears, a sum of human suffering is being written greater perhaps than for all ages gone by. The mind grows numb and the heart sick from a constant recital of tales of such tragedy as it is difficult to believe the twentieth century could hold.

And so, when we received a letter from Mr. Hoover telling us that America must not allow death in the form of hunger and cold to come to these 3,500,000 helpless children our soul was stirred and the hot blood surged up in our heart. We felt it was our imperative duty to use all the power God has given us to aid this noble-hearted American in continuing the work of saving human lives to which he has devoted unsparingly, and at great personal sacrifice, his tremendous energy and administrative genius during the past six years, in which time he and his American colleagues have administered two billions of dollars of relief funds from all parts of the world with a total overhead expense of only three-eighths of 1 per cent, with no remuneration to the American directors. Now he asks us all to help save the children who are in imminent danger of starvation this coming winter.

There they are, in the midst of wrecked homes, and farms, and factories; in cities crowded with masses of refugees without sustaining food for children, through the destruction of livestock; seeds for planting, raw materials, tools, and machinery gone; great areas with everything burned, or looted, or smashed; vast unemployment for workers; no means of subsistence; a land of economic ruin, of mutilated life, and lingering death; and in the midst of it all—the little children.

In long lines they are waiting at the American food kitchens. Will the food be there for them? Will they be turned away? There are no happy, healthy faces in those long lines—not one. You have seen rags and barefooted children, but never so many little boys and girls literally dressed in tatters. Soon it will be very cold, and for those bare little feet and legs and arms there is nothing at home to put on.

Hollow faces and shrunken bodies are so common that their real condition does not become evident until we inquire more closely, and then we find that most of them are from one to five years back in their growth. Children of 8 years old have not reached the normal size of 2½. They are just learning to stand alone. Others almost as old cannot yet stand on their feet. Their arms, and legs, and spines, and chests are twisted and warped. The flesh and skin are shriveled on their bones. It is surprising that life can still exist there. If they can have food they will gradually regain their health and strength, but with most of them it is a question of now or never. Starvation and tuberculosis will not wait.

In Poland alone a million five hundred thousand such children must be cared for. In Latvia and Esthonia the people are living mostly on a diet made from potato-flour, oat-flour, and sawdust. In Czecho-Slovakia, in Hungary, in Austria and in other countries of Central and Southeastern Europe, two millions more are in dire need of food; and who stops to ask regarding creed, or race, or nationality when a little child is starving? Children are just children the world over, and the great American heart is big enough to care for them all.

But the appeal now is not for all. The three and a half millions of children in immediate danger of starvation, if this organization fails, who must have food at once, are only a fraction of the total number. The hungry children of those destitute countries have been examined by competent physicians, and only those whose wasted little bodies are reduced to the minimum weight, and whose endurance of hunger has reached the end which merges into actual starvation, are admitted to the American kitchens and given one meal a day. It is hard to turn away thousands of hungry boys and girls—to hear them ask, pleadingly, "Do I weigh too much?" "Am I not thin enough?" "Can't I come any more?" But this restricting of food to the extreme cases is compulsory, because there isn't enough for all.

And these neediest ones cannot reach the kitchens through the cold winds and the snow barefooted in the pitiful rags which form only a partial covering for their bodies. They must have clothes. Each outfit consists of one pair of warm woolen stockings, one pair of boots, and a little overcoat. This one meal a day, and these boots, stockings, and little coats can be supplied only if we give them. If we do not, the slaughter of the innocents by cold and starvation will be appalling.

Among the more than two million men and women who will read this page there is not one—there cannot be a single one—whose heart will not respond gladly and eagerly to the challenge of this great need. We are asked, you with us, to co-operate with Mr. Hoover in raising twenty-three million dollars to feed and clothe these children and save them from death this winter. It can be done. It shall be done! THE LITERARY DIGEST knows its readers and the deep earnestness, the quick sympathy, the great-hearted generosity they always show when any real human need calls to them. You have never been called upon in vain. We are counting on you now with a great confidence. We know, also, how truly you represent the American spirit, which beats in the hearts of a hundred and three millions more in this big land of plenty, a spirit which leaps ready at every such call, and is never weary in well-doing. We are not a hermit nation, isolated from the world, when suffering and want cry out to us from anywhere under the sun. A great, a beautiful, and heart-sustaining hope supports these stricken people—America will come to their relief. For in the far places of the earth, where famine stalks, one name and one alone is synonymous with rescue and hope—and that name is America.

The small individual unit of ten dollars will provide the coat and boots and stockings and one meal a day for one child this winter. We urge our readers—we urge every one whose eyes are on these words—to give quickly as many of these units as possible, to buy for themselves that precious and priceless thing, the life of a little child —as many of them as they can, and every one will be a shining star in an eternal crown. It was the Divine Love of little children, who came to earth as a little child, and who reigns now as the King of Glory, who said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me." He does not forget, nor fail to reward.

So deeply do we ourselves feel the urgency of this great need, knowing all the facts, that we should feel a heavy burden of guilt if we did not go beyond anything we have felt possible heretofore in order to save these innocent children from suffering and death. Therefore, THE LITERARY DIGEST will start this fund with the sum of $25,000 to feed and clothe twenty-five hundred little boys and girls this winter. What an inspiration it will be to all of us—what an inspiration and example to many thousands who may be uncertain how much to give —if in the very first week there shall be a great shower of checks for $1,000, for $5,000, for $10,000, as well as a deluge of smaller amounts, to send the fund rolling on toward the necessary twenty-three millions. Let us all see again what the father's heart is like in this great rich land of America. Let us have again a wondrous revelation of the heart of American motherhood. Let us have a great outpouring of love and helpfulness in the name of Him who said, "Feed my lambs!"

President-Elect Harding in a Great-Hearted Response, Sets an Example for all Americans

In the midst of the flood of telegrams, telephone calls, and election returns pouring in upon him from every part of the United States, Mr. Harding turned from it all to write and dispatch the following telegram from his home:

> THE LITERARY DIGEST, NEW YORK CITY: Marion, Ohio, November 4, 1920.
>
> I have just now read your splendid appeal to the people of America in behalf of three and a half millions of unfortunate children in Central and Southeastern Europe who are the helpless victims of the Great War. Because such a movement for relief reveals the true heart of America, because it bespeaks an American desire to play a great people's part in relieving and restoring God's own children, I want to commend and support your noble undertaking. In seeking God's blessing for ourselves I am sure He will bless us the more abundantly if we share our good fortune in acts of sympathy and human fellowship. I wish you a success which will reveal anew the unselfishness of our great people. I am forwarding you my check for two thousand five hundred dollars by mail today.

THE BITTER CRY OF THE STARVING.

In response to an appeal from Herbert Hoover the Literary Digest, in an advertisement on another page of The Herald, appeals for funds to save from bitter distress and starvation the millions of hungry and naked little children of Europe who face the terrors of a winter of deprivation. Who, having plenty, can resist this appeal for this innocent and pathetic victims of the war?

In his letter to the Literary Digest Mr. Hoover said:

> We must not step aside and permit the specter of death, in the form of hunger and cold, to haunt these helpless ones this winter; yet we cannot continue without help. Our resources will be exhausted in January.

You have known that the American Relief commission, under Herbert Hoover, was battling as best it could, with the resources at its command, against the vast avalanche of misery that the war left in its wake. You must have realized that this work could not be done without money. You may or may not have wondered where the money came from, but if you have you can know that it came in part from individual Americans who have contributed to keep the work going.

But the war is two years old, and man is forgetful. Contributions have dwindled more rapidly than the need, and as Mr. Hoover says, unless more help is forthcoming, the American Relief commission must cease work for lack of funds in January—in the middle of winter.

The need is appalling. The appeal is one that cannot go unheeded. Says the Literary Digest:

> Today, passing in review as we look out through the windows of our comfortable homes in this great and happy land, are three and a half millions of helpless children, the innocent victims of the greatest war that has ever afflicted humanity. It matters not, as we gaze in the direction of these children, that our eyes must stretch across three thousand miles of ocean; we still can see and we still can hear them if we wish to do so; and we cannot help hearing the tragic appeal in their voices and seeing their arms stretched out to us and their searching eyes looking into our souls as they cry, "Help us, or we perish!"
>
> And if we fail to listen to this great call of three and a half millions of God's helpless children; if we close our eyes to this great demand of duty, we will be just as guilty of the "slaughter of the innocents" as was Herod, nearly two thousand years ago.
>
> In these lands, swept by death and filled with tragedies too deep for tears, a sum of human suffering is being written greater, perhaps, than for all ages gone by. The mind grows numb and the heart sick from a constant recital of such tragedy as it is difficult to believe the Twentieth century could hold.
>
> Children of eight years have not reached the normal size of two and a half. They are just learning to stand alone. Others almost as old cannot yet stand on their feet. Their arms, and legs, and spines, and chests are twisted and warped. The flesh and skin are shriveled on their bones. It is surprising that life can still exist there. If they can have food they will gradually regain their health and strength, but with most of them it is a question of now or never. Starvation and tuberculosis will not wait.

Ten dollars will give a naked and starving child a coat, shoes and stockings and one meal a day this winter. Give!

What difference does it make where these children live or what they are? Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant, Teuton or Slav—they are all little children, nothing but little children. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me."

Shall we say, we in our plenty, "America first"? Or shall we, out of our plenty, save those little children from suffering and death?

Contributions should be made payable to the Literary Digest Child-Feeding Fund, and mailed direct to the Literary Digest, 360 Fourth avenue, New York.

THE WORLD.

"What's the matter with the world?"

Not a thing!

The world is whatever the people living in it make of it. It is good, bad or indifferent as they will it to be, and according to the vigor of their will.

Where contentment and charity and kindness dwell, even though it be within only the narrow precincts of a single home, the world is a heaven.

The more enlightened people there are in the world who are acting unselfishly and in the interests of the common good, the better off the world will be, and the more happiness there will be in it.

The more unenlightened, narrow, selfish people there are in it, sowing seeds of hate and pain and misery by elbowing each other out of the way, the worse off the world will be, and the more pain there will be in it.

If you are enlightened, and are acting unselfishly for the common good, so far as you are concerned the world is right and sweet and sound.

And in the last analysis, we can be responsible only for our own individual part in the world's affairs, and certainly we must be sure that that part is right before we undertake to be responsible for anybody else's part in them.

> It is very unwise to declare the League dead—it would not be true. * * * In my opinion a new deal from the beginning by abandoning the Versailles treaty is impossible. To attempt it would bring chaos and a general disaster involving the United States.

A QUESTION OF GOOD FAITH.

Though Mr. Harding's position is still a little difficult to understand, the position on the League of Nations of all those whom we have learned to consider spokesmen for the Republican party whose words we can respect seems to be about this: "We are in favor of meeting the world's pathetic longing for a surcease from war by an effective association of nations to promote and protect the peace of the world."

Well, that's all anybody wanted or wants. We thought we had it in the League of Nations, but the Republicans wouldn't let us get into it. We still think that is the right measure, and we are pretty sure that on candid investigation, free from partisan prejudice—and we all ought to get free from that as quickly as ever we can—the Republicans will find that it IS the right measure. The fact that forty-three nations are in it and that it is working seems pretty strong support for that idea.

The whole issue is nothing but a question of good faith. What the world needs, and what we are sure the overwhelming majority of Americans want, is as strong an assurance as we can get that what began in 1914 and swept us into the gulf of war in 1917 won't be allowed to happen again. What they call it makes no difference. Changing its name from "league" to "association" would do no harm. Only changes making the experiment hopeless would be harmful; and if we can take responsible Republicans at their word they don't really want to do anything so catastrophic as that.

There ought never to have been any politics in this discussion, and if we will all kick politics out of it hereafter it will help vastly. If, under Republican auspices, we can get a league that will have a chance to show what organization against war can do, the rest of us can easily afford to forget the partisanship Republicans manifested in its consideration during the last year or so. If by any chance they can get together with the world and get up an association against war that promises to be even more effective than the League of Nations, God bless 'em, let 'em do it.

The Republicans, so far as America is concerned, have the whole future of this issue in their charge. It is a terrific responsibility. By this time they must be beginning to realize it, and to realize that it would be an awful thing if, in later years, America should be dragged into a war that might have been avoided by a League of Nations and people should blame the Republican party for it—as they could, in such an event, justly do.

The Republican party need not, and we believe will not, give much heed to the opponents of any league for peace, whether they are Johnsons, Borahs, Hearsts or so-called Americans shackled by the hyphen and voting as they did not because of American interests but because of the interests of other countries. They voted for Harding, but they did not elect him. They are temporary and dangerous elements in the Republican support, and Republicans have paid too great a price already for their adherence.

If the Republicans, now in power, will approach this problem as Americans and not as partisans, as they should, they ought to have all possible encouragement and help from all the rest of us.

GOOD WORK.

As everybody who saw it will agree, the potato show was a big success and an eye-opener to those not in touch with agricultural developments hereabouts. In every way it was a success, and it was the sort of success that means a great deal to Duluth and its future.

High praise is due, therefore, to those responsible for the show and its abounding success. It was conducted under the direction of the agricultural committee of the Duluth Commercial club, and the club and the committee are entitled to great credit. But above all, credit and the thanks of the community should go to William C. Sargent, the chairman of the committee, who devoted to it his characteristic tireless energy and enthusiasm, the indispensable qualities that get most things done that are worth doing.

The Crime of Being President

Editorial in the Louisville Courier-Journal

After eight years of most exacting labor, Woodrow Wilson sits broken and weary in the White House, his work reviled and his character subjected to the most venomous attacks. Is it after all a crime to be president?

The evidence indicates that it is. The man who has just been elected, promptly as he takes the inauguration oath, will become a maligned and despised figure.

The history of the presidents of the United States testifies to the starting conclusion that in the eyes of contemporaries the president is always a contemptible man, more sinning than sinned against.

The men who have reached what should be the pinnacle of honor have always been contemned and excoriated in the bitterest fashion. Their private lives have been the food and drink of scandal-mongers; their motives in performing their duties have been suspected.

Washington, revered as the father of our country, was the target of the most scurrilous attacks. Lincoln, loved of all men in 1920, was a fiend in 1865. Scorned by his own cabinet, branded as a traitor and an autocrat, he was finally murdered by "an avenger of the people."

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, impeccable in its English and lofty in its sentiment, was termed by a newspaper of that time a partisan political preachment.

The daily life of a president is that of a slave goaded by a lash. He is sought by thousands upon thousands of office-hunters, hangers-on, curious ones, cranks. Upon his shoulders is the sickening responsibility for foreign and domestic policies, aims and troubles. He is daily pressed for solutions of grave and intricate problems. He must entertain, be entertained, make speeches, pardon convicts and grant favors.

His person is surrounded by guards whose duty it is to accompany him wherever he goes. In order to be alone he must elude these men, and by doing so lays himself open to the possibility of assassination.

Mr. Wilson has lived thus for eight years. His problems in particular have been cosmic in their scope. From the moment he was elected in 1912 his fortune has been to treat the most delicate matters of state. Labor troubles, the Mexican situation, the agonizing period between 1914 and 1917, the momentous decision of April, 1917, and the arduous months in Paris at the peace conference were his lot.

When the major work was done he returned to America and found himself criticised and repudiated. The peace treaty, the fruit of the war, was rejected. Mr. Wilson's pledged word to our allies in war that we should co-operate with them in peace has not been fulfilled. During the presidential campaign he has been denounced and cursed as a wicked man.

The next president will not escape. He, too, must run the scorching gauntlet of abuse for the next four years. The crime of being president will be impressed upon him each passing day. He will be treated as a felon rather than as an honorable man.

And whether he retires quietly like George Washington, is brutally killed like Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley or must be put in an invalid's litter like Woodrow Wilson, he will realize that the honor and glory of the presidency is a fiction which is recognized only by posterity.

The Palestine of Today

Mark Twain in "The Innocents Abroad": Palestine sits in sackcloth and ashes. Over it broods the spell of a curse that has withered its fields and fettered its energies. Where Sodom and Gomorrah reared their domes and towers that solemn sea now floods the plain in whose bitter waters no living thing exists—over whose waveless surface the blistering air hangs motionless and dead—about whose borders nothing grows but weeds and scattering tufts of cane and treacherous fruit that promises refreshment to parching lips, but turns to ashes at the touch.

Nazareth is forlorn; about that ford of Jordan where the hosts of Israel entered the Promised Land with songs of rejoicing one finds only a squalid camp of fantastic Bedouins of the desert; Jericho the accursed lies a moldering ruin today, even as Joshua's miracle left it more than 3,000 years ago; Bethlehem and Bethany, in their poverty and humiliation, have nothing about them now to remind one that they once knew the high honor of the Savior's presence; the hallowed spot where the shepherds watched their flocks by night and where the angels sang "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," is untenanted by any living creature and unblessed by any feature that is pleasant to the eye.

Renowned Jerusalem itself, the statliest name in history, has lost all its ancient grandeur and is become a pauper village; the riches of Solomon are no longer there to compel the admiration of visiting Oriental queens; the wonderful temple, which was the pride and glory of Israel, is gone, and the Ottoman crescent is lifted above the spot where, on that most memorable day in the annals of the world, they reared the Holy Cross. The noted Sea of Galilee, where Roman fleets once rode at anchor and the disciples of the Savior sailed in their ships, was long ago deserted by the devotees of war and commerce, and its borders are a silent wilderness; Capernaum is a shapeless ruin; Magdala is the home of beggared Arabs; Bethsaida and Chorazin have vanished from the earth, and the "desert places" round about them, where thousands of men once listened to the Savior's voice and ate the miraculous bread, sleep in the hush of a solitude that is inhabited only by birds of prey and skulking foxes.

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON.

Time Passes

Full soon the blizzards will be popping, and hanging snow wreaths on our brows, and we'll be asked to do our shopping as early as the law allows. It seems no time since bells were ringing proclaiming Christmas peace once more, that happy time when Dad was bringing a ton of jimcracks from the store. It seems no time since old Kris Kringle propelled his flivver through the night; the echo of his sleighbells' jingle seems all around me as I write. And now we're facing Winter burly, and soon each sheet at which I glance will say, "Please do your shopping early, and give the weary clerks a chance." No doubt the children think the seasons have much like snails or turtles raced; but we old lads have sundry reasons for cussing Time's indecent haste. A summer's gone before we know it, an autumn smiles and then it's through, and e'en a highly moral poet is moved to language warm and blue. The sexton to his rope is clinging, to ring in Christmas joy and cheer; and soon the old boy will be ringing some other bells— and we won't hear. The sky is gray, the wind is surly, more desolate the landscape grows; oh, let us do our shopping early, and give the sway-backed clerks repose.

The Humorist

R. E. S. in Life.

He refers to grand opera as "grand uproar," and the word "several" is transformed by his nimble wit into "severial." When he desires to be emphatic he says "absotively" or "posilutely," and he believes that the most effective way to put a guest at ease is to invite him to "sit down and make yourself uncomfortable."

When asked what day of the week it is, he says, "This is Tuesday—all day," and when asked the time, he waggishly replies, "Same time it was yesterday at this time." He never passes up an opportunity to refer to every Ford he sees as "a rattling good car," and whenever summoned for any purpose whatsoever, he inquires, "What can I do you for?" He starts each telephone conversation with, "Guess who this is?" and concludes with "Bye-bye."

When he sees someone fall heavily in the street, he shouts pleasantly, "Hey, brother—you dropped something!" and then wonders why the object of his witticism fails to laugh so convulsively as he does himself. Every time he encounters a friend in evening dress, he says, "That is a swell dress-suit you've got there. Why don't you buy it?"

When showing down a spade flush in a poker game, he announces that "They're all pink," and when he holds a particularly good hand, he invariably asks, "Who dealt this mess?" Although he is most loquacious when shooting craps, he is not particularly convincing in simulation of negro dialect, nor is he entirely sure of the correct nicknames for the various points; he refers to five as "Li'l Joe," and eleven as "Big Dick." He is perhaps at his best in the baseball park, for there the size of his audience is limited only by the power of his vocal cords.

He always calls a mustache a "misplaced eyebrow," and a beard is referred to as "alfalfa." Whenever he gives a blind man a nickel he roguishly remarks, "Don't spend it all in one place," and each time that he arrives in a new locality, he draws a good laugh (from himself) by exclaiming, "So this is Paris."

He has a wide assortment of snappy farewell speeches, among which might be listed, "Don't take any wooden money; but if you do, let me know, and I'll split it with you," or "Don't do anything I wouldn't do," or "Well, be good—and if you can't be good, be careful."

When all other bon mots have failed, he can always introduce, on any occasion whatsoever, "Ain't nature grand?" "We don't get much money, but we do see life!" or "That's me all over, Mabel."

Scarcely a day passes that he does not have an opportunity to thank a benign Providence for his saving sense of humor.

No Need of Alarms

Forbes Magazine: Don't you recall that not so long ago the talk was all of $100 suits this fall and spring, $20 shoes, 50-cent cotton, 30-cent sugar, $3 wheat, higher prices for automobiles and, in fact, almost everything else? Well, these prices have not materialized. You can buy good suits for less than $50 instead of $100; shoes have been marked down and will probably go still lower; cotton is around 20 cents a pound instead of 50 cents; sugar is below half of 30 cents a pound; wheat has brought no $3 a bushel; automobiles have been substantially cut in price, and so have many other things.

What cost $5 can now be bought for $4, the authoritive "averages" record. In other words, the dollar, which couldn't buy even 50 cents' worth of merchandise a few months ago, can now buy considerably more than 50 cents' worth.

All this is a healthy trend.

Yet what do we find? Widespread alarm over the way things are going. Panicky talk is indulged in. Business men who ought to know better talk as if the downward movement will never end—just as they talked so confidently not long ago to the effect that rising prices would go on and on. There is a limit to every trend, every industrial, every financial, every price swing. Extremes rarely last long. Normal conditions, so to speak, are the usual, the most common, the normal thing. What has been happening is the return towards the normal. Some prices no doubt will collapse too far, in fact, some of them appear already to have dropped to unreasonably low levels.

The wise policy to pursue is to keep one's head and refuse to be stampeded by scary predictions that everything is bounding along towards perdition. The time to be ultra-conservative is at the height of a boom. The time to exercise confidence and courage is when prices become illogically low. Certain long-headed, far-sighted financiers and executives are now placing large orders for certain materials on the theory that a recovery in them will be witnessed during 1921. It is proverbial that the best time to buy is when everybody wants to sell.

This is a thought worth keeping prominently in mind during the current unsettlement and alarm.

The Voter on Election Day

The proudest now is but my peer,
  The highest not more high;
Today, of all the weary year,
  A king of men am I.
Today, alike are great and small,
  The nameless and the known;
My palace is the people's hall,
  The ballot-box my throne!

Who serves today upon the list
  Beside the served shall stand;
Alike the brown and wrinkled fist,
  The gloved and dainty hand!
The rich is level with the poor,
  The weak is strong today;
And sleekest broadcloth counts no more
  Than homespun frock of gray.

Today let pomp and vain pretence
  My stubborn right abide;
I set a plain man's common sense
  Against the pedant's pride.
Today shall simple manhood try
  The strength of gold and land;
The wide world has not wealth to buy
  The power in my right hand!

While there's a grief to seek redress,
  Or balance to adjust,
Where weighs our living manhood less
  Than Mammon's vilest dust—
While there's a right to need my vote,
  A wrong to sweep away,
Up! clouted knee and ragged coat!
  A man's a man today!

—J. G. Whittier.

Further Census Statistics

The census taker has done a good job as far as he went, but in the rush and turmoil he has necessarily had to leave a good deal undone. At great expense, however, Life's trusted minions have followed him over the country, and are accordingly able to contribute these further statistics about the 105,683,108:

100,726,836 people, finding someone ahead of them who is waiting for the elevator, nevertheless ring the bell themselves.

4,726,989 New Yorkers, in putting down a nickel for a subway or "L" ticket, say, "One."

726,535,928 people believe absolutely in the "Hours of Collection" printed on mail boxes.

827,625,333 read the captions aloud at a movie show.

999,827,827 says, "Guess who this is!" over the telephone.

726,932,888 are members of families which have fruit pictures hanging in their dining rooms.

220,738 are head waiters who ask, "How many?" when they see two persons approaching.

523 went crazy during the past year while trying to fish short spoons out of olive jars.

Health Talks

By William Brady, M. D.

Weak Eyes and Strong Eyes

Eyes which are clear and free from redness or congestion are not necessarily strong eyes in the sense of having good vision.

A great many readers ask whether boric acid solution or some other medicament applied to the eyes will "strengthen" the eyes.

Boric (formerly called boracic) acid dissolved in water freshly boiled, say about half an ounce in a pint of boiled water, makes an antiseptic and comparatively nonirritating solution for bathing the eyes or dropping in the eyes, provided there is need for an antiseptic. In many acute inflammations of the eyes or eyelids or rather the lining of the eyelids, there is need for an antiseptic and the boric acid solution may be freely and frequently applied for days or weeks in such cases, with benefit and comfort. But it is futile to apply antiseptics to the eyes over prolonged periods and, in my judgment, even boric acid solution should not be used for more than a few weeks, unless by direction of the oculist.

It is unnecessary and inadvisable to apply any drops or wash to the eye habitually or daily. If there is foreign matter in the eye or under the eyelid it may be washed out by gently pouring over the eyeball, while the eyelids are held open, a comfortably warm solution of a heaping teaspoonful of common salt in a pint of boiled water from a spoon or from a blunt medicine dropper. The purpose of the salt is simply to render the liquid about the same saltiness as the tears and hence nonirritating. Plain water smarts the eyes, whereas this "normal salt solution" does not. The salt has no medicinal virtue aside from this.

Many solutions are marketed under extravagant claims for strengthening the eyes. Then, too, there is an absurd notion that eyesight may be strengthened or the eyes may be strengthened (in appearance) by certain exercises. I am a great believer in exercise as a remedy, when exercise is intelligently employed. I can assure the reader that there can be no more valuable exercise for the eyes than reading, looking at things, and—yes, yes, looking at things easy to look at, beautiful things, I mean, natural or human, if you follow me.

In various nasal troubles, such as overgrowth or thickening of the lining of the nose or of the turbinate bodies of the nasal chambers, the eyes are likely to be red or congested. In inflammations or infections of the air spaces (sinuses) of the skull, the eyes are often affected, in looks as well as in function. A great many individuals have low grade chronic inflammations of the lining of the eyelids which cause redness of the eyes. Finally, defects of vision producing eyestrain may cause redness of the eyes. It is idle to think of "strengthening" such eyes—the individual trouble must be remedied in each case.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Eczema About the Nostrils.

Our son, aged 9 years, is troubled considerably with a kind of eczema about the edges of the nostrils. Has diet anything to do with such a condition? He eats a great deal of candy and sweets. (Mrs. W. H.)

Answer: More likely there is some abnormal condition within the nose requiring treatment. Wicks of gauze saturated with this ointment may be inserted in the nostrils at night:

Ichthyol ....1 dram
Lanolin ....4 drams
Petrolatum ....3 drams

Kidney Stones.

An X-ray examination showed that I have two stones in the left kidney. Please advise me about having an operation. Can one live with only one kidney? Is this the trouble commonly called gallstones? (Mrs. C. R.)

Answer: Stone in the kidney is very different from gallstone (stone in the gallsac). I know of no effective remedy other than operation. The kidney is not necessarily removed—the stones are removed. I know several persons who have lived and remained well for many years after removal of one kidney.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man, Dayton, Ohio.

Let my cry come near before Thee, O Lord: give me understanding according to Thy word. Let my supplication come before Thee: deliver me according to Thy word. My lips shall utter praise, when Thou hast taught me Thy statutes. My tongue shall speak of Thy word: for all Thy commandments are righteousness. Let Thine hand help me; for I have chosen Thy precepts. I have longed for Thy salvation, O Lord; and Thy law is my delight.—Ps. cxix, 169-174.

Teach me, O Lord, the way of Thy statutes; and I shall keep it unto the end. Give me understanding, and I shall keep Thy law; yea, I shall observe it with my whole heart. Make me to go in the path of Thy commandments; for therein do I delight. Incline my heart unto Thy testimonies, and not to covetousness. Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity; and quicken Thou me in Thy way. Stablish Thy word unto Thy servant, who is devoted to Thy fear. Turn away my reproach which I fear; for Thy judgments are good. Behold, I have longed after Thy precepts: quicken me in Thy righteousness.—Ps. cxix, 33-40.

Personal

Life: The campaign speaker had lavished oceans of oratorical syrup on the brave boys who fought in the ranks. "And now," he chanted, getting around to praise the officers, "let us not forget that other heroic figure; that one who, though wearing better clothes than you, was ever at your side, fighting like a mad wild-cat—yes, and making you fight like a mad wild-cat; that one who planned every detail of your duty, gave you your orders and saw that you obeyed them; that one who, in the lonely night watches, ever spurred you on in your weary march; that one who, for your good, tolerated no loafing, no disrespect; that one who—"

"Gosh," muttered Ex-Private O'Brien in an awed whisper. "That guy's a wizard. I didn't know he'd ever heard of my wife."

A Distinction

Memphis News Scimitar: The difference between a spinster and a bachelor girl is that the first thinks of marriage as something she has "missed" and the second thinks of it as something she has "escaped."

If Not Invisible

Lansing State Journal: A recent description of a society woman said she was "slender and graceful of manner." That's nothing remarkable. Some people's manners are so slender they are fairly emaciated.

Times Change

Norfolk Virginian Pilot: It used to be the ladies of the ballet that disturbed masculine equanimity; now it is the ladies of the ballot.

Contaminated

Greenville, S. C., Piedmont: A Boston paper says there is an unusual amount of dirty money in circulation. You see, there's very little of our money the profiteers have not touched.

Talk Produces No Crops

Toledo Blade: This year's enormous crops were not produced by the fellows who talked last year about going back to the soil.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Breezy Comments on Current Topics by State's Live Newspapers.

And Suffering Still Exists

Virginia Enterprise: The war created an amount of misery in the world previously undreamed of. It was so vast and sad that people could no longer ignore it. As this world suffering forced itself on the attention of people living in comfortable surroundings, there arose a new feeling of responsibility to assist people in distress wherever they were located.

The man with a heart could hardly go on living in selfish comfort or luxury in this country, if he had done nothing to help relieve those in other lands who were dying of hunger and cold. So it came about that the Red Cross has become able to raise sums of money for its noble work that previously would have been regarded as far out of reach.

Misreading the Vote

St. Cloud Journal Press: Debs behind the bars and Townley on the way, if the supreme court upholds the decision of the district court, are taking comfort in the record of a million votes each for their two Socialistic parties. They overlook the fact that the votes were doubled by the women. On the percentage basis, Debs and Townley make no better showing this year than two and four years ago, and there was a decided slump since the primary vote in June.

The Silver Lining

Hibbing Tribune: Political parties have their ups and downs. In America, particularly, public life seems to be a veritable seesaw. The party in power at any time may be sure of but one thing—that it will be ousted sooner or later. The party ousted may be fairly certain that in due time it will have its inning again. Likewise with the principles that parties represent.

Both Needed

Crookston Times: The Townley newspapers are now rushing to get [illegible] cover. Even those that had been most [illegible] in upholding the Townley brand of Socialism and in opposing the idea of co-operative marketing of farm products now admit that the taint of Socialism and the Socialistic leaders were the handicaps that brought about the disastrous defeat of the Nonpartisan league. They now advise new leaders and a new program.

Always the Other Fellow

Mankato Free Press: Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany has written a book, the closing pages of which are devoted to a defense of his own course and to placing the blame for the World war upon Britain. The former kaiser is like all other criminals—when caught they always attempt to lay the blame for their evil deeds on the other fellow.

The Only Spirit

Baudette Region: The Duluth Herald shows the true American spirit when it says: "Harding was not our candidate, but he is our president."

Knocking the Army's Friend

Brainerd Dispatch: "We must teach the American people to eat more beans," says the National Federation of Bean Growers. That was tried on the American expeditionary force, and anybody who has ever talked about it to a returned soldier knows how much good it did.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of This Date, 1900

Henry Villard, the railroad magnate and financier, died at his summer residence at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., early today. From 1858 to 1868 he was a newspaper reporter, serving as legislative correspondent in Indiana and Illinois, recording the Lincoln-Douglas debates, the Chicago convention which nominated Lincoln, the Lincoln campaign, and later as a war correspondent and a European correspondent. He married at Boston Fanny, the oldest daughter of William Lloyd Garrison. In 1871 he formed a connection with Berlin and Frankfort bankers and began his railroad career. He formed the Oregon & Transcontinental company, with which he merged the Oregon Steam Navigation company and the Oregon Railway & Navigation company in a so-called blind pool with the Northern Pacific, being chosen president of the latter company. A few years later there was a collapse, in which Mr. Villard suffered heavily. He formed new financial relations in Germany and organized the Edison General Electric company, of which he became president. In 1889 he became chairman of the Northern Pacific board of directors, but the panic of 1893 again occasioned the loss of most of his fortune and led to his withdrawal from railroad management.

Marcus Daly, mining magnate and Montana political leader, died today at the Hotel Netherland in New York. He became general manager of the Alice silver mine and later came into control of the Anaconda copper mine. At the time of his death he was president of the Amalgamated Copper company.

It is claimed on good authority that William A. Clark will be sent to the senate from Montana, but instead of succeeding himself he will be elected to succeed "Tom" Carter for the long term, while A. E. Spriggs, now lieutenant governor, will be elected as his colleague.

Louis W. Hill, first vice president of the Eastern Minnesota road, has been elected to the presidency of the road, succeeding Samuel Hill of Minneapolis.

Murdo Gibson of Hunter's Park has returned from Alaska and British Columbia, where he has been working on a new telegraph line between Dawson and Skaguay. He will return there in the spring.

Mrs. R. L. McCormick and W. L. McCormick of Hayward, Wis., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Goodman of 426 East Third street.

Herr August Palm, a Socialist labor leader from Sweden, delivered an address last evening at Columbia hall in the West end.

Sir Charles Tupper has resigned the leadership of the Conservative party in Canada and has retired to private life. He was a prominent figure in Canadian politics for forty-five years.

The Duluth high school football team defeated Ironwood by a score of 22 to 0. On Thanksgiving day there may be a game with either the St. Paul high school or the Superior normal school.

Corrigan, McKinney & Co. have acquired a mining property on the Duluth & Iron Range road near Mesaba station, securing the lease held by G. W. Wallace, James G. Vivian, D. H. Moon and Senator E. B. Hawkins for a consideration of about $450,000.

Rev. A. C. Manson, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, has returned from a trip to Europe. His health has been fully restored, and he will resume his pastorate.

DULUTH'S DRINKING WATER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The discussion which has been going on among the people of this city and in the press regarding the menace of our water supply is timely. Duluth has a reputation on the outside of having the best water in the world and many people who visit here anticipate the enjoyment of drinking it with much pleasure. For some time we have been losing our pride in the wholesomeness and purity of our water.

Now in my opinion, for a long time to come with ordinary care, there is no danger of pollution from sewage. With an intake pipe 1,500 feet from shore and seventy-five feet under the surface at its outward end there is no danger of pollution, because the trend of the current is away from that portion of the lake and sedimentation not likely to enter the pipe. But the water has been polluted, notwithstanding these facts. We have all noticed, in spite of the fact that this has not been an exceptionally warm summer, the water has been warm and insipid. The water and light department has had to increase the amount of hypochloride to a disagreeable point in order to provide us with a water free from danger.

In discussing these things the only theory which has been advanced is that regarding the sewage. Now it appears to me there are a number of factors which the sewage theory fails to reach. One of the most important points not explained by this theory is the temperature. Anybody who knows anything about Lake Superior knows that at a depth of fifty feet, to say nothing about seventy-five feet, the water scarcely ever reaches 40 deg. of temperature. We all know we have been drinking all summer water which has been in the neighborhood of 65 deg. What, then, are the deductions to be plainly arrived at from these facts?

There can be only one and that is, we are not drinking water from a distance of 1,500 feet from shore and seventy-five feet under the surface. Where then does our water come from? It is shore water which gets into the intake pipe, because every joint in that pipe, in my opinion, leaks. Some years ago when I had the honor of being head of the health department, I induced Mr. Case, then manager of the department, to have this pipe examined by a diver from end to end. I never saw the report which this diver turned in, but he told me privately that nearly all the connections in the pipe were leaking. He was ordered by the department to riprap the joints, but he said it was impossible to make them tight and that they would continue to leak. I think it is perfectly obvious that they would continue to leak and get worse. That this has taken place I have no doubt.

The danger to the public health is very menacing. To one who has been a resident of Duluth for twenty-five years the condition is fraught with fear. Twenty-five years ago we were forced to drink typhoid-bacillian soup which produced widespread epidemics. It would be impossible today for such an epidemic to occur because of our knowledge of individual immunication, but there are a number of people who would refuse to avail themselves of this opportunity to escape either because of the teachings of selfish exploiters or because of bombastic foolishness. We have only nicely recovered from the black eye the old typhoid epidemics gave the city and we sincerely hope we may never get another. There is no use locking the stable after the horse has been stolen, let us therefore lock it now. I notice the water and light department is on the eve of building quarters to house itself comfortably. Now in all probability it needs new quarters, but if we cannot afford new quarters for this department and also a new intake pipe, it would, in my estimation, be far better for the departmental employes to be a little uncomfortable for a short time longer and save the great mass of citizens from a very serious menace.

Yours sincerely, H. E. WEBSTER.

THE FINAL RECKONING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In reference to all phases and both sides of the English-Irish question, as matters have come more or less towards a final reckoning, will both sides who have been writing these letters realize that at the final bar of eternal judgment the question of hate will be asked and those who have hated their enemies—other living souls—will be passed on as anti-Christ and condemned as such?

The last words of our Savior on the cross and His teachings of "loving our enemies, blessing them that curse us, do good to them that despitefully use us" is the standard of justice in divine love that both sides will be tried by. Hate begets murder, and both are anti-Christ.

PROUD OF THE HYPHEN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I notice that in a recent issue of your esteemed paper, an American, who happens to be an Englishman working for an Irishman, in Montreal, Wis., finds fault with me on account of my love for the Isle of Green. He seems to be perplexed in soul on account of the hyphen. If I were in closer proximity to this singular individual I would be very pleased to give him a few lessons in English grammar. Some wily politician of a few years back, to suit his own ends, made such ado about this hyphen, and here comes this heroic being to echo, parrot-like, his words, and would fain have us believe that it is something that we should be ashamed of.

I am proud to think that I can honorably carry that prefix, and that before the American populace I do not have to shroud my personal and racial identity. Now, my worthy friend, I beg to assure that this little line conjoins two of the most beautiful and undying national aspirations that this materialistic old universe ever beheld. The love for Ireland, for her heroes, her poets, her saints and sages, enraptures my soul, and kindles therein a fire of enthusiasm that lifts my admiration for America above every paltry or selfish emotion, and woos the starry banner to my heart with a love beyond the power of words to convey. I cannot see how any influence that gives to my being a higher reverence for the land of my adoption can be a badge of inferiority or dishonor, or should be cast aside as a synonym of shame.

There has been a great deal of discussion lately in regard to the number of Irish in Washington's armies. Here is an answer that cannot be gainsayed. It is taken from the official English inquiry conducted by that government at the close of the Revolutionary war. Edmund Burke was examining a certain Maj. Robertson as to the complexion of the Revolutionary general's army, and here are the exact words of his reply: "Some corps are mostly native; the greatest number such as can be got. Gen. Lee has informed me that half the rebel continental army were from Ireland."

Back to the woods, Mr. American, and cultivate some sane viewpoint whereby you may cherish a love for the fighting kindly sons of Erin who made it possible for you in these days of political barbarism to live in a freeman's land.

SCHOOL SPORTSMANSHIP.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In reply to Mr. Kniffin's letter on school sportsmanship, I would like to say a few words about it myself. I agree with you, Mr. Kniffin, when you say it is no honor to beat a crippled team, but when you say a crippled team you don't mean Hancock alone, for he is not the whole team; also when you say that Hancock walked all over our team you are badly mistaken and I wish to impress upon your mind that any man on the Duluth Central team can stop Hancock from his long end runs and from his plunges. They showed that they could do it in Saturday's game, although Superior's teamwork was wonderful. It wasn't because our team couldn't stop Hancock that they won, but it was their teamwork that won it for them.

When you say Hancock made a record in football that was not equaled yet, you don't know what a wonderful game Matt Brown, Bob Kerr and Johnny Richards used to play. As for clean sports, Duluth Central is right there, and if you don't agree, tell me a school on the range that plays a cleaner game.

HALDEN MAY BE STATE AUDITOR

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 12.—Discussing the question, who will be the next state auditor, the Dispatch says: "Gossip at the state capitol says that the choice lies among four men—R. P. Chase, deputy state auditor; Matt J. Desmond, chief of accounts in the auditro's office; Otto J. Diercks, superintendent of timber, and Odin Halden of Duluth.

"All four—Chase, Desmond, Diercks and Halden—would be fitted by experience and training for the position. Chase, as deputy, has a thorough knowledge of the office. Desmond has the same knowledge. Diercks admittedly has made a good record in his department. Halden has been auditor of St. Louis county, and has held other administrative positions."

So far, Governor-elect Preus has not indicated his choice of his successor as auditor.

TABLE COSTS COMING DOWN

Vegetables and Fruits Are Lowest Priced in Several Years Just Now.

With cabbage, carrots, onions and potatoes in the vegetable list, and apples being offered at the lowest prices in years, consumers are enabled to bring down their table costs very materially. Other foodstuffs may also be obtained upon a reasonable basis so that Duluth householders have less cause for complaint than in a considerable period.

"If householders will persist in buying green vegetables that are now in the luxury class and other goods that are out of season, they must expect to find their grocery bill mounting up. They should remember that some heavy vegetables are now being quoted so low that the cost of their production is not being covered. Many other items, such as sugar, flour and coffee, have also undergone deep cuts in prices," said a Michigan street commission man yesterday.

Apple Week Possibly.

An apple week would have been put on by the commission men this month had it not been that as a result of warm weather conditions, large quantities of that fruit have been sold by outsiders from cars on the tracks, he asserted. He thought it just possible, however, that an apple week may be announced as soon as track shipments are cut off through cold weather conditions.

New York state barrel apples have been received in quantities this month, the last shipment of them for the season by boat coming to hand yesterday. The best greenings are being sold wholesale on Michigan street at $6 a barrel, Kings at $6.50, and Baldwins at $7. These, it is thought, should be retailed by grocers at $7.50 and $8.50 a barrel, allowing them a fair bargain of profit. Commission men contend that grocers would find it profitable, and would be doing the public a favor by promoting the sale of good average apples, rather than taking on limited quantities of the fancy fruit for which high prices are being asked. Dealers are of the opinion that the price of apples will remain at around their present basis for some time yet.

Quotations in oranges are high owing to supplies of old California fruit being cleaned up. The new California oranges are expected to begin to move shortly and dealers have been able to arrange for supplies to take care of the Thanksgiving trade.

Advance in Butter.

The butter market has advanced 4 cents with the best creamery quoted today at 58@62 cents wholesale. The make of the creameries over the Northwest has fallen off materially lately and Eastern demand has been heavy. Imports have fallen off during the last few weeks.

Fresh eggs are quoted at 65@68 cents a dozen wholesale and they are being found increasingly difficult to obtain. Storage eggs are up 2c at 56@58 cents a dozen wholesale.

As illustrating the extent of the declines that have come about in some of the staples, it was mentioned by a miller yesterday that family patent flour at the mill is now quoted at $9.50 a barrel, as compared with a top price of around $17 several months ago. From a top of 25 cents a pound early in the summer sugar is now being quoted at 12 cents retail. Quotations in coffee have been practically cut in two.

SIOUX INDIAN PUPIL OBJECTED TO WORKING

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 12.—Regulations of an early mission school for the Sioux Indians and "halfbreeds," which was located on the shores of Lake Harriet, Minneapolis, in 1836, forms a part of an interesting collection of manuscripts on exhibit in the manuscript room, Minnesota State Historical society building, St. Paul.

The regulations drawn up by I. D. Stevens, teacher, and signed by Maj. Lawrence Taliaferro, United States Indian agent, and H. H. Sibley, are dated Aug. 18, 1836, and announce that tuition, board, room and supplies will be $40 per pupil per season.

The seekers of wisdom in those days, according to the regulations, were required to arise at 5 a. m. and labor one-half hour before breakfast. They retired at 8:30 p. m. The time was divided as follows: Eight and one-half hours sleep, six hours for study, four hours for labor, three hours for meals and family worship, and but two and one-half hours for recreation. School commenced at 9 a. m. and continued until 12 noon. The afternoon session commenced at 1:30 and was dismissed at 4:30.

A letter from the teacher to Maj. Taliaferro states that one of the pupils raised strenuous objections to the curriculum, and particularly to the amount of time devoted to labor and the lack of sufficient time allowed for recreation. The teacher quotes the boy as saying: "I did not come here to work, but to study."

OUTLOOK OF THE LUMBER AND BUILDING INDUSTRIES

By JOHN SAARI,

President of Saari-Tully Lumber Company, Portland, Or.

The new administration is face to face with many great problems, but the record of the party and the men whose privilege and duty it will be to solve them and to manage the government of the country for the next four years, justifies general confidence. At least the people have so expressed themselves in no uncertain terms. Business has no reason to hesitate, and generally will revive.

As lumbermen, we are interested in knowing how this confidence and business revival is going to benefit the lumber and building industries. The housing problem is fast becoming a social menace in this country, as it has long been in England, yes, it is a serious question all over the world. In fact it is so serious that governments of various countries are concentrating their efforts towards the immediate solution of the problem, including our own national, as well as state and municipal. Every effort is being made also to devise other methods and means to induce capital to finance building projects. Labor unions, too, are pledging their co-operation and are agreeing to minimize their jurisdictional disputes and refrain from further demands. With a genuine need and the earnest co-operation of the various forces to satisfy that need, we have no reason to doubt the outcome.

Material and Cost.

Financial and labor problems being solved, the question of building material and its cost comes next. At the outset, it must be understood that every element and industry contributing towards the solution of the problem must receive a fair consideration and profit or the problem cannot be solved. The lumber industry is able and willing to meet its responsibility if given a fair show.

Lumber is a material, the supply of which is far removed from the consuming markets. It requires large outlays of money, labor and time before the finished product is ready for use and finally concentrated where it is needed. To assure ample supply of lumber at a fair price, when lumber is needed, the producers must be encouraged to continue operations during the coming winter. As it is, both the price of lumber and the demand have come down to a level from which further reduction will spell ruin to the lumber and building industries. The lack of buying on the part of retail yards and users has forced the price of lumber to where the manufacturer has only one thing to do, and that is, shut down. The west coast manufacturer, at least, certainly cannot be expected to run very long when his cost of production is $31.00 per thousand and the average price he receives nets him less than $24.00 per thousand. To remedy this abnormal condition, retail yards and users of lumber should buy at least part of their normal requirements immediately and thus start the movement of lumber and insure a continuation of production and fair prices. Besides, they certainly cannot expect to buy lumber cheaper unless the cost of production is reduced to a pre-war basis. This is impossible. If they do not start buying immediately and wait until later in the season, there will be a scramble for lumber and the inevitable result will be a congestion of shipments and a runaway market, approximately that of the winter of 1919.

Stocks on Hand.

A great many of the buyers seem to believe that there are unusually large stocks of lumber accumulated at the mills, and that they can therefore get all the lumber that they need when actual building operations start. While it is true that mills have larger stocks on hand than they have had for the past few years (when they were not able to accumulate stocks at all), on the other hand the retail yards and consumers of lumber have smaller stocks in their yards than they normally carry and less than they have had for years, and very little bought and in transit, if any. Furthermore, for several months past the manufacturers of lumber have been curtailing their operations so that at the present time the production of the entire country is less than 70 per cent of normal.

When we consider everything, the stocks at mills are not unusually large. In fact if every retail yard in the country should buy two cars of lumber, it would absorb more than all the accumulated stocks now on hand at the mills, saying nothing about supplying the requirements of industrial concerns. With such abnormal distribution of stocks and the apparent shortage of lumber, it will be a national calamity if the retail yards and lumber users do not immediately start buying and thus start the movement of lumber to consuming markets. If not for the best interests of the country and the lumber industry in general, the buyers should purchase at least part of their requirements now, and thus take advantage of the present situation and low prices, which will not be as advantageous to them in another thirty days.

SALES OF CHAMPAGNE AND CIGARS DECLINE

London, Oct. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Since Chancellor Austen Chamberlain introduced his last budget there has been a marked reduction in the retail sale of champagne and cigars in England.

Cigar merchants say that during the recent months clearances from bond and importations from Cuba have practically been suspended. The public, it is stated, refuse to buy at the high prices necessitated by the heavy duty and the inflated cost of the tobacco.

In 1914 a really good Havana cigar could be bought at 40 shillings to 50 shillings a hundred, but today the cost is more than £5 a hundred.

Wine merchants are a little surprised at the decline in the sale of champagne, as prices have not been substantially increased. In many cases growers have shouldered a part of the duty imposed by the budget in the hope of maintaining the English demand.

SUPPRESSING THEIR PRIDE

Former German Officers Selling Heirlooms to Pay Grocery Bills.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Many of the 50,000 former German officers discharged since the signing of the armistice have joined the great army of unemployed in Germany, a few have gone to work at hard labor and others are trying to make small pensions pay for the expensive necessaries of mere existence.

Officers belonging to old, aristocratic, once wealthy families are in no better situation than their comrades who relied for a living upon their army pay. They have long since disposed of most of their personal property and it is not uncommon to see one of them, suppressing his pride, offering to some foreigner a family heirloom for enough money to pay a grocery bill.

Those who are doing hard labor must work half a day for the price of a pound of meat and all day for a pound of butter. A number of them have been unable to buy civilian clothes and are working in uniforms thin and frayed by much wear.

Wives Working in Shops.

The wives and sisters of some of these men have gone into the shops, where they earn 350 marks a month, a sum which a guest at any one of the international hotels frequently pays for a single meal. The widow of a colonel who was killed at the front is supporting four children on a pension of less than 700 marks a month.

Former soldiers, and particularly the wounded, whose pensions are inadequate to supply them with food, have been hard hit. Day and night they may be seen standing on the streets with cap in hand, begging, or selling matches. They still wear their uniforms, or parts of uniforms, and some of them, to incite pity, exhibit their wounds.

A party of Americans walking down Unter den Linden one night saw a former soldier stagger and fall to the pavement, unconscious. City physicians who examined him said he had fainted from hunger. Later it was learned that, too proud to ask alms, he had gone for days without food.

When a purse of a few marks was collected for him, he accepted it and thanked the donors.

OLDEST MAN IN WORLD ILL WITH INDIGESTION

Constantinople, Oct. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Turkey's 146-year-old man, Zora Mehmed, reputed to be the oldest man in the world, is ill with indigestion. This is the first time Zora has ever been ill. He complains that it is because of a set of false teeth.

Zora has always been a hamal, that is a carrier of heavy weights, ranging from 200 to 1,000 pounds. When he was 45 years of age, that is during the Napoleonic wars, he tried to lift, on a bet, 500 pounds with his teeth and ruined them. He went along until about 1850 without any teeth and then he obtained a set which has worn out. About twenty years ago, he got another set. He claims these teeth have given him indigestion which has finally landed him in the hospital.

"When I get a new set of teeth, I shall be all right tgain for another half a century," he said.

Until his present illness, Zora was employed as a hamal at the Turkish naval base. He was born at Bitlis, in Turkish Armenia in the year 1774, just before the American revolution but does not remember that event. Zora has a son aged 90 and a young daughter aged 50. His heart and eyes are stilll good and he looks like a man of 70. He offers his passport as proof of his age, as well as the birth records in the mosque at Bitlis.

STUDENTS' RESIDENCES

By STEPHEN LEACOCK.

When I was a student at the University of Toronto thirty years ago I lived, from start to finish, in seventeen different boarding houses. As far as I am aware these houses have not, or not yet, been marked with tablets. But they are all still to be found in the vicinity of McCaul and Darcy and St. Patrick streets. Anyone who doubts the truth of what I have to say may go and look at them.

I was not alone in the nomadic life that I led. There were hundreds of us drifting about in this fashion from one melancholy habitation to another. We lived as a rule two or three in a house, sometimes alone. We dined in the basement. We always had beef, done up some way after it was dead, and there were always soda biscuits on the table. They used to have a brand of soda biscuits in those days in the Toronto boarding houses that I have not seen since. They were better than dog biscuits, but with not so much snap. My contemporaries will all remember them. A great many of the leading barristers and professional men of Toronto were fed on them.

In the life we led we had practically no opportunities for association on a large scale, no common rooms, no reading rooms, nothing. We never saw the magazines—personally I didn't even know the names of them. The only interchange of ideas we ever got was by going over to the Caer Howell hotel on University avenue and interchanging them there.

Dormitories for Students.

I mention these melancholy details not for ther own sake, but merely to emphasize the point that when I speak of students' dormitories, and the larger life which they offer, I speak of what I know.

If we had had at Toronto, when I was a student, the kind of dormitories and dormitory life that they have at Harvard, I don't think I would ever have graduated. I'd have been there still.

The trouble is that the universities on our continent are only just waking up to the idea of what a university should mean. They were, very largely, instituted and organized with the idea that a university was a place where young men were sent to absorb the contents of books and to listen to lectures in the classrooms. The student was pictured as a pallid creature, burning what was called the "midnight oil," his wan face bent over his desk. If you wanted to do something for him you gave him a book; if you wanted to do something really large on his behalf you gave him a whole basketful of them. If you wanted to go still further and be a real benefactor to the college at large, you endowed a competitive scholarship and set two or more pallid students working themselves to death to get it.

That, as I see it, was about the idea and theory of the Canadian universities as they used to be. In the course of time and through the plain teaching of circumstances, we have been getting away from that idea. We are beginning to see that the textbook and the classroom are but a part of the student's life. If they are taken by themselves, in undiluted doses, they probably do more harm than good. They not only injure the students' health but they impair his mind. True education cannot be achieved after this fashion, by shoveling in information. The most that this can ever give is erudition and pedantry, never capacity and genuine acquirement. The typical product of it is the college pedant possessed of a stomach full of fact but with a mind the size of a peanut and the outlook of a child.

The Student's Environment.

The real process of education consists (as the derivation of the word implies) in bringing out of the mind the inborn capacity that is in it. I think that Horace said something of this sort before. But there is no harm in saying it over again.

Since the melancholy days of which I speak, I have had the experience of nearly a quarter of a century of postgraduate work and of university teaching. It is a noble profession, and, with the continued aid of the governors of McGill university, I hope to have another quarter of a century of it at least before I hang up my mortar board and sink into the arms of the trustees of the Carnegie pension fund. But as a college teacher I have long since realized that the most that the teacher, as such, can do for the student is a very limited matter. The real thing for the student is the life and environment that surrounds him. All that he really learns he learns, in a sense, by the active operation of his own intellect and not as the passive recipient of lectures. And for this active operation what he needs most is the continued and intimate contact with his fellows. Students must live together and eat together, talk and smoke together. Experience shows that is how their minds really grow. And they must live together in a rational and comfortable way. They must eat in a big dining room or hall, with oak beams across the ceiling, and the stained glass in the windows and with a shield or tablet here and there upon the wall, to remind them between times of the men who went before them and left a name worthy of the memory of the college. If a student is to get from his college what it ought to give him, a college dormitory, with the life in common that it brings, is his absolute right. A university that fails to give it to him is cheating him.

First, a Smoking Room.

If I were founding a university—and I say it with all the seriousness of which I am capable—I would found first a smoking room; then when I had a little more money in hand I would found a dormitory; then after that, or more properly with that, a decent reading room and a library. After that, if I still had money over that I couldn't use, I would hire a professor and get some text books.

We are conducting a campaign just now to raise, or lift, five million dollars for McGill university. I have a notion that we are going to get it. And it is the duty of those of us who are in the university to show to our generous friends outside what it is that we mean to do with it when we have it.

To my mind the greatest of all our needs is the building of college dormitories to supply to our students a wider college life than we can give them now. There is no nobler object of benefaction than this. There is no better way to perpetuate an honored name or to cherish the memory of one who is [illegible] than that the name and memory should be inscribed, cut deep in stone, over the gateway of a college dormitory at McGill.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

ASSEMBLY OF LEAGUE ON MONDAY

Fifteen More Nations Apply for Admission to the League.

Expected to Be in Session Three or Four Weeks.

New York, Nov. 12.—The assembly of the League of Nations, which will hold its first meeting at Geneva on Monday next, Nov. 15, is the popular or representative branch of the double body designed to guide the affairs of that organization as created under the treaty of Versailles.

While the representative character of the gathering will be impaired by the absence of the United States, Germany, Austria and Russia, yet with these exceptions it will come near to representing the greater part of the civilized world. The session has additional interest as marking the complete organization of the league as provided by the Versailles peace treaty.

Forty-two nations, ranging in importance from the British empire to the republic of Haiti, are expected to send delegates. Of the forty-five states mentioned in the Covenant, only three will be unrepresented—the United States, Honduras and Ecuador. Fifteen more nations have applied for admission, and the question of granting them access to the session as new members will be one of the first items of business to be considered. Among these applicants are Austria and Bulgaria of the former enemy states and a number of small nations just emerged into statehood.

Admission of Germany.

The question of admitting Germany to membership will also come under discussion, as it is likely to be raised by several of the former European neutrals, and it seems likely that the admission of Mexico may also come before the session. All the states seeking membership will be required to submit to such regulation of their military, naval and aerial armaments as the league may deem necessary, and the league's permanent advisory commission on military, naval and air questions has been at work since August collecting the data which will be needed by the assembly for proper action on this matter.

The acting president of the assembly, M. Hymans of Belgium, will open the first meeting, as the assembly has not yet had a chance to elect a president of its own. This election will be the very first order of business, and will be followed by the election of four vice presidents and the appointment of a committee on credentials.

Noted Delegates.

Enough names of delegates are known to show that the absence of monarchy will not detract from the importance of the gathering, although it may reduce its picturesque quality somewhat. Among the more noted figures may be mentioned Dr. Edouard Benes, foreign minister of Czecho-Slovakia and creator of the "Little Entente;" M. Pederewski, first prime minister of the new Poland; Hjalmar Branting, prime minister of Sweden until a few weeks ago; President Motta of Switzerland, and his predecessor, ex-President Ador, who recently acted as chairman at the international financial conference at Brussels. Many of the non-European states will be represented by diplomats, but it will not be the rule even in their case. Thus Argentina will send its foreign minister, Senor Pueyrredon, as one of its delegates, while Chile will be represented by Don Antonio Huneeus, former foreign minister, and Don Manuel Rivas Vicuna, deputy and former minister of finance. Each member nation is entitled to three officially accredited delegates, but they may send substitutes and experts as well. Sweden has availed itself of this privilege and one of its three substitute delegates is a woman, Mrs. Anna Bugge-Wicksell, widely known as an expert on international law.

Much of the early work of the session will be devoted to organization, the appointment of committees being one of the most troublesome items. The likelihood is that some twelve or fifteen committees will be formed, and that the various items on the agenda will be divided into related groups and distributed among those committees.

Subordinate Organizations.

Among the duties of the assembly will be the final and formal establishment of a number of permanent subordinate organizations like the court of international justice, the health organization, the commission on communications and transit, and the special tribunal that is to deal with all disputes connected with international communications.

Incidentally certain questions will be considered concerning the relationship between the council and the assembly as well as between those bodies and the various technical organizations created by them.

Other important subjects to come before the assembly will be action on the recommendations of the recent international financial conference at Brussels; formulation of policy and methods for the employment of the league's weapon, the economic boycott; and preparations for concerted action looking toward the suppression of all traffic in women and children. Other questions of equal importance may be broached, as the assembly is absolute master of its own procedure and can vote leave to advance an entirely new proposition at forty-eight hours' notice.

Subjects to come before the assembly at the instance of individual member-nations are several proposed amendments to the Covenant, some of which aim at improving the position of the smaller nations within the league, while one, submitted by Holland, deals with the Covenant provision for suppression of the opium traffic in the Far East.

It is, of course, impossible to foretell how long the session will last, but information received from reliable sources indicates three of four weeks.

MAY REVOLUTIONIZE SEALING BUSINESS

Truro, N. S., Nov. 12.—An expedition is planned here by two local aviators which promises to revolutionize, if successful, the whole sealing business. This expedition will leave Montreal in the spring for Newfoundland, carrying two airplanes, capable of carrying five passengers, a pilot and a mechanic. The outfit will also include lighter-than-air machines which were used so successfully during the war for spotting submarines. Veteran seal hunters will join the party in Newfoundland. It is claimed that from the planes seals may be spotted much more readily than is being done at the present time by men located in the rigging of the vessels. The plan is for the plane to descend on the ice after the "spoting" and dispatch the seals with pump guns. The skins of the animals will be packed in a big bundle about the base of a pole to which a flag will be attached and when the ice breaks up vessels will go out and pick up the piles which have been left behind. Airplanes will assist in locating the piles and signalling to the vessels.

MAKE-UP AND DOINGS OF MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE

By R. W. HITCHCOCK,
Representative, Sixtieth District.

This is the first of a series of letters intended to deal with the make-up and the doings of the Minnesota legislature. The series will be similar to the letters sent out during the 1919 session of the legislature. Its aim will be now, as then, to give the people of Northern Minnesota an intimate view of the state legislature at work. The letters will be published once each week. No attempt will be made to "cover" all the matters considered by the legislature. Those matters of first importance to Northern Minnesota will be treated as fully as possible; the main purpose of the letters will be to do this and to give as clear and faithful a picture as possible of the state's law-making body in action.

Make-up of the Legislature.

The forty-second legislature of Minnesota will meet at noon Tuesday, Jan. 4, 1921, at the state capitol at St. Paul and will probably continue in session about four months. The senate will be made up of the same members who served in 1919, senators being elected every four years. Members of the house of representatives are elected every two years, and at the general election held Nov. 2 the entire membership of the next house was chosen. About eighty of the members of the last house were re-elected this year and about fifty of the members elected are new. The exact membership of the house is 131 and of the senate 67.

St. Louis County Members.

St. Louis county has five senators and nine representatives. The senators are Adams, Erickson and Ribenack of Duluth, Boylan of Virginia and Bessette of Orr. The representatives who were re-elected are Bernard (third term) and Cullum (second term) of Duluth, Murphy (fourth term) of Aurora and Hitchcock (second term) of Hibbing. The new St. Louis county representatives are Goodwin, Scribner and Lockhart of Duluth, Thomas of Ely and Kleffman of Chisholm. Representatives Strand of Lake and Cook, McPartlin of Koochiching and Herried of Itasca were re-elected.

Organization.

Lieut. Governor Collins will preside in the senate and will appoint the senate committees. The house committees are appointed by a speaker, elected from the membership of the house. The speaker's powers are greater than those of any other officer of the state with the exception of governor, so that the speakership is regarded as a great honor and is much sought after. Several members have been mentioned for this honor, among them being Representative Charles H. Warner of Aitkin, just re-elected for his sixth consecutive term. The speaker of the last house was W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis. Mr. Nolan has just been re-elected for his eighth term and he was so efficient and popular as speaker two years ago that he will probably be re-elected for the coming session without much opposition.

Issues.

Among the most important to Northern Minnesota of the subjects of legislation to be considered by the coming session of the legislature are the tonnage tax, paved roads, reapportionment and laws to stimulate the development of our unoccupied lands. Labor here will be deeply interested in the proposal for state compensation insurance and the farmers of this section will be keenly alive to what will be attempted to promote co-operative marketing, an issue that is more vital to the farmer than any other issue before the American people today.

South vs. North.

The conditions which prevail in Southern Minnesota are radically different from those which exist in the northern part of the state, and this fact makes a vast amount of trouble for those who represent the northern end of the state in the legislature. Southern Minnesota is a completely developed country, Northern Minnesota is largely undeveloped; things are fixed and settled in the South, the North is in a constant state of change; the North has all the crying needs of a pioneer country, the South needs nothing but fair skies and favorable seasons; the South is well-to-do and well satisfied with things as they are, the North is young and ambitious but its greatness lies in the future; the South is up and very conplacent about it, the North is struggling to get up; the South is standing still, the North is bursting with growth; the South is almost wholly agricultural while the North is possessed of vast and varied but undeveloped resources. Mining and farming are as wide apart as the poles. The South in its sleek, middle-aged, assured prosperity is annoyed and impatient with the innumerable wants and demands of the youthful, growing North, and as age envies the lusty strength of youth, so the old and static South longs for the one great possession of the new and booming North, its iron mines. Southern Minnesota, with the major part of the state's population, backed by an unfair apportionment of representatives and senators, giving it more power in the legislature than it is entitled to, gives grudgingly to the needs of the North and constantly schemes to take away from it what little the North has. This situation makes the position of a member of the legislature from Northern Minnesota a difficult one. He is constantly on the defense and he must fight against odds for anything he gets for his section of the state. It is this situation which compelled the Red River valley to struggle for years before it secured a comprehensive drainage policy from the state; it is this situation which blocks the urgently needed policy of reforestation for central sections of Northern Minnesota; it is this situation that has made adequate forest fire protection so difficult to secure; it is this situation that makes Minnesota's marvelous possessions of wild game and fish a constantly diminishing asset; it is this situation that balks at a mere pittance to advertise the unparalleled attractions of Minnesota to the tourist; it is this situation that has led to the agitation for a tonnage tax on iron ore. The motto of Southern Minnesota appears to be: Millions for distribution to Southern Minnesota but not a cent for the development of Northern Minnesota.

Must Fight for Rights.

These are the conditions which will prevail when the legislature meets in January. As in the past, Northern Minnesota must fight for its rights against the indifferences, the misunderstandings and the prejudice of the majority.

It is not that the people of the South are different from the people of the North; they are the same, the one as fine and honest, as sincere, as earnestly striving for the right as the other. But the variety of Minnesota's riches are so utterly opposite, that mutual understanding and sympathy are most difficult. The geography and topography of the state have conspired to promote misunderstandings and conflict, but it should be the aim of every good citizen, North as well as South, to clear away these misunderstandings and to unite all parts of the state in one irresistible drive to make Minnesota in actual realization, as it is in possibilities, the empire state of the Union.

SANITATION IN THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Washington, Nov. 12.—Development of sanitation in the Dominican republic was shown to have made rapid strides in the past year of American occupation, in a report submitted to the navy department by Commander Reynolds Hayden of the navy medical corps, aid on the staff of the military governor. Since the creation last January of a national department of "sanitation and beneficence," headed by a cabinet officer charged with administration of all public health activities, there have been constructed five large charity hospitals, a national insane asylum and a new leper colony, the report showed, involving expenditures of approximately $1,000,000.

While most of the administrative positions are held by natives, the department is temporarily headed by a medical officer of the navy.

Although comparative statistics are lacking, disease among the natives was said to have been enormously reduced as a result of the new organization.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels, you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping back in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.—Advertisement.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SAYS PRICE CUT IS UNFAIR TO FARMERS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—The tendency to lower prices paid for farm products, while war prices are maintained on products the farmer has to buy, was declared to be the cause of present dissatisfaction that might lead to far-reaching economic results by Dean H. L. Russell of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

Unless the condition is speedily remedied, the farmer will be further discouraged and will have greater distrust of the economic system, which permits this situation to continue, the dean says. His specific proposal as a remedy is for business men in Wisconsin to get into closer touch with agriculture.

"If we permit agriculture to decline, food costs will of necessity mount and our industrial life will be built upon a very shaky foundation," he said. "Manufacturing and business are best off in areas of food surplus. We have it within our power to keep Wisconsin out of the food deficit class."

Comparison of Prices.

To establish his contention the dean listed the costs of typical farm products and of other commodities. Corn, he says, is selling at 136 per cent of the pre-war level. Oats are somewhat above the pre-war basis, with hogs reaching 104 per cent. In contrast, it is pointed out, lumber is 228 per cent of the prewar cost; pig iron, 324 per cent; crude petroleum, 350 per cent; coke, 520 per cent, and manufactured articles, holding a level of like proportion.

The program of Dean Russell for development of Wisconsin agriculture is three-fold: The further cutting out of waste and disease; doing away with unnecessary costs of distribution; supporting production.

ITASCA BABCOCK WORK WILL START

Grand Rapids, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Itasca county board this week took definite steps towards starting work on the Babcock roads in the county.

A resolution was passed calling for the preparations for advertising for bids on the bridges that will be necessary on the various Babcock roads that have already been surveyed and approved. This is on the road from Keewatin to Grand Rapids, from Ball Club to Wawina, and on the Federal aid road between Cohasset and Remer. Nine bridges are to be constructed on these roads, and bids will be advertised at an early date, so that the bridges can be built this winter or early in the spring. All the bridges to be built on Babcock roads are necessarily of a type of construction that will admit of the application of hard surface, and are to be strong enough to bear up under the heaviest of loads.

The county auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for the completion of county road number 21. This road begins at the corners of sections 22 and 23, in township 55, range 24 and extends to the quarter corner on the section line between sections 32 and 33, township 56, range 24. Bids on this road are to be opened at a regular meeting of the county board.

State Drainage Board Recommends Construction in Minn. River Valley.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 12.—Construction of three large reservoirs with a total capacity of 18,500,000 cubic feet in the Minnesota river valley to aid in protecting the valley from floods, is recommended in a report of an investigation conducted this year, announced last night by the state department of drainage. The cost of construction of the reservoirs is estimated at nearly $2,000,000.

One reservoir should be built at Big Stone lake, according to the report, which also recommends that Whetstone river be directed into the lake. The second should be built at Lac Qui Parle and Marsh lakes and the third at the mouth of the Cottonwood river, the report adds.

The county board will name an early date at which a township election will be held, and officers elected. These officers will serve until the regular day for town meetings, next March. This township has a low valuation, and will not be able to tax heavily for road and bridge funds. There are a large number of settlers in the town, however, and a majority of them are in favor of a township organization.

Ruth Roland Tells How to Instantly Have a Beautiful Rosy-White Complexion

MISS RUTH ROLAND

New York—The beautiful young actress, Miss Ruth Roland, now successfully starring in that splendid serial, "The Adventures of Ruth," is famous for her beautiful complexion. When her friends inquired about it she said: "It's all due to a toilet preparation called derwillo, which I use twice daily. The exeperience I have had prompts me to make my secret public. This wonderful derwillo instantly beautified my skin and its continued use has made the result permanent." When Mae Edna Wilder, the well known beauty specialist, was interviewed in reference to Miss Roland's remarkable complexion, she stated: "Anyone can have a beautiful complexion when they know how. It's a very simple process. I use the same article in my work, and until you try it you have no idea of the marvelous results. The very first application will astonish you. Go to the toilet counter of any drug or department store and get a bottle of derwillo, then make the following test: Examine your skin critically before your mirror, note carefully its appearance, then cleanse your skin with a good cold cream (Liska Cold Cream I have found to be the best), then apply derwillo as directed. After you have made the first application look in your mirror again and note the surprising change. A peach-like color mounts the cheeks; a baby softness comes to the skin; it makes the skin rosy-white, velvety and radiantly beautiful. It is wonderful for a dark, sallow skin, shiny nose, freckles, tan, oily skin, coarse pores, pimples, blackheads, chapped, rough skin, ruddiness, wrinkles and many other facial blemishes. Now that short sleeves are in vogue you will want beautiful hands and arms. There is nothing like derwillo for this purpose. Derwillo method is absolutely harmless and will not produce or stimulate a growth of hair. It is superior to face powder, as perspiration does not affect it, therefore it stays on better. Over five hundred thousand who have used it have had the same results as Miss Roland and I am sure if you will give it a fair trial you will become just as enthusiastic as she is and always use it in preference to any other powder or beautifier."

NOTE—When asked about Derwillo one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful beautifier, away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to anyone who is dissatisfied. This guarantee would not be possible unless the product possessed unusual merit." It is sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all department stores and up-to-date druggists including W. A. Abbett and Max Wirth.

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong—According to Dr. Lewis

Guarantee to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the leading druggists including W. A. Abbett and Boyce Drug store.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SAYS PRICE CUT IS UNFAIR TO FARMERS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—The tendency to lower prices paid for farm products while war prices are maintained on products the farmer has to buy was declared to be the cause of present dissatisfaction that might lead to [illegible] economic results by Dean H. L. Russell of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

Unless the condition is speedily remedied, the farmer will be further discouraged and will have greater distrust of the economic system, which permits the situation to continue, the dean said. His specific proposal as a remedy is for business men in Wisconsin to get into closer touch with agriculture.

"If we permit agriculture to decline, food costs will of necessity mount and our industrial life will be built upon a very shaky foundation," he said. "Manufacturing and business are best off in areas of food surplus. We have it within our power to keep Wisconsin out of the food deficit class."

Comparison of Prices.

To establish his contention the dean listed the costs of typical farm products and of other commodities. Corn, he says, is selling at 136 per cent of the pre-war level. Oats are somewhat above the pre-war basis, with hogs reaching 104 per cent. In contrast, it is pointed out, lumber is 228 per cent of the pre-war cost, pig iron 324 per cent; crude petroleum, 350 per cent; coke, 520 per cent, and manufactured articles holding a level of like proportion.

The program of Dean Russell for development of Wisconsin agriculture is threefold: The further cutting out of waste and disease; doing away with unnecessary costs of distribution; supporting production.

Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the leading druggists including W. A. Abbett and Boyce Drug store.

My cuzzin Artie came eround yestidday and pop was taking a nap on the setting room sofa, and me and Artie stood there a while watching him and making motions in frunt of his face with our hands as if we had put him to sleep by hipmotism, and all at once pop started to smile throo his sleep, Artie wispering, G, look, I bet he's dreeming he's eating a plate of ice cream or sumthing, and me wispering, I bet he aint, I bet he's dreeming he's swimming, thats his favorite spoart.

And we had a wispering argewment about it and after a while I wispered, All rite, I tell you lets wat do, you get the dinner bell and ring it easy and if he's dreeming about eating it will make him smile agen, and Ill get some watter and make it splash so he can heer it, and if that makes him smile agen it shows he's dreeming about swimming.

Wich we started to do, Artie going down in the dining room and bringing up the dinner bell and me carrying in a basin half full of water frum the bathroom, Artie taking ferst tern and ringing the dinner bell easy rite next to pops ear. NO SLUMS IN THE JEWISH HOMELAND

New York, Nov. 12.—Neither stuffy tenements, dirty factories, narrow streets nor sullied slums will be tolerated in Jerusalem and other urban centers of Palestine, "the Jewish Homeland," by the British high commissioner.

Anticipating a heavy influx of Jews back to the Holy Land, a city and town planning commission has been appointed to regulate the distribution of population, and prevent a mushroom growth spoiling forever the beauty of the ancient cities, according to information received by Zionists here.

All town plans will have to be approved by the high commissioner, Sir Herbert Samuel. Civic commissions with full authority will control building development in Jerusalem, Jaffa, Haifa and Tiberias, working on plans approved by a central commission. This body may be headed by Sir Patrick Geddes of the University of Edinburgh, town-planner of Bombay and other cities of India. Land owners have been advised to consult with the local commissioners before attempting new construction.

Palestine is now half-empty, and there is ample room for new communities and modern quarters. In building them the poor must not be huddled in crowded settlements while the rich enjoy spacious houses and delightful gardens, said the high commissioner in announcing his city planning ordinances.

"It is the duty of the government to supervise such things," he is quoted as saying. "We may hope to have here noble cities with parks and open spaces, designed, not in the foreign extraneous style, but breathing the spirit of the land, representing the best ideals of those who work for its upbuilding."

GERMANY CURSED BY WAR PRISONER

Stettin, Germany, Oct. 21.—(By The Associated Press.)—Every contingent of German war prisoners arriving here from Russia contains a number of ragged, unshaven, haggard men who have been made insane by suffering during many months in Russian prison camps.

In three weeks the German government sent 200 of these men to insane asylums and sanatoriums for treatment. A few who have spells of violence, and during these periods, must be kept under guard, but the majority present a listless, woe-begone aspect. They look about with dull, unseeing eyes, or sit quietly weeping, unconscious of the fact they are home again.

The families and friends of the insane soldiers are allowed to greet them and to give them food and clothes before they are sent away for treatment.

Nearly all the prisoners exhibit the most intense bitterness, not only toward Russia, but toward the German government as well. One of them, who had lost a leg and an arm and who, it was learned, had been taken prisoner early in the war and has been confined in many Russian prison camps, shook his fist at a German flag when he arrived and cursed his country, his people, and all other countries and peoples.

"To hell with Germany!" he shouted. "That is not my flag and Germany is not my fatherland."

He then turned to the other prisoners and pointing to his wounds, said: "This is what Germany has done to me. This is what a kindly fatherland has permitted. Why didn't they exchange me? Because I have only one leg and one arm? I lost them fighting for Germany and all the thanks I've had for it were the rotten years in a Russian prison."

MEMORIAL TABLETS TO MAYFLOWER PASSENGERS

Boston, Mass., Nov. 12.—The erection at Provincetown and Boston of memorials to the five Mayflower passengers who died at these places will be the contribution of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants to the celebration of the tercentenary of the Pilgrims' landing. A tablet will be set in a boulder at Provincetown and another will be placed on the building in Spring Lane, Boston, now occupying the site of the last home of Mary (Chilton) Winslow, who is said to have been the first girl passenger to land at Plymouth.

Four passengers died during the December days of 1620 while the Mayflower lay at anchor in Cape Cod harbor, now Provincetown. Two days before the little ship set sail for the permanent settlement at Plymouth, James Chilton, who had been one of the sighners of the famous Mayflower compact in Cape Cod harbor, died. A day before the little band had lost Mrs. Dorothy Bradford, first wife of Governor William Bradford, by accidental drowning, and the deaths occurred also of Edward Thomson, a servant, and Jasper More, a child.

Mary Chilton, who was the daughter of James Chilton, sailed on for Plymouth with her mother, and struggled through the trying times of the colony's early days. She later married John Winslow and before 1660 they removed to Boston, where she died in 1679, having survived her husband by five years. She was the only Mayflower passenger to become a resident of Boston.

WISCONSIN TO MEET ILLINI

Badger Eleven Will Get Crucial Test on Gridiron.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—The Badger football team meets its crucial test on the gridiron tomorrow when in their homecoming game they tackle the undefeated Illini. This game tells the tale either of a University of Wisconsin eleven which may claim to be as strong, partisans of the university claim, as any team in the Big Ten conference or one that has shown strength and promise but has been unable to stand successfully against two of the greatest of Western football machines.

The team, according to the coaches, is in perfect shape, except for its ends. They have the backing of a confident and enthusiastic university. Thousands of returned alumni are here with the one desire to see Illinois defeated. They are an impelling force which keys the players up to their greatest effort. Twenty-five thousand spectators are expected to see the game.

This game also will serve in a large measure to determine the final layout for the championship of the conference. If victorious Wisconsin will have a fighting chance to tie for first place, if it defeats Chicago next week, after defeating Illinois and if Illinois then defeats Ohio at Columbus.

These possibilities are not occupying the attention of the players or of the school today. The one desire is for victory tomorrow in the homecoming game.

Train in Secret.

Coach John H. Richards has had his men training behind closed doors much of the week and during that time he has brought all of his football ability to play in rounding off any rough places in the team work of the eleven. The coach says that Wisconsin is in top form.

All of the players came through the Minnesota game without hurt. Capt. Weston did not play last week, but is in form for tomorrow's fracas, his first game since an Ohio player forced him out of the game with an injured knee. His return is expected to mark the opening of a forward passing game for the Badgers who have displayed little aerial work during the year.

Tabell probably will be on the sidelines, although there is a possibility that he too will be in shape to take his regular position at end. "Mike" Knapp, another end, who has been out with an injured arm, is counted on for this game. All of these ends have counted as stellar men for the passing game.

A Flying Attack.

Illinois, however, will display a flying attack fully up to that of the badgers, it is said. In the Chicago game last Saturday the Illini opened up with what reports described as "brilliant passing." It is known that Coach Zuppke favors an aerial game, even though his team has great driving power.

The Wisconsin line has shown itself to be a stone wall on the defense. No team has been able to plough through it for repeated gains. The giant Ralph Scott from Montana at tackle, has been almost impassable. Likewise Howark Stark of Milwaukee has proved a power on defense. He was the star against Ohio when his tackling threw the Badger opponents for loss after loss. George Bunge of La Crosse at center and James Breder of Madison at guard are the two other linesmen who have withstood all attacks.

Davey Is Favored.

Allen Davey of Sheboygan is likely to play at quarterback. His showing against Minnesota last week when he was put in for his first real try of the season makes him the favorite of the students. The coaches' intentions are not known. Davey is a faster man than Wallace Barr of Milwaukee. His chances of causing a sensation are counted good around here as a result of the Chicago game of last year when he won by making a sixty-yard run through the whole Maroon team for a touchdown that gave the Badgers the contest.

Guy Sundt of Stoughton, Alvah Elliott of Muscoda and Rolly Williams of Cambria are the sure counts for the backfield after their performing against the Gophers last week. Sundt at fullback is indispensable as a punter and is an exceptionally good man on defense as well as at line-plunging. Elliott at halfback is a consistent ground-gainer while Williams on the offense proved himself a star against Minnesota.

Everyone here looks for the hardest fight of the year. Illinois has last year's defeat to avenge. Wisconsin has her own ambitions to further with the added impulse to win for the "Old Grads" who have returned just to see a real victory. The Badgers have always felt that they were a little bit better than Illinois which last year won the championship despite her defeat by Wisconsin.

The games between the two schools are always marked by the keenest sort of rivalry. Tomorrow's battle holds sway in the interest of football fans in the West. It overshadows to a large extent the Chicago-Michigan game because of the position of both of these teams.

TRAINS LOADED WITH HUNTERS

Over 50,000 Licenses Issued to Hunt Big Game in This State.

With more than 50,000 licenses issued to hunters to shoot big game in Northern Minnesota during the open season for moose and deer which starts next Monday and continues till Dec. 5, inclusive, St. Louis, Lake, Beltrami, Itasca, Cook, Carlton and Rosseau counties will be well populated with nimrods.

A report received in Duluth this morning from Carlos Avery of St. Paul, state game and fish commissioner, says that the number of licenses issued this fall to big game hunters breaks all Minnesota records and that the demand is still strong. Last year 33,000 hunters took out licenses in this city and that was considered a banner year.

The influx of St. Paul and Minneapolis hunters headed for the big timber country to the north of this city, reached Duluth this morning and in such numbers that all trains leaving for the North were jammed to the vestibules. Many of the Twin City hunters missed connections here for the Vermilion country, and it is said that a special train may be used over the Duluth & Iron Range road to carry the belated hunters up into the forests.

Extra Coaches Necessary.

All of the trains that travel through the moose and deer country are carrying extra coaches and from one to several extra baggage cars, the latter being necessary to transport the unusual amount of camp equipment which is being shipped.

While many of the Duluth hunters will leave for the big game country tonight, the majority of the local nimrods will not get away until tomorrow morning and Sunday. North Shore points will be the favored stamping ground of many Duluth hunters who have shot big game in that region season after season covering a period of years.

Duluthians who are fortunate in owning lodges up in the timber have sent ahead men to get the camps in shape and provided with sleeping accommodations and food to last several days.

Many parties have been made up of Duluth business and professional men and most of these plan on staying in the woods a week at least.

HIBBING BEATS VIRGINIA TEAM

Armistice Day Crowd Sees Range Professionals in Action.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing City football team defeated the Virginia professionals, 7 to 6 here yesterday afternoon in a hard fought contest which was one of the features of the big Armistice day celebration. Virginia scored first in the second quarter after getting the ball near the Hibbing goal on a recovered punt. Straight line smashes brought a touchdown. Virginia was robbed of its chance to kick goal when the ball was permitted to touch the ground.

Hibbing came through for a touchdown and goal in the final period after the ball had been carried to the Virginia five-yard line by Daugherty and Darling, backfield men of the visitors. Virginia held for three downs on the five-yard line. A forward pass from Darling to Farrell put the ball across the Virginia line. Beasey kicked goal.

The field was heavy with ice and very slippery and for this reason the contest was slow and uninteresting in places.

The teams lined up as follows:

GOPHERS LEAVE FOR BATTLE WITH IOWA

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12.—The University of Minnesota football squadron left last night for Iowa City, Iowa, for its game Saturday with the University of Iowa. Twenty-six members of the squad and trainers were in the party, which will stop off at Cedar Rapids today for a light drill, leaving there Saturday morning. Members of the Minnesota cross-country team, which meets Iowa Saturday morning, also departed with the gridiron team.

REFEREE STOPS BOUT.

Dick Franklin and Farmer Lodge Ordered From Bemidji Ring.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being twice warned by the referee that they would have to fight or get out of the ring, Dick Franklin of Hibbing and Farmer Lodge of Minneapolis, heavyweights, were sent to their dressing rooms in the third round of their scheduled ten-round glove contest here last evening. Neither contestant showed much disposition to mix things and the great crowd continually yelled for action. Franklin was inclined to clinch and hold at every opportunity while Lodge was faulty in hitting in the breaks.

Gunner Joe Quinn of Minneapolis, well known middleweight boxer, gave Ted O'Reilly of Bovey a tasty lacing in six rounds and Young Tibbets of this city knocked out Young Dwyer of Hibbing in the first round. Young Peterson shaded William Raybourn in the curtain raiser.

KNABE AGAIN MANAGER OF KANSAS CITY TEAM

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 12.—Otto Knabe, who managed the Kansas City team of the American association the latter part of last season, signed a contract yesterday to manage the local organization during the 1921 season.

President Muehlebach of the Kansas City club purchased Dutch Zwilling, outfielder from Indianapolis, and traded Alex McCarthy, captain and second baseman of the Kansas City team, for Art Butler, Milwaukee second baseman.

90,000 ASK TICKETS TO YALE-HARVARD GAME

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12.—Applications for tickets to the Yale-Harvard football game, Nov. 20, have reached about 90,000. The actual number of seats available is 73,000 although several more thousands will be able to get standing room. With attendants, the crowd is expected to be about 80,000.

ZUPPKE ELEVEN TO PLAY AT MADISON

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The University of Illinois football squad left this morning for Madison, Wis., where Coach Zuppke's regulars take on the University of Wisconsin's eleven tomorrow. Hundreds of Illinois rooters followed the 1919 conference champions. The team journeyed up from Urbana, Ill., yesterday, spending the night in Chicago.

CHICAGO CRIPPLES OFF TO ANN ARBOR

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The University of Chicago football team, severely crippled, left this morning for Ann Arbor, Mich., to make a Spartan effort against the Wolverines Saturday. Crutches and plaster casts were numerous, Cole and Hanisch, two of the most valuable backfield men, being taken merely as spectators, since injuries have put them out for the rest of the season.

MICHIGAN WILL MEET MAROONS

Chicago Defense Said to Be Equal of Best Elevens.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The University of Chicago football team plays Michigan tomorrow at Ann Arbor, while Northwestern entertains Purdue at Evanston. The Chicago team, heavy in material, has been coming slowly through the season and may or may not develop into a formidable machine by Saturday or the following Saturday against Wisconsin in Chicago. Coach Stagg's defense is admirable. With all the injuries to the more promised players, the team has plugged along until it has a defense equal to that of any team in the conference.

Weak in Defense to Passes.

The only weakness apparent is in the defense for the forward pass. It is helpless on long passes to ends far up the field, passes such as Workman threw. Had Workman's arm been a shade more accurate Ohio would have run up a score of two more touchdowns at least. Ohio's failure was Chicago's best defense there. Chicago was better going through to worry the forward passer than in breaking through to threaten the punter. On the short forward passes Chicago was not as deadly as Illinois. This success of Illinois was due to its fast backs, alert to the danger. Yet Chicago backs—Rouse, Neff and Palmer—with the linemen, appeared to get there in time on most plays.

The Maroon defense has been far behind the defense. The Chicago backfield, weakened by injuries, has been unable to break through an opposing line. This may have been due to the failure of the forwards to open for them, but the fault appears to lie in the lack of aggressiveness of the backfield men and the failure of the quarterback, Tatge, to open up his forward pass attacks.

Stagg Criticizes His Players.

Coach Stagg in introducing the players at the alumni dinner at the University club recently voiced a criticism of the playing of his men as he introduced them. It ran something like this:

"This is Palmer, a youth weighing 220 pounds, fast on his feet. He goes into the line sideways. Now Mr. Palmer, are you going into the line sideways in the next game?"

"No sir," replied Palmer, a bit abashed, "I will go in straight, I promise you."

"Now here is Quarterback Tatge. A little fellow who never misses a tackle or a punt. A hard playing quarter, game as they make them. Yet if he would use the gray matter God gave him he would be one of the bright lights of the game."

And Tatge promised to think on the use of plays the next game. By the end of the season he is likely to become real thoughtful and if he is Wisconsin will be the goat.

RECORD CROWD TO SEE YALE-PRINCETON GAME

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 12.—Only a light workout was ordered for the Princeton varsity football squad today in preparation for the annual gridiron battle with Yale tomorrow. The team was sent through its last hard signal drill of the season yesterday and at its conclusion Fitzpatrick, the Princeton trainer, said every man was in excellent condition. Neither he nor any of the coaches were willing, however, to make predictions as to the outcome of the game.

The athletic authorities are making preparations for one of the greatest crowds ever attending a football game here. Seats have been provided for 52,000 spectators. The Yale squad was expected to arrive late today.

CATHEDRAL IS WINNER.

Duluth High Football Team Defeats Spooner Eleven 14 to 0.

Cathedral high school football eleven returned from Spooner, Wis., last evening where it yesterday defeated the high school team of that city 14 to 0.

Kelly, halfback for the Duluth eleven, was the star of the game, making a 60-yard run through a broken field for a touchdown in the second period. Walsh scored the other touchdown for the Catholics after he and other members of the Cathedral backfield had ripped the Spooner line repeatedly.

The gridiron was heavy and slippery and this condition made the game slow except in spots.

DULUTH WOMEN TO TAKE TO CURLING

Over Seventy Fair Athletes Join D. C. C. in Campaign Week.

Duluth women will take up curling in all seriousness this coming winter and over seventy women, principally school teachers, have already been enrolled as members of the Duluth Curling club. Besides curling the fair athletes will also go in strong for skating and dancing, as both of the latter will be featured in an unusual manner by the club this coming season.

No difficulty is being experienced by the D. C. C. solicitors in getting the 350 new members to build up the roster to the limit of 800. Reports which have been received by the officials today from the various solicitors show that the required number of new members will all have been signed up by tomorrow evening when the campaign is due to close.

RUTH FOUND RIGHT HANDERS EASIER TO HIT THAN SOUTHPAWS

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Right-handed pitchers were easier victims than left-handers for "Babe" Ruth, the home run monarch, whose record of fifty-four home runs for the 1919 season set the baseball public home-run crazy.

Of Ruth's string of homers, thirty-seven were made off right-handed pitchers, while he collected seventeen off southpaws. Ruth's circuit drives this season netted the New York club exactly eighty runs. Besides the fifty-four Ruth scored himself, he drove in twenty-six Yankees ahead of him. Ruth failed in his attempt to crash out a homer with the bases loaded, but on five occasions there were two men on bases waiting to race home when Ruth connected.

SPORT BRIEFS

Being Divers Items of Interest to the Athletes of the Northwest.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The fall series between the pennant winning clubs of the American Association and International leagues probably will become an annual fixture. President Hickey of the American association is highly in favor of the plan, which also has been indorsed by David L. Fultz, president of the International league.

"President Fultz will submit the plan to the club owners of his league for adoption," President Hickey said. "I feel positive that the series will be made a permanent fixture. The event will be called the 'Junior World's series.'"

The 1920 series between St. Paul and Baltimore, won by the latter club, was a financial success.

Peoria, Ill.—Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul light heavyweight, will meet Hugh Walker of Kansas City in a ten-round contest this evening.

St. Louis, Mo.—Joe Evans, who patrols the outfield for the Cleveland world's champions, is an interne in a local hospital, where he is taking a postgraduate course. Within a week from the end of the series with Brooklyn, Evans was on the job.

Cincinnati, Ohio—As a result of finishing third in the National league pennant race, each member of the Cincinnati "Reds" received $141.85 as his share of the world's series prize.

RECORD CROWD TO SEE SHOW

Ten Husky Boxers to Exchange Clouts at New Armory.

* * *

FIGHT HARD FIGHTS.

Kid Alberts, Duluth, vs. Niel Allison, Duluth, 10 rounds, 138 pounds.

Kid Billings, Superior, vs. Battling Hugo, Minneapolis, 10 rounds, 145 pounds.

Dan Franti, Bovey, vs. Harry Boyle, Philadelphia, 6 rounds, 140 pounds.

Bob Johnson, Duluth, vs. "Bill Hart, Minneapolis, 6 rounds, 200 pounds.

Dan Freske, Superior, vs. Kid Proctor, Proctor, 6 rounds, 165 pounds.

Place—New Armory, Thirteenth avenue east and London road.

Referee—Jimmy Potts of Minneapolis.

* * *

Six-ounce mittens will be slamming and banging in the New Armory arena this frost-laden evening when the ten husky contestants who make up the classy card of five fights to be staged by the Duluth Athletic club climb through the hempen inclosure to swap clouts in their respective bouts. Every one of the ten youthful contenders for pugilistic glory passed perfectly in their state physical examinations today, all of them being in the proverbial pink.

The big platform on which the bouts will be staged has been set in the very center of the Armory, with a large electric reflector immediately over it, so that an excellent view of the boxers can be obtained from every corner of the big arena.

Battling Hugo, the Minneapolis welterweight who is to go on with Kid Billings of Superior in one of the main bouts on the card, arrived here this morning ine company with Referee Jimmy Potts of the same city and "Two-Gun Bill" Hart of St. Paul, the heavyweight who is to take on our Bob Johnson in a scheduled six-round mill. Ed Franti, the Bovey lightweight who meets Harry Boyle, the veteran Philadelphia battler, reached the city last evening, accompanied by fans from Bovey, Coleraine, Grand Rapids and Marble. Dan Freske, the Superior middleweight who takes on Kid Proctor of Proctor, trooped in this morning.

While the card is plugged with battle from the curtain raiser to the last bell in the main event, chief interest is being taken in the Kid Alberts-Neil Allison quarrel on the result of which close to $5,000 has already been wagered. If Allison weighs in at 138 pounds or under this afternoon at 3 o'clock the Alberts supporters will unbelt and wager heavily on their favorite. Many of the latter have been laying off in wagering until they can ascertain what poundage the steel plant walloper will make. There is plenty of Allison money still uncovered and it is doubtful if all of it can be placed before battle time this evening.

The advance sale of seats shows that a record crowd will see the big entertainment, the attendance being figured a little better than 4,000. Special firemen and policemen have been employed by the club officials to patrol the building, both inside and out. Along with these will be City Probation Officer Doughty, who will chase home the kids after the curfew sounds.

SOVIET FORCES CLOSING IN ON GEN. WRANGEL IN THE CRIMEA

EVACUATING SEBASTOPOL

Situation of Anti-Bolshevik Leader Is Said to Be Desperate.

Russ Troops Win Control of the Isthmus of Perekop.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The Russian soviet forces have won control of the isthmus of Perekop, leading to the Crimean peninsula and the situation of Gen. Baron Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevik commander in the Crimea, is extremely bad, according to dispatches received today by the French foreign office. The Allied fleets, it is stated, are preparing to aid in the evacuation of certain districts in the Crimea.

The Bolsheviki have advanced beyond Perekop, the advices show, and have captured 12,000,000 cartridges, eighteen cannon, one tank, three armored trains, 10,000 shells and much transportation material.

Evacuating Sebastopol.

London, Nov. 13.—Sebastopol is being evacuated and British authorities are equipping ships in Constantinople to take refugees from that city, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from the Turkish capital.

Eighty thousand persons in Sabastopol seek transportation from the city, says a Constantinople dispatch to Reuter's, Ltd. The dispatch, which was filed yesterday, says the number of ships available is limited and that it is probable it will be impossible for more than 20,000 to embark. The first boatloads of refugees have arrived at Constantinople, it is said, but were not permitted to land, as housing facilities are limited and food is scarce. Their plight is declared to be very grave.

Gen. Baron Wrangel's situation in Northern Crimea is said to be desperate.

Cross Sivash Sea.

London, Nov. 13.—A Bolshevik army, supported by heavy artillery, has crossed the frozen Sivash (or Putrid) sea, and entered the Crimea and is violently attacking Gen. Wrangel's last line of defense on the east, says a dispatch to the London Times from Constantinople. The dispatch says the fate of the Crimea depends on the result of the fighting. At the time the dispatch was filed the situation was regarded as most critical and preparations were being made to evacuate the population.

TO BEGIN CRUSADE AGAINST HOME BREW

Washington, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—The internal revenue bureau, in formal statements yesterday, confirmed reports that a crusade against home brewing of alcoholic beverages is planned by the government's prohibition enforcement agencies. The bureau did not reveal, however, the means it proposed to employ in the campaign nor admit that it had approved preliminary instructions by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer directing that sales of malt and hops be restricted to bakers and confectioners.

"If malt extract, hops, isinglass, gelatine, or other materials are sold or advertised for sale in circumstances which show that these are advertised or sold for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquors," a statement issued tonight by Commissioner Williams of the internal revenue bureau, said "it is the purpose of the bureau to prosecute persons so offending.

"The so-called home brew beer manufactured in the home for beverage purposes, even though for the sole use of the family and bonafide guests, is, under the bureau's construction of the law, illegal and the sale of materials for the purpose of such manufacture is likewise illegal."

MEN PROMINENT IN LABOR WAR QUERIED

New York, Nov. 13.—Official investigation of the "solution" of the Wall street explosion Sept. 16, put forth by the New York Evening World, was begun by District Attorney Swann with the examination of men mentioned as prominent in the labor "war" attributed as having furnished the motive for the crime.

William Zaranko, president of Housewreckers' union, No. 95, which the newspaper charged had been subjected to "tyranny" at the hands of the rival organization of Robert P. Brindell, president of the building trades council, and Albert A. Volk, head of a company which had the demolition contract of the New York Stock exchange annex, underwent examinations.

Much of Volk's statement to the district attorney was devoted to what he said was his "own theory" of the explosion, "that it was done to hurt or frighten some of my men" and to a statement alleged to have been made by Raymond Clark, a former foreman for Volk, that a man reported to him immediately after the explosion that it was his horse that had been killed. Clark, the newspaper asserted, was the victim of an attempted assassination within a month after the explosion.

STUDENTS' MIGRATION

Few Southern States Sending Students to the Northern Colleges.

New York, Nov. 13.—A study of student migration shows that New Jersey leads all other states in the percentage of its college students sent to other states to be educated, New Hampshire leads all others in the percentage of students received from other states for education, and New York ranks first in the total number of undergraduates sent outside the state for college instruction.

This information is furnished by Dr. Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Council of Church Boards of Education, who has completed a survey for that organization of student movements throughout the United States. The survey does not include the larger state universities, but simply the institutions ranked as accredited colleges by the Association of American Universities, the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States and the University of California.

Twelve States Without Colleges.

The survey revealed, Dr. Kelly said, that Ohio and Pennsylvania are in the lead with the greatest number of colleges, there being seventeen in each state; while there are twelve states which have no accredited college. These are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming. These twelve furnish 2,246 college students to the institutions of other states, in the list surveyed.

"Conversely, it is interesting to note," said Dr. Kelly, "that California comes the nearest of any state to taking care of her own students. Only 6.6 per cent of California students attend college outside of the state."

Among other facts revealed by the survey are:

Ohio leads in the total number of college students enrolled.

The District of Columbia has the highest average enrollment per college, which is 2,629.

Massachusetts leads in the total number of students drawn from outside the state, the number being 4,165.

Ohio leads in the total number of students in and outside the state.

There is a striking lack of migration, the survey showed, of students of Southern states to states of the North. Outside of a limited amount of migration from one Southern state to another, Southern student migration is almost nil.

STEAMERS COLLIDE OFF STATEN ISLAND

New York, Nov. 13.—The Spanish mail steamer Mont Serret from Cadiz with 379 passengers for New York, Mexico and the West Indies, and the steamer San Marcos, arriving from Galveston, were in collision off Staten island this morning.

Some of the Mont Serret's passengers leaped overboard, early reports showing that at least one had been rescued and sent to the Ellis island hospital.

WILL NOT BRING TEST CASE BEFORE MONDAY

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 13.—A test case on the recent ruling of Prohibition Commissioner Kramer, prohibiting the sale of malt and hops to anyone except bakers and confectioners, to have been filed in the United States court here yesterday, probably will not be brought until Monday, it was said today by Clark C. Doughty, local dealer, who has said he will bring the action. Malt and hop dealers of this city will shoulder the expense of the action.

TWO CHARGED WITH MURDER

Missouri Woman and Son Held for Death of John McCormick.

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 13.—Mrs. Mary McCormick, wife of John McCormick, a farmer, whose body was found several days ago in a deserted well near Monett, Mo., and their 15-year-old son, Sheridan, were held in the Barry county jail at Cassville today to await preliminary hearing on charges of first degree murder.

Mrs. McCormick and her son were arrested yesterday and held in bonds of $10,000.

Several threats are said to have been made against McCormick's life. While he was working in a field recently unknown persons fired at him, the bullet passing through the crown of his hat. He thought the shot had been fired by careless hunters.

Home Destroyed.

On Oct. 11, his home near Monett was destroyed by fire. McCormick remained on the farm and lived in one of the farm buildings.

McCormick was missed several days before the search was instituted by his brothers. When he failed to vote at the general election they became alarmed and on the following day found his body in an old deserted well. Prosecuting Attorney Smith immediately started an investigation, and Monday morning a grand jury was empanelled at Cassville to investigate the murder.

Many witnesses were examined during the five-day session of the grand jury and on the strength of the testimony offered, the inquisitorial body returned indictments charging the mother and son with McCormick's murder.

Additional patrols have been sent out from the White Lake station.

STRONG OFFENSIVE ON LITHUANIAN FRONT

Copenhagen, Nov. 13.—A strong Polish offensive was begun Wednesday on the Northeast Lithuanian front, according to a Kovno dispatch to the Berlingske Tidende today. After violent fighting the towns of Smolny and Turmond were occupied by the attacking forces, which now are fighting outside Novo-Alexandrovsk, the report stated.

Dissatisfaction is reported in the army of Gen. Zeligouski, the insurgent Polish commander (whose troops presumably are the ones referred to in the Kovno message).

FIND MAN'S HEAD IN CHICAGO ASH PILE

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The head of a man with a bullet hole through the right cheek was found yesterday in a pile of ashes back of a cafe on the outskirts of the downtown section here by a hotel fireman who was removing the ashes. A thorough search of the entire pile revealed no other parts of the body. The head had been cut just below the chin with some very sharp instrument, and the police said they thought only a surgeon could have done it. It apparently had been in the ashes about six months, the police said.

Spooner, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The inquest into the death of Miss Kate Matthews, 50, by a Canadian National railways train near her home at Barwick Tuesday resulted in a verdict blaming no one. It is thought she did not hear the train.

PRESIDENT CONTINUING TO IMPROVE

Great Vitality Expected to Win Long Struggle for Life.

May Appear in Congress for Farewell Address in December.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Wilson continues to improve in health. The statement of Ambassador Davis on his arrival in London that the president was a much sicker man than the public knew is not considered here to be in conflict with the optimistic assurance given by Secretary Colby after seeing the president a week ago. Mr. Davis is believed to have been referring to an earlier period in Mr. Wilson's illness and not to recent weeks.

Everybody about the White House seems to have become more hopeful now about the president's ultimate recovery. His improvement has been so much more than was expected and so much better than is ordinarily true of cases of the kind that Mr. Wilson's extraordinary vitality is now expected to win the long struggle for life which he has been waging for more than a year.

Confident of Vindication.

Instead of proving a shock to him, the election passed by without untoward effect upon Mr. Wilson's health. Those who knew the president best say this is due to a sublime confidence in the righteousness of the cause he fought for and that his habit of mind is not to think of the incidents of two or three years but of the political movements and tides of an era or epoch. The president is represented as confident that before many years he will have been vindicated.

On the other hand, the passing of responsibility from his hands has had the effect of relieving his mind of the many worries and burdens which for eight years have beset him. As the fourth of March approaches, his friends expect that he will get stronger and feel better. There is some hope that he may be well enough to surprise everybody next month by appearing in congress for his farewell address.

It would make a dramatic picture—the president of the United States being wheeled on an invalid's chair through the corridors of the capitol which in earlier days he walked so briskly. There was a time when discussion was going on as to Mr. Wilson's mental fitness to continue in office, that the president is said to have considered seriously going to congress and reading an address. Indeed, none of the folks around the White House will admit that at any time during his illness have the president's mental facilities been impaired by his weakened physical condition.

A curious sidelight on the popular impression of Mr. Wilson's condition is the number of communications which have poured into the White House constantly asking the president to write for magazines, weekly periodicals, newspapers or syndicates. All seem to be predicated upon the idea that Mr. Wilson's mental vigor is unchanged and that he will devote himself to writing when he leaves the White House. The general hope is that Mr. Wilson will write about the peace conference, or at least tell some of the unpublished incidents of his own administration of eight years. But there again the public may be surprised, for while Mr. Wilson may occasionally have something to say on current affairs, he is represented as being unwilling to write about himself or the incidents of his own administration. He is believed to be ready to write on governmental subjects in an impersonal sense. It is suggested, for instance, that he will write books and essays about constitutional government, outlining still further the theories and conceptions of popular government.

Will Develop Theories.

The president has theories of his own concerning the changes that ought to be made in order to make the executive and legislative branches of the government more closely responsive to the will of the people, and it is considered probable that he will develop these ideas in his writings, using specific incidents of his career only as illustrations.

For the present the outlook is that Mr. Wilson will be able to devote himself to literary work when his term of office expires. Everything, however, on matters of health is a gamble and with Mr. Wilson's advanced age nothing is certain. However, he will live in Washington, probably on an estate outside the city, and will pursue his labors leisurely. It may be a long time before Woodrow Wilson writes anything for publication after he leaves the White House.

NO FORMAL REQUEST FROM THE GERMANS

Geneva, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Germany will not make a formal application for admission to the League of Nations, but would not ignore an invitation to become a member, should it be extended by the organization, said Dr. Herrmann Mueller, vice president of the foreign affairs committee of the German reichstag in a statement to the Journal de Geneve yesterday.

"Germany will not ask the assembly to admit her to the league," he declared, "because such an application would give rise to a sharp discussion in the assembly, for it is known certain states have given indications they would oppose her immediate entry. I do not know whether they have sufficient support to insure the triumph of their viewpoint, but, however, that may be, such a discussion would not be without danger to the league itself; besides the German government does not consider the league in its present form as perfect. How, indeed, could it be, since, to mention only two states, it includes neither Russia nor the United States, and universality is the fundamental condition of its existence?

"That, however, does not mean that Germany would maintain a reserved attitude in the event of some delegation raising the question of her admission, and if the assembly should accept her, Germany would not decline an invitation resulting from such a decision."

Drops Dead at Madison.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—J. N. Manson, aged 65, of Wausau, Wis., in Madison to attend the university homecoming and the Illinois-Wisconsin football game, dropped dead in the lobby of the Park hotel here late last night.

WATER POWER TO BE INCREASED APPROXIMATELY 100 PER CENT

DRY HUSBANDS ABUSE FAMILY

Complaints of Cruelty Increase 238 Per Cent Since Prohibition.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Statistics showing that complaints of cruelty to wife and children have increased 238 per cent since prohibition arrived and more rapidly in the last six months than during the first half of the year, were made public in the annual report of Albert E. Webster, superintendent of the Juvenile Protective association, made public today.

"Men who formerly drank heavily," the report reads, "have undergone a reaction which expresses itself in surliness or abuse of the family."

Other classes of complaints also are shown to have increased; juvenile delinquency has increased 40 per cent; complaints against disorderly houses 80 per cent, or about 700 per cent over the war period and complaints concerning runaway and immoral girls nearly 100 per cent or 80 per cent more than during the war period.

On the other hand, it was shown that complaints of adult contribution to child delinquency on account of liquor have decreased 74 per cent since the Eighteenth amendment went into effect, prosecutions for nonsupport have decreased 20 per cent, disorderly conduct charges have been cut in half and insanity complaints reduced 60 per cent.

MAIL POUCH STOLEN FROM C. & N. W. TRAIN

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—A pouch of registered mail was stolen last night from a through mail car on Train No. 111 of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad somewhere between Chicago and Milwaukee, it was announced here today by officials of the road.

The pouch apparently was stolen by someone who had been locked inside the car before it left Chicago, according to J. S. Lawrence, special agent for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. He said the car had four doors, two of which were locked from the outside and two from the inside before the car left Chicago.

When the car arrived here one of the doors that had been locked from the inside was open. One pouch of registered mail was gone.

No information as to the contents of the pouch or its value was obtainable.

Northfield, Minn., Nov. 13.—Ninety quarts of whisky valued at $1,500, said to have been brought here by a man named Alvin Anderson of Grand Forks, N. D., has been confiscated by Federal agents aided by local police. The liquor is believed to have been brought here by two agents of Anderson's in an automobile. No arrests have been made. Anderson disappeared shortly after the raid.

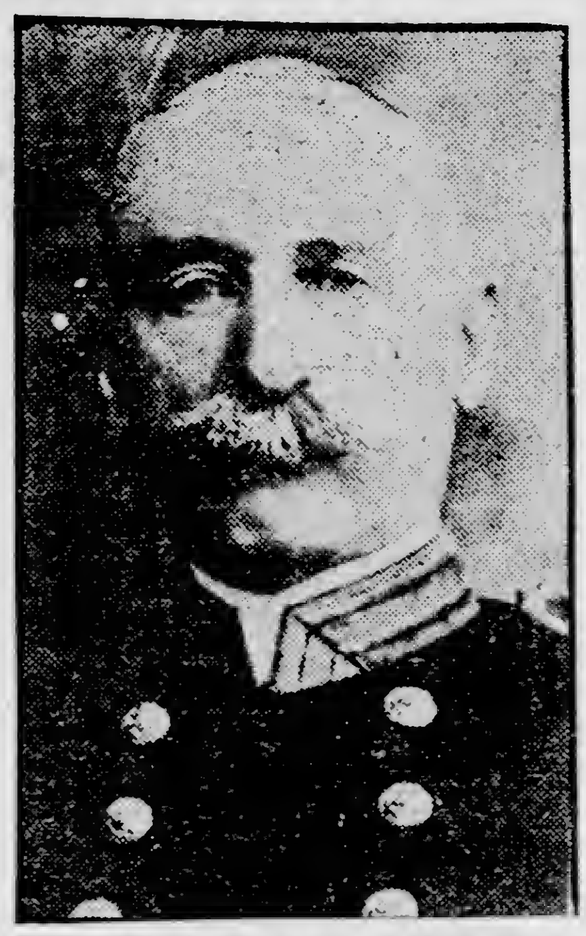
REAPPOINTED CHAIRMAN OF U. S. SHIPPING BOARD



REAR ADMIRAL BENSON.

SPENDS DAY IN COTTAGE

Stormy Weather Keeps Harding From Outdoor Sports.

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Kept off the Point Isabel fishing grounds by a cold norther and virtually marooned on the land side by almost impassable roads, President-elect Harding remained at his seashore cottage today, winding up his vacation week with a complete rest. He hopes to get out for more tarpon fishing Monday if the storm blows over and on Tuesday he expects to play a game of golf at Brownsville when he motors there. He will remain there over Tuesday night and will leave Wednesday morning for New Orleans to sail to Panama.

To Speak at New Orleans.

The president-elect has agreed to deliver an address in New Orleans on the following day, before he sails for Panama. He will speak before the New Orleans chamber of commerce.

Many invitations to speak at other places in the South and Southwest have come to the president-elect, but he is declining all of them.

On the way northward, along the gulf coast, the Harding party will reach New Orleans Thursday morning. They sail that afternoon.

Senator Harding's decision to accept the New Orleans invitation means his first three formal addresses as president-elect will be delivered within the territory of the old Confederacy.

The first of these addresses was delivered in Brownsville, Tex., and the third has been scheduled for Dec. 5 at Bedford, Va.

Speeches outside American territory are to be avoided, and Mr. Harding indicated that he did not expect during his Panama trip to go within the boundaries or waters of any foreign country.

In the party are A. C. Hoefer, Driftwood; Abe Slaughter, Wakita; Edward Garrett, Wakita; Daniel Murley, Cherokee; V. L. Hughes, Drummond; F. F. Parker, Shattuck, and W. C. Scott of Tawankwa.

The party is organizing the wheat growers of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota to co-operate with those already organized in Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Kansas. Missouri also is to be organized before the first of the year.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving proclamation last night, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, Nov. 25, for the usual observance. The text follows:

"The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preconceptions of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for His manifold goodness.

"This is an old observance of the American people, deeply imbedded in our thoughts and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lessons of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men, which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of peace, as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of war, now happily passing.

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities. May we have vision to discern our duties, the strength, both of hands and resolve, to discharge them and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those of service.

"In a spirit, then, of devotion and stewardship, we should give thanks in our hearts and dedicate ourselves to the service of God's merciful and loving purposes to His children.

"Wherefore, I, Wodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I call upon my countrymen to cease from the ordinary tasks and avocations upon that day, giving it up to the remembrance of God and His blessings, and their dutiful, grateful acknowledgment."

SURVEYS AND PLANS MAKING

Great Northern Company Will Spend Between One and Two Million.

New Site Two Miles From Present Plant at Thomson.

Preliminary surveys and plans are being made by the Great Northern Power company for the construction of another power plant on the St. Louis river to cost between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. The new dam and plant will be built about a mile and three-quarters above the new concrete bridge at Fond du Lac and about two miles below the company's present plant at Thomson.

The site selected was acquired by the company about eight months ago. This site includes a large flat piece of ground located just below a gorge in the river. A force of engineers in the employ of the company has been at work in the vicinity of the place during the last few weeks, making surveys and tests for future construction purposes.

As yet there is nothing definite to give out as to the plans except that the proposed plant will be almost as large if not fully as big as the Thomson plant, according to officials of the company. The present plant is furnishing from 40,000 to 65,000 horse power to the Head of the Lakes and to points on the range. The increasing demand for electric power which at times during "peak" loads is difficult to supply, is the reason why the company is now going ahead with the construction of its new plant.

Most Favored Plan.

One of the preliminary plans, which is said to meet with the most favor is that of the construction of the dam in the gorge just above the flat. The gorge at this point is about eighty feet wide and high enough to provide an immense water reservoir after the dam is built. Its construction at this point, it is believed, will be at the lowest cost. Below the proposed dam and on the flat it is proposed to construct the power plant.

The Great Northern Power company is now furnishing all of the electric power for the street railway, industrial plants and for home consumption in Duluth and Superior. Only recently the company extended its power lines to the range cities and is now furnishing the power for operation of the interurban street railway lines of the mining district as well as numerous industries on the range.

Farmers Want Power.

The company has had numerous requests from the farming district throughout St. Louis county to furnish electric light to farmers, in some of the communities the farmers offering to do all of the work of putting up the poles and assisting in stringing the wires. It is believed possible that many of these requests will be granted after the new plant is constructed and in operation.

Officials of the company are not ready to announce when the new plant will be ready but say that the construction will begin shortly after the plans have been approved. It is probable that the definite plans will be ready for approval within two months and that before spring actual construction will begin.

PLAN RESTRICTION ON IMMIGRATION

Washington, Nov. 13.—Congress at the coming session will be urged by the house committee on immigration to restrict admission of aliens to this country to close blood relatives of naturalized citizens, Representative Albert Johnson of Washington, chairman of the committee, said today. The committee, he added, will begin Monday to prepare recommendations for the restriction of immigration and for changes in the naturalization bill now on the house calendar.

Mr. Johnson said he was certain the committee would favor requiring a guarantee from a citizen planning to bring relatives to the United States as to their ability to earn a living, health and moral character. Such a guarantee probably would be in the form of a bond, he declared.

A number of amendments, according to Chairman Johnson, will be made to the naturalization bill so as to place greater restrictions on citizenship.

U. S. AND JAPS ARE SAID TO HAVE AGREED

Tokio, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Newspapers here report that the Japanese and American governments have reached an agreement in principle relative to the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. It is asserted, however, that there is a disagreement regarding the methods to be employed.

America is understood to desire provisions for exclusion embodied in a treaty, but Japan, it is said, regards this procedure humiliating, and as forming a precedent she might be forced to follow in treaties negotiated in future. Japan is declared to consider that measures prohibiting her subjects from emigrating can be taken only on her own initiative.

In other respects the negotiations are progressing, it is reported, and once this point has been settled, an agreement may be expected.

HUNGARIAN TREATY OVER UNTIL MONDAY

Budapest, Nov. 10.—Ratification of the treaty between Hungary and the Allied nations has been postponed from Saturday until Monday. Leaders of the governmental parties today held a conference to devise means to compel pro-governmental deputies to vote instead of remaining away from the session, which has been termed "the burial service of old Hungary."

A protest against a "dictated peace" will be sent to all countries, but will not be embodied in the text of the act of ratification.

SOVIET FORCES CLOSING IN ON GEN. WRANGEL IN THE CRIMEA

EVACUATING SEBASTOPOL

Situation of Anti-Bolshevik Leader Is Said to Be Desperate.

Russ Troops Win Control of the Isthmus of Perekop.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The Russian soviet forces have won control of the isthmus of Perekop, leading to the Crimean peninsula and the situation of Gen. Baron Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevik commander in the Crimea, is extremely bad, according to dispatches received today by the French foreign office. The Allied fleets, it is stated, are preparing to aid in the evacuation of certain districts in the Crimea.

The Bolsheviki have advanced beyond Perekop, the advices show, and have captured 12,000,000 cartridges, eighteen cannon, one tank, three armored trains, 10,000 shells and much transportation material.

Evacuating Sebastopol.

London, Nov. 13.—Sebastopol is being evacuated and British authorities are equipping ships in Constantinople to take refugees from that city, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from the Turkish capital.

Eighty thousand persons in Sabastopol seek transportation from the city, says a Constantinople dispatch to Reuter's, Ltd. The dispatch, which was filed yesterday, says the number of ships available is limited and that it is probable it will be impossible for more than 20,000 to embark. The first boatloads of refugees have arrived at Constantinople, it is said, but were not permitted to land, as housing facilities are limited and food is scarce. Their plight is declared to be very grave.

Gen. Baron Wrangel's situation in Northern Crimea is said to be desperate.

Cross Sivash Sea.

London, Nov. 13.—A Bolshevik army, supported by heavy artillery, has crossed the frozen Sivash (or Putrid) sea, and entered the Crimea and is violently attacking Gen. Wrangel's last line of defense on the east, says a dispatch to the London Times from Constantinople. The dispatch says the fate of the Crimea depends on the result of the fighting. At the time the dispatch was filed the situation was regarded as most critical and preparations were being made to evacuate the population.

TO BEGIN CRUSADE AGAINST HOME BREW

Washington, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—The internal revenue bureau, in formal statements yesterday, confirmed reports that a crusade against home brewing of alcoholic beverages is planned by the government's prohibition enforcement agencies. The bureau did not reveal, however, the means it proposed to employ in the campaign nor admit that it had approved preliminary instructions by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer directing that sales of malt and hops be restricted to bakers and confectioners.

"If malt extract, hops, isinglass, gelatine, or other materials are sold or advertised for sale in circumstances which show that these are advertised or sold for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquors," a statement issued tonight by Commissioner Williams of the internal revenue bureau, said "it is the purpose of the bureau to prosecute persons so offending.

"The so-called home brew beer manufactured in the home for beverage purposes, even though for the sole use of the family and bonafide guests, is, under the bureau's construction of the law, illegal and the sale of materials for the purpose of such manufacture is likewise illegal."

MEN PROMINENT IN LABOR WAR QUERIED

New York, Nov. 13.—Official investigation of the "solution" of the Wall street explosion Sept. 16, put forth by the New York Evening World, was begun by District Attorney Swann with the examination of men mentioned as prominent in the labor "war" attributed as having furnished the motive for the crime.

William Zaranko, president of Housewreckers' union, No. 95, which the newspaper charged had been subjected to "tyranny" at the hands of the rival organization of Robert P. Brindell, president of the building trades council, and Albert A. Volk, head of a company which had the demolition contract of the New York Stock exchange annex, underwent examinations.

Much of Volk's statement to the district attorney was devoted to what he said was his "own theory" of the explosion, "that it was done to hurt or frighten some of my men" and to a statement alleged to have been made by Raymond Clark, a former foreman for Volk, that a man reported to him immediately after the explosion that it was his horse that had been killed. Clark, the newspaper asserted, was the victim of an attempted assassination within a month after the explosion.

GEN. NIVELLE IS GUEST OF GEN. WOOD

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Gen. Georges Nivelle, hero of Verdun and later supreme commander of the French armies, was in Chicago today, the guest of Maj.-Gen. Wood. He is representing the French government at the tercentenary celebration of the arrival of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock. He will speak tomorrow night before the Sunday Evening club, visit Fort Sheridan on Monday and on Tuesday will leave for Milwaukee.

STUDENTS' MIGRATION

Few Southern States Sending Students to the Northern Colleges.

New York, Nov. 13.—A study of student migration shows that New Jersey leads all other states in the percentage of its college students sent to other states to be educated, New Hampshire leads all others in the percentage of students received from other states for education, and New York ranks first in the total number of undergraduates sent outside the state for college instruction.

This information is furnished by Dr Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Council of Church Boards of Education, who has completed a survey for that organization of student movements throughout the United States. The survey does not include the larger state universities, but simply the institutions ranked as accredited colleges by the Association of American Universities, the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States and the University of California.

Twelve States Without Colleges.

The survey revealed, Dr. Kelly said, that Ohio and Pennsylvania are in the lead with the greatest number of colleges, there being seventeen in each state; while there are twelve states which have no accredited college. These are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming. These twelve furnish 2,246 college students to the institutions of other states, in the list surveyed.

"Conversely, it is interesting to note," said Dr. Kelly, "that California comes the nearest of any state to taking care of her own students. Only 6.6 per cent of California students attend college outside of the state."

Among other facts revealed by the survey are:

Ohio leads in the total number of college students enrolled.

The District of Columbia has the highest average enrollment per college, which is 2,629.

Massachusetts leads in the total number of students drawn from outside the state, the number being 4,165.

Ohio leads in the total number of students in and outside the state.

There is a striking lack of migration, the survey showed, of students of Southern states to states of the North. Outside of a limited amount of migration from one Southern state to another, Southern student migration is almost nil.

STEAMERS COLLIDE OFF STATEN ISLAND

New York, Nov. 13.—The Spanish mail steamer Mont Serret from Cadiz with 379 passengers for New York, Mexico and the West Indies, and the steamer San Marcos, arriving from Galveston, were in collision off Staten island this morning.

Some of the Mont Serret's passengers leaped overboard, early reports showing that at least one had been rescued and sent to the Ellis island hospital.

The San Marcos continued to her pier, where she arrived safely.

TWO CHARGED WITH MURDER

Missouri Woman and Son Held for Death of John McCormick.

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 13.—Mrs. Mary McCormick, wife of John McCormick, a farmer, whose body was found several days ago in a deserted well near Monett, Mo., and their 15-year-old son, Sheridan, were held in the Barry county jail at Cassville today to await preliminary hearing on charges of first degree murder.

Mrs. McCormick and her son were arrested yesterday and held in bonds of $10,000.

Several threats are said to have been made against McCormick's life. While he was working in a field recently unknown persons fired at him, the bullet passing through the crown of his hat. He thought the shot had been fired by careless hunters.

Home Destroyed.

On Oct. 11, his home near Monett was destroyed by fire. McCormick remained on the farm and lived in one of the farm buildings.

McCormick was missed several days before the search was instituted by his brothers. When he failed to vote at the general election they became alarmed and on the following day found his body in an old deserted well. Prosecuting Attorney Smith immediately started an investigation, and Monday morning a grand jury was empanelled at Cassville to investigate the murder.

Many witnesses were examined during the five-day session of the grand jury and on the strength of the testimony offered, the inquisitorial body returned indictments charging the mother and son with McCormick's murder.

STRONG OFFENSIVE ON LITHUANIAN FRONT

Copenhagen, Nov. 13.—A strong Polish offensive was begun Wednesday on the Northeast Lithuanian front, according to a Kovno dispatch to the Berlingske Tidende today. After violent fighting the towns of Smolny and Turmond were occupied by the attacking forces, which now are fighting outside Novo-Alexandrovsk, the report stated.

Dissatisfaction is reported in the army of Gen. Zeligouski, the insurgent Polish commander (whose troops presumably are the ones referred to in the Kovno message).

FIND MAN'S HEAD IN CHICAGO ASH PILE

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The head of a man with a bullet hole through the right cheek was found yesterday in a pile of ashes back of a cafe on the outskirts of the downtown section here by a hotel fireman who was removing the ashes. A thorough search of the entire pile revealed no other parts of the body. The head had been cut just below the chin with some very sharp instrument, and the police said they thought only a surgeon could have done it. It apparently had been in the ashes about six months, the police said.

PRESIDENT CONTINUING TO IMPROVE

Great Vitality Expected to Win Long Struggle for Life.

May Appear in Congress for Farewell Address in December.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Wilson continues to improve in health. The statement of Ambassador Davis on his arrival in London that the president was a much sicker man than the public knew is not considered here to be in conflict with the optimistic assurance given by Secretary Colby after seeing the president a week ago. Mr. Davis is believed to have been referring to an earlier period in Mr. Wilson's illness and not to recent weeks.

Everybody about the White House seems to have become more hopeful now about the president's ultimate recovery. His improvement has been so much more than was expected and so much better than is ordinarily true of cases of the kind that Mr. Wilson's extraordinary vitality is now expected to win the long struggle for life which he has been waging for more than a year.

Confident of Vindication.

Instead of proving a shock to him, the election passed by without untoward effect upon Mr. Wilson's health. Those who knew the president best say this is due to a sublime confidence in the righteousness of the cause he fought for and that his habit of mind is not to think of the incidents of two or three years but of the political movements and tides of an era or epoch. The president is represented as confident that before many years he will have been vindicated.

On the other hand, the passing of responsibility from his hands has had the effect of relieving his mind of the many worries and burdens which for eight years have beset him. As the fourth of March approaches, his friends expect that he will get stronger and feel better. There is some hope that he may be well enough to surprise everybody next month by appearing in congress for his farewell address.

It would make a dramatic picture—the president of the United States being wheeled on an invalid's chair through the corridors of the capitol which in earlier days he walked so briskly. There was a time when discussion was going on as to Mr. Wilson's mental fitness to continue in office, that the president is said to have considered seriously going to congress and reading an address. Indeed, none of the folks around the White House will admit that at any time during his illness have the president's mental facilities been impaired by his weakened physical condition.

A curious sidelight on the popular impression of Mr. Wilson's condition is the number of communications which have poured into the White House constantly asking the president to write for magazines, weekly periodicals, newspapers or syndicates. All seem to be predicated upon the idea that Mr. Wilson's mental vigor is unchanged and that he will devote himself to writing when he leaves the White House. The general hope is that Mr. Wilson will write about the peace conference, or at least tell some of the unpublished incidents of his own administration of eight years. But there again the public may be surprised, for while Mr. Wilson may occasionally have something to say on current affairs, he is represented as being unwilling to write about himself or the incidents of his own administration. He is believed to be ready to write on governmental subjects in an impersonal sense. It is suggested, for instance, that he will write books and essays about constitutional government, outlining still further the theories and conceptions of popular government.

Will Develop Theories.

The president has theories of his own concerning the changes that ought to be made in order to make the executive and legislative branches of the government more closely responsive to the will of the people, and it is considered probable that he will develop these ideas in his writings, using specific incidents of his career only as illustrations.

For the present the outlook is that Mr. Wilson will be able to devote himself to literary work when his term of office expires. Everything, however, on matters of health is a gamble and with Mr. Wilson's advanced age nothing is certain. However, he will live in Washington, probably on an estate outside the city, and will pursue his labors leisurely. It may be a long time before Woodrow Wilson writes anything for publication after he leaves the White House.

NO FORMAL REQUEST FROM THE GERMANS

Geneva, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Germany will not make a formal application for admission to the League of Nations, but would not ignore an invitation to become a member, should it be extended by the organization, said Dr. Herrmann Mueller, vice president of the foreign affairs committee of the German reichstag in a statement to the Journal de Geneve yesterday.

"Germany will not ask the assembly to admit her to the league," he declared, "because such an application would give rise to a sharp discussion in the assembly, for it is known certain states have given indications they would oppose her immediate entry. I do not know whether they have sufficient support to insure the triumph of their viewpoint, but, however, that may be, such a discussion would not be without danger to the league itself; besides the German government does not consider the league in its present form as perfect. How, indeed, could it be, since, to mention only two states, it includes neither Russia nor the United States, and universality is the fundamental condition of its existence?

"That, however, does not mean that Germany would maintain a reserved attitude in the event of some delegation raising the question of her admission, and if the assembly should accept her, Germany would not decline an invitation resulting from such a decision."

Drops Dead at Madison.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—J. N. Manson, aged 65, of Wausau, Wis., in Madison to attend the university homecoming and the Illinois-Wisconsin football game, dropped dead in the lobby of the Park hotel here late last night.

WATER POWER TO BE INCREASED APPROXIMATELY 100 PER CENT

DRY HUSBANDS ABUSE FAMILY

Complaints of Cruelty Increase 238 Per Cent Since Prohibition.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Statistics showing that complaints of cruelty to wife and children have increased 238 per cent since prohibition arrived and more rapidly in the last six months than during the first half of the year, were made public in the annual report of Albert E. Webster, superintendent of the Juvenile Protective association, made public today.

"Men who formerly drank heavily," the report reads, "have undergone a reaction which expresses itself in surliness or abuse of the family."

Other classes of complaints also are shown to have increased; juvenile delinquency has increased 40 per cent; complaints against disorderly houses 80 per cent, or about 700 per cent over the war period and complaints concerning runaway and immoral girls nearly 100 per cent or 80 per cent more than during the war period.

On the other hand, it was shown that complaints of adult contribution to child delinquency on account of liquor have decreased 74 per cent since the Eighteenth amendment went into effect, prosecutions for nonsupport have decreased 20 per cent, disorderly conduct charges have been cut in half and insanity complaints reduced 60 per cent.

MAIL POUCH STOLEN FROM C. & N. W. TRAIN

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—A pouch of registered mail was stolen last night from a through mail car on Train No. 111 of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad somewhere between Chicago and Milwaukee, it was announced here today by officials of the road.

The pouch apparently was stolen by someone who had been locked inside the car before it left Chicago, according to J. S. Lawrence, special agent for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. He said the car had four doors, two of which were locked from the outside and two from the inside before the car left Chicago.

When the car arrived here one of the doors that had been locked from the inside was open. One pouch of registered mail was gone.

No information as to the contents of the pouch or its value was obtainable.

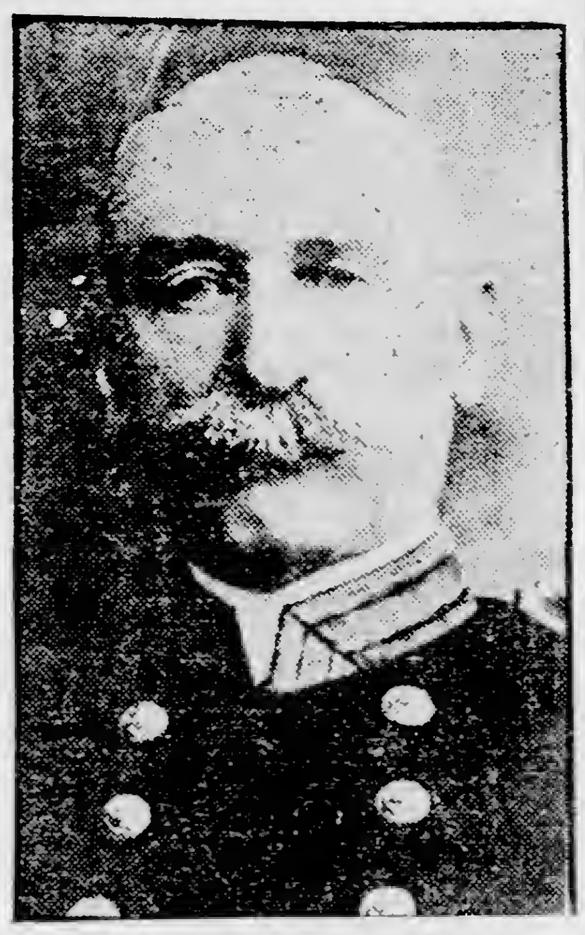
REAPPOINTED CHAIRMAN OF U. S. SHIPPING BOARD



REAR ADMIRAL BENSON.

SPENDS DAY IN COTTAGE

Stormy Weather Keeps Harding From Outdoor Sports.

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Kept off the Point Isabel fishing grounds by a cold norther and virtually marooned on the land side by almost impassable roads, President-elect Harding remained at his seashore cottage today, winding up his vacation week with a complete rest. He hopes to get out for more tarpon fishing Monday if the storm blows over and on Tuesday he expects to play a game of golf at Brownsville when he motors there. He will remain there over Tuesday night and will leave Wednesday morning for New Orleans to sail to Panama.

To Speak at New Orleans.

The president-elect has agreed to deliver an address in New Orleans on the following day, before he sails for Panama. He will speak before the New Orleans chamber of commerce.

Many invitations to speak at other places in the South and Southwest have come to the president-elect, but he is declining all of them.

On the way northward, along the gulf coast, the Harding party will reach New Orleans Thursday morning. They sail that afternoon.

Senator Harding's decision to accept the New Orleans invitation means his first three formal addresses as president-elect will be delivered within the territory of the old Confederacy.

The first of these addresses was delivered in Brownsville, Tex., and the third has been scheduled for Dec. 5 at Bedford, Va.

Speeches outside American territory are to be avoided, and Mr. Harding indicated that he did not expect during his Panama trip to go within the boundaries or waters of any foreign country.

The party is organizing the wheat growers of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota to co-operate with those already organized in Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Kansas. Missouri also is to be organized before the first of the year.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving proclamation last night, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, Nov. 25, for the usual observance. The text follows:

"The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preconceptions of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for His manifold goodness.

"This is an old observance of the American people, deeply imbedded in our thoughts and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lessons of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men, which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of peace, as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of war, now happily passing.

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities. May we have vision to discern our duties, the strength, both of hands and resolve, to discharge them and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those of service.

"In a spirit, then, of devotion and stewardship, we should give thanks in our hearts and dedicate ourselves to the service of God's merciful and loving purposes to His children.

"Wherefore, I, Wodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I call upon my countrymen to cease from the ordinary tasks and avocations upon that day, giving it up to the remembrance of God and His blessings, and their dutiful, grateful acknowledgment."

SURVEYS AND PLANS MAKING

Great Northern Company Will Spend Between One and Two Million.

New Site Two Miles From Present Plant at Thomson.

Preliminary surveys and plans are being made by the Great Northern Power company for the construction of another power plant on the St. Louis river to cost between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. The new dam and plant will be built about a mile and three quarters above the new concrete bridge at Fond du Lac and about two miles below the company's present plant at Thomson.

The site selected was acquired by the company about eight months ago. The site includes a large flat piece of ground located just below a gorge in the river. A force of engineers in the employ of the company has been at work in the vicinity of the place during the last few weeks, making surveys and tests for future construction purposes.

As yet there is nothing definite to give out as to the plans except that the proposed plant will be almost as large, if not fully as big as the Thomson plant, according to officials of the company. The present plant is furnishing from 40,000 to 65,000 horse power to the Head of the Lakes and to points on the range. The increasing demand for electric power which at times during "peak" loads is difficult to supply, is the reason why the company is now going ahead with the construction of its new plant.

Most Favored Plan.

One of the preliminary plans, which is said to meet with the most favor is that of the construction of the dam in the gorge just above the flat. The gorge at this point is about eighty feet wide and high enough to provide an immense water reservoir after the dam is built. Its construction at this point, it is believed, will be at the lowest cost. Below the proposed dam and on the flat it is proposed to construct the power plant.

The Great Northern Power company is now furnishing all of the electric power for the street railway, industrial plants and for home consumption in Duluth and Superior. Only recently the company extended its power lines to the range cities and is now furnishing the power for operation of the interurban street railway lines of the mining district as well as numerous industries on the range.

Farmers Want Power.

The company has had numerous requests from the farming district throughout St. Louis county to furnish electric light to farmers, in some of the communities the farmers offering to do all of the work of putting up the poles and assisting in stringing the wires. It is believed possible that many of these requests will be granted after the new plant is constructed and in operation.

Officials of the company are not ready to announce when the new plant will be ready but say that the construction will begin shortly after the plans have been approved. It is probable that the definite plans will be ready for approval within two months and that before spring actual construction will begin.

PLAN RESTRICTION ON IMMIGRATION

Washington, Nov. 13.—Congress at the coming session will be urged by the house committee on immigration to restrict admission of aliens to this country to close blood relatives of naturalized citizens, Representative Albert Johnson of Washington, chairman of the committee, said today. The committee, he added, will begin Monday to prepare recommendations for the restriction of immigration and for changes in the naturalization bill now on the house calendar.

Mr Johnson said he was certain the committee would favor requiring a guarantee from a citizen planning to bring relatives to the United States as to their ability to earn a living, health and moral character. Such a guarantee probably would be in the form of a bond, he declared.

A number of amendments, according to Chairman Johnson, will be made to the naturalization bill so as to place greater restrictions on citizenship.

U. S. AND JAPS ARE SAID TO HAVE AGREED

Tokio, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Newspapers here report that the Japanese and American governments have reached an agreement in principle relative to the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. It is asserted, however, that there is a disagreement regarding the methods to be employed.

America is understood to desire provisions for exclusion embodied in a treaty, but Japan, it is said, regards this procedure humiliating, and as forming a precedent she might be forced to follow in treaties negotiated in future. Japan is declared to consider that measures prohibiting her subjects from emigrating can be taken only on her own initiative.

In other respects the negotiations are progressing, it is reported, and once this point has been settled, an agreement may be expected.

HUNGARIAN TREATY OVER UNTIL MONDAY

Budapest, Nov. 10.—Ratification of the treaty between Hungary and the Allied nations has been postponed from Saturday until Monday. Leaders of the governmental parties today held a conference to devise means to compel pro-governmental deputies to vote instead of remaining away from the session, which has been termed "the burial service of old Hungary."

A protest against a "dictated peace" will be sent to all countries, but will not be embodied in the text of the act of ratification.

"I Became Well and Felt Better Than I Had in Years."

MRS. ANDREW LINGE.

Larimore, North Dakota,
January 12th, 1920.

Dr. Paul J. Wentworth,
2031 West Superior Street,
Duluth, Minnesota.

Dear Doctor Wentworth:

In November, 1919, I came fr[illegible] Larimore, N. D., in hope of findi[illegible] ome doctor who might be able to [illegible] ve me of my diseases. I went to several persons, considered as good doctors, only to find myself growing worse day by day. They said I had liver and kidney trouble, rheumatism and nervousness, and advised an operation. A friend of mine—Mrs. Thomas Peterson, 3203 Gilbert street, Duluth—advised me to have an interview with you, which I finally did. The first treatment which you gave me seemed to do good. I slept that night as I had not slept for a long time. And as I continued to take the treatments, I could feel myself growing better every day. My appetite grew, I relished my food, my bowels became active and normal, I slept soundly, my nervousness disappeared—in short, I became well, and felt better than I had in years. I took not a single drop of medicine during the entire course of treatment, as you used only NATURAL METHODS. I feel very grateful, and am writing this in the hope that it may be the cause of some other sufferer finding someone who will end their troubles.

Sincerely and gratefully yours,
MRS. ANDREW LINGE.

Mrs. Linge's letter speaks for itself. She is only one of the many who leave my offices daily—well and feeling fine. If you are suffering from ANY DISEASE, do not delay, but come to see me at once, and I shall tell you frankly if you will be healed.

MORE STORIES OF SHIP GRAFT

Witness Also Refers to Reports of Alleged Political Activity.

New York, Nov. 13.—Alleged "political activity" previously referred to in testimony and reports before the Walsh committee investigating facilities of the United States shipping board, was again touched on in testimony presented here yesterday.

Congressman Israel M. Foster, questioning John T. Meehan, deputy chief of the board's bureau of investigation, asked if there had been any loss to the government through "political influence."

The witness replied that he could not say that there had. Asked if there had been any complaints of such influence, the witness said that he had heard some criticism of William G. McAdoo after he had resigned the office of secretary of the treasury. It was charged, or rather complained of, the witness added, that Mr. McAdoo had appeared before the board on behalf of the "Morse interests."

"I do not want to be understood," the witness continued, "as saying that it is even inferred that Mr. McAdoo has interfered with, or has been harmful to the board in any way."

He explained he was testifying only as to criticisms he had heard.

Meehan also said that while most of the investigations of his department had been of the activities of minor employes his department "had not overlooked officials."

Gone "Very High."

He added they had gone "very high" in the board's personnel. He repeated previous testimony that no irregularities had been discovered among the board's officers. References were made, however, to department heads, particularly in Southrn district shipyards, where dismissals had taken place at his recommendation. One of these dismissals was brought about, he said, by what he termed undue and unnecessary delay as well as exorbitant expense in repairs to a wooden ship. The final repair bill on this ship, he said, amounted to fully $200,000 and the ship could not be sold today for $75,000.

Going into details of alleged graft among ships' officers, he related details of a case on the steamship Dio. On this ship, he testified, three of its officers, including the captain, had managed to conceal the presence of 400 tons of fuel oil when it arrived from Rotterdam.

At Norfolk more oil was taken aboard for a voyage to Rio de Janeiro. At this port the officers paid for the delivery of 1,000 tons of oil, the witness asserted, but through connivance with an employe of an oil delivery company, only 600 tons were delivered. The difference between the value of the 600 tons delivered and the 1,000 tons paid for—amounting to about $9,000—was "split" between the parties implicated in the transaction. The officers of the ship, in addition to the split, also took the usual "percentage" for sale. The captain, the witness alleged, also connived with a repair company for certain alterations to the ship for which the board was charged $11,000.

Captain Received $500.

The captain, the witness added, received $500 from this contract as his "bit."

It was afterward ascertained that a reasonable price for the repairs would have been about $2,000. Before sailing, the ship took aboard sufficient beef to last nine months, much of which was later thrown overboard, he said.

Meehan testified that the captain, chief engineer and another officer were indicted. The latter two confessed and received light sentences from the court. The captain was released on bond and he is due to appear here for trial Nov. 15. The witness said he had been informed, however, that the captain and his wife, and "fourteen trunks" had sailed from Key West, for Buenos Aires. The shipping board is now seeking him.

Details of alleged irregularities in overcharges to shipping board vessels, collection of double fees and many other offenses have been run down, Meehan asserted, and in some cases restitution made and in others prosecution instituted.

N. Y. Hotels Reduce Prices.

New York, Nov. 13.—An average reduction of 10 per cent in food prices was announced yesterday by several of the city's largest hotels after conferences with Federal food investigators. The new prices will go into effect next Monday.

REACH AGREEMENT ON GERMAN REPARATIONS

Paris, Nov. 13.—A definite agreement concerning the procedure to be followed with regard to the reparations due by Germany was reached yesterday between the French and British governments.

The agreement calls for a meeting at Brussels of Allied technical experts with the Germans and also a meeting of the Allied premiers in Geneva in the first half of February to discuss the total amount due and Germany's capacity for payment.

M. Leygues, the French premier, in a note to the British ambassador, the earl of Derby, notified the ambassador of the agreement between France and Great Britain, based on the four points previously arrived at.

The four points referred to are as follows:

First, a Brussels conference of experts; second, a meeting at Geneva between representatives of the Allies and the German government; third, consideration by the reparations commission of the findings of the first two conferences, and fourth, a meeting of the premiers to consider the decisions of the reparations commission.

The note shows that the Geneva conference of the Allied ministers will be held after a plebiscite has been taken in Upper Silesia, or, at the latest, in the first fortnight of February. It also indicates that the fourth stage of the meeting of the premiers will discuss the plebiscite and sanctions, and that steps will be taken to obtain the consent of other interested states to the procedure arranged.

Redwood Falls, Minn., Nov. 13.—Joseph Tauer, telegrapher, employed by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad at Sanborn, Minn., late yesterday was acquitted of a charge of manslaughter in the second degree. RED LAKE COUNTY TO SELL MORE ROAD BONDS

Red Lake Falls, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Red Lake county will be bonded to the limit for road work on the Jefferson highway as the result of a unanimous vote taken by the board of county commissioners Wednesday night to sell $177,000 more bonds, making a total of $250,000. All this money will be spent on the Jefferson highway between Red Lake Falls and Trail, the road being part of the Babcock trunk highway-system, but the county will be reimbursed in full by the state for all money spent on this road as the work is being done in accordance with state and Federal specifications.

Work on ten miles of the stretch has been going on for some months and $73,000 of bonds have already been sold by the county to pay for the road. By the method of issuing bonds the county commissioners decided to build twenty-eight miles of Red Lake county's portion of the Babcock highway system now and let the state pay for it later rather than let the state take its own time. The county will thus have the use of the road several years sooner in all probability and will be out only the interest on the money for that time. The county board also decided to advertise for bids for graveling two and one-half miles of the state road extending north from Oklee.

Lives to See the Prescription He Wrote in 1892 the Worlds Most Popular Laxative Remedy

Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, long past Biblical old age, but hale and hearty—Still sees patients daily—Wonderful achievement of a "country doctor."

DR. W. B. CALDWELL TODAY
Born Shelbyville, Mo., March 27, 1839
Began the manufacture of his famous prescription in 1892

WHEN I started to practice medicine, back in 1875, there were no pills or tablets or salt waters for the relief of constipation, and no artificial remedies made from coal tar.

The prescription for constipation that I used early in my practice, and which I put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid remedy, and I have never had reason to change it. I intended it for women, children and elderly people, and these need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

I am gratified to say that under successful management my prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that over eight million bottles were sold by druggists last year proves that it has won the confidence of mothers whose chief interest is the health of their children.

It is particularly pleasing to me to know that the biggest half of those eight million bottles were bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for grownups. The price of a bottle holding 50 average treatments is sixty cents; such a bottle will last a family several months.

I have never made a secret of what is in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. These ingredients are endorsed in the U. S. Pharmacopoeia. I consider Syrup Pepsin today in the serious 82nd year of my age, as I did in 1892, the best remedy a family can have in the house for the safe relief of constipation and its accompanying ills, such as headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and I believe if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

RABBI BIDS CHARGE ADIEU

Dr. Lefkovits Preaches His Farewell Sermon; Temple Honors Leader.

With an expression of appreciation for the co-operation accorded by all citizens of Duluth, Dr. Maurice Lefkovits, rabbi of Temple Emanuel, bade farewell to his congregation last night after fourteen years of service in the city.

He will leave Tuesday to become vice president of the Northern State bank of Minneapolis. A farewell reception, to which the public at large is invited, will be given Dr. and Mrs. Lefkovits at 9 p. m. Monday night at the Spalding hotel ballroom. The reception will be followed by dancing.

Dr. Lefkovits came to Duluth Feb. 1, 1907. He was married here Dec. 6, 1907, to Miss Clara Shapiro. Mrs. Lefkovits and their son Harold will leave for Minneapolis in about two weeks.

Bernard Silberstein, who is the oldest member of the congregation, will have charge of the services pending the coming of a new rabbi. He will be assisted by Harry Gardon, who will also be Sunday school superintendent.

Work Has Been Effective.

During the time that Dr. Lefkovits has been here the membership of the temple was increased fivefold. Before the war began $27,000 was pledged for the erection of a new temple. Construction was postponed because of building costs, but it is likely that the structure will be built within the next few years.

Following the services last night Mr. Silberstein, representing the board of trustees, presented Dr. Lefkovits with resolutions of appreciation for his services here. The text of the resolutions follows.

"Whereas, After a service of fourteen years to the congregation of Temple Emanuel of Duluth, Rabbi Maurice Lefkovits has tendered his resignation to make his home in another city.

"And whereas, During all these years he has given himself unsparingly and unselfishly to his chosen work, and has built up and solidified the membership of the congregation and has added to its strength, both spiritually and materially.

"And whereas, His civic, patriotic and communal work have been of inestimable value, and has redounded to his credit and that of the Jewish people of Duluth;

"Now therefore, Temple Emanuel congregation, through its trustees, hereby expresses the regret of its members at his departure from our midst, and extends to him our deep appreciation for past accomplishments and our sincerest good wishes for the future. May God bless him."

The resolutions were signed by Bernard Silberstein, I. Freimuth, David Freimuth, Sam Bailer and S. B. Copilowish.

Preaches Farewell Sermon.

Dr. Lefkovits' farewell sermon follows:

"After nearly fourteen years of service in your midst as your spiritual leader, I come to bid you farewell. I do so most heartily, though not without keenest regret. Somehow, parting is always accompanied by a certain sadness—particularly so when it involves—as it most assuredly does in this case—the severance of relations that have been most close, personal and intimate.

"Yet, though with a heart weighted with regret, I bid you farewell with a conscience that is clear and at ease. I feel, on the whole, I have done by you and for you the best I could. I may honestly say that in all the years of my ministration to you I have knowingly or willingly hurt no one, and have earnestly striven to be of some service to everyone. I have shared, with equal readiness, alike your joys and your sorrows, your seasons of gladness as also your periods of grief. When the sun of prosperity shone over you it sent its glowing warmth into my own heart, and when clouds of adversity hovered over your heads they cast their shadows over my own soul. In all things I felt myself to be part and parcel of you, even as I looked upon you as in a sense my larger family.

Personal Service.

"And as I have tried to serve you personally, so have I tried to serve the cause for which you stand. To that cause, in very truth, I have consecrated every atom of ability God in His mercy has given me, without stint or reserve and without ever regarding consequences to myself.

"I have striven to educate you and your children to a truer appreciation of the beauty and grandeur of our inherited faith and to win you and your children to a larger loyalty to it. I have also earnestly endeavored to spread abroad among those not of the household of Israel a juster appraisal of the Jew and his virtues, as well as a more correct understanding of Judaism and its ideals. Proudly and with intense gratification I aver that few are the cities, even in this blessed land of liberty and tolerance, where there is a kindlier feeling between the Jew and non-Jew, a more cordial respect of each for the other, than obtains in this our own community.

"Regretfully, therefore, yet with a clear conscience, I bid you a hearty farewell. Most sincerely do I thank you for the many kindly courtesies you have so generously showered upon me and upon those near and dear to me during all these years past. I beg to assure you that I am leaving you with the utmost good will toward every one of you, without a single exception. Even those who at times were arrayed against me, I prefer to remember, not for their occasional antagonisms, but rather for the helpfulness and the aid and comfort which at other times they have gladly given me. To them, as well as to you all, my sincerest thanks.

"Sincerest thanks is due also to Duluth's Jewry at large. My heart thrills with pride when I think of the splendid generosity with which the Jews of Duluth have always responded to the many calls I issued to them in behalf of causes that were as numerous as they were worthy. Always they came up to expectations in a manner both gracious and genuine. Most cordial thanks to them!

Thanks for Duluthians.

"Sincerest gratitude I wish to record also to the citizenry of Duluth and its daily press. Both have honored me in a manner and frequency rarely accorded any other minister in the city, and certainly away beyond my humble deserts. Cordial thanks to them!

"Thanks, then, most hearty and sincere, to the high-minded citizenry of Duluth, to its able and fearless press, to all of Duluth's Jewry, and above all to you, my friends, members of Temple Emanuel, to whom I have given some of the best years of my life and all that was best in me. Whether or not I have accomplished anything worth while remains for you to determine. Possibly, as the years roll by, and you forget some of the many shortcomings and remember the few virtues I may perchance have possessed, you may gain a clearer and a fairer estimate of my life and work in your midst.

"I am now going away from you, but my heart will largely remain with you. If you can, give it a place, if ever so little, in your own hearts.

"God bless you and those near and dear to you, on this day and every day hereafter."

By J. H. DARLING.

I shall be pleased to receive visitors at the observatory on West Third street on the six evenings beginning with next Tuesday except when cloudy weather prevents the use of the telescope. Those wishing to come are requested to phone me in advance. Melrose 318. The moon, some of the fixed stars and the planet Uranus will be viewed through the 9-inch refracting telescope.

Uranus is the only planet which will be visible during the hours when visitors will be present—from 8 to 10 o'clock. This distant neighbor of ours I have not heretofore shown to my visitors, it being less attractive than the other nearer planets. It is a large planet with a diameter of 31,000 miles, but on account of its distance it cannot be seen with the naked eye unless the person is sharp sighted. Its brightness is of the sixth magnitude. As viewed through the telescope it is small, not handsome like Saturn is and there is little to be seen; but like the proverbial "singed cat" there is more to it than appears. It is the seventh of the eight planets of the solar system, in the order of distance from the sun, its distance from the sun being 1,782,000,000 miles, and its distance from the earth is not far from that figure. This is nearly 2,000,000,000 miles—a large distance for the solar system but small when the fixed stars are considered.

Some surface markings have been seen by several astronomers with the largest telescopes, but these markings were so indefinite and fleeting that no certain conclusions could be drawn from them. No marks are revealed by my instrument. It shows a sensible disk which distinguishes it from a fixed star, and it has a greenish tinge. The planet has a retinue of four satellites revolving around it. These are estimated to run from 500 to 1,000 miles in diameter; so they are not as large as the moon which has a diameter of 2,160 miles. I have not been able to see these satellites, but that is not surprising.

No Speed Demon.

Uranus revolves around the sun with a speed of four miles a second and it takes eighty-four years to complete the grand circuit of 11,000,000,000 miles. It has made less than two revolutions since it was discovered by Sir William Hershel in 1781. It is a wonder how the sun can exert its attractive influence upon so distant an object and hold the planet in its orbit. Yet the sun's gravitational attraction extends still farther, to the planet Neptune and to more distant comets, and probably even to the fixed stars.

This is one of the four outer planets, including Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune, which are much larger than the four inner planets including the earth, and there is reason to believe that it is a hot or very warm body, not yet cooled off from its original heated condition to the extent that the earth is. The larger the body the longer it holds its heat. It seems to be surrounded by a deep envelope of gases and there may be no solid crust of rock yet formed beneath the gas. Evidently no animal or plant life can exist there at present. The planet is young considering the process of world development. What may be in store for it in the future is not easy to say. It will of course continue to cool off until it loses its own supply of heat. It would then have only what light and heat it receives from the sun, and that is very small compared with what the earth receives. The earth receives 368 times as much heat per unit of surface as Uranus does. When warmed only by the sun it has been estimated that the temperature of Uranus might drop to 340 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. What a winter that would be! And there will probably be no wood or coal for fuel to mitigate its severity. Such a condition is not pleasant to think of.

Venus Evening Star.

The planet Venus is now an evening star which can be seen early in the evening after dark and even at dusk, low in the southwest, a brilliant object. It sets before 7 o'clock the middle of this month. It will get to be higher and more prominent and set later each succeeding month for some time to come. Mars is also visible in the early evening. It sets now about four hours after the sun. Compared with what it was last spring it is now quite indistinct on account of its increased distance which will be 151,000,000 miles from us on the 16th and because of its low position in the sky. Mercury is too near the sun to be visible. Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune can now be seen only in the morning sky.

Recently I have been observing Saturn for several mornings at the observatory to watch the gradual disappearance of its ring, as the latter approached an edgewise position towards us. The ring was predicted to become exactly edgewise to the earth on the 7th instant, and it being very thin in comparison with its width and at the distance of 925,000,000 miles from us on that date it was impossible to see it with my telescope, and at such a time it can scarcely be seen with largest instruments. I last saw the ring on the 4th of this month and it was then a slender and faint thread of light on each side of the planet. On the 6th and 8th I was unable to detect it. It seemed very strange to see Saturn without its beautiful appendage which has been so much admired by all who have looked at it. The ring will reappear later.

ACTIVITIES OF WEEK AT NORMAL SCHOOL

In Miss Patton's reading class at the Duluth state normal school there have been special programs this week. In an original dramatization of the Ruggles scene from "The Bird's Christmas Carol," Mae Casey acted as Mrs. Ruggles, and Victoria Olin, Ethel O. Erickson, Esther L. Erickson, Irma Peterson, Alma Peterson, Magda Syrstad and Ethel Erickson as the children. Armistice day was observed with the following readings: "Jean de Prez," "Over the Parapet," "Wanted, a New Word," "Christ in Flanders," "Peace," "How the Armistice News Was Received By Our Men," "What Peace Meant to France," "Harmony at Versailles," "In Flanders Field," "America's Answer," by Melba Connor, Edla Peterson, Marie Uren, Mildred Ahl, Marie Gaffney, Bernice Ashbeck, Bertha Munson and Helen Beier.

Miss Owens has organized a class, which meets every Wednesday for social dancing.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Horne entertained her student teachers at a fudge party. The guests were Esther Sund, Gladys Spearin, Mae Casey, Minnie Brown, Ruth Poechman, Claire Palmquist and Frances Zygmanski.

* * *

Dora Anderson of the senior class, who has returned this week after a summer spent in Norway, visited the school on Friday. She is planning to resume her studies at the beginning of the new term.

* * *

Mildred McArdle has been spending several days in Anoka, Minn. Eva Le Voie will spend Sunday at her home in Eveleth and Irene Lindmark at Moose Lake.

It is an interesting fact that a number of students are sisters of former graduates: Jennie E. Johnson, Ellen Johnson, Ethel Watts, Estelle Watts, '15; Pauline Simpson, Norine Simpson, '16; Hula Granholm, Mamie Granholm, '16; Helen Erickson, Oddhild Erickson, '17; Elfreida Erickson, Gudrun Erickson, '18; Mildred Dunning, Charlotte Dunning, '17; Margaret Grisold, Mary Grizzld, '18; Jean Ferguson, Grace Ferguson, '18; Victoria Olin, Ellen Olin, '18; Signora Norman, Grevilda Norman, '18, and Gudrun Norman, '19. There are several other instances of sisters both of whom are in the school at present, and others who are sisters of nongraduates.

PERCY GRAINGER'S ART PLEASES MUSIC LOVERS

Australian Pianist Gives First Recital in Matinee Musicale Series.

An audience that more than taxed the capacity of the main auditorium of the First Methodist church greeted Percy Grainger, eminent Australian pianist, who was presented last night in the first of a series of Artists' recitals sponsored by the Matinee Musicale, proceeds of which will go toward procuring a scholarship for some deserving young musical aspirant. Mr. Grainger was most cordially received after his absence of five years and during which time he saw service overseas with the Allied forces. It was an auspicious opening for the series of artists' recitals to be given by the Matinee Musicale.

His program began with the magnificent Bach-Taccata and Fugue for organ in D minor in which both the Taussing and Busoni transcriptions for piano were used. Mr. Grainger played with all the clarity of voices and massive building of tonal climax which this work demands. This was followed with three Chopin numbers, Barcarole, Op. 60, study in C Sharp, Op. 25, No. 7, and Polonaise in A Flat, Op. 53, poetically worked out and the beautiful themes as fresh today as when written.

Ballade, Op. 24, by Grieg, merited individual applause as did also the Cloud Pageant, Op. 9, by Daniel Gregory Mason. The fact that "Molly on the Shore," Irish reel and an Irish tune from "County Derry," were well suited for piano, did not escape Grainger's keen ear and his group included both numbers set by the artist. A third number set by Grainger and which illustrated the sincerity of the gifted artist was a paraphrase on the "Flower Waltz," by Tschaikowsky.

Acceding to popular request made through repeated applause, Mr. Grainger offered seven encores which, together with his very excellent program, proved his versatility as a pianist and his appreciation and interpretation of the dramatic and gripping power as well as the theme of the simpler compositions.

German Monument Blown Up.

Brussels, Nov. 13.—The monument which was erected by the Germans at Couillet, near Charleroi, Belgium, in commemoration of the battle of Charleroi, was blown up with dynamite by order of the municipal authorities Thursday, the anniversary of the signing of the armistice. An attempt to destroy the monument was recently made by private individuals.

YOUR RHEUMATISM

Remove Its Cause by Purifying Your Blood.

One of the most important duties of your system is to burn up certain substances no longer of use in your body. One is uric acid, now generally held to be the cause of rheumatism. It inflames the joints, stiffens the muscles, causes pains, aches and lameness.

The system is helped to dispose of this troublesome substance, and rheumatism is permanently relieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier. It is aided in many cases by Hood's Pills, which in small doses are a gentle laxative, in larger doses an active cathartic. A grand course of treatment, economical and effective.—Advertisement.

GOLD MAY HAVE BEEN SENT BY RUSS SOVIET

New York, Nov. 13.—What will become of gold bars valued at $806,418, brought to this country by the Swedish-American liner Doettningholm, should the United States treasury department decline to admit it, was a question officials of the banks to which the gold is consigned were unable to answer.

It is customary when foreign gold is received here to have the Federal assay office convert it into American bars and pay to the owner the value of the actual gold content. Pending decision of the treasury department as to whether the gold might really have been sent by the Russian soviet government, this has not been done in the case of the gold aboard the Doettningholm. The representative of one of the banks to which the gold was consigned is quoted as saying there is no evidence that the metal is not of Swedish ownership.

BLOOD STATUS ROLL APPROVED BY MORRIS

Fergus Falls, Minn., Nov. 13.—The legal standing of 6,000 Indians on the White Earth reservation in Minnesota was determined late yesterday when Judge Page Morris in United States district court here approved a "blood status roll" prepared by a commission authorized by congress. The action is expected to end much litigation pertaining to land sold by the Indians.

Under the Clapp act, mixed blood Indians were authorized to sell their lands while fullbloods are not allowed to make such sales. Following passage of the act there was a rush to buy lands owned by the Indians in Northern Minnesota. The government finally instituted about 1,500 suits against the purchasers of these lands, claiming that the Indians were fullbloods and had no right to sell. Most of these suits have been settled.

In order to determine the legal standing of the Indians in the future, the commission named by congress took testimony of the Indians relative to their blood status. This testimony, the commission said, was generally found to be unreliable and it was agreed to bring Alex Hrdlicka, autropologist of Washington, D. C., to make up a roll based on physical characteristics and Indian testimony. The blood roll, as approved by Judge Morris yesterday, finds that there are only 300 full-blooded Indians out of the 6,000 on the White Earth reservation.

SEAPLANE CREW PROBABLY LOST

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—All hope of finding the crew of three of the missing naval seaplane from the Great Lakes naval training station was abandoned by searchers along the west coast of Lake Michigan late Friday. The last of the coast guard boats to give up the search, the Two Rivers, Wis., crew, returned to its station last night.

Searchers said that there was no hope that any of the crew of three were alive if they had remained on the lake. The weather has been bitter cold ever since they were last seen off Centerville, Wis., Wednesday afternoon. A northwest gale has been blowing most of the time since then. Tugs which searched Thursday for the seaplane could not leave port yesterday.

Announcing

$1395 with Cord Tires

F. O. B. MILWAUKEE

The new Nash Four, a product of expert engineering and expert manufacture, is now shown for your inspection.

It is a quality motor car, light in weight but strongly and finely built to endure the hardest service.

Like the Nash Six, it has two conspicuous and outstanding features—unusual power, due to its Nash Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor and really exceptional beauty of design and finish.

Notable, too, is the low operating cost of this car.

Tests covering many thousands of miles have demonstrated that the Nash Four is unusually saving of gasoline, oil and tires.

The character of the Nash Four may be judged not only by sturdy excellence of construction but in the fineness of the many important details which make for superior comfort and convenience.

It will be produced in a new Nash factory at Milwaukee, a plant specially constructed and equipped to produce this car.

When operating at full capacity, this new plant will equal in volume of output the present big Nash factory at Kenosha, where 50,000 Nash Sixes are being built this year.

We will welcome the opportunity to show you the Nash Four at your earliest convenience.

Drama, Vaudeville and Photoplays

By JAMES WATTS.

Duluth does not often have an opportunity of being host to such a rare artist as Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini. The Queen of Song has been in this city for nearly a week in order to give a concert here, and the complaint often heard that famous artists do not trouble themselves to make friends with the people in the smaller cities, does not fit in her case. In fact, her manager, William Leahy, rearranged Tetrazzini's entire Northwest schedule so as to take in the Zenith City. What profit such an engagement will net this great artist will necessarily be small when one considers that she has had to maintain her private car here for several days and traveled way out of her course to come here.

Making sacrifices has played a big part in the life of this famous artist and money to her simply means doing something for her friends, her country, or the unfortunate. One of her proposed projects now is to establish educational facilities in Italy for persons who are to emigrate to America. She not only aids Americanization work in this country but would also prepare her countrymen while still in their native land to become good citizens in the land of their adoption.

So much has been said of Mme. Tetrazzini's voice that there is little left to say. But it is her personality that has made her beloved. Her voice has that sympathetic, lyric quality that is so characteristic of John McCormack. She is a wonderful woman, past the meridian of life, who still retains the sweetness and faith of a child.

Sex Plays No Longer Popular in the U. S. A.

The appeal of sex is no longer strong enough to draw theater-goers to the playhouses and the lure of the flesh is giving way to the charm of refinement and art. That is not saying there are no sex plays on the stage. There are many of these, but their number is decreasing and their support is on the wane. The latest word from the metropolis is to the effect the most successful producers of current revues and musical comedies are those who select girls of refinement and talent rather than those of the flesh and jazz type. A recent survey of the amusements of the country offers some interesting facts along this line:

"There may still be some managers who think the country so jaded, wised up and apathetic that nothing but a sex tingle can dislodge it from its firesides into theater seats. A Chicago booker of road shows got this wire last week.

"'Keep shows with sex titles out of my town. The people won't have them.'

"This was from a middle-sized burg. Now take the big ones—New York and Chicago. What are the predominant hits?

"'The Bad Man,' 'The Bat,' 'Mary,' 'Lightnin',' 'Irene,' 'Meanest Man in the World,' 'Tip Top,' 'The Gold Diggers,' 'Welcome Stranger'—one with a sex leaning, and that so brilliant that it overcame its handicap; so much for New York. In Chicago Ed Wynn's Carnival, the unsexiest of the revues, an outstanding success; Jane Cowl in 'Smilin' Through,' an innocent zephyr, knockout; 'Honey Girl,' 'Buddies,' 'Monsieur Beaucaire,' great business; Ethel Barrymore in 'Declassee,' somewhat sexy, a big hit because of star's triumph and an inspired story.

"Flo Ziegfeld, who became world famous as typifying the highest and finest but nevertheless the foremost in exploitation of the feminine lines, has, year after year, reduced the call to the fleshy tastes. Dillingham and Savage, the two most puritan producers of girly shows in America, probably are the two most generally successful. John Cort, who has been consistently criticized for the reverse, has not been as lucky. A recent comedy at the Punch and Judy, broadly advertising its spice, died. 'Little Miss Charity,' boasting of its prudish modesty, survived. 'Clarence' proved a sensation, whereas the Hattons' 'Chicken Farm,' one of the rawest things unveiled in years, perished of neglect.

"The clean ones, it seems, clean."

Readjustment Coming In Show Business

"Dramatic shows may abandon orchestras." This startling headline in a theatrical paper this week is worthy of notice and investigation. Shall the theater-going public go without music? The news article reveals rather astounding conditions. It says:

"The operation of the musicians' scale for New York for houses which did not start the season with an orchestra, was made plain this week when one of the theaters in that group, in taking on a four-piece orchestra, was required to pay $66 per man weekly, with the leader $119 weekly. The scale calls for a guarantee of at least four weeks. For anything under that the daily scale applies—$72 weekly ($9 a performance) and $144 for the leader.

"Managers predict that numberless rules of the musical union will eventually force theaters to be definitely classified. This would mean that certain houses will be confined strictly to dramatic attractions and others to musical shows, with the dramatic houses having no orchestras."

If theaters during these prosperous times cannot afford an orchestra, something must be radically wrong. It would seem that readjustment must be made all along the line and conditions brought back to normal.

If we look back to 1914, we shall see that acts are higher, salaries are higher, and everything else the theater owner buys is higher. The result is that admissions are necessarily higher. This advance in expense must end somewhere and with prices falling in all other lines, it looks as if a readjustment would have to begin in the show business. There is no satisfaction in handling more money unless it has more real value?

The problem of balancing the ledger must be solved, and admissions cannot be lowered with costs going up continually. In fact, net profits decline. The question is then how can a readjustment be made? Shall the scale of wages go up steadily to exorbitant figures, must the orchestras be eliminated, or shall the managers regulate costs and receipts so that their entertainments can be kept up to the regular standard? Under normal conditions the standard of entertainment can be maintained.

Theatrical managers in the East believe that the salary schedules named in the foregoing news story are exorbitant.

The belief that a readjustment is necessary is prompted by other factors than advanced salaries. Railroad transportation has forced scores of shows to close, throwing thousands of men out of employment temporarily. The closing of factories and other industries in the East is causing a slump in the show business. It looks as if the rain and reign of dollars were passing and that things must go back to normal.

Conditions in the East have been more seriously affected by changing conditions than in the Northwest. In Duluth musical standards have been raised and orchestras augmented and attractions in general have been improved. But the matter of readjustment is in the air and is bound to come in for consideration sooner or later.

NEW ASTOR.

Charles Ray is the bashful country boy salesman of auto trucks in "'Alarm Clock' Andy," another of his inimitable screen comedy-dramas in which he comes to the New Astor tomorrow. Constance Talmadge in "Scandal" and the current "Trailed By Three" story will close this evening. As Andy Gray, Charles Ray has a tough time making headway in the business world, what with his shyness and his excessive shyness. Meeting and falling in love with the daughter of his boss gives him a new incentive to make a fresh and better start. The opportunity comes when Andy encounteres a big buyer of trucks and making a good impression, he appropriates the name of the firm's star salesman, proceeding to close a big order. Complications result when the man he is impersonating appears on the scene, but Andy gets rid of him by a clever ruse, and the final outcome is that he wins the day and the girl. The role is said to fit Ray like a glove, and Tom Gulse, Millicent Fisher and others supporting him are above the average. The picture is a Thomas H. Ince production.

From Tuesday to Thursday, inclusive, the featured attractions will be William S. Hart in "Between Men" and the third story of the "Son of Tarzan" series.

Opera of "Passion Flower."

"The Passion Flower," now on the road with Nance O'Neil, is to be the basis for a grand opera. The piece is running in Chicago, where its engagement was twice extended.

Miss Wellman, who has just returned to the stage after a period devoted to the writing of plays and playlets, is now seeking new laurels. She will come to the Orpheum tomorrow for a week's engagement in "The Actor's Wife," which is described as a theatrical storm in ten dramatic flashes.

SCREEN RUSHES PELL MELL INTO THE B. V. D. DRAMA

The screen farce makers having made nymphs, nereids and other females of daring revelation the sine qua non of comedy themes, the producers of the serious branch seem now to be rushing pell mell into what a wag has called the B. V. D. drama. Impending are several screen spectacles that have competed to such extremes that the prize for boldness will be hard to award.

In Allen Holubar's "Man, Woman and Marriage," 400 girls of "unreticence" stage an Amazonian dance, and a throne scene has a group of absolutely unclothed' young women. "Kismet," starring Otis Skinner, has a harem scene that is radically revelatory of the human form, and an artist's model poses as understudy to Mother Eve.

May Allison, in "The Marriage of William Ashe," does a Lady Godiva ride, clad only in the tresses of a long black wig. Nazimova is preparing to film "Aphrodite" and show the queen of love just as she emerges from the sea. Louise Glaum has only a bathtub for a shield in one scene of a new play. Doraldina's first Metro film will show her sans all covering but a shreaded-wheat skirt. Cecil B. de Mille's "Forbidden Fruit" has for its "kick" some picturesquely undressed ladies.

Maurice Tourneur's "Last of the Mohicans" has 500 savages running around only in breech-clouts, and a new Priscilla Dean picture has a man posing as a statue, wearing only a coating of bronze. And the competition has only begun.

Abbey Shown in Films.

A close imitation of the interior of Westminster Abbey has been built at the Whitman Bennett studio for use in "The Great Adventure," Lionel Barrymore's third starring vehicle for release through Associated First National Pictures. Four different parts of the abbey have been reproduced—the east end of the south ambulatory, the chancel looking toward the high altar, the organ loft, and the gallery looking down on the chancel. Neither time nor money has been spared to make these reproductions true to the original. Several of the most humorous scenes of "The Great Adventure" are laid in the abbey, and more than 200 people are engaged on the set at one time.

ORPHEUM.

Heading the Orpheum bill of the coming week, followers of the two-a-day hereabouts are going to see a young woman who has, by sheer ability, pushed herself to the top as both actress and playwright, and is going at her strongest right now. This young woman is Emily Ann Wellman, and she has just returned to the stage after a period devoted to writing playlets and plays, for an actress is never content except when she is acting, and the writing of plays did not fully fill the bill to make life one grand sweet song. She was noted on the "legit" stage before she entered vaudeville and after her debut into the vaudeville field she made the hit of her career, then came the play writing; but she is now back again in a playlet of her own creation. It is called "The Actor's Wife," and is described as a theatrical storm in ten dramatic flashes. It is a piece of intense drama, novelly staged, utilizing Miss Wellman's creation in staging and new lighting. She is assisted by Richard Gordon and company.

A feature of the bill next week will be "A Slight Interruption," in which Ralph C. Bevan and Beatrice Flint interrupt their patter with song and their song with patter. They are most likeable players and their comedy and song goes over big. Much has been said about their fine singing voices.

Lillian Price, a member of the noted theatrical family of that name, and Bud Bernie have joined forces for this season and are pesenting a combination of songs, fun and music which they call "Tunes and Laugh Fashions of 1920." Mr. Bernie is a pianist of rare ability and Miss Price is a singer of ability with a keen sense of humor and generous gifts in the way of looks. This team is making things much brighter on the circuit with their songs and chatter.

If you like syncopation, you will have your fill of it next week when Dave Harris puts on his act. He plays so many instruments that he is virtually a one-man orchestra and everything is syncopated. And he also sings to the same measure, for which he has become noted. Harris is making quite a hit everywhere he appears this season.

"Mrs. Wellington's Surprise," is a comedy act by George Kelly, who will be remembered as the author of and the star in "The Flattering Word." Frederick Sumner and Pearl Hight appear respectively as Mr. and Mrs. Wellington. The former is a traveling man and meets everybody on the road but his wife; but in this case she shows up in his hotel room, and there the surprise happens.

Challen and Keke are wire performers. They are said by their press agent to be "daring, different and dainty." Audiences on the circuit seem to agree for the critics are giving them more space than most actors of this kind.

Seven dogs, so small that they appear to be more toys than actual canines, are the principals in Lillian's Comedy Pets. This is an act which is pleasing the children and the adults too, for the little fellows are regular clowns.

Kinograms as usual will present some of the best in educational travel pictures, Topics of the Day will be ripe with political wit, and the orchestra will present another of its fine programs.

NEW LYRIC.

One expects much from Allen Holubar since he flashed across the screen firmament with such notable productions as "The Heart of Humanity" and "The Right of Happiness." That he has duplicated these efforts is proof positive that he knows how to write stories and present them in terms of interesting screen drama. His "Once to Every Woman," which comes to the New Lyric today featuring a new program, is an absorbing story so well-produced and well-acted that there isn't a moment when it does not claim the closest attention.

The theme is woven around the curse of ambition, and what it leads to in destroying a sense of humanity, with the central feature a country girl, a role portrayed by Dorothy Phillips, her first appearance on the screen in some time. Sponsored by a philanthropist she goes to Italy to have her voice trained and success comes to her in such large measure that selfish egotism results in the folks back home being put out of her life. After many dramatic episodes she finally reaches the height of her ambition—the creation of the star role in the new grand opera presented in the Metropolitan opera house in New York. Then a tremendous shock causes her to lose her voice. Her newfound friends forsake her and the public turns cold. Then she finds real happiness when she returns to the humble home she had all but forgotten.

Miss Phillips' portrayal is said to be such that she will win the highest praise in this picture of mother-love triumphant at last, when the daughter learns the vanity of worldly ambition without a foundation of human affection. Prominent in the star's support is Robert Anderson, noted Danish actor. There will be a number of added attractions in short subject films and special music by the New Lyric concert orchestra.

NEW GRAND.

A vaudeville offering that is scenically attractive is almost as good an audience-puller as the average girl act, and when one comes across a feature that has the scenic effects coupled with many of the features of a musical comedietta, even though the feminine membership is limited, it is always a sure-fire success. In "My Dream Girl," which tops the new show opening for the first half of the week at the New Grand tomorrow, is such a combination, with lilting songs and snappy dances, as well as attractive costuming to help out. Anna Saunders, Harry Wagner, Freddie Walker, Hugo Delman, Ted Levy and Paul Sweet make up the cast of this musical playlet, which is presented by Greenwald and Herman.

Johnny Clarke and company, a well-known and distinctly original eccentric comedian and two companions, promise to surprise and even thrill in their oddity of versatile comedy labeled "Daring Prohibition." Tumbling and knockabout acrobatics with other features are the groundwork of the offering.

"Songs and Smiles" Alf Grant, a monologue artist of widening fame, brings to the program. His stories are said to have the flavor of newness and his songs are declared happiness set to music. He strings them together with a monologue that is said to possess all the merit one could possibly expect and then some, since its sole purpose is to evoke the laughs.

Cross-fire comedy chatter, a cornet solo and some nifty dances—these are some of the ingredients Charles Darby and Hazel Brown have had stirred together for them by Wilbur Mack in concocting "Back Home." It is, as a matter of fact, a comedy flirtation skit with musical trimmings.

"The Melodious Harmonists" reads well and Lou and Grace Harvey, who will present "songs of the hour," make it sound just as good, it is said. They specialize in the whistly, humable sort of tunes, the kind that make one glad to be alive.

The photoplay program holds forth promise of most pleasing entertainment, with one of the stories of "The Third Eye" series, entitled "The Blind Trails of Justice," together with a Rolin comedy starring Snub Pollard, the Screen Magazine and the Grand News Weekly composing it.

NEW GARRICK.

Assisting a crook to pack up the family heirlooms isn't the average man's idea of a hilarious episode, but it proves highly entertaining to Tom Moore as Travers Gladwin in a picturization of the Cohan and Harris farce comedy success, "Officer 666," coming to the New Garrick tomorrow. That is to say, it proves entertaining until the police happen along and mistake Gladwin for an impostor, thereby materially aiding the scheme of the crook, but Gladwin's plans to trap the thief he found installed in his home on returning from Europe would have worked beautifully if Gladwin had not insisted on wearing a uniform he had taken from a policeman and swearing his valet to silence.

As it turns out, Gladwin comes within an ace of losing a fortune in paintings and being arrested for impersonating an officer. After a series of experiences that keep spectators dazed trying to keep up with developments and laughs, he finally wins out, and incidentally wins the heart of the fair one in the case, which said heart had been left lying around loose in the excitement.

The indefatigable sense of humor of Augustin MacHugh and Winchell Smith, the authors, bubbles forth in every scene. Their adroitness in playing for almost serious effects and then swinging back into the ludicrous and their lively wit in the subtitles make the production up-to-the-minute fun. A more fascinating and absorbing tale of intrigue and scheming, of laughter and romance, than "Officer 666" cannot be imagined, and, as Director Harry Beaumont declared, "the role of Travers Gladwin was simply made for Tom Moore." In the cast are, among others, Jean Calhoun, Jerome Patrick, Raymond Hatton, Harry Dunkinson and Hardee Kirkland.

The tenth of the Sunday afternoon symphony concerts by the thirty-five-piece New Garrick Symphony orchestra will be given as an added attraction from 2 to 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The short subjects on the motion picture program include Bill Rogers' Illiterate Digest, another of the popular Screen Snapshots and the latest Garrick World Events reel.

ZELDA.

Probably no feature of the life in America's great West is more firmly fixed in the minds of persons familiar with its history than that distinctively American "pastime" gun fighting. In the old days, fortune was always on the side of the man who had the quickest gun hand.

One of the most interesting pictures of the West seen in many a day, in which ability to draw a gun with the necessary snap to insure a ripe old age is paramount, is "Drag Harlan," a William Fox production, starring that favorite of stage and screen, the beloved "Bill" Farnum.

Farnum has the part of "Drag" Harlan, feared by all as the quickest gun fighter ever known in the community. His "handle" of "Drag" was won by a peculiar trick of seeming to let his hand hesitate or drag over the butt of his pistol before he finally whipped it out. Other gun fighters tried to discover the trick of "Drag's" peculiar draw, but found the only trick was speed.

Farnum has to give several demonstrations of his alacrity in drawing a six-shooter in this picture. Aside from the interest in the gun fighting element of the picture is an unusually touching romance, in which the star is supported by Jackie Saunders and several of the screen's best Kalem players.

"Drag Harlan" is at the Zelda theater's featured picture for a run beginning today.

STRAND.

Another of William Gillette's gems of the American stage will beautify the silversheet when it is shown at the Strand theater Sunday.

"Held by the Enemy," was one of the greatest of American dramas, and in its screen form it is said to be even more vivid and gripping than the play itself.

"Held by the Enemy" is a drama of tense emotions and big, vital, human situations—a story of love and loyalty and unselfishness, hate and treachery and human passion.

There are many big striking [illegible]. Lewis Stone takes the part of Capt. Gordon Hayne. Agnes Ayres was chosen to portray Rachel Hayne and charming Wanda Hawley plays an equally important feminine part.

Jack Holt, who will be remembered for his work in Tourneur's "The Life Line," and also in "Victory," does his best work in this picture, while Hubert Cain plays the heavy with his usual excellent skill. Walter Hiers, the funny fat boy actor, supplies the necessary comedy.

Tonight will bring to a close the engagement of the wonderful "Humoresque," which completes a triumphant two weeks' showing. The last performance begins at 9:30 tonight.

LADIES GET YOUR CANES: THEY'RE ALL THE RAGE

Ladies, step out and get your canes if you want to be up-to-the minute in the social swim. Connie Talmadge is just back from Paris swinging a nifty little swagger stick. It's all the rage in the French capital, she says, and the new feminine fashion is likely to hit Fifth avenue most any time now.

For the present, however, Connie's opportunities for cane-carrying are somewhat limited, for she has begun work on her next First National starring vehicle, "Mamma's Affair," which has been adapted for the screen by John Emerson and Anita Loos from the well known Broadway success of the same name.

Sisters Norma and Natalie Talmadge are also sporting walking sticks. A battery of photographers opened fire on the Talmadge trio when they arrived on the Imperator as the advance guard of coming Parisian fashions to be introduced in the United States.

New American Beauty Film.

In Katherine MacDonald's eighth First National production the American Beauty will be supported by a notable cast, including David Dewinter, Charles Richman, Mary Alden and the star's younger sister, Miriam MacDonald. The picture is to be directed by John A. Barry, formerly associated with D. W. Griffith, and who has already directed two former MacDonald releases. John S. Spreckles' palatial yacht will be used in the filming of some marine scenes off Coronado, Cal.

Drama, Vaudeville and Photoplays

By JAMES WATTS.

Duluth does not often have an opportunity of being host to such a rare artist as Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini. The Queen of Song has been in this city for nearly a week in order to give a concert here, and the complaint often heard that famous artists do not trouble themselves to make friends with the people in the smaller cities, does not fit in her case. In fact, her manager, William Leahy, rearranged Tetrazzini's entire Northwest schedule so as to take in the Zenith City. What profit such an engagement will net this great artist will necessarily be small when one considers that she has had to maintain her private car here for several days and traveled way out of her course to come here.

Making sacrifices has played a big part in the life of this famous artist and money to her simply means doing something for her friends, her country, or the unfortunate. One of her proposed projects now is to establish educational facilities in Italy for persons who are to emigrate to America. She not only aids Americanization work in this country but would also prepare her emigrants while still in their native land to become good citizens in the land of their adoption.

Something has been said of Mme. Tetrazzini's voice that there is little left to say. But it is her personality that has made her beloved. Her voice has that sympathetic lyric quality that is so characteristic of John McCormack. She is a wonderful woman, past the meridian of life, who still retains the sweetness and faith of a child.

Sex Plays No Longer Popular in the U. S. A.

The appeal of sex is no longer strong enough to draw theater-goers to the playhouses and the lure of the flesh is giving way to the charm of refinement and art. That is not saying there are no sex plays on the stage. There are many of these, but their number is decreasing and their support is on the wane. The latest word from the metropolis is to the effect the most successful producers of current revues and musical comedies are those who select girls of refinement and talent rather than those of the flesh and jazz type. A recent survey of the [illegible] of the country offers some interesting facts along this line:

"There may still be some managers who think the country so jaded, wised up and [illegible] that nothing but a sex tingle can dislodge it from its firesides [illegible]. A Chicago booker of road shows got this wire last week:

'Keep shows with sex titles out of my town. The people won't have them.'

"This was from a middle-sized burg. Now take the big ones—New York and Chicago. What are the predominant hits?

"'The Bat,' 'The Cat,' 'Mary,' 'Lightnin',' 'Irene,' 'Meanest Man in the World,' 'Tip-Top,' 'The Gold Diggers,' 'Welcome Stranger'—one with a sex [illegible], and that so brilliant that it overcame its handicap; so much for New York. In Chicago Ed Wynn's Carnival, the unsexiest of the revues, an enduring success; Jane Cowl in 'Smilin' Through,' an innocent zephyr, knockout; Honey Girl, 'Buddies,' 'Monsieur Beaucaire,' great business; Ethel Barrymore in 'Declassee,' somewhat sexy, a big hit because of star's triumph and its [illegible] story.

"The Ziegfeld Follies, world famous as typifying the highest and finest [illegible] the foremost in exploitation of the feminine lines, has, year after year, reduced [illegible] to the fleshy tastes. Dillingham and Savage, the two most [illegible] producers of girly shows in America, probably are the two most generally successful. John Cort, who has been consistently criticized for the reverse, has not been as lucky. A recent comedy at the Punch and Judy broadly advertising its spice, died. 'Little Miss Charity,' boasting of its [illegible], survived. 'Clarence' proved a sensation, whereas the Hattons' 'Chicken Farm,' one of the rawest things unveiled in years, perished of neglect.

"The clean ones, it seems, clean."

Readjustment Coming In Show Business

"Dramatic shows may abandon orchestras." This startling headline in a theatrical paper this week is worthy of notice and investigation. Shall the theater-going public go without music? The news article reveals rather astounding conditions. It says:

"The operation of the musicians' scale for New York for houses which did not start the season with an orchestra, was made plain this week when one of the theaters in that group, in taking on a four-piece orchestra, was required to pay $66 per man weekly, with the leader $119 weekly. The scale calls for a guarantee of at least four weeks. For anything under that the daily scale applies—$72 weekly ($9 a performance) and $144 for the leader.

"Managers predict that numberless rules of the musical union will eventually force theaters to be definitely classified. This would mean that certain houses will be confined strictly to dramatic attractions and others to musical shows, with the dramatic houses having no orchestras."

If theaters during these prosperous times cannot afford an orchestra, something must be radically wrong. It would seem that readjustment must be made all along the line and conditions brought back to normal.

If we look back to 1914, we shall see that acts are higher, salaries are higher, and everything else the theater owner buys is higher. The result is that admissions are necessarily higher. This advance in expense must end somewhere and with prices falling in all other lines, it looks as if a readjustment would have to begin in the show business. There is no satisfaction in building more money unless it has more real value?

The problem of balancing the ledger must be solved, and admissions cannot be lowered with costs going up continually. In fact, net profits decline. The question is then how can a readjustment be made? Shall the scale of wages go up steadily to exorbitant figures, must the orchestras be eliminated, or shall the managers regulate costs and receipts so that their entertainments can be kept up to the regular standard? Under normal conditions the standard of entertainment can be maintained.

Theatrical managers in the East believe that the salary schedules named in the foregoing news story are exorbitant.

The belief that a readjustment is necessary is prompted by other factors than advanced salaries. Railroad transportation has forced scores of shows to close, throwing thousands of men out of employment temporarily. The closing of factories and other industries in the East is causing a slump in the show business. It looks as if the rain and reign of dollars were passing and that things must go back to normal.

Conditions in the East have been more seriously affected by changing conditions than in the Northwest. In Duluth musical standards have been raised and orchestras augmented and attractions in general have been improved. But the matter of readjustment is in the air and is bound to come in for consideration sooner or later.

NEW ASTOR.

Charles Ray is the bashful country boy salesman of auto trucks in "'Alarm Clock' Andy," another of his inimitable screen comedy-dramas in which he comes to the New Astor tomorrow. Constance Talmadge in "Scandal" and the current "Trailed By Three" story will close this evening. As Andy Gray, Charles Ray has a tough time making headway in the business world, what with his shyness and his excessive shyness. Meeting and falling in love with the daughter of his boss gives him a new incentive to make a fresh and better start. The opportunity comes when Andy encounteres a big buyer of trucks and making a good impression, he appropriates the name of the firm's star salesman, proceeding to close a big order. Complications result when the man he is impersonating appears on the scene, but Andy gets rid of him by a clever ruse, and the final outcome is that he wins the day and the girl. The role is said to fit Ray like a glove, and Tom Guise, Millicent Fisher and others supporting him are above the average. The picture is a Thomas H. Ince production.

From Tuesday to Thursday, inclusive, the featured attractions will be William S. Hart in "Between Men" and the third story of the "Son of Tarzan" series.

Opera of "Passion Flower."

"The Passion Flower," now on the road with Nance O'Neil, is to be the basis for a grand opera. The piece is running in Chicago, where its engagement was twice extended.

Miss Wellman, who has just returned to the stage after a period devoted to the writing of plays and playlets, is now seeking new laurels. She will come to the Orpheum tomorrow for a week's engagement in "The Actor's Wife," which is described as a theatrical storm in ten dramatic flashes.

SCREEN RUSHES PELL MELL INTO THE B. V. D. DRAMA

The screen farce makers having made nymphs, nereids and other females of daring revelation the sine qua non of comedy themes, the producers of the serious branch seem now to be rushing pell mell into what a wag has called the B. V. D. drama. Impending are several screen spectacles that have competed to such extremes that the prize for boldness will be hard to award.

In Allen Holubar's "Man, Woman and Marriage," 400 girls of "unreticence" stage an Amazonian dance, and a throne scene has a group of absolutely unclothed young women. "Kismet," starring Otis Skinner, has a harem scene that is radically revelatory of the human form, and an artist's model poses as understudy to Mother Eve.

May Allison, in "The Marriage of William Ashe," does a Lady Godiva ride, clad only in the tresses of a long black wig. Nazimova is preparing to film "Aphrodite" and show the queen of love just as she emerges from the sea. Louise Glaum has only a bathtub for a shield in one scene of a new play. Doraldina's first Metro film will show her sans all covering but a shredded-wheat skirt. Cecil B. de Mille's "Forbidden Fruit" has for its "kick" some picturesquely undressed ladies.

"Songs and Smiles" Alf Grant, a monologue artist of widening fame, brings to the program. His stories are said to have the flavor of newness and his songs are declared happiness set to music. He strings them together with a monologue that is said to possess all the merit one could possibly expect and then some, since its sole purpose is to evoke the laughs.

Cross-fire comedy chatter, a cornet solo and some nifty dances—these are some of the ingredients Charles Darby and Hazel Brown have had stirred together for them by Wilbur Mack in concocting "Back Home." It is, as a matter of fact, a comedy flirtation skit with musical trimmings.

"The Melodious Harmonists" reads well and Lou and Grace Harvey, who will present "songs of the hour," make it sound just as good, it is said. They specialize in the whistly, humable sort of tunes, the kind that make one glad to be alive.

The photoplay program holds forth promise of most pleasing entertainment, with one of the stories of "The Third Eye" series, entitled "The Blind Trails of Justice," together with a Rolin comedy starring Snub Pollard, the Screen Magazine and the Grand News Weekly composing it.

NEW GARRICK.

Assisting a crook to pack up the family heirlooms isn't the average man's idea of a hilarious episode, but it proves highly entertaining to Tom Moore as Travers Gladwin in a picturization of the Cohan and Harris farce comedy success, "Officer 666," coming to the New Garrick tomorrow.

That is to say, it proves entertaining until the police happen along and mistake Gladwin for an impostor, thereby materially aiding the scheme of the crook, but Gladwin's plans to trap the thief he found installed in his home on returning from Europe would have worked beautifully if Gladwin had not insisted on wearing a uniform he had taken from a policeman and swearing his valet to silence.

As it turns out, Gladwin comes within an ace of losing a fortune in paintings and being arrested for impersonating an officer. After a series of experiences that keep spectators dazed trying to keep up with developments and laughs, he finally wins out, and incidentally wins the heart of the fair one in the case, which said heart had been left lying around loose in the excitement.

The indefatigable sense of humor of Augustin MacHugh and Winchell Smith, the authors, bubbles forth in every scene. Their adroitness in playing for almost serious effects and then swinging back into the humorous and their lively wit in the subtitles make the production up-to-the-minute fun. A more fascinating and absorbing tale of intrigue and scheming, of laughter and romance, than "Officer 666" cannot be imagined, and, as Director Harry Beaumont declared, "the role of Travers Gladwin was simply made for Tom Moore." In the cast are, among others, Jean Calhoun, Jerome Patrick, Raymond Hatton, Harry Dunkinson and Hardee Kirkland.

The tenth of the Sunday afternoon symphony concerts by the thirty-five-piece New Garrick Symphony orchestra will be given as an added attraction from 2 to 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The short subjects on the motion picture program include Bill Rogers' Illiterate Digest, another of the popular Screen Snapshots and the latest Garrick World Events reel.

ZELDA.

Probably no feature of the life in America's great West is more firmly fixed in the minds of persons familiar with its history than that distinctively American "pastime" gun fighting. In the old days, fortune was always on the side of the man who had the quickest gun hand.

One of the most interesting pictures of the West seen in many a day, in which ability to draw a gun with the necessary snap to insure a ripe old age is paramount, is "Drag Harlan," a William Fox production, starring that favorite of stage and screen the beloved "Bill" Farnum.

Farnum has the part of "Drag" Harlan, feared by all as the quickest gun fighter ever known in the community. His "handle" of "Drag" was won by a peculiar trick of seeming to let his hand hesitate or drag over the butt of his pistol before he finally whipped it out. Other gun fighters tried to discover the trick of "Drag's" peculiar drag, but found the only trick was speed.

Farnum has to give several demonstrations of his alacrity in drawing a six-shooter in this picture. Aside from the interest in the gun fighting element of the picture is an unusually touching romance, in which the star is supported by Jackie Saunders and [illegible]

NEWS NOTES OF THEATERS

Two pretentious vaudeville offerings are in store for Orpheum-goers in the near future. Thanksgiving week Manager Furni will bring "The Dance Shop," featuring Jeanette Hackett and Harry Delmar and a bevy of beauties. For the week of Nov. 28 the Orpheum will offer one of the biggest acts in the two-a-day. This is "Little Miss Vamp," featuring the Wood Sisters and Alexander; also the Dancing Donalds with a big beauty chorus.

"The Evolution of Yankee Doodle," M. L. Lake's selection, which is to be one of the features of the tenth concert by the New Garrick Symphony orchestra at the New Garrick theater tomorrow afternoon, is a remarkable fantasy depicting the idea conveyed in the title. Slowly through "A Storm at Sea," "The Landing of the Pilgrims," "Dance of the Pequot Indians," "The Minuet" and "On the Levee" the melody is developed until there emerges the "Waltz Period." This is followed by the "Syncopated Period" until finally grand opera becomes the spirit of the day.

Sam Kramer, a member of the team of physical culture exponents who appear on the New Grand bill for the last half of the week, starting Thursday, and said to be one of the most wonderfully developed men in the country, will give a short lecture at each performance. It will be of especial interest to parents, telling them how to make their children strong and healthy.

Nazimova, the famous star to be seen here shortly in what is said to be her greatest pictures, "Madame Peacock," has a new leading man in the person of George Probert, well-known on the speaking stage, and with several picture successes to his credit. He has appeared with William Gillette, Pauline Frederick, Margaret Anglin and also in Eugene Walter's "The Wolf." His picture appearances include "The Spender," "Nedra" and "The King's Game." For some years Nazimova's leading man has been her husband, Charles Bryant.

The role of an ex-convict who impersonates an English nobleman is the startling transition of "the perfect lover of the screen," Eugene O'Brien in "The Wonderful Chance," in which he is soon to be seen in Duluth. Best of all those who liked him in the purely sentimental characterizations are said to be "going wild over him" in the new departure.

A brilliant array of talent, a most unusual one, in fact, is to be seen in "The Best of Luck," the Allan Dwan production booked for an early showing here. Among the stars are Kathryn Adams, Jack Holt, Lilie Leslie, Fred Malatesta, Frances Raymond, Emmett King, Robert Dunbar, Effie Conley and Jack Underhill. The attraction is a picturization of the famous Drury Lane melodrama of the same name.

MUSICAL COMEDIETTA AT NEW GRAND

SCENE FROM "MY DREAM GIRL."
This playlet of music, comedy and girls will come to the New Grand tomorrow and will headline the vaudeville bill for the next four days.

BIG FOUR AND FIRST NATIONAL MAY UNITE

Marcus Loew Joins in Fight on "Big Four," Making First National's Task Easy.

There are indications that upon Hiram Abrams' return to New York from England the negotiations begun prior to his sailing tending to an amalgamation of the United Artists with the First National Exhibitors' circuit may be consummated. The deal was on the verge of being closed when Abrams was called abroad.

At that time a price of $400,000 was placed on the Fairbanks and Pickford productions by the United and the First National stood ready to meet the figures, on the productions of those two stars at least. The hitch, it is reported, occurred over the price on several of the other stars.

The Capitol is in the future to be the first-run house in New York for the Douglas Fairbanks and the Mary Pickford productions. The first of these is to be "The Curse Casipreno," with Fairbanks as the star. The date is early in December. The first-run figure for the Capitol week is said to be $10,000 per picture.

Outside of the Capitol date there is very little in New York at present for the Big Four productions. The entire membership of the Theater Owners' Chamber of Commerce has laid off the United entirely for the last eight weeks, and not a single contract has been signed by the owners of any of the 500 theaters represented in that body.

The Loew theaters still hold contracts for two United productions, but as Marcus Loew is now a member of the T. O. C. of C. it is believed that after those contracts are played he will stick with the association in its stand against the United Artists. This will practically bar the productions from Greater New York as far as the straight picture houses are concerned and will only leave the Keith exchange and Fox theaters open.

The first call made by the first road man resulted in negotiations for a contract with a combination of fifteen houses, and Esburg was immediately telegraphed to come on and close the deal.

Walthall Puts on "Ghosts."

Henry B. Walthall appeared at the Ye Liberty theater, Oakland, last week in a revival of Ibsen's "Ghosts," the vehicle selected for his tour which will carry him East.

Pictures in Holy Land.

The Palestine Pictures corporation, capital $180,000, has been organized by Benjamin P. Schulberg to promote the screen industry in the Holy Land. Mr. Schulberg, who is the chief executive of the Attractions Distributing corporation, will head the new company, associated with him are Morris Margolies, vice president; Sam Blitz, secretary, and J. G. Bachman, treasurer.

Loew Opens $1,000,000 Theater.

Marcus Loew, film and vaudeville magnate, was at Ottawa, Can., Nov. 8, and opened a new $1,000,000 theater as a new link in his chain of playhouses. This is said to be the largest theater in Canada and also the largest on the Loew circuit. Ground was broken for this enterprise about a year ago and the work was rushed at record speed.

Bill Hart After Adventure.

After completing his present picture, Bill Hart will take his director, Lambert Hilliard, and his two horses, Fritz and Cactus, and his dog up in the Sierras for a real trip of adventure and a much needed rest. Hart has two more pictures to make before he returns, after which it is expected that he will retire from the screen.

Edna Goodrich's New Play.

Edna Goodrich has announced that she will discard her present vehicle, "Sleeping Partners," and use a new play by Octavus Cohen, starting with her Salt Lake opening.

"Sally in Our Alley" Opening.

The new Flo Ziegfeld production, headed by Marilyn Miller, known as "Sally in Our Alley," will open Nov. 29 out of New York. Edward Royce is staging the piece with Jerome Kern writing the music. The cast includes, besides the co-stars, Miss Miller and Leon Errol, Walter Catlett, Delyle Alda, Marie Hay, Fairbanks Twins.

Edward Sheldon Invalid.

Edward Sheldon, well known playwright, author of "Romance" and many other plays, lies at the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago with a paralytic attack. Mr. Sheldon has been there for some time and it is doubtful whether he will be able to be moved or have the power of his limbs for a long time.

Alice Lake Becomes Star.

Alice Lake now takes her place as a full-fledged Metro star, according to an announcement made this week by Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictures corporation. Mr. Rowland explains that stellar rank has been conferred upon the magnetic young actress because of her surpassing work in her newest special production, "Body and Soul."

TWO MAJOR LEAGUES ASSURED WITH LANDIS AS BASEBALL CHIEF

Peace Reigns Following Conference of All Club Owners; New Head of Commission Has Been Picturesque Figure on Federal Bench.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Peace reigned in baseball circles today following yesterday's agreement between the opposing factions in the reorganization of the game. The sixteen club owners of the two major leagues were in accord on every issue, which today left the same eight clubs in the National and the same eight in the American league, and the threatened war was averted.

Judge K. M. Landis of the Federal court, Chicago, accepted the chairmanship of the baseball commission and will act as a committee of one as a final court of appeals in all matters of dispute between the two major leagues and any minor league which may join the majors in reorganizing the game.

To Hold Both Jobs.

Judge Landis will remain on the bench. His salary there is $7,500 a year. He stipulated that this sum should be subtracted from the $50,000 a year offered by the baseball men and so his salary as chairman of the national pastime will be $12,500 a year. The term for which he is chosen is seven years.

The minor leagues are invited and expected to join the majors under the Landis banner, but whether they do or not, the matter is settled as to the major leagues.

Chicago will be headquarters for the baseball commission and offices will be opened immediately. If second and third members are chosen for the commission, it is virtually certain, according to club owners, that judge Charles A. McDonald of Chicago will be one of them.

Judge Landis is a national figure, for the important cases he has passed upon and his wit and sarcasm some times humorous and some times caustic—which he directs at prisoners and counsel from his bench have made him famous.

Baseball always has been one of his hobbies. In the little town of Logansport, Ind., where he was reared, the judge played on amateur and semi-professional teams. His brilliant playing brought him many offers to turn professional, but he always declined, saying he played merely for sport and love of the game.

Authority on Baseball.

In 1914 Judge Landis presided in the legal battle which resulted from the greatest baseball war in history—the fight of the Federal league against the National and American leagues. The judge never rendered a decision in this case, however, for it was settled out of court while he was still forming his official opinion. While studying the case, the judge spent many hours looking into baseball history, the national agreement and other documents giving information concerning baseball. The knowledge acquired during this period made him legal authority on the administration of the game's affairs.

Judge Landis attends many major league games here every year and seldom misses a world's series. At the annual fall classic he generally may be found in a box back of third base, his old, black slouch hat pulled down over his eyes, and a long black cape falling from his shoulders. He never talks during a game, but studies every play closely and enjoys analyzing the strategy used by the opposing players. One of his hobbies at a game is to try to guess the next play.

Judge Landis was born in Millville, Ohio Nov. 20, 1866, and was named for Kenesaw mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., where his father was wounded in the Civil war. He first became nationally prominent when he fined the Standard Oil company $29,240,000 after forcing John D. Rockefeller to come here to testify. The decision was reversed by the appellate court, however.

Escapes Attack.

During the World war he presided at the famous I. W. W. trial, sentencing "Big Bill" Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the organization, and ninety-two other members to prison. Shortly afterward an explosion in the Federal building killed several persons, but the judge was uninjured. He also sentenced Congressman Victor L. Berger to prison for alleged obstruction of the nation's war preparations.

Judge Landis drew congressional attention shortly after the war. He found that most of the lawyers appearing before him who were wearing wrist watches had not been in the service.

"Have all these wrist watch lawyers file a statement what branch of the service they were in," he ordered.

Senator Thomas of Colorado, in an address in the senate, said Judge Landis should be impeached for his order. The judge's only comment was:

"Don't it beat the devil what some senators will do to pass the time away?"

Judge Landis' verbal attacks from the bench are directed at men in all stations of life. One day he scathingly denounces a corporation and the next day sympathizes with and helps some unfortunate prisoner brought before him. His favorite expression is:

"Take this man up to Mabel's room—the jail," or "take him to room 33 and give him the easy chair."

Judge Landis was hearing a case in which $15,000 bribery, in connection with an income tax, was charged, when a committee of eight club owners called on him. As the magnates filed into the courtroom, hats in hands, the judge sharply banged his gavel down and ordered them to make less noise. When informed of their mission he had them escorted to his chambers, where they were kept in waiting for forty-five minutes before the judge would listen to the offer which increased his annual salary from $7,500 a year to $50,000.

Will Keep Game Clean.

While the magnates waited the judge conducted the bribery trial in his usual vigorous fashion, and gave vent to a few scathing remarks about the men who falsify their income tax returns.

After the meeting, Judge Landis took Clark Griffith of the Washington club, a personal friend, over to a window.

"Grif," he said, "I'm going to tell you just why I took this job. See those kids down there on the street? See that airplane propeller on the wall? Well, that explains my acceptance.

"That propeller was on the plane in which my son, Maj. Reed Landis, flew while overseas. Reed and I went to one of the world's series games at Brooklyn. Outside the gate were a bunch of kids playing around. Reed turned to me and said: 'Dad, wouldn't it be a shame to have the game of these kids broken up? Wouldn't it be awful to take baseball away from them?' Well, while you gentlemen were talking to me I looked up at this propeller and I thought of Reed. Then I thought of his remark in Brooklyn. Grif, we've got to keep baseball on a high standard for the sake of the youngsters—that's why I took the job, because I want to help."

MILWAUKEE FIGHTER SCORES KNOCKOUT

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—Ritchie Mitchell, local lightweight boxer, knocked out Joe Benjamin of San Faneisco, in the ninth round of a 10-round contest here last night. Mitchell floored the Californian three times in the final round with stiff rights to the jaw, Benjamin taking six and nine counts. The third knockdown ended proceedings. The Californian had but one round, the second, the first and fourth being even and the others Mitchell's by a wide margin.

Bud Christiano, Chicago, defeated Tony Dennis, Milwaukee, lightweight, in ten rounds.

WHO IS OWNER OF BABE RUTH?

With the dissolution of the national agreement there's going to be a fight over Babe Ruth, Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk, Harry Hooper and other Yankee, White Sox and Red Sox stars.

Col. Ruppert, C. A. Comiskey and H. H. Frazee said in Chicago last night that their players would be retained by them and would play in the new league at all costs.

On to the courts! Who really owns Babe Ruth!

YALE PLAYS PRINCETON

Orange and Black Favorite; Other Important Games Scheduled.

New York, Nov. 13.—The annual clash between Yale and Princeton was the outstanding contest of today's Eastern football program, although several other battles of more than passing interest were scheduled. Dartmouth plays Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; Columbia meets Cornell at Ithaca, Washington and Jefferson invades Pittsburgh for its yearly battle with the Panthers; Harvard opposes Brown at Cambridge, while the army and navy elevens face Bowdoin and South Carolina respectively on Academy fields.

Princeton was favored in the wagering to win from Yale, while Dartmouth and Cornell were generally selected as victors over Pennsylvania and Columbia. Harvard planned to play its second string team against Brown to allow varsity players and coaches an opportunity to witness the Yale and Princeton contest in order to be familiar with Yale's style of play when the Crimson faces the blue at New Haven next Saturday. Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson anticipated a hard, close conflict, with the odds favoring the Panthers.

Brothers Head Teams.

The Princeton-Yale classic drew more than 50,000 spectators to the Palmer Memorial stadium. The thrills of a gridiron rivalry that began forty-eight years ago, the spectacle of affluence, beauty and fashion from all parts of the country, the competition in songs and cheers, the unprecedented fact that the captains of the teams are brothers—the Callahans of Lawrence, Mass.—all these factors caused every seat to be sold long in advance.

Capt. "Mike" of Princeton, and Capt. "Tim" of Yale meet in their last Yale-Princeton game, each determined to go down in college history as the leader of a winning eleven. One hundred thousand eyes had greater interest than ever before for the pre-game handshake and toss of the coin by the captains—a strapping blonde in orange and black, and a slightly older and huskier and darker athlete in blue, wishing each other the best of everything except success in this game.

Mother Neutral.

Mrs. Mary E. Callahan, the mother of three football captains this year—for another son is a schoolboy leader—had reserved seats on the Princeton side. This did not indicate her sympathy, she explained, but was part of her plan of benevolent neutrality. Last year she sat in the Yale stands and she reversed the process this year in order to show no partiality.

Her greatest concern was whether Harry or John—meaning "Mike" or "Tim," respectively, in college phraseology—would be hurt. She was accompanied by her daughter, Eunice, 19, impartial with college color and envied by many a debutante, as she had proms and other functions at two colleges to attend with prominent, big brothers to introduce her.

WEATHER IDEAL FOR NASSAU GAME

Princeton All Astir; Captain "Tim" of Yale to Play Left Guard.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 13.—Ideal football weather was in prospect today for the annual gridiron battle of Yale and Princeton. The day broke clear and cool with every indication that when the two teams faced each other in Palmer sadium there would be nothing to complain about from the players' point of view so far as the weather is concerned.

The Yale squad arrived early in the day and was sent through a brief signal drill in the stadium where the punters and quarterbacks were given an opportunity to become accustomed to the treacherous air currents that blow over the big concrete structure. Princeton had its last workout yesterday.

Coaches of both elevens said their men were in excellent condition, but none of them would make any predictions as to the outcome of the game. Princeton ruled a slight favorite in the betting with Yale supporters asking odds of 5 to 3. Very few wagers were known to have been made, however, as most of the Tiger adherents held out for even money bets.

Lineup Changed.

The lineup of the Yale team as announced at New Haven last night indicates that unless Tad Jones changes his plans at the last moment the battle of the Callahan brothers, captains of the opposing elevens, will not materialize. Great interest had been manifested in the meeting of these two men, both of whom play regularly at center. In the Yale lineup the Eli leader had been shifted to right guard, which would move him away from his brother Mike, pivot man of the Orange and Black. Mrs. Callahan, with the sister of the two captains, will witness the contest from the Princeton side.

The enthusiasm which grows out of long-standing traditions of college rivalry apparently was greater here today than ever before. The streets of the little college town early were crowded with knickerbockered upper classmen and black-capped freshmen wearing large orange and black badges bearing the command in large black letters, "Beat Yale!" The vanguard of the more than 50,000 spectators expected for the game overran the town last night and every incoming train today was crowded with alumni of the two institutions and others eager to witness the struggle between two of the "big three." The probable lineup follows:

FOOTBALL CONTESTS OF INTEREST TO FANS OF THE NORTHWEST

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13.—Interest in football in the Northwest centers today in the following battles:

Iowa vs. Minnesota at Iowa City.
Illinois vs. Wisconsin at Madison.
Hamline vs. Carleton at St. Paul.
St. Thomas vs. Macalester at St. Paul.

The only Big Ten game which will have any important bearing on the conference championship is the Illinois-Wisconsin game, which Illinois can lose and still be counted in when Ohio State is met the following Saturday.

The Minnesota-Iowa game, while of much interest to the followers of both institutions, has no bearing on the championship.

In the Minnesota college conference, however, the championship is at stake in every move made this afternoon. Carleton, with a clean conference slate, is fighting Hamline for a claim to the highest honors.

The Macalester-St. Thomas game brought together two hard-fighting machines. Macalester has not lost a conference start, while St. Thomas is out of the championship running. Odds favored Macalester when the game started. A win for Macalester would start the team against Carleton next week with a clean conference slate and a bid for the title.

CHARLEY WHITE WILL FIGHT LEONARD AGAIN

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Charley White last night announced he had been matched for a 12-round boxing match at Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 10, with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion. Leonard knocked out White in the ninth round at Benton Harbor, Mich., July 5, after White had outfought the champion for most of the battle.

GEORGETOWN STAR STARTING LONG RUN AGAINST NAVY

Georgetown's only scoring against the Annapolis Naval academy was done in the first two minutes of play by Jack Flavin, star quarterback. With the ball on Georgetown's 45-yard line, Flavin ran around the Navy's left end, then veered across the field and planted the ball behind the goal posts. Kenyon missed the goal. The final score was Navy, 21; Georgetown, 6. This photograph shows Flavin just as he got free and started his run.

ALLISON SHADES ALBERTS IN SLOW RING BATTLE AT NEW ARMORY ARENA

Great Crowd of Fans See Uninteresting Mitten Contest—Kid Billings Fights Fast and Furious Draw With Battling Hugo of St. Paul—Other Bouts.

HERALD DECISIONS

Neil Allison shaded Kid Alberts in ten rounds.
Kid Billings and Battling Hugo fought fast 10-round draw.
Harry Boyle shaded Ed Franti in six rounds.
Bob Johnson knocked out Bill Hart in four rounds.
Dan Freske knocked out Kid Proctor in one round.

By SANDY MACDONALD.

Kid Alberts, Duluth's most promising lightweight prospect, "shelled" his way into the pugilistic discard last evening at the New Armory arena when he staged one of the very worst exhibitions of his brief career in the ring in his fight with Neil Allison of Morgan Park and honestly earned the bitter derision of the fans, which was distinctly expressed in repeated hissings and yells of "Get out of that shell and get in there and fight."

Only in remote instances of the much heralded battle did Alberts flare and show anything like a boy who was out to win a fight. When he did he received a nice hand; but before the applause could die out he was back in his shell, covered with leather and elbows from his belt to his cowlick.

Yearned to Stay Ten.

Whether Alberts was [illegible] of Allison or whether he was [illegible] heeding instructions given him from his seconds is not known. From appearances he was in there to stay ten rounds even if he had to [illegible] the heel and toe to keep out of harm's way.

It did not take the fans long to make it out to their own satisfaction that they were being cheated. When the first round offered nothing the spectators set their hopes on the second stanza and when the boys failed to explode anything in that period, the hissing started and increased until all sections of the large auditorium were alive with resentment.

The third round started out like unto the second, but before it had gone far Alberts threw aside his shell and went to work for a brief half minute. In that time he outpointed Allison, and for his trouble received a crashing right cross to the side of the jaw that shook him up perceptibly.

Allison Gets to Work.

Allison punished Alberts badly in the fourth round when he shot two ripping rights to the stomach, a hard right to the kidneys and stiff right to jaw. In the latter part of the round there was much clinching.

When the fifth round opened Referee Jimmy Potts warned the contestants that they would have to show more action or be disqualified. There was a trifle more life in the [illegible] a trifle. Alberts outpointed Allison in the sixth when he landed a few light lefts and rights to the face which barked some old cuts which the veteran Morgan Park boy received in other rings in the long ago.

The remainder of the fight was about identically the same as the preceding rounds, altogether a tame, uninteresting affair that did not have enough quality to thrill a [illegible] spectator.

Other Battles Good.

But the four battles which took place before the Allison-Alberts mill were not at all faulty even if some of them were brief. In the curtain raiser Dan Freske, a Superior middleweight, knocked Kid Proctor of Proctor into the sweet land of dreams in about one minute of fighting. Bob Johnson, Duluth's own heavyweight, won his second start of the season by stopping Bill Hart of St. Paul with a stiff right to the point of the jaw in the fourth round. Hart handed out some stiff punishment to Johnson in the third session and the latter's many friends became anxious. But Bob came back in the fourth and outboxed Hart, finally landed the haymaker that put the St. Paul boy out of the running.

Kid Billings, the Superior welterweight, celebrated his return to the ring by boxing a fast and furious draw with Battling Hugo of Minneapolis. This bout was easily the best of the evening and afforded a heap of clever boxing and a ton of action. Both boys are willing performers and each was trying hard all the way. The first two rounds were even and then Billings flashed to the front and took the third, fourth and fifth while he outboxed and outslugged Hugo.

Billings broke the first knuckle of his right hand in the latter part of the fifth round, which made that paw useless for the remainder of the bout for either offensive or defensive work. Gamely continuing when the average boy would have left the ring, Billings made a great hit with the fans. Hugo took the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds, the ninth was even and in the tenth Billings, using a left uppercut, earned a comfortable shade.

Both Hugo and Billings are two grand fighters, boys who give the fans a good run for their money and the Duluth A. C. would do well in using either or both of them again.

The crowd was slow in getting into the building for the reason that the fans all came in a body and for the further reason that only one entrance was used. It was the first time the D. A. C. had used the new quarters and some mistakes were looked for. New arrangements for getting the fans in will be made for the next show of the club, according to a statement given out this morning by the club officials.

BIG TEN RACE NEARING END

Wisconsin's Chances for Title Hinge on Victory Over Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Illinois today faces Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., in the most important contest of the day's conference games, with Wisconsin's title chances at stake. The Illinois hope for victory so that they may meet Ohio State next Saturday with their slate still clean. Coaches of both teams stated today that their squads were in excellent physical condition and unless some of the regulars are injured early in the day, the battle should be one of the hardest fought of the season in the West.

Chicago battles Michigan at Ann Arbor for the first time since 1904, and Purdue plays Northwestern at Evanston and Minnesota meets Iowa at Iowa City in other conference games. Indiana goes out of the conference to play Notre Dame, while Ohio State is idle.

Ohio Strong Rival.

Ohio State and Illinois are each undefeated, with four victories, while Wisconsin has lost to Ohio State. A victory today for Wisconsin and again over Chicago a week later would give the Badger eleven standing of four games won and one lost. Illinois would go into the Ohio State game with the same standing. Victory for Illinois over Ohio would give them a mark of five and one, however, with Ohio and Wisconsin each having one less victory. On the strength of this standing Illinois could claim the championship.

Illinois defeated Chicago 3 to 0, Iowa 20 to 3, Michigan 7 to 6, and Minnesota 17 to 7; Ohio State defeated Wisconsin 13 to 7, Chicago 7 to 6, Michigan 14 to 7, and Purdue 17 to 0.

Chicago can only be given an outside chance to beat Michigan, their admirers admit. Injuries have shattered the chances of the Maroons, who must play brilliant football to entertain hopes of victory.

Chicago lost to Illinois 0 to 3 and to Ohio State 6 to 7, and defeated Iowa 10 to 0, and Purdue 20 to 0. Michigan has lost two games to Illinois 5 to 7, and Ohio State 6 to 14.

Lesser Games.

The Northwestern-Purdue game is expected to be close for the homecoming spectators, but has no bearing on the championship race.

Notre Dame's battle with Indiana at Indianapolis will decide the championship of the Hoosier state.

Minnesota was at Iowa City where the homecoming crowd hoped to see Iowa repeat its feat of the last two seasons of defeating the Gophers. Iowa defeated Northwestern last week.

TWO MORE BROTHERS IN GRIDIRON FIGHT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—Herb Stein, captain and center o fthe University of Pittsburgh football team, and Russel Stein, his brother, left tackle on the Washington and Jefferson squad, will face each other on the gridiron here today. Their mother, who lives at Woodsfield, Ohio, will attend the game.

CANADIAN CHAMPION BEATS AUSTRALIAN

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—Clonie Tait, lightweight champion boxer of Canada, last night knocked out Lew Edwards, lightweight champion of Australia, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout here.

Tait punished Edwards severely and sent him to the floor seven times in the first round. In the second round Edwards was floored twice and the last time his seconds threw up the sponge. It was announced each man weighed 131½ pounds.

Stewart McLean, St. Paul, outpointed Dandy Dillion, Minneapolis, in 10 rounds. They are bantamweights.

JOHNSON PRAISES LANDIS SELECTION

Chicago, Nov. 13.—President Ban B. Johnson of the American league, leader of the opponents of the Lasker plan, received his first information concerning the meeting from the Associated Press, and expressed pleasure at the action taken.

"I'm for Judge Landis, and I think these club owners have acted wisely," he said. "Baseball will be placed on the highest possible standard now and there will be no more fights. I am well satisfied with everything that took place yesterday."

DULUTH HOCKEY PLAYERS TRAIN

Local Squad of Puck Chasers Preparing for Busy Season.

Rigid training identical with that pursued by Boat club oarsmen has been adopted in whipping candidates for Duluth's 1920-1921 hockey team into shape. Pre-season gymnasium and road work is the program at this stage of the game, and it is the first time in the history of the sport here that training has been started so early, so vigorously and so completely.

While a biting wind snapped at their ears and faces, more than a score of men last night ran from the Central "Y" at Third avenue west out to Twenty-first avenue east and back again, a total distance of forty-eight blocks, and they staggered into the "Y" dressing rooms last night an exhausted crew.

Grenner Will Pilot.

Andy Grenner, trainer of athletic teams, is the man at the helm again this season.

"It's bad enough getting up in the morning, but o-oh!—it's awful going downstairs," groaned one of the stiff-limbed athletes last night at the conclusion of the training grind. All of which is merely evidence of the fact that the boys are not faking, but mean real business. They're training as no hockey team ever trained in Duluth before.

The reason for all this seriousness, of course, is the desire to develop a simon-pure amateur team of real local talent, not a motley collection of imported high-priced professional stars, such as many American cities feature. Duluth is going to endeavor to show the hockey world this year that a team can be developed from ordinary talent, chiefly through conditioning and team work. That was the campaign which brought world-beating success to the Duluth Boat club in rowing for many years.

Legion to Control Team.

The hockey team will be under the jurisdiction of the American Legion this year, managed by legion men without profit, for the benefit of the ex-service men's organization. With the cold weather which has descended so rapidly in the last few days, it is expected that there soon will be real playing ice, and then the indoor muscular work and the track running will be supplanted by the honest-to-gosh business.

Virtually all of the well-known local stars are in the game this year. An interesting addition to the squad last week was "Vic" Johnson, stroke of the Duluth Boat club senior eight last season, who, with a tremendous physique, is expected to prove a powerful defensive man if he can show any ability with the stick and puck.

CLUBS CAN HOLD THEIR PLAYERS

American League Has No Claim on Men of "Reform" Teams.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The American league has no power to hold the players of the three clubs which have joined the new National league, and every member of the Yanks, White Sox and Red Sox can play in the new organization next year, according to an opinion given this week by Alfred Austrian, attorney for the two Chicago major league clubs and advisor in the drafting of the Lasker plan.

Mr. Austrian's opinion was rendered in response to statements from representatives of the five clubs which are backing Ban Johnson in the baseball war, that the league owned all its players, and that the White Sox, the Yankees and the Red Sox consequently could "take only their ball parks into the new league."

"The players belong to the clubs and their contracts are made with the clubs," said Mr. Austrian. "The league is merely a voluntary organization which has no contract power over the men other than to prescribe certain clauses which may be put into contracts. I do not care to say at present whether even this power which voluntarily has been given the league, is lawful.

"There is no doubt, however, that the Chicago, New York and Boston clubs, formerly of the American league, may take their entire playing personnel into the new National league, regardless of claims to the contrary which may be made by Mr. Johnson and his five backers."

The new National league, however, is preparing for extensive court action and expects numerous injunctions to be applied for by Johnson's "loyal five" before they permit the players on the other three clubs to be taken from the American league, according to representatives of the new organization.

"We expect bitter court battles," said one club owner, "but we have proceeded carefully and have no doubt as to the outcome. The new league is composed of the money making clubs and they are ready to spend every cent necessary to win."

This club owner pointed out that if necessary the Chicago, New York and Boston clubs could put teams of amateurs in the field as their representatives in the American league if they so desired.

CAPTAIN AND STROKE OF WELLESLEY CREW WHICH WON INTERCLASS RACES

Here is Miss Dorothy Brainerd, captain and stroke of the senior crew of Wellesley college, who led her mates to victory in the interclass races on Lake Waban. The event was witnessed by the faculty, many of the alumnae and hundreds of guests.

HUNTERS LEAVE TO SHOOT GAME

All trains leaving Duluth this morning were crowded to the vestibules with deer and moose hunters who are going into the tall and uncut in search of big game, the open season on which starts next Monday and continues until Dec. 5. The Duluth & Iron Range, the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific and the Northern Pacific and Great Northern lines were particularly heavily patronized.

Most of the hunters will be in camp by tonight and get everything in readiness to slay the deer and the moose when the first signs of daylight appear next Monday morning. Many parties are going into the forests to camp for a week or more regardless of whether they get a deer or a moose the first day or not.

It is expected that by Monday evening the first trophies of the chase will begin to reach the city.

FREAK PITCHING REDUCED HITTING IN BIG LEAGUES

Only One No-Hit Game in Majors in 1920 Season.

Abolition of freak pitching showed its effect in the major leagues this year in the reduction of low hit hurling performances. The effects were not as pronounced as were anticipated last winter, but still were apparent.

Only one no-hit game was pitched in the big circuits during 1920, and that was by Walter Johnson, the veteran who had been denied a place on the no-hit tablet of fame by hard luck in several previous games during his long career. Johnson attained his goal on July 1 against the Red Sox. No National league hurler blanked his opponents without a safety this year.

Last year there was one no-hit game in each major league, with Hod Eller and Ray Caldwell as the performers.

Five One-Hit Clashes.

In the matter of one-hit performances there was also a slump in 1920. There were three of them in the National league and two in the American, against a total of four in each circuit in 1919. The one-hit hurlers of this season were Jim Vaughn, Bill Doak and Art Nehf in the National and Warren Collins and Guy Morton in the American.

There was a big falling off in the number of two-hit games in the National league this year—only seven, against nineteen of them in 1919—but in the American league there was a slight increase in the two-hit performances—eight, compared to six the year before.

Difference in Leagues.

Including games in which only three hits were made in nine or more innings, there is a falling off in the National league from 1919 and a slight increase in the American. There were forty-one battles in which a team made three hits or less in the National this year, compared to fifty-four such games in 1919. In the American there was an increase from thirty-two to thirty-nine. The 1920 record follows:

OKLAHOMAN LEADER IN MISSOURI VALLEY

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 13.—With Oklahoma retaining a firm grasp on the 1920 Missouri valley conference football title the attention of observers here turned today to the game between Washington and Missouri universities at Columbia, for if Missouri and Kansas universities should win the remaining games on their schedules and Oklahoma drop one the three schools will find themselves in a triple tie for first place.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETES TO COMPETE AT ITHACA

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 13.—School boys from various Eastern preparatory and high schools will compete in Ithaca today in the annual interscholastic cross country race to be run off under the auspices of the Cornell University Athletic association. About thirteen schools have entered about 100 athletes in this meet.

An innovation in the nature of the course to be covered has been arranged for this year. Instead of a three and one-half mile cross country run, as in former years, the contest will be a three-mile steeple chase, with the usual natural obstacles of such a race, fences, ditches, water jumps, fields, etc. The change in the character of the race is expected to give it added interest and at the same time conform more closely to what cross country running really is.

So far the following schools have scored victories in this meet: Arlington high school, Ithaca high school, Fleischmann's high school, Flushing high school, Hutchinson high school of Buffalo, Technical high school of Buffalo (twice).

Last year the individual winner was Marvin Rick, the Erasmus high school star, while Harry Helme of the Lafayette high school of Buffalo was second. Buffalo technical won the trophy last year with thirty-nine points.

BARRED BOXERS ARE GIVEN AIR

Clubs in Three Eastern States Will Respect Suspensions.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 12.—A step in the right direction is being made in the boxing game in the East, according to information wafted this way by the telegraph wires. It has to do with the way the boxing commissions in various states handle the boxers, but more principally concerns the recognition of action taken in one state by the officials of other states.

There long has been a concerted but futile effort on the part of some men connected with the boxing game to get together and form some sort of a governing body which would have jurisdiction in things pugilistic in every state where the sport is permitted.

A national commission built along the lines of the national commission in baseball was suggested. It looked like a good idea, but got nowhere, because those who mingle in the glove sport apparently did not care to waste the time or effort to accomplish the formation of such an organization.

Three States in Understanding.

What we started out to say here concerns the benefit that boxing should get out of the way Eastern promoters are handling the sport. It is learned that at least three states, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts, have reached an amicable understanding which should help to keep boxing clean and above criticism.

For instance, we are informed that in recent months New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts have barred certain boxers. These performers were suspended for various terms because they failed to live up to the letter of their contracts, which means they did not give the promoters or the public what they contracted to give in the way of entertainment.

There has been a noteworthy lack of mention of the word "frameup" in the suspension notices which were handed to the newspapers for promulgation, and this is one thing which saves the game from a black eye and for which everybody who has the interest of boxing at heart should be thankful.

Recognize Suspensions.

Such suspensions undoubtedly are a good thing for the game, but what great good would they accomplish if a pair of boxers could "tango" through ten or twelve rounds in one state and be barred, then move over to another state and pull the same stuff, which is termed in a milder way, "not performing their best?" No good at all, but a great deal of good will come of such suspensions if the ruling powers of New Jersey, for instance, recognize the suspensions handed down in New York, and the boxers ruled out in one state find themselves also ruled out in another.

It seems that this state of conditions has developed in the East, and it will be a good thing for pugilism. It could be improved, however, if the same sort of an alliance could be formed between states of the East and states of the West.

Should Be Extended.

For instance, why couldn't Wisconsin recognize the suspensions of New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts commissions, or vice versa? Perhaps it will work out this way in time, which should please boxing fans.

It would be one way to make amends for the failure of boxing authorities to get together and form a national governing body.

HEYDLER SATISFIED WITH ARRANGEMENT

Chicago, Nov. 13.—President John Heydler of the National league made the following statement:

"I am very happy over this solution of the baseball problem. It is an upward step for baseball and forever eliminates politics from the national game. One of the chief worries of a league president is to vote fairly in the national commission, and I am glad to be relieved of the responsibility."

CHILDREN'S HOME BOARD ANNOUNCES CHARITY BALL NOV. 23

The camera man caught members of the board of directors of the Children's home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Barnett, home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. aBrnett, 1721 East First street. Reading from left to right in the back row are: Mesdames H. F. Williamson, Mark Baldwin, George W. Welles, Robert Parker, George G. Barnum, Jr., and Russell Duncan. In the second row, reading from the left are: Mrs. G. Herbert Jones, president of the board of directors, and Mesdames B. Murray Peyton, R. A. Horr and A. L. Agatin. Seated in front is Mrs. Ray C. Helm with Mrs. Barnett at her right.

The latest announcement given out by the board of the Children's home, and which will unquestionably be the occasion for no small amount of happy anticipation on the part of dance lovers and the more sedate folks who take pleasure in being merely spectators, is that a return to the pre-war practice of the annual Charity Ball to be observed on the Tuesday before Thanksgiving—that day which by tradition seems to belong to the Children's Home society.

This ball, the thirty-third annual, will be given at the Armory Tuesday evening, Nov. 23, and, as on former occasions will be a benefit for the home. The committee in charge of the tickets and general arrangements announces that tickets will sell for $5 with charge of 50 cents for additional ladies, and adds that persons who do not care to attend may show their generosity and goodwill toward the home by returning the tickets mailed them with their donation to Mrs L. C. Barnett, chairman of finance, at 1723 East First street.

The committee is very frank, is stating that while it is the hope and purpose of the Children's Home society to make the Charity Ball a success from a social standpoint, the prime object is that the ball will be a success financially as the demands on the treasury are very heavy at present.

A special committee, consisting of Mrs. Ray C. Helm, Mrs. Robert Parker and Mrs. Russell Duncan reported that arrangements, whereby the cost of the ball would be eliminated as far as the Children's home was concerned, have been made. The following women of the board of directors are responsible for the success of the ball, the pleasure of those attending, and the financial results for the kiddies and their home: Mrs. G. Herbert Jones, Mrs. B. E. La Londe, Mrs. Russell Duncan, Mrs. George G. Barnum, Jr., Mrs. W. B. Brinkman, Mrs. L. C. Barnett, Mrs. Rufus H. Draper, Mrs. James G. Vivian, Mrs. Adam Thomson, Mrs. B. Murray Peyton, Mrs. F. H. Raisky, Mrs. R. A. Horr, Mrs. Ray C. Helm, Mrs. Robert H. Parker, Mrs. N. H. Gillespie, Mrs. H. F. Williamson, Mrs. Mark Baldwin, Mrs. George W. Welles, Mrs. W. W. Walker, Mrs. A. L. Agatin and Mrs. J. M. Robinson.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Children's Home society held Friday morning, the monthly bills amounting to $2,124.91 were approved for payment. The following donations were most gratefully acknowledged:

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman.

MEAT SUBSTITUTES IN THE HOME DINNER.

NOW and then a meat-substitute should be introduced into the family diet for economy's sake. But the housekeeper must take care that when a meat substitute is served, the other dishes of the meal are bulky. For, although cheese, eggs, baked beans and the other meat-substitutes have the same food value as meat, still they are not the equivalent of meat in bulk; so the dishes which go with them in a meal should supply this need. The following home dinner menus are of this variety and will be found delicious:

Meat Soup
Baked Bean Loaf
Creamed Cabbage — Fried Potatoes
Coffee — Steamed Fruit Pudding

Baked Bean Loaf—3 cups cold baked beans (any kind of beans), 2 small onions minced, 1 cup stale bread crumb, salt and pepper to season, 1 cup mashed cooked carrots and 2 tablespoons tomato catsup or other liquid sauce. Combine the ingredients in the order given, let stand a few moments, and form a loaf. Pour over the loaf a little melted butter and bake 30 minutes.

Meat Soup
Egg-Cheese Dish
Canned Corn — Potato Croquettes
Coffee

Egg-Cheese Dish—Mix 1 cup milk with 1 cup of grated cheese, 1 tablespoon of butter, ½ cup of bread crumbs, ¼ teaspoon each of salt and mustard, and a little paprika. Cook this mixture in a double boiler for about 3 minutes, then take from the fire, pour onto 3 beaten egg-yolks, fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of the 3 eggs, and pour all into a deep buttered baking dish. Bake in a slow oven for 25 minutes, then serve hot.

Meat Soup
Egg-Ham Souffle
Cauliflower — Rice Croquettes
Coffee — Suet Pudding

Egg-Ham Souffle—Cook 2 tablespoons of butter with 2 of flour until bubbling, add 1 cup rich milk or use half milk and half left-over gravy, ¼ cup bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon minced green pepper, 3 beaten egg-yolks, 2 cups finely minced ham, and another tablespoon butter. Cook a moment then take from the fire, add the egg-whites beaten and partly fill a buttered baking dish and let bake in a slow oven 25 minutes.

Mrs. R. T. S.—Answer: No, you do not need a curtain stretcher. Simply wash your marquisette curtains in luke-warm suds made with a good white soap, rinse them perfectly, dry them, sprinkle them as you would anything else, and iron them double.

Bride-Reader—Answer: Mold on preserve jars is caused by one of three things: 1. Leaky rubbers or defective joints. 2. Removing tops from the jars at the end of the sterilization period and substituting new rubbers without returning the jars to the canning outfit for at least a few minutes. 3. If the jars are kept in a damp place where the rubbers may decompose, mold is apt to enter through these decomposed rubbers.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

GIRL SCOUTS ACQUAINTING DULUTH PUBLIC WITH ACTIVITIES, IN TABLEAUX

Today Girl Scouts presented in tableaux staged in a display window of the George A. Gray company, demonstrations of cooking, sewing, first aid work, life-saving, artificial respiration, bed-making and other activities. This concludes the series of demonstrations given to educate the general public to the functionings of the Girl Scout organization, and they are hopeful that people will keep this in mind Monday when they visit the shops and hotel lobbies, where Scout Girls will be presiding over booths designed to take care of the voluntary subscriptions made to the scouts. Much rejoicing was occasioned in local scout circles this morning when a telegram received from the New York headquarters announced that 50 per cent of all money subscribed in Duluth will be kept in the local branch.

Girl Scout Requirements.

In an interview given out recently by Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, daughter of President Wilson, member of the executive board of the Girl Scouts and chairman of its publicity department, stress was laid on the fact that the primary qualification for a scout membership demands that girls be informed as to the duties of citizenship, must know the full significance of Old Glory and its history, must know the national anthem, and must comprehend the government and the rest of the body politic.

"The Girl Scot," Mrs. McAdoo said, "is also a 'Health Guardian,' and she knows more about public health than most voters of today, I believe. She knows housing laws, bakery laws, milk and meat regulations, the facts about public medical inspection, birth registration, quarantine regulations. She knows where to find the clinics in her town, who is responsible for the cleaning of the streets and what method, 'wet' or 'dry,' is used for street cleaning; where the milk stations are, what is done with garbage, what is the source of the local water supply, why the fly and mosquito are health menaces.

Will Vote Intelligently.

"She is thus prepared, you see, for the public housekeeping that women naturally undertake as a duty. But with the voter there are still wider horizons opening before us, and it will now be the Girl Scout's part to become a voter or make it a point to be well informed on great national problems. She will vote right when the country's future is involved because she will vote intelligently.

"These things are all concrete. The Girl Scout movement is tangible and objective in its application, for the training is devised to fit the everyday life of normal girls. But, above and beyond the mere lessons learned, habits established, tests passed and feats accomplished, the Girl Scout has something more valuable still—she has the spirit of co-operation.

Group Activity.

"The whole philosophy of the Girl Scout organization is that of group activity," said Mrs. McAdoo. "Work together, be self-reliant but not self-sufficient, and think of the other person first! These are the tenets of the Girl Scout faith. What a faith for anybody!

"For it works. Scouts don't quarrel, you know, and they don't shirk and they don't sulk. They aren't prigs, or angels; but whatever they are, in camp, at drill, in meeting, they all stand together. It is inspiring to see them, just young things, from so many different environments, welded together as a group, always ready to work, to laugh, to help; individuals, but altruists, too.

"There is a dignity about group activity that the individual, self-seeking and self-absorbed, cannot attain.

"Girl Scouts, then, are good citizens because they have the definite training for citizenship that, I think, is so essential, the fundamental basis of facts and figures; and because they are also trained to think in terms of the group. These are the reasons why I am interested in seeing the movement flourish. This is why I hope that after the November campaign scouting headquarters will have enough money to answer the demands of the thousands of girls who apply every month for membership, who must now be turned away."

Study Class to Use Local Author's Book

A book by a Duluth author will be one of the principal study books to be taken up at the Mission Study institute, which will be held next week from Nov. 15 to 18, at the Y. W. C. A., under the direction of the Duluth Presbyterian society. Rev. T. D. Whittles, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, has just published an interesting biography of Frank Higgins, the lumberjack "sky pilot," and Mr. Whittles will teach this book during the mission study institute. Classes in social service work will be conducted by James Bell, missionary in charge of the range parish, who will use for text books, "The Church and the Community" and "Serving the Neighborhood."

Mrs. C. W. Williams, dean of women at Macalester college, St. Paul, will come to Duluth to conduct classes on foreign mission study. In the afternoon session she will have a class on "The Near East: Crossroads of the World," a book of special interest at this time, and in the evening will present "The Shepherd of Aintab," the life story of Dr. Fred Shepard of Turkey, one of the missionary heroes of the war. As these study books are recommended by the interchurch movement the whole course to be given at the mission study institute will be of interest to members of many different churches in the city. Miss Anne Macfarlane is chairman in charge of arrangements for the institute and is assisted by Mrs. T. D. Whittles, Mrs. F. H. Rogers and Mrs. L. E. Marvin.

Side Talks

By Ruth Cameron.

THE COURAGEOUS FACE.

HEAVEN help me to make the lines of my face turn up instead of down, and to keep them turned up as long as I live.

Look about you at the faces in a trolley car and see what a different feeling it gives you when you see a face in which the lines, especially the corners of the mouth, have the upward curve of hope and courage and cheerfulness instead of that downward droop which means the down-looking spirit, the unconditional surrender to depression and disenchantment and discouragement.

Then look at your own face in the glass and see what the corners of your own mouth are doing.

The Objection Is Not Sustained.

"But," someone may object, "I guess the corners of anybody's mouth would droop if they had as hard a time as I have."

The objection is not sustained. You cannot tell whether a man or woman's life has been hard or easy by looking at the corners of his or her mouth. You can only tell what his reaction to life has been.

Of course it is true that there are people with cheerful faces who would not be cheerful if they had had a few knockout blows from Fate.

And, conversely, it is true that there are people with discouraged mouths who would not have gotten those in their faces if life had granted their every desire.

Not Your Circumstances, But Your Reaction.

But, on the other hand, there are people who have had to fight against every kind of disappointment and depression and who still turn a courageous, hopeful face to the world.

And there are people who have had reasonably happy, easy lives who wear the downward drooping face.

I suppose it all depends on whether you hug your troubles or thrust them from you.

If you turn your face toward the light that light will be reflected on it, but if you turn it toward the darkness your face will be shadowed by what it looks towards.

She Has Looked Toward the Darkness.

A few weeks ago an elderly friend of mine died at the age of 83. For almost twenty years this woman has been turning her face steadfastly toward the likelihood of her own death. She had a slight organic trouble—no worse a handicap than that under which many a man does his daily work—and yet she seldom bought a suit or a hat or a dress without saying portentously, "I guess this will last me as long as I need it." She seldom let a holiday pass without assuring her children gloomily that it was probably the last they would all be together.

In vain they tried to win her to a happier outlook. For twenty years she saddened her own life and theirs by keeping her eyes steadfastly fixed on the separation which must inevitably come, instead of on the happiness and peace and comfort of the present. Needless to say, every line in her face that could turn down did.

Of course, one must not forget the action of the physical on the mental in producing the state of mind that expresses itself in the down-drooping lines. But neither must one forget the reaction of the mental on the physical, when that state of mind is not combatted.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES

By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

MAJOR HAS A MESSAGE.

TINKER BOB was silently waiting for the return of Lady Duck in the edge of the forest. He didn't have to wait long, however, for she came back to him as soon as she could.

"Oh, you are the most wonderful king in all the world!" cried Lady Duck as she again came close to where Tinker Bob was hiding. "You know, that foolish Wolf thought that I was a spirit and he was so frightened he could not move, quack, quack." Then Lady Duck opened her mouth and laughed very loud.

"Then you will not be afraid when the king sends you on a journey, will you?" asked Tinker Bob as he picked her up and started back to the palace. "You didn't know that I knew all about this fellow?"

"Oh, king, he is the terror of the forest. He has killed many a creature and taken many more back into his cave, and they never came out." Lady Duck was so happy because she had really done something for the king of the forest that was brave and good. "Oh, yes, I must tell you that Mr. Wolf wants you to call on him in his cave."

"Why does he want me to call on him in his cave? Why doesn't he call on me in the palace?" asked Tinker Bob, as they journeyed on.

"I don't know, oh, king," said Lady Duck. "I think he is very much afraid of the king and would rather see you in the cave."

"I see, Lady Duck, you are not familiar with the tricks of this fellow. It isn't because he is afraid of the king. It is because he thinks he can get the best of the king if I visit him in his cave. Then he could do as he pleased in the forest and kill all those he wanted to eat and drive all of the others out of the forest. Then he would go over to the Hunter's barn and kill his pigs and steal his chickens and destroy everything he wanted to. But I'll visit the Wolf in his cave to show him that I am not afraid. I will go tomorrow night."

"But what if he should do you harm, or even kill you? Oh, king, the terror of the forest would be a very dangerous fellow to be out! If he had only known that I was not a spirit he would have killed me."

It did not take them long to arrive, for Tinker Bob took a short cut through the forest. By the side of the king's fireplace they talked about this wonderful creature and what he would like to do.

Lady Duck Opened Her Mouth and Laughed Very Loud.

There soon came a familiar rap on the door and Tinker Bob went to answer it. Yes, it was Major Pole Cat with a message for the king.

"Oh, king, I have seen a pack of the forest terrors making their way to the cave in the mountain. They were making a good bit of noise and seemed to be in a great hurry to get to the cave. What does it mean?"

"Come in, Major, and I'll tell you what it means tomorrow."

Tetrazzini Serenaded By Lighthouse Quartet

Emulating Mahomet when the mountain would not come to him, the blind quartet from the Lighthouse for the Blind last night went to the Omaha railroad yards, where the private car of Mme. Tetrazzini is parked, and serenaded the famous songbird. Mme. Tetrazzini was forbidden by her manager to leave the car during the cold weather because of fear that she would catch cold and ruin her performance at the Armory tonight. She had intended to visit the Lighthouse for the Blind yesterday, but could not do it, so the quartet visited her. Following the serenade the singers were invited into the car and entertained.

This evening the blind will be guests of Mrs. George S. Richards at the Armory to hear Tetrazzini sing and are looking forward to the event with great anticipation.

King's Daughters to Give Joyous Christmas Entertainment

"Christmas Follies," a medley of dancing and vaudeville numbers, which the King's Daughters have arranged as a benefit for the Day Nursery, promises to be one of the gayest of the many social affairs planned for the holiday season. The college folk who will be in the city at that time are looking forward to the event with great interest. More complete details will be announced later.

Greysolon duLhut D. A. R., To Have Meeting Tuesday

Mrs. J. L. Strong will entertain members of the Greysolon duLhut chapter, D. A. R., at her home at 1930 Jefferson street, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. She will be assisted by her sister, Mrs. H. H. Phelps. During the hours a discussion of the party platforms of the Republican and the Democratic parties, will be made by Mrs. J. R. McGiffert.

Correctional Institutions Committee Will Meet Monday

The correctional institutions committee of the Woman's Council will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the Commercial club, with State Senator Charles E. Adams and others, to consider means of obtaining funds for a cottage plan farm for women. This plan is advocated to relieve the situation at the county jail and to provide more adequate accommodations for the Industrial home.

All interested in the object of this meeting are invited to attend. Mrs. Fred Sermon is chairman of the committee.

Drama Class to Have Interesting Program

The Morning Drama class of the Twentieth Century club met at the library club room at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. Mrs. F. D. Raymond, Miss Edna Cargill, Mrs. Paul van Hoven, Mrs. S. E. Welty and Miss Mary Lucas read a play entitled "The Welsh Honeymoon," which portrayed the superstitious characteristics of the Welsh.

Mrs. Frederick D. Raymond read a paper she had written on "The Tercentenary Celebration." In it she gave a historical synopsis of the English emigration to America, and gave an account of the movement throughout the United States to celebrate the landing of the Pilgrims. She also read an excerpt from the New York Sun describing a celebration in Southampton, England.

Miss Horr read the "Sojourners," a play in one act by Anna Harnwell and Isabelle Meeker, a play written to be used in celebration of the tercentenary.

Will Receive for Clergy and Educators

One of the interesting events of the coming week is the reception to be tendered the city school teachers and the clergy of the city by the congregation of the First Methodist church. A musical program will be given, Miss Dorothy Culkin, soprano, responding with a group of songs, followed by Alger Anderson, tenor, who will also give several selections. Refreshments will be served during the evening. The church people and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

Favorites to Appear In Musicale Tuesday

An interesting feature of the program of the Matinee Musicale to be given at the auditorium of the Masonic temple at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon is the offering of two groups of Finnish songs to be made by Dr. Otto Peterson of Virginia, tenor. His accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Fanny Boy Panaanem, a recent addition to local musical circles, and who has but recently returned from a trip abroad, where she gave special study to Russian and Finnish music.

Others who will take part in the program are Miss Perie Reynolds, soprano, and Mrs. Paul Van Hoven, pianist, both local favorites. The program, which will open with a ten-minute talk by Mrs. C. S. Mitchell, will begin promptly at 3 o'clock and is as follows:

Aftenro Home for Aged Is Nearing Completion

The aftenro home for the aged, on the Chester Park boulevard, is nearing completion and when finished, will be an attractive substantial and fireproof building. It is beautifully located and well lighted and will accommodate about forty-five people besides the help. The heating plant, kitchen, dining room and living room are adequate for additions to the building, which, according to the plans, will be added when needed.

The home cannot be occupied until late spring on account of lack of water supply.

The officers of the organization are as follows: President, Mrs. Hans P. Bjorge; first vice president, Mrs. A. J. Dysland; second vice president, Mrs. O. P. Strand; third vice president, Mrs. Edward Strange; secretary, Mrs. S. Knudson; financial secretary, Mrs. R. H. Bruner, and treasurer, Miss Geneva Dahl. The officers constitute the board of directors.

The advisory board consists of Mrs. J. J. Moe, Mrs. P. George Hanson, Mrs. William Grettum, H. Wannebo and Hans P. Bjorge. The building committee is William Grettum, J. J. Moe, Christ Sanders, H. Wannebo and Hans P. Bjorge.

Thursday Study Class to Meet

One of the four programs of the year of the Thursday Study class that is not related to the study of civil government is to be given before the members on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 18, at the Morgan Park clubhouse at 2:30. The program is to be devoted to the study of literature, and two of the well-known writers of Duluth are to discuss literary tendencies of the times. Mrs. A. T. Banning, the author of "That Marrying," is to speak on "The Trend of Modern Literature." Mrs. Hazen S. Clark will address the club on "The Trend of Modern Poetry," giving also her original prize poem, "What America Means to Me." Miss Winnifred Tower will give a group of vocal solos.

Preparing for National Children's Book Week

Boys and girls, large and small, are assured something extra fine in the way of Christmas presents, and for that matter, for presents throughout the year, if the undertaking by the Duluth public library, working in conjunction with the book shops, parent-teachers' associations, women's clubs and other agencies aiming for the further higher development of the future American commonwealth proves a success.

These societies working in co-operation with similar organizations throughout the United States, will conduct during the national observance of Children's Book Week, to be celebrated the week of Nov. 15-20, an exhibit of books and toys which, aside from forming clean, wholesome entertainment for little people, will also tend to sharpen the youthful taste for the better things whether in literature or every-day amusement.

The exhibit will be put on in the library clubrooms and will be under the direct supervision of Miss Mary R. Lucas, children's librarian at the public library, and will be grouped in attractive booths to be erected expressly for this exhibit and which will be furnished appropriately and attractively by pieces to be donated for the event by the several shops which specialize in home furnishing.

Classics and standardized new books for the child reader, together with those treating of science and invention, games and sports, stories of boy life and of girl life in school and at home, out-of-door books, the modern animal story, popular books about birds, insects, flowers and trees, will be given special attention and are in the display, and doubtless much valuable information, relative to reading material for children, will be gained by persons who visit the exhibit, which will be open from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. except during the dinner hour from 6 to 7 o'clock.

The announcement of the affair which gives promise of giving the keenest happiness of the whole exhibit is that made by local book dealers who have given assurance that any books displayed at the exhibit and which are not carried in regular stock can, if ordered within the coming few days be had in time for Christmas gifts.

Those back of the work are soliciting for the support of the general public in making Duluth's celebration of the National Children's Book week a complete success and this support can be given only by every parent, relative or friend of the children visiting the exhibit and drinking in the treasures which lie hidden within the covers of bound volumes that they may become better acquainted with the things most worth while for children to read.

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND TROOPS MARCH PAST.

"We are coming, two million strong" was the instant cry when the Great War summoned two million of this Nation's best manhood to fight for democracy, three thousand miles across the sea.

Two million strong! The best and bravest: those fitted to do the nation's hardest work; the flower of our youth, the brains, the brawn, the manly beauty. No other troops in Europe were pronounced finer physical specimens, and none surpassed them in intelligence, enthusiasm, and morale. They went to finish the biggest piece of military work ever attempted by mankind, and they succeeded.

Two hundred thousand strong. That is a goodly quota of perfect manhood. See them march past. Ten thousand men will take an hour in passing; so multiply the time and in your imagination see the parade of the nation's pride. How our enthusiasm has greeted such a spectacle! We have expended hundreds of thousands of dollars in the erection of stands from which to see one-sixth of such a number march past

Two hundred thousand weak! Ah, that is quite a different story. The sight is far from an inspiring one. It so depresses us that at the thought we turn away and try to think of something pleasant and diverting. Two hundred thousand SICK! Let us not think about them, they are a governmental responsibility. Two hundred thousand SUFFERING! And what are we, for whom they have given their health, doing about them?

Two hundred thousand! Let them march past How few of them can march today! Thin and emaciated, they fairly stagger, those who so blithely sped away in 1917 on their great mission. Now they creep painfully along. Here comes the first detachment, those boys, 50,000 of whom are victims of tuberculosis. They bear the marks of poisoned gases, of damp and muddy trenches, of terrible exposure. In the front ranks are those nearing the end of their hard journey; the boys without hope of recovery. Their days are numbered, but back of them march many thousands of those who have a fighting chance for life, clinging to the faint hope that still is theirs. Shall we see to it that these have their full share of final comforts, their full chance for recovery? Outside of governmental channels, this great responsibility is ours.

Then follow 50,000 wild-eyed, sad and pitiful paraders, the shell-shocked and the mentally affected. Much can be done for them; nothing responds more promptly to the right methods of treatment, and nothing requires such expert handling as this form of affliction. They need great institutions, splendid hospitals and the best mental experts. Let us see to it that they have them.

Behind them limp the thousands of those who go on crutches. Poor shattered bodies pieced out and plastered up, and bound to give their owners no reprieve from pain until they finally bid them adieu. Those thousands of young men, already old in suffering, can we glance at them coldly now that we see them on parade? They are not merely the wards of the nation. They are the ghosts that will rise to confront our souls as they take flight, if we ignore them now.

And at the end of the procession see the long line of ambulances! These brave young fellows all marched away with elastic steps. They will not march again. How many of them would far rather sleep under those white crosses overseas! But they must go on suffering to the end. Surely they lack for nothing? Do you believe that? Then visit them, inquire into their needs, and help supply them comforts. On the procession moves. Will the long line of ambulances never end? Now on the ear sounds the "Dead March"; only when that is played for each of these, will the procession cease to pass upon its way.

The day's parade is over. If we have watched it to the end and are not moved by it, then we are neither men nor women, but "stocks and stones and worse than senseless things."

If we can let go the vision of this day's sad parade, then we are not the citizens we showed ourselves in 1917, when we gave both our hearts and our dearly beloved to the great cause. We are NOT insensible, we are just thoughtless, diverted by many little things, ignorant of the facts, and Heaven forgive our ignorances, for these are sins indeed.

> Often when he was looking on at auctions Socrates would say: "How many things there are which I do not need!"
>
> —Diogenes Laertius.

We have seen the procession pass. What shall we do about it?

There is only one thing we can do, SHOULD do, MUST do. We MUST stand behind the American Red Cross—the only official agency outside the government discharging the vast work of ministering to the ex-service man in home and hospital, bringing him comforts and relief, aiding him to secure his rightful compensation.

The Red Cross is today the champion, the comforter and the best friend of that sad pitiful procession.

Two hundred thousand weak; two hundred thousand sick; two hundred thousand reproachful sufferers!

THE COMMUNITY WELFARE BUDGET.

Minneapolis, like thirty or forty other American cities, has adopted the plan of a community welfare budget to raise money for the support of charitable and other public welfare institutions and causes.

And the plan works well there, as it is working in the many other communities that have adopted it.

Before beginning the present campaign to raise the amount of the combined budget of its charitable and public welfare causes, the Minneapolis budget committee wrote all the principal contributors, asking which they prefer: the budget plan, or the old way when each institution raised its money as best it could, and contributors were called upon as many times each year as there are causes seeking contributions from the public.

The replies were virtually unanimous. The budget plan was favored, and the thought of returning to the old aimless system was intolerable.

The budget plan, when it includes all causes, as it should, makes one solicitation and one contribution a year do for all.

It does what it is impossible for the individual contributor to do—insures that the money asked for is needed and is properly expended.

By relieving the managers of charitable and welfare causes of the obligation of raising funds, it enables them to give their whole time to the work of their institutions.

It greatly increases the number of contributors by making it possible for small givers to have their share.

It fully supports deserving institutions and causes, and it insures that the gifts of the generous are wisely bestowed and wisely administered.

It is approved by the common sense of the community wherever it has had a fair trial. It should be adopted in Duluth.

THE COAL TRADE IN BAD ODOR.

The United States senate committee on reconstruction, which is looking into the coal business, is even talking about getting up a bill to nationalize the coal industry if conditions do not improve.

That's interesting talk, and it will get applause from a great many people who are not Socialists nor likely to become Socialists. Possibly the committee is just bluffing, and at any rate the prospects for nationalizing anything whatever in the line of business are not large with the Republican Old Guard about to come into complete control of government.

But if there is an industry that most people would like to see socialized, and that is a fit subject for socialization if there is one, it is the coal industry, both anthracite and bituminous.

As The Herald said recently in referring to the fact that the Two Harbors municipal coal dock had been unable to buy anthracite, the whole coal industry reeks with the suspicion of collusion and conspiracy for plunder. Prices are outrageous, and keep getting higher. When Pennsylvania imposed a tax of ten cents a ton on anthracite, coal dealers tucked a quarter onto the price of coal and never took it off, though the tonnage tax law was promptly knocked out by the courts. When there was a strike in the coal fields that brought wages up ten cents a ton or so, coal went up another quarter. And of course none of these and many other raises ever are abated.

Anybody who comes in contact with the coal trade finds an absence of competition so marked, and a uniformity of prices and regulations so flagrant, that the suspicion of conspiracy is inevitable.

Coal is mighty important. It means not only heating and cooking, but keeping industries going so people can earn money to have houses to heat and food to cook. It ought not, therefore, to be subject to the rapacity of monopoly, nor to labor conditions likely to produce paralysis in production.

Congress certainly ought to do something about it, and probably something drastic. If it decided to nationalize the coal industry, there would be few complaints. But the least it can do, it seems to us, is to throw a searchlight into the route from mine to coal bin so that if the public is being gouged—we apologize for that "if"—we can all know it.

It would be wholesome, and might be helpful, if these facts could always be readily ascertained: The cost of mining; the price received by the producer; the cost of transportation and dockage; the price received by the wholesaler; and the cost of delivery to the consumer. The consumer then, knowing what his coal cost him, could find out just how his money is divided. That would be some consolation, because he would know who to get after.

Whether by publicity like this, or by nationalization of the coal industry, congress can afford some relief, and certainly relief is badly needed and long delayed.

FOR BEHOLD, THE KINGDOM OF GOD IS WITHIN YOU.

On West First street a mechanical excavator is eating away the earth to make room for the new water and light building. It takes large mouthfuls, and travels fast. A fascinated audience is always found on the sidewalk, watching its pretty efficiency.

By this method a few men do easily what many men with picks and shovels used to do laboriously.

There are hundreds of like devices that make machines do hard work that men used to have to do.

It is a symbol of the progress of civilization; of the sort of thing that makes living easier by making it possible to do more than it used to be possible to do, and to do it cheaper and with less work.

Has this interesting progress made folks happier? It has made them richer, and not a few only but nearly all of us. People are better clothed, better fed, better housed and have more luxuries than ever before in all history. That's true of pretty nearly everybody. But has this great gain made people happier?

Surely if material gains could possibly make for happiness, such gains as these should have made people happier. But it is very much to be doubted whether, on the whole, they ARE any happier. Certainly the gain in wealth and possessions hasn't produced a corresponding gain in happiness and contentment.

Why not? What's the matter? One reason, the big reason if not the only reason, is that things—possessions—don't mean happiness. If they did, those who have the least would be the miserablest, and those who have most would be the happiest; and you know—everybody knows—that that isn't so. There is at least as much real happiness and contentment among those who have little as there is among those who have much. Rarely do those who have most seem to be made happy by it.

Happiness isn't a thing you can buy, or borrow, or steal. Those who think that if they only had a little more they would be happy are mistaken. They are following a will-o'-the-wisp.

Many a man has left the humble scenes of his boyhood and spent his life pursuing gains, thinking they would bring him happiness, and has gone back, rich but disappointed if not bitter, to that boyhood scene and said, too late: "It was there, where I left it, all the time."

Yet even he might have found happiness if he had learned to stop thinking of it as something outside of himself, something just beyond that he was straining to reach, and to begin thinking of it as something inside of himself, a state of mind, a thing having no relation to money or lavish homes or limousines or any kind of material possessions.

Those who seek happiness in greater possessions never learn to appreciate what they have, but spend vain lives seeking happiness that is always and forever just beyond their reach. Those who cannot find happiness when they have few possessions never will find it by gaining many possessions. It is always just beyond; and in the end they learn that it was always back where they started from and that, in their error, they have left it behind.

That's a long way to travel from the spectacle of a steam shovel cunningly doing the work that many hands used to do, but maybe it will help explain the everlasting truth that material gains do not bring happiness, either for the individual or the mass, because happiness is not a gift of things, of possessions, but a treasure within yourself, to be cherished and enjoyed or forfeited and regretted, according to whether you rely on your own soul or on outside material things. It may help to explain, too, the great mystery that the things that satisfy and endure are of the impalpable spirit, while the palpable materialities disappoint because they are as elusive and as evanescent as a vapor before the sun or as an April snowflake.

A LOSS TO THE COMMUNITY.

Dr. Maurice Lefkovits, for fourteen years rabbi of Temple Emmanuel, leaves Monday to take up his new work as vice president of a Minneapolis bank, pursuant to his recent resignation for that purpose.

Duluth is sorry to see Dr. Lefkovits go. During his years in Duluth he has done far more than build up a splendid congregation, for which we need not speak because it speaks for itself. He has been active in public works of many kinds, and always fruitfully active. He is an unusually eloquent speaker, and of that there is no better evidence than the marvelous way he has charmed money out of audiences for church and public purposes. If he should prove as effective in getting deposits as he has been in raising money for such purposes, the other Minneapolis banks had better look out.

Dr. Lefkovits has contributed much in thought, in speech and in personal activities to good causes in this city. He has been a good citizen of a type not easily found or easily spared. His fellow citizens will wish him godspeed and good luck in the new field and the new calling to which he goes.

Most of Them Are Worrying Needlessly

Washington Post: No sooner is the election over than deserving Republicans begin to worry over the housing problem in Washington.

Bryan and Johnson

By Savoyard.

Washington, Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before the quadrennial grand inquest of the nation was held Nov. 2, there was more or less speculation as to what effect the verdict would have upon the leadership of the two dominant political parties. It was surmised that if Cox was defeated William Jennings Bryan would again become the fashion and be given the leadership of the Democratic party, and that, whether Harding was elected or beaten Hiram Johnson was determined to strive for the leadership of the Republican party.

As for the Bryan part of it, that is absurd. Mr. Bryan is that most doleful spectacle—a piper to whose strains his party no longer dances. Mr. Bryan committed political suicide the day he resigned from President Wilson's cabinet, and ever since that time he has lagged superfluous on the stage. His following, rather considerable before the San Francisco Democratic national convention, has ceaselessly grown less and less until Robert M. La Follette is about the only public man of any prominence now on the stage who cares anything for what William J. Bryan thinks or gives any heed to anything William J. Bryan says.

A political leader who pretends to be a political sage, who saw prohibition the political paramount in 1920, is so hopelessly engulfed in the quagmire of political fanaticism that he constitutes himself a mere atom of the flotsam that floats a hopeless derelict on the surface of the shoreless sea of American impossible politics. However, he is not altogether alone. It is possible for him to herd with the gentleman "Hell-roaring Hi" Johnson very aptly called "Poor Taft."

"Hell-roaring Hi" Johnson is a very different order of man. He can do things as well as say things. Hopelessly beaten for the Republican nomination at Chicago last June by the senatorial oligarchy that held the Republican party in hopeless and abject thraldom, he piped the music to which the Republican candidate danced. It was Hi Johnson who forced the Des Moines speech out of the reluctant throat of Warren G. Harding. And that made it absolutely necessary for the "Thirty-one," headed by Elihu Root, to issue a manifesto to the public warning all pro-league Republicans to pay no attention whatever to anything the head of the Republican ticket might say about politics. You see Senator Harding was not a free agent. He was captive of the bow and spear of "Hell-roaring Hi." He was under duress and his captor forced him to undergo the horrors of "the third degree." No doubt he sweat blood as his inexorable master laid on the lash and extorted the blackmail.

And what "Hell-roaring Hi" did to the Republican candidate, "Hell-roaring Hi" is resolved to do to the Republican president and to the Republican party. Will he succeed? Time will tell. One thing is certain and that is the G. O. P. can do nothing without the assent of Hi Johnson. And do not forget that Johnson has for lieutenant the ablest man and the most powerful debater on the Republican side of the United States senate—William E. Borah. These two hold absolute dominion over all and everything that is Republican in the entire trans-Mississippi except Smoot of Utah, Curtis of Kansas and Fall of New Mexico.

Where will the "Thirty-one" be when the G. O. P. assumes full responsibility for every step the government takes? The "Thirty-one," including the president of Harvard, promised a League of Nations. That is what elected Harding, though Harding had solemnly and publicly pledged himself to Johnson, Borah and the other "bitter-enders," including the Sinn Fein Irish, the Germans, the Italians and other hyphens, that he would "scrap the league." Every pro-leaguer of the Republican party who voted for Harding, by that act, expressed contempt for Harding—that is, he discovered to himself and to the public that he put no credence whatever in anything Harding said in his Des Moines speech. And don't you forget it—a majority of the Republicans who voted for Harding are in favor of a League of Nations to preserve the world's peace. They are led by Root, Hughes, the New York Tribune, the Philadelphia Ledger, President Lowell of Harvard, "and sich," and every devil of them would be for the league if the name and fame of Woodrow Wilson were not associated with it.

Hi Johnson, Borah and company are resolved that there shall be no league whatever and they are in an impregnable and a commanding position. Oh, there will be a merry old chaos on the Republican side of the political hedge ere the world is a year older.

Harnessing the Lakes

Boise, Idaho, Statesman: Eastern opposition may prevent participation of the United States in the movement to develop a channel for ocean liners along the St. Lawrence river whereby Atlantic ships may be loaded and unloaded at the great lake ports.

New York and Boston would lose some business by the development, and, no matter how great a saving to the West or how great an advantage for world traffic, New York and Boston will oppose it. That is to be expected.

Because New York and Boston interests are powerful, their opposition is to be feared. It may overthrow the whole plan.

The dark aspect of this news is brightened by recent news from Canada. Canada is beginning to contemplate the possibility of being obliged to do the work all by herself, even though the cost will run into hundreds of millions.

If this is done the United States will occupy that most embarrassing position of profiting from something she refused to share in building.

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON.

Jay Walkers

The men who drive the choo-choo boats are pinched and fined some useful groats, when they're discovered speeding; and all the witnesses applaud when justice soaks them for their wad—they get just what they're needing. The motorists are much to blame, and folks are always crying, "Shame!" We daily hear their droolings; but half the trouble on the street is caused by jays who ply their feet without regard to rulings. The man on foot breaks all the laws, breaks every rule that ever was, nor cares a cheap suspender; and when my auto runs him down, and spreads his fragments through the town, I find I've no defender. The people gather round my car and talk of feathers and of tar in tones that throb with passion; the man on foot's a sacred jay; the motorist is wrong alway; and stiff fines are the fashion. I drive my car with ceaseless care, and yet I'm always in despair, jay walkers are so busy; they get before my chugging wain, as though determined to be slain, they are so brash and dizzy. They cross the street where'er they please, between the moving cars they squeeze, they dodge at every angle; and when I've driven for a mile I can no longer sing and smile—my nerves are all a-jangle.

Health Talks

By William Brady, M. D.

Heaters and Ventilation

A reader asks whether it would be unhealthful to use gas stoves in various rooms for heating purposes (owing to the coal situation) and keep a window down an inch in each such room in lieu of pipe connection with the flue or chimney of the house.

It would be very unhealthful to depend on any such uncertain means of ventilation. The window would not be kept open if the weather became very cold.

Any known fuel burning in a room to produce heat must produce carbon dioxide gas. That gas is the same as the burnt air given off from the lungs of man and animals. Within all ordinary limits carbon dioxide gas in the atmosphere of the living room or sleeping room is of no consequence; even what we might call involuntary ventilation, the seepage of air through the various cracks and crevices about doors and windows, serves to keep the proportion of oxygen and carbon dioxide gas about right, provided only the respiration of persons in the room is using up the oxygen and producing carbon dioxide. But when you use a stove burning coal, wood, kerosene, gas or gasoline, ventilation must be freely provided lest harmful effects ensue. An oil lamp burning in a room uses up as much oxygen and produces as much carbon dioxide as six or eight persons would. A heating stove is equivalent to a large crowd of people in the room. Whether any smoke or any odor is produced or not, it is of the utmost hygienic importance that every such heater should have direct pipe connection with the flue or chimney to carry off the carbon dioxide. Carbon dioxide is not poisonous. But it may accumulate in sufficient proportion to crowd out the oxygen. That is how it produces its deleterious effects. Carbon dioxide is odorless. Therefore, it is no criterion of hygienic perfection if the heater without flue connection happens to give off no appreciable odor.

It is difficult to determine whether the impairment of health suffered by so many housewives and others confined through the winter in rooms heated with stoves without stovepipes is due entirely to insufficient oxygen (too much carbon dioxide in the air) or whether it may be in part caused by the escape of carbon monoxide into the room. This latter gas is a powerful poison, accountable for many sudden deaths, as about closed garages, the monoxide gas being given off in the automobile exhaust. Minute quantities of it in an atmosphere may produce strange and bizarre effects, and probably do explain much of the anemia and "tired feeling" and "run down condition" and imaginary "liver trouble" which so many women develop after a few months of confinement in rooms without proper ventilation. Carbon monoxide may be given off from any fire, from any kind of fuel, if the drafts do not admit sufficient air.

Sallow skin, headaches, backaches, impaired appetite, impaired digestion, melancholy and anemia are familiar effects of mild, frequent or prolonged carbon monoxide poisoning.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Childless Marriage.

Can you tell me why so many women married for years remain childless? (F. M. T.)

Answer: Various defects of development and of physical education, various disease conditions of the wife. In at least half of all such cases the sterility is the husband's.

Sugar on the Cereal.

Some physicians allow only one teaspoonful of sugar on the oatmeal taken at breakfast by a child. Others allow all the child desires—which, in our household, is about four heaping teaspoonfuls. Please give your advice about this. (G. G.)

Answer: I'd allow the average healthy child all the sugar he likes on his oatmeal. In the case of the child with digestive difficulty, anemia, finical appetite, an excess of sugars and starches in the diet is often an important factor, and in that case the amount of sugar allowed should be restricted. In order to preserve or encourage an appetite for other kinds of food. Children over 5 years of age should be encouraged to satisfy the natural craving for sugar with a liberal amount of fruits.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man, Dayton, Ohio.

In meddling with the faults of friends I have observed many wrongful courses; what for fear, or self-love, or indiscretion. Some I have seen, like unmerciful and covetous chirurgeons, keep the wound raw, which they might have seasonably remedied, for their own gain; others that have laid healing plasters, to skin it aloft when there hath been more need of corrosives to eat out the dead flesh within; others that have galled and drawn, when there hath been nothing but solid flesh that hath wanted only filling up; others that have healed the sore but left an unsightly scar of discredit behind them. He that would do good this way must have fidelity, not to bear with; courage, to reprove them; discretion, to reprove them well; patience, to abide the leisure of amendment; making much of good beginnings, and putting up with many repulses; bearing with many weaknesses; still hoping, still soliciting; as knowing that those who have been long used to fetters cannot but halt a while when they are taken off.—Bishop Hall.

California Votes for War

New York World: By a large majority the people of California have approved a law depriving Japanese of the right to purchase or lease land in that state. Similar legislation was enacted in 1913, but as ways were found to defeat its provisions in some cases, the agitation was continued, and the present measure, if not in violation of the existing treaty, is admittedly a challenge to Japan.

It is not unusual for a state or a nation to prohibit foreigners from owning or leasing land, especially agricultural land. Japan itself has such a law, which is universal in its application. The complaint in that country against the California movement is that it is aimed exclusively at Orientals, the Japanese being the principal sufferers. Discrimination of this kind is always resented by nations sensitive to pride and honor, and Japan has been sorely aggrieved even by the discussion of the matter.

As there is reason to believe that the anti-Japanese crusade had its origin in the covetousness of land-grabbers and has found its chief support at the hands of demagogues, it is astonishing that the people of California have acted all along with so little regard for the responsibilities of the country at large. Devastating wars have had their beginnings in causes less vexatious than this. Some of the fiercest advocates of Japanese exclusion are so filled with race hatred that they are willing to set the army and navy in motion at once.

Knowing these things as they do, and officially informed from Washington as they have been of the delicacy of the situation, the people of California by their ballot box ultimatum have in effect voted for war with Japan.

An Antidote

Greenville, S. C., Piedmont: There is a Kansan who is a pastor, an editor and a lawyer. We suppose he preaches as an antidote to the practice of his two other professions.

Progress Is a Law

E. S. Martin in Harper's Magazine.

We rejoiced to get into the war, not primarily to save our necks and our money, not to meet the peril to ourselves while we still had help, not altogether to save France or to save England, though those considerations touched our affections with a tremendous appeal, but, most of all, to save our own souls. The great determining motive for American action was spiritual. Many, even of the most ardest sympathizers with the Allies, doubted for a long time whether the quarrel was really ours. They knew where their hearts were, but they knew that the implication of a 100,000,000 Americans in a European war, with all the sacrifices involved, should be based on nothing less than an irresistible summons of duty. We whose hearts said to us: "Get in! Get in!" despaired for long of getting a warrant sufficiently compelling to justify national action in a country which, after all, was divided in sympathies. Action could not come until by the course of events it became a clear case accepted by the mass of our people of, "You'll be damned if you don't." We got into the war to save our own souls, to save ourselves from the appalling spiritual consequences of a vast duty put aside in a tremendous world crisis. We went in to save our own national existence, not because we feared the Germans would ever destroy us—for that fear was never prevalent in this country—but because we knew that a selfish country, deaf to its obligations to mankind, could never amount to anything worth being. We went in because we knew that our default in that crisis, if we did default, would have to be atoned for eventually by sorrow and disgrace, and belated repentances immeasurably more costly than prompt and timely action.

And so, in time, we shall get into the peace and into the league in whatever form it finally takes, when the wit of man and further experience, have done their best for it. What the world must learn before there can be lasting peace is that it is no gain to a country to take what does not belong to it. The division of territory has reached a point where that understanding is necessary. And yet there must go with it the further knowledge that civilization cannot be permanently held back by control of important territory by people incompetent to keep up with civilization. The parable of the talents is true of nations. Progress is a law of life and the nation that cannot, in time, develop what it has, cannot hold its own.

A Rime of the Road

He who will leave the town
With its petty discord and strife,
Taking an ash stick brown
To tramp the white way of life
We will make him free of the road.

He who can meet the wind
With a laugh for its wail of woe,
Giving no glance behind
At sound of a phantom foe,
We will make him free of the road.

He who can love the mud,
And the dust't smell after the rain,
The swirl of the yellow flood
When the storm gods shout again,
We will make him free of the road.

He who has never a care
Of whither his pathway run,
Knowing that everywhere
He shall find rain, wind, and sun—
We will make him free of the road.

He who can eat his bread
In peace 'neath the hedge on the grass,
Watching the clouds o'erhead
And their shadows as they pass,
We will make him free of the road.

When the last miles are done
Of this earthly road and the way
Lies past the moon and sun
And over the Milky Way,
He shall stilll be free of the road.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of This Date, 1900

In addition to the points said to be agreed upon at Pekin as a basis for settlement with China, it is said at Washington that several other points are likely to receive attention when the matter is taken up with the Chinese officials. One of these is as to making the city of Pekin an "open port," for while it is not on the sea coast, the purpose is to extend to it that freedom of commerce and intercourse with foreigners which now applies to the open ports designated by treaties with China. Another point is that capital punishment shall not occur in future by imperial edict alone, but only after a trial and as is given in civilized countries.

COAL REQUIREMENTS TO BE FULLY COVERED

Hard and soft coal requirements of West Duluth for the season will be fully covered, in the opinion of Duluth coal dealers. They confirmed statements yesterday that arrangements have been made by the different dock companies to meet all the needs of residents in that part of the city.

"We have done our full share in supplying dealers in West Duluth, and we are continuing the shipping of cars to them right along. In addition to our own customers we are shipping coal to dealers who in former seasons have been supplied by other operators," said Charles Bengler, city sales manager of the North Western Fuel company, yesterday. He mentioned that for the season from May 1 to Nov. 1 his company had shipped 3,191 tons of coal to West Duluth dealers, as compared with 2,263 tons during the same period last year, and that since the beginning of the month more than 700 tons additional had been shipped out there.

The North Western Fuel company has also sold sufficient coal to the Duluth Street Railway company to heat its cars from Dec. 1 on during the winter. As a result of agitation, another coal company has agreed to supply the street railway company with sufficient coal to carry it through for the balance of this month.

NAMES COMPANY TO RELIEVE COAL CRAMP

John F. McGee's letter advising the people of West Duluth to apply to the Lehigh Coal company for immediate temporary relief and to take the matter up with the state legislature to prevent the recurrence of the present condition of affairs, was read at the meeting of West Duluth residents at the West Duluth Commercial clubrooms last night. The state fuel administrator stated that he had no authority to relieve the West Duluth situation but that the Lehigh company has such an amount of coal that he believed it to be in a position to furnish some. In writing of coal situation Judge McGee stated:

"The coal situation must be regulated so that the supply will be distributed and the price controlled, which is now a matter of the individual coal companies without supervision on the part of the public. The coal situation should be regulated by the government."

The club voted to continue the coal committee and directed it to negotiate with the Lehigh company for the required amount of coal.

The local coal companies had informed the committee that anyone going to a retail office can get coal at the docks if they will haul it away or pay 90 cents hauling charges over and above the price of the coal for delivery in the western section of the city.

TWO TADS SEEK LICENSES TO SHOOT RABBITS; EQUIPPED

Two 6-year-old youngsters, all rigged out with leather coats, red visored caps, game bags and other up-to-date hunting paraphernalia, visited the county auditor's office at the courthouse this morning in quest of hunting licenses.

They were the youngest applicants for license favors who have shown up at the courthouse this season.

"Please, mister, I want to get a 5-cent rabbit license," volunteered a bright little fellow, who acted as spokesman.

I. G. Wollan, deputy county auditor, had the boys come over to his desk while he interviewed them on the rabbit license situation.

"We can hardly afford to issue any 5-cent licenses; paper has gone up in price you know," he explained to them.

"Well, give us a 10-cent license then —two of them," the youngster said in all earnestness as he dug in his pocket for two thin dimes.

Mr. Wollan assured the juvenile rabbit hunters that there were no more rabbit licenses to be had, but that if they would wait until they grew a little older, they would be able to get a license to kill deer like their dads.

WOULD NOT OUST MORIN

Reported Removal of Morin at Postoffice Protested by Labor Body.

The Duluth Federated Trades and Labor assembly, at its meeting last night, adopted resolutions protesting against the reported removal of Henry L. Morin, mail clerk in the division of outgoing mails, from the local postoffice. Resolutions of the trades assembly will be supported by protests from other labor organizations, according to members and delegates to the assembly.

Mr. Morin was removed from his position, according to the information given, for taking too active an interest in the recent political campaign.

The assembly adopted resolutions supporting the Irish republic and urging recognition by the American government. The committee appointed to make effective the resolution of the American Federation of Labor on this question is composed of J. A. Barron, D. J. Needham, Richard Cain, William J. Farmer and A. O. Adams. They are to act in conjunction with the labor bureau of the American commission on Irish independence in making effective the resolutions of the A. F. of L. for the purpose of centralizing the power and influence of the men and women of organized labor in the maintenance of the new Irish republic.

TOYS FOR CHRISTMAS MADE IN AMERICA

Great Strides Made by Makers of Toys in U. S., Says Local Dealer.

That 90 per cent of all toys sold here this Christmas will be American made, whereas in 1914 only 10 per cent were manufactured in this country, was the statement of I. Freimuth today in response to current rumor that Santa Claus would be forced to fly a foreign flag this year because of a shortage of toys of domestic make.

"The American toy industry has progressed remarkably, said Mr. Freimuth. "Not only is the quantity manufactured far in excess of the production in former years, but the quality of American toys is incomparable. American toys are distinguished by the fact that they are made of honest materials and with the finest workmanship. Educational value is combined with durability and originality of ideas and design."

During the war, Mr. Freimuth said, all dealers were forced to buy wherever they could. Japan was the only foreign country, however, that produced toys in any quantity. It is the last few years that have seen the growth of the toy industry here.

The American toy production for 1290 has been conservatively estimated at $80,000,000. During the past few years the industry has expanded so that practically all lines formerly manufactured abroad only, are now made here. In only a few lines, notably rubber goods, was any difficulty experienced in obtaining an adequate Christmas stock, Mr. Freimuth said.

"The price of toys of American manufacture will be lower this Christmas than they were in 1914 when the purchasing price of the dollar is considered although in dollars and cents they may cost a little more," Mr. Freimuth added. "Despite an increase in materials, labor and general overhead ranging sometimes as high as 300 per cent in the toy industry, the price of toys has advanced less in proportion than the staple product of many other American industries."

ANNA PERALA ASKS DIVORCE; RUBY STUPICH GETS DECREE

Mrs. Perala asks the court for permission to take her maiden name, that of Bloomberg.

The Stupichs were married at Aurora on Jan. 29, 1917, and lived together until June 16, 1919, when she claims he deserted her.

P. O. EXCHANGE TAKES DROP

Slash on Foreign Money Orders to Be Effective Nov. 15, Considine Announces.

Values of foreign money as handled in international money orders by the Duluth postoffice, have been revised sharply downward under an order received today by Postmaster Considine, which will become effective Nov. 15. Continued depreciation of foreign money, Mr. Considine said, has made necessary the revision, although exchange values were slashed by the postoffice department as recently as Aug. 15.

Switzerland is the one country mentioned whose money has not lost ground in the last three and a half months. Value of the British pound sterling in American dollars is cut by the order from $4 to $3.75, that of the French franc from a basis of 10.30 francs to the dollar to 13 francs, and that of the Italian lire to a basis of twenty lire to the dollar.

Despite the reduction, postal exchange values of the foreign money are shown by comparison with money market tables to be higher than those prevailing in commercial and banking circles. This is indicated by the following table:

Money—	Par value.	Money market.	Postal Nov. 15
British pound	$4.87	$3.35	$3.75
French franc	.193	.0575	13 for $1.00
Dutch florin	.402	.2940	.35
Swedish krona	.268	.1840	.22
Danish krona	.268	.1312	.16
Norw'n krona	.268	.13	.16
Belgian franc	.193	.0617	13 to $1.00
Italian lira	.193	.0336	20 to $1.00

WOLF KILLED NEAR CITY HALL; COUNTY PAYS BOUNTY

A year-old wolf, measuring three feet from tip to tip, was killed late yesterday afternoon in Duluth within five blocks of the city hall.

Anton Wikman, 316 South First avenue east, who struck down the animal with a pike pole, brought the pelt to the office of the county auditor this morning and claimed $15 bounty.

Wikman was attracted to a spot on the lake shore, where a number of boys had gathered to watch the wolf which was snapping at birds feeding on refuse at the foot of South First avenue east near the ship canal.

He procured a pike pole and succeeded in getting close enough to the animal to strike it on the head. Wikman believes that the wolf followed the shore line of Lake Superior into the heart of the city.

STAID LONG IN VICINITY

Explosive Wagon Driver Said to Have Been Around Forty-Eight Minutes.

New York, Nov. 13.—The driver of the wagon which drew the explosive which killed thirty-seven persons and wounded hundreds Sept. 16 last in Wall Street remained in the vicinity for forty-eight minutes afterward, the Evening World declared today in continuing presentation of evidence in its "solution of the explosion mystery."

The newspaper claimed that the explosive, a giant dynamite bomb, was sent to a building razing gang at Broad and Wall streets in a murder plot by outraged individuals, sympathizers with William Zaranko's Housewreckers' union No. 95 in revenge against members of the Building Trades council local which had supplanted Zaranko's men on the job.

Police Failed to Act.

The "fact" of the wagon driver's presence in the vicinity of the explosion for so long, "illustrating the failure of the police to act with reasonable intelligence," said the paper, "was brought out yesterday by the publication of the picture in the Evening World, showing the driver on the sidewalk bridge in front of the building next the stock exchange with three other men after the explosion.

Report of Film.

This exclusive picture was part of a moving picture film. Further on in the film a clock face is shown indicating the time as 12.50 o'clock. This was forty-eight minutes after the deadly explosion.

"In all that elapsed time the driver was evidently mingling with the swarms of police and detectives who were on the scene immediately following the blowup."

The Twentieth Century limited, leaving New York at 2:45 p. m. arrives in Chicago at 9:45 the next morning. The Pacific Limited will depart, beginning tomorrow, at 10:45 arriving in San Francisco at 8:30 a. m. the third day.

CUB BEAR AND BAD CHECK IN SWINDLE

A neat little swindle in which a cub bear belonging to L. W. Carter and E. W. Rose, proprietors of the Liberty theater, played a prominent part, was brought to light yesterday by a report made to the police by the two theatrical men. A seedy looking individual wheedled them out of $100 on a deal whereby the stranger purported to purchase the bear for $200 and gave them a check for $300, on which the proprietors returned the $100.

"Chubby," the bear, had been on exhibition in front of the theater for several weeks. The stranger, the proprietors describe as a quiet, countryfied looking fellow with a prosperous appearance.

"What will you take for it?" asked the stranger.

He told Mr. Carter that his father had been looking for a cub bear of about this one's age. He told of having come to the city for the purpose of having an operation and showed a letter from his father in which was inclosed a check for $300 to be spent as "pin money." Mr. Carter offered the bear to the stranger for $200, and the deal was made, the owners taking the check and giving the change in return. The stranger said he would return in a day or two to take away the animal.

The check was returned from the out-of-town bank yesterday marked "no funds." Now the local theatrical men have caused a warrant to be issued for "Edwin C. Newman," which was the name given on the check.

TO REMOVE FIRE MENACE

Buildings on Lower Lake avenue from the Southern hotel, 202 to the Lake Avenue hotel, 226 Lake avenue south, have been condemned with the exception of the one structure occupied by the Sherman Printing company at 224 Lake avenue south by deputy state fire marshals as a fire menace and also to the Lake avenue viaduct in case of fire. Notices were served on the owners of the property last week, and in virtually all cases will be contested in district court. They will come up there Tuesday, according to Arthur O'Dea, deputy state fire marshal.

Other buildings that have been condemned include the two buildings at 121 and 123 West First street and the rear of the building at 531 East Superior street. The front of this building is occupied by Cowan & Zimmerman but the rear is in a very bad condition, according to Mr. O'Dea, and is a fire menace. Both these buildings are owned by H. B. Fryberger, who will contest the condemnation in court Tuesday.

The cases coming up Tuesday will not include that of the Shrine auditorium as this question has been referred to the attorney general for an opinion and nothing will be done relative to that building being used as a hall upstairs and the main floor as a garage contrary to orders of the state fire marshal, until an opinion has been given by the court, Mr. O'Dea said.

One of the reasons for the condemnation of the buildings on Lake avenue south, in addition to their being a menace, is the danger in case of a serious fire to the Lake avenue viaduct. A bad fire, according to Mr. O'Dea, would not only burn the woodwork but would warp the iron structure to such an extent that much of it would have to be rebuilt. This angle of the case was taken up with Commissioner W. F. Murnian in charge of the safety department who was notified of the action of the deputy fire marshal.

FIRST REAL COLD SNAP HITS NEW YORK CITY

New York, Nov. 13.—The first real cold snap of winter sent shivers through thousands of New York apartment house dwellers today, who were suffering because of the lack of heat due to the coal shortage.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NO OFFICE BARRACKS ON CAPITOL GROUNDS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—Now that satisfactory arrangements have been made, the people of Wisconsin may feel assured that their capitol grounds will not be marred by one-story office-room barracks, inasmuch as M. F. Blumenfeld, custodian, has been able to lease a suitable local office building that will be ready for occupancy when the legislature convenes.

There was considerable heat displayed here when the announcement was made that temporary buildings were to be erected next to the state house. Mr. Blumenfeld had been unable to have co-operation of property owners, he says, and had as his only recourse the building of barracks to house state offices which will be forced from their present quarters by the incoming legislature.

After his announcement hurried meetings were held and the Madison realty board, by co-operating, has made it possible for the superintendent to secure a five-year lease on a local building that will be satisfactory.

Going Before Legislature.

The housing problem will get before this session of the legislature, Mr. Blumenfeld said. He will ask that provision be made in the next taxation, which will be levied in 1922, for a fund to be used in purchasing property on which a state office building can be erected.

At the next session the state will be in a better position to vote funds for a building that will serve the purpose as an office building for years to come, he said. That will give three years in which to carry on the construction.

It is the desire of Mr. Blumenfeld that the proposed office structure be in keeping with the architecture of the present capitol. He feels that the state can put up a suitable and appropriate building within the five-year period it has to work.

UPPER PENINSULA'S LEVIES NOT ENOUGH

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 13.—Michigan's new accounting system, made effective by the last legislature, has revealed that every county in the Upper Peninsula and many below the straits, have not levied sufficient taxes in the past to meet the expenditures.

This announcement was made by O. B. Fuller, auditor general, after studying reports from field men out in the state investigating conditions. From Menominee county comes the report that nearly every fund of the county is short, and banks have refused to loan money to the counties on short time notes.

L. D. Whitman, who is representing the auditor general in Menominee county, has informed the auditor general that Prosecuting Attorney John J. O'Hara has legally advised the supervisors that they were without power to borrow money to provide for the shortage.

The cause of a condition like that in Menominee county and many others is readily seen by state officials. When the supervisors meet to levy taxes, the estimate of probable expenditures might be $100,000, but the tax levy would provide for the collection of but $60,000. The rest is borrowed from banks at interest as high as 7 per cent in some cases. Such accounts are often carried from year to year.

Contrary to Law.

Under the new accounting system, it is contrary to the law for any county treasurer to pay the expenses of one account from a surplus that exists in another, yet state reports indicate this practice is general.

The supervisors have completed, or are completing, the 1920 tax levies in many counties, and all deficits will have to be made up this year, with the result that in many cases taxes will be several times increased.

In one county it has been disclosed that a county treasurer, having a surplus existing in one fund, loaned the money out to his friends at an ordinary rate of interest, while in another fund his county was forced to borrow money at 7 per cent. This official retires from office Jan. 1, and has been ordered by the state to clear everything up in this connection before his successor takes over his duties.

TO MAKE MORE DRASTIC.

Wisconsin Lawmakers Expected to Amend Mulberger Dry Act.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—Efforts to have the Mulberger prohibition law, which was indorsed by the voters of the state in the late election, amended so as to strengthen the state enforcement machinery, are to be made by the Anti-Saloon league of Wisconsin, according to an announcement made here. The Mulberger act originally was designed to legalize 2½ per cent beer in the state, but was made to read so that whatever interpretation the United States supreme court put on the Volstead enforcement act should rule.

The league in its announcement states that most of the members of the next Wisconsin legislature have pledged themselves to make the state enforcement law as drastic as the national law.

Washburn, Wis., Nov. 13.—In May, 1919, Dan O'Connell, a scaler, now employed by the Edward Hines Lumber company, was caught with undersized trout in his possession. He was taken before Judge Savage at Iron River and convicted. He appealed his case and for over a year the case has been in the courts. A jury convicted Mr. O'Connell of the offense charged in circuit court here and he will now pay the original fine assessed against him plus the costs of the case, which have been greatly added to during the delay in the trial of the case.

LIFER'S TERM NOW CUT TO FIFTY YEARS

Reeves, convicted of second degree murder in 1905, was commuted to expire soon. Reeves before the murder was an asylum inmate. FAVOR LIBERAL PAY FOR N. D. TEACHERS

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 13.—Calling attention to the acute shortage of qualified teachers in the Northwest, the North Dakota Teachers' association at its closing session here yesterday passed a resolution urging "an increasingly generous attitude toward salary increases." The association also urged that state and county tuition funds be apportioned to school districts on a basis of attendance rather than residence. The Smith-Towner bill pending before congress also was approved.

Dean Joseph Kennedy of the University of North Dakota, Supt. L. A. White of Minot, and G. W. Hanna of Valley City, who Thursday was chosen president of the association, were appointed delegates to the National Education association meeting at Des Moines in July, 1921.

Dr. E. K. Fretwell of Columbia university was the principal speaker at the closing session.

TO RECOMMEND LAWS.

City Boards of Education to Meet in Madison in January.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—City boards of education in Wisconsin will be enabled to meet early in January, after the legislature is in session, to discuss problems of legislation, C. P. Cary, superintendent of public instruction, has announced. They are expected to make recommendations to the assembly and senate for laws favorable to city schools, Mr. Cary said.

At a meeting of the city boards last spring they decided to meet again at the call of the superintendent of public instruction. His call for the gathering at Madison in January is in response to this request.

Representatives of educational interests will meet as a committee before the first of December to consider legislative problems and make recommendations, according to a resolution passed on the final day of the State Teachers' association meeting in Milwaukee. President B. E. McCormick of La Crosse is empowered to appoint a committee, which is to be composed of twenty-five members.

A representative committee of five city superintendents and a committee of five county superintendents are scheduled to meet before the legislature convenes to prepare recommendations which may be presented during the session.

FOR LARGER DAM.

Eau Claire Council Is Considering Proposition of Paper Plant.

Eau Claire, Wis., Nov. 13.—The Eau Claire city council has taken under consideration a three-fold plan for increasing the power of the dam on the Chippewa river here, proposed by W. L. Davis, president of the Dells Paper & Pulp company. The proposals provide for:

Repair of the present Dells dam; replacing the present dam with a concrete structure of the same height; erection of a new concrete dam with a 32-foot head in place of the 26-foot head of the present wooden structure.

Before proceeding with discussion of the project the council will await a report by a consulting engineer of St. Paul, who has been engaged by the council to determine whether a 32-foot dam would cause flooding of the city water wells.

In recent litigation the Dells Paper & Pulp company won control of the dam on a nine-year lease granted by the city several years ago but are restricted in making any changes.

To Settle Water Level Case.

Ironwood, Mich., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the direction of the Gogebic county board of supervisors, action will be commenced against the Victoria Copper company to settle the controversy of long standing over the raising of the water in Lake Gogebic. It is the contention of property owners that the mining company has placed a dam on the Ontonagon river, outlet for the lake, with the result that the water in the lake has risen.

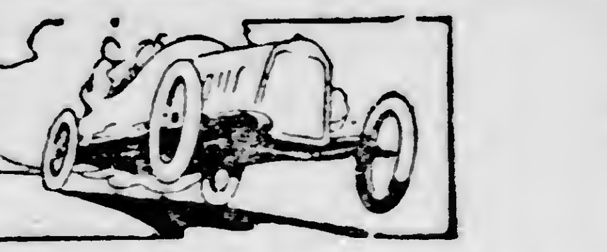
AUTOMOBILE NEWS



MOTOR TRUCKS ARE USEFUL IN KEEPING HIGHWAYS OPEN

Question of Keeping Roads Clear During Winter Is Solved.

Heavy Trucks and Tractors Used to Pull Plows After Storms.

Roads out of Duluth, especially the main highways, will be kept open during this winter to a greater extent than last year, and to do this motor vehicles will be used more extensively than ever before. The large number of trucks that have been furnished the county by the government, for road building during the summer, will be used to carry on the work over the long stretches of roads and keep them open during the winter.

The question of keeping roads cleared of snow through the winter months is a problem that has confronted many sections of the country, where the snowfall has often made transportation between various points an impossibility. In true progressive style the motor truck is coming to the foreground as a leader in the work of facilitating all-year-around service on the country's roads through its ability to operate snow plows. This is but another form of special equipment which the motor truck has been able to add to its already numerous uses.

Demand Open Roads.

The fact that there is an increasing public demand that roads be negotiable the year around is easily seen when consideration is given to the increasing number of persons owning automobiles. On top of this is the increasing advent of trucking companies which must depend practically entirely on the conditions of the roads to be able to conduct their business at a maximum efficiency. It is not enough to merely build roads. To warrant the huge expenditure which states and counties are making in their program of building and improving roads they must be kept open the year around, so that not only automobilists, but the business houses of the country as well, who are becoming more and more dependent on motor transportation for the conduct of their business, will obtain uninterrupted service during the winter months.

Trucks Kept Streets Open.

For city work as well is the motor truck finding a most serviceable use when the ground is covered with snow. During the heavy snowfalls last winter the motor truck battled valiantly to keep street cars and transportation moving.

An evidence of the success of the operation of this equipment on trucks is seen in the fact that Duluth has made a large appropriation for motor snow fighting equipment this winter and an ever increasing army of trucks promises to be engaged in this work in the future. That this feature of truck service is but another step in the direction of further motor transportation is a foregone conclusion.

LIGHT FREEZE IS DANGEROUS

Sudden Cold Will Cause Water Jackets to Crack.

As a result of an unexpected cold snap, a water jacket may crack, due to a very slight freeze. If the crack is of some length it may be repaired by the following method, according to the technical editor of American Motorist:

On the line of the fracture, drill and tap for a three-eighth-inch threaded copper rod. This rod is screwed in firmly to a depth about equal to the thickness of the metal of the water jacket. Cut off the copper rod with a hacksaw, allowing it to project about 1.32 inch; then drill succeeding holes, each hole being drilled partially into the previously inserted copper plug, so that when all of the plugs are placed in the cylinder casting they form a continuous band of copper along the line of fracture. The copper plugs should now be peened down and trimmed off flush.

Slight Chance of Leakage.

The only possible chance for leakage, after having repaired the crack in this manner, is for the water to follow the joint between the metal of the jacket and the copper plugs; but as the copper rods are threaded into the castings, it is not likely to occur. Should leakage take place, a little extra peening will suffice to prevent it.

Still another method involves fusing copper fillings or granulated brass spelter into the crack. This has the advantage of not requiring the removal of the part to be repaired.

Drill and tap a small hole at each end of the crack to prevent further extension of the weakness, and screw in an iron stud. Next clean the outside and inside of the fracture very thoroughly, using a scrapper and gasoline. File up some soft copper or brass spelter, and fill the crack, heaping the filings over it. Then take a powerful blow lamp or torch and direct the flame on the copper. By this method a fair amount of metal can be worked into the opening. After cooling, the studs are cut off flush and the copper filed smooth.

Another Method.

In many cases the crack may be closed by making a rust joint. The first step is to drill a very small hole at each end of the crack to prevent it from spreading, and to drive in or screw in a metal plug in each hole. The crack is then filled up with a paste made of 66 per cent iron filing or iron dust and 33 per cent salammoniac in the pulverized form, with just enough water to make a mixture of proper consistency to be forced into the crack easily. The action of the salamminoniac is to rapidly oxidize the fine iron filings, producing rust which joins the various iron particles together and effectively seals the opening when it has properly hardened. As a number of prepared cements for use when cast iron breaks may be purchased at low cost, it is often cheaper to buy the cement than to attempt to make it.

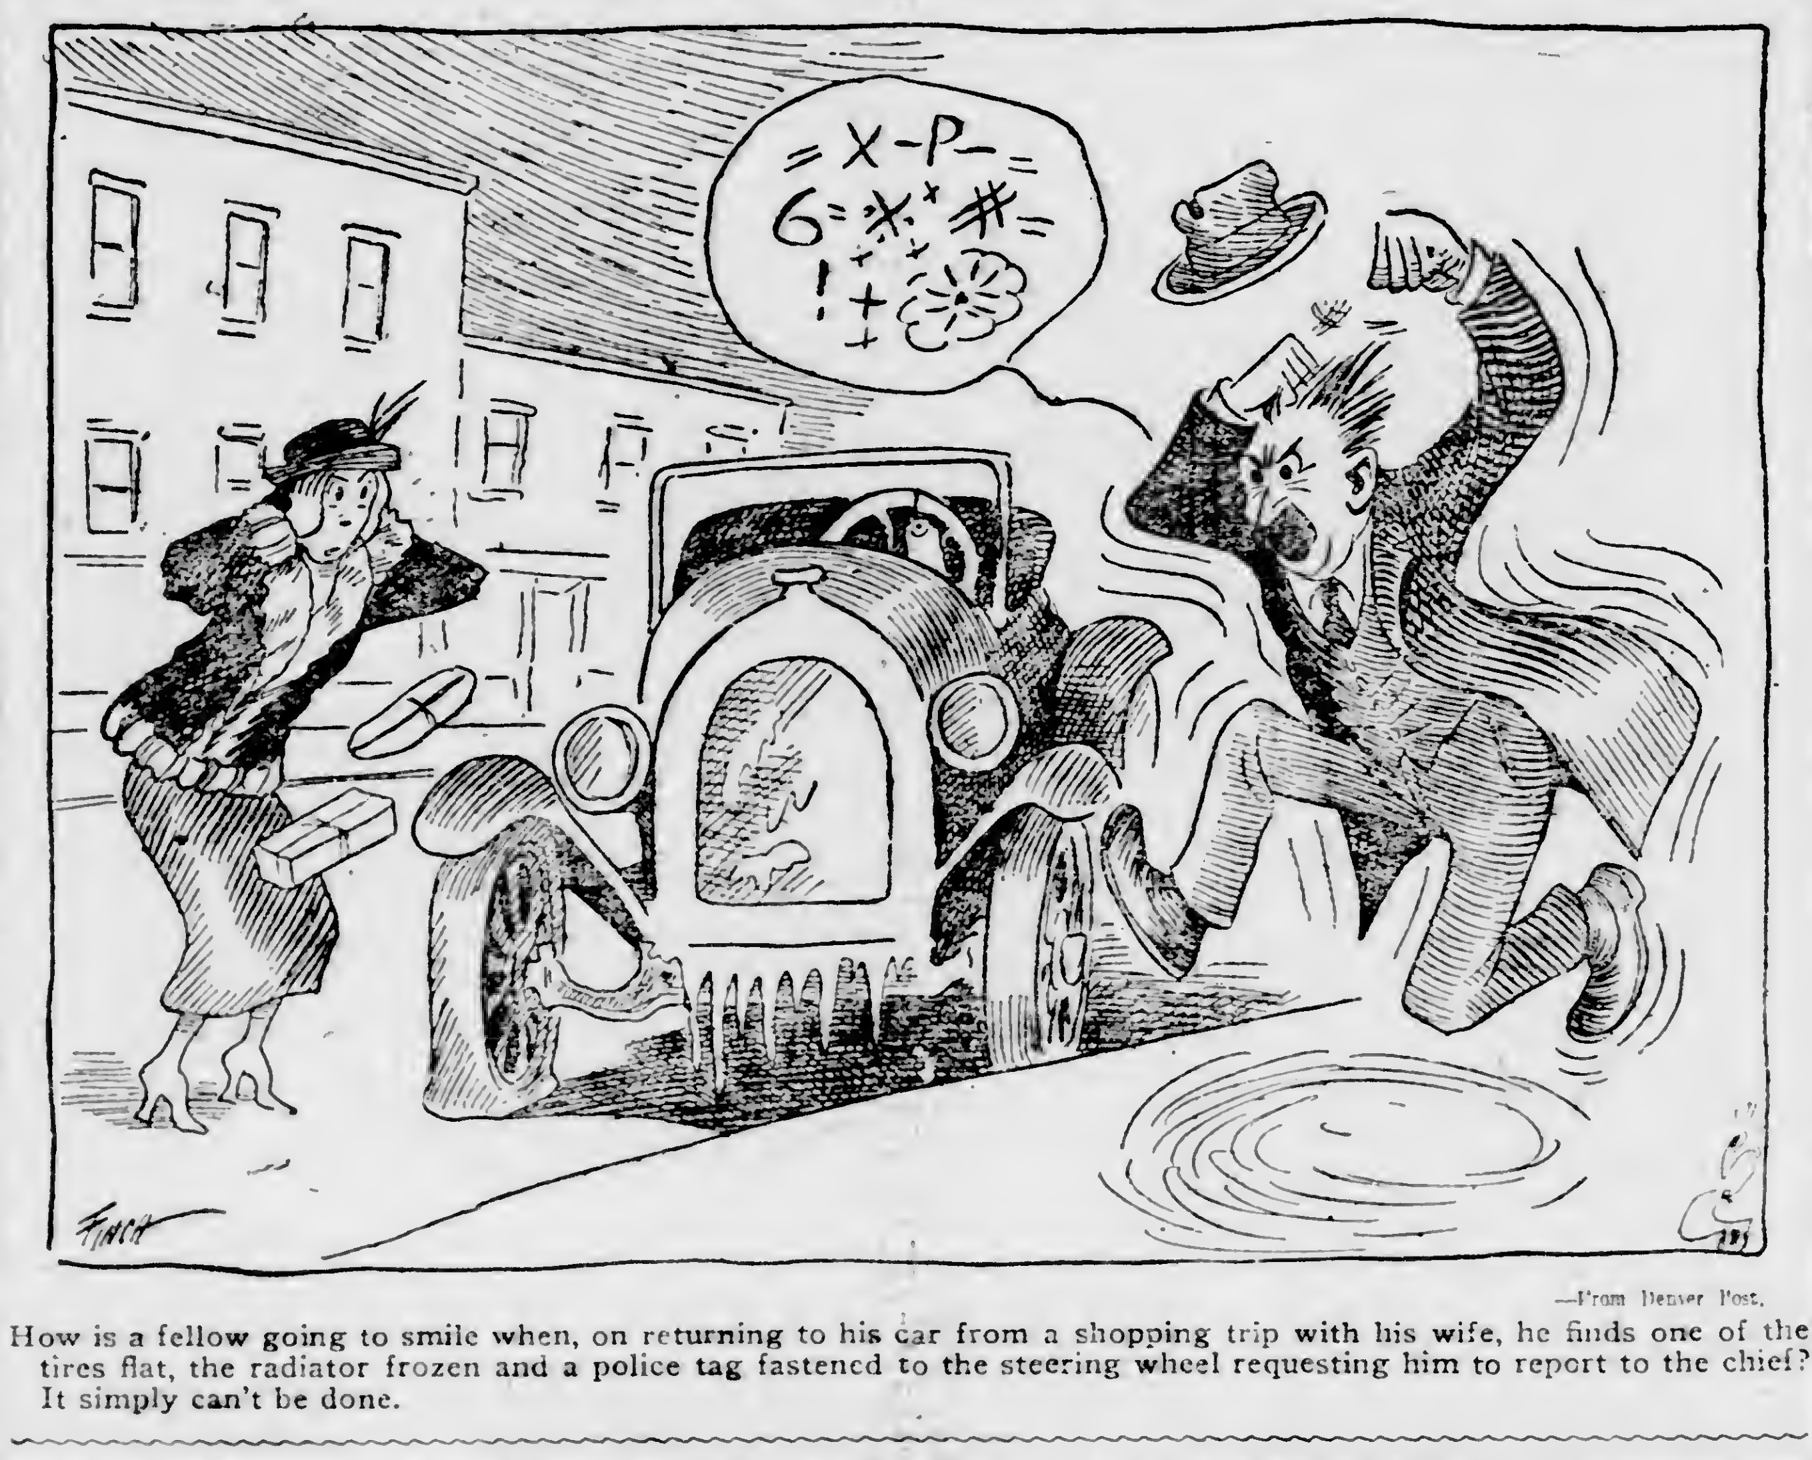
IT'S HARD TO BE AN OPTIMIST THESE DAYS WHEN A MAN FINDS HE IS SIMPLY OUT OF LUCK



—From Denver Post.

How is a fellow going to smile when, on returning to his car from a shopping trip with his wife, he finds one of the tires flat, the radiator frozen and a police tag fastened to the steering wheel requesting him to report to the chief? It simply can't be done.

AUTO BOOM DAYS PAST AND GONE

"The natural issue of lethargy is failure—and very often complacency is only another term of lethargy," thus M. L. Pulcher, vice president and general manager of the Federal Motor Truck company, sums up the situation in the motor truck field. He also suggests the remedy.

"During the past four years the automobile industry has experienced the greatest boom period of its history," he declares. "Record after record of production and sales have been established and broken by almost every motor vehicle factory and sales room in the United States. A spirit of complacency in their achievements has naturally followed these records.

"It will probably jolt somewhat the complacency of these record makers to tell them that they do not deserve a great deal of credit for their records after all—that, with the facts frankly told them, they did not even make them. The truth of the matter is that most of these large production and sales records were forced upon manufacturers and dealers by abnormal conditions which were most easily met by making records—they were the course of least resistance.

"But, though these records have been made, they are not being made so easily today and certainly not by the complacent man. I have talked to many dealers and manufacturers who, seemingly, have become accustomed to being forced by others to make record sales that now that this force has been removed they are sitting back complacently in their chairs, confident that a 'temporary storm' will soon pass over their heads and 'normal' business conditions, as they call our boom period, will return.

"The truth of the matter is that business today aside from a few minor contributing factors such as the financial situation—is and is going to continue to be normal. The boom period, it is true, is gone. The star of the buyer and not the seller is again in the ascendancy. The dealer or manufacturer who sits idle expecting our boom to return again to force him to greater exertions is going to sit for a long, long time and while he is sitting others will steal his records.

"A clear, sane view of this situation calls for but one remedy—work. A readjustment of the financial situation and other temporary factors will naturally come, but it will contribute very little to the rehabilitation of business without the old remedy of hard work."

ENGLISH FIRM TO REDUCE PRICES

According to the American Chamber of Commerce in London further reductions in the price of motor cars are presaged by the announcement that the British firm of Messrs. Harper, Bean, Ltd., of Dudley, intend to substantially reduce the price of their cars which coincides with the report that the price of Ford cars in America is to be further reduced to prewar level.

Quite recently the price of the Bean car was reduced by £100 and it is stated that the new figures will be the same. The firm figures will be the same. The firm state that their production has now reached the point which has cheapened the cost of production, of which they intend the public to have the benefit, but since the firm have recently discharged 2,000 employes it is also suggested that the supply of light cars is now overtaking the demand.

Another interesting announcement, says the American chamber, is that the Carden Engineering company of London, have succeeded in producing a small two-seater car for £100. This car is seven to eight horse power and is less than half the price of a sidecar combination of the same power. The cheapness of this car has been achieved by means of mass production, and the firm hope to be able at an early date to turn out ten machines per day.

The motor industry in Britain is still considerably perturbed by the flood of imports from foreign countries, chiefly America. During August, points out the American chamber, imports of touring cars and commercial vehicles totaled 3,438 against 504 in August, 1913. An official statement issued by the United States government shows that during the first eleven months of the present fiscal year, Great Britain took over $5,500,000 worth of commercial motors as against $2,500,000 in the preceding year. The same report states that the total number of commercial motors exported was 21,000 as compared with 11,000 in 1919, whilst passenger cars reached 103,000 as against 33,000 in 1919. On the other hand exports of British touring cars and commercial vehicles show a decline, the figures for August, 1913, being 610, but only 514 in August, 1920.

RICH MIXTURES ARE WASTEFUL

Washington, Nov. 6.—Warning automobilists that rich mixtures waste gasoline and that a "lean application" leads to economy in fuel, an official of the bureau of mines said today:

"With the price of gasoline constantly rising, many motorists are wondering how they may operate their cars more economically by getting greater fuel mileage. With the heavy grades of gasoline now offered, it is generally found necessary to enrich the mixture considerably when first starting the motor. This is done either by choking off the air or by opening up the needle valve of the carburetor. When the motor has run until it is warmed up the mixture is brought back to normal proportions.

"But casual inspection of the exhaust of nine out of ten cars discloses the fact that the mixture is still far too rich after the average owner of these cars has returned the choke to its normal position.

"Far too many cars are seen issuing a jet black smoke from the exhaust pipe, indicating that the owner pays little or no attention to carburetor adjustment. This cloud is most in evidence when the engine is momentarily speeded up or the throttle is opened to make the motor pull. This black smoke indicates that the carbon in the fuel is passing through unburned. Besides consuming an excessive amount of fuel, this careless practice causes carbon to be deposited too rapidly on the piston head and cylinder walls. As oil works up into the same compartment the cylinders will soon be filled with carbon and knocks will develop unless the carbon is burned out with oxygen or is scraped out after the motor has been dismantled.

"Every motorist should study the adjustment of his car's carburetor carefully so he will know how to make the mixture richer or leaner, as the occasion may require. Then he should gradually close the needle valve to the point where the exploding charge pops back through the carburetor or the motor shows signs of not running so well. Then the mixture should be made just a bit richer by a slight turn of the needle valve control.

"The secret of economical fuel operation is to keep the mixture just as lean as possible for maximum efficiency. Too much soon results in carbonizing of the motor, besides wasting gasoline. Every car owner is advised to keep a close watch on the exhaust gas. Have someone suddenly open the throttle and see if a cloud of black smoke supplants the colorless gas. Checking up on your car in this way occasionally will not only save money that otherwise would be spent for wasted gasoline, but will delay materially the expense and trouble of having the carbon removed from the motor."

FORD OUTPUT APPROACHES THE HUNDRED THOUSAND MARK

During October all former production records were broken at the Ford Motor company plant. The number of cars turned out fell short of 100,000 by thirty-three. Oct. 26 was the banner day when 4,688 cars were built, a rate of one car every 18½ seconds. The company's official estimate for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1921, is 1,250,000 cars and trucks.

TWO-WAY HEAD LAMPS DO AWAY WITH ALL GLARE

With the Two-way headlamps which, by the way, are controllable as to tilt of reflector through a lever on the instrument board—it is perfectly safe to drive a good country road at thirty-five miles an hour even when passing another car, and this without the least glare to the driver of the approaching machine.

When the reflectors are pitched downward the beam of light strikes the ground about thirty-five feet ahead but lights the road sufficiently for safe driving much further ahead than that due to the laws of refraction and serves to put a flood of light on the roadway in front and at the sides.

None of the bright or direct rays can reach the eyes of even a pedestrian, let alone the driver of an approaching car.

When the car has been passed, turning the lever raises the reflectors, so that the beam of light is shot straight ahead, lighting the road for from "fifteen to twenty telegraph poles" ahead. It is shown by this system that more light properly placed is what is required to make driving at night safe.

SCHOOL DENTISTRY POSSIBLE BY THE TRUCK METHOD

An unusual sale of a motor truck has just come to light in a sale made to the city of Scranton. This chassis is being equipped with a special body which will be provided with a dental chair, instrument cabinet, running water, and all of the sanitary conveniences of a first-class dental office. The traveling dentist will make all of the schools of the city, traveling constantly. A campaign promoted to show the value of oral hygiene will go on throughout the year. After examinations of the scholars those in need of important dental work will be taken out of the school and to the truck where expert work will be done. The pupil will then return to the classes. The sale of this truck for the purpose was brought about by a Bethlehem salesman who is credited by W. G. Clay, assistant general sales manager of the Bethlehem Motors corporation, with unusual head work. Mr. Clay believes that this sale is commendatory, due to the advertising which will be received by the company. He points to the fact that this is the day of unusual ideas, application, ingenuity and what is known as headwork.

MOTORCYCLE TOURING IS MORE POPULAR THAN EVER

That motorcycling as a pleasure has been unaffected by repeated increases in the cost of gasoline and tires is reflected in the fact that motorcycle touring has been more popular during the past season than ever before. Scores of riders have made the trip from coast to coast in either direction in spite of the fact that road conditions have improved but little. The average motorcycle tourist making the trip takes about a month to complete it, though numbers have gone across in much less time.

Tours of upwards of 1,000 miles have been everyday occurrances. In fact no motorcyclist of today considers the season complete without his having made at least one such trip during the good weather. As a stimulant to touring the Motorcycle and Allied Trades association awards medals to riders completing tours of required distances.

SOME HINTS REGARDING CARE OF TIRES THIS WINTER

One nice thing about motoring in winter is that wear on tires is less in cold weather than in the hot summer months. Heat is the worst enemy of rubber. If cold weather lasted all the year round tire mileage records would increase amazingly.

If you are going to put your car away in spite of the prospect of considerable opportunity for its use, here are some things to do with regard to the tires if you want to find them in good shape next spring:

Wash the tires carefully on outside to remove oil and grease.

Remove tires from the wheels and wrap them up in paper or cloth.

Store in a cool, dry place away from daylight.

If tires are left on the car, jack up the car, deflate the tires and wrap them in covers.

Don't let car stand on tires all winter—to do so means a new set of tires in the spring.

RONALD'S GAS PROPOSAL DOESN'T MAKE A BIG HIT WITH HIS GIRL

Ronald seemed much interested in his own shoes; indeed one would have thought he had just noticed them for the first time and the discovery was absorbing his whole interest. Why he should have devoted any thought to else but the lovely girl seated near him needed some explaining. But really, Ronald only saw his shoes with that eye which doesn't register on the brain.

The girl laughed.

"What's the matter? Do they hurt you?" she asked.

"Huh-what? I beg your pardon," he stammered. "Oh no. Not at all. I was just thinking. Although they ought to. I've walked enough. Miles, I think. I've been looking at—at automobiles."

"No!" she exclaimed. "Really! Oh, tell me about it."

He hesitated.

"Well, I meant it as a surprise. There was something else I wanted to say. For three days now, I have been doing nothing but look at motor cars. It's got on my nerves. But I thought I'd ask you—that is—well, I wanted to know if you—I wanted to ask you something more important than automobiles."

"Yes," whispered the girl blushing a little in spite of herself but it [illegible] unnoticed.

"Er—you see—Dorothy—can you do you think you could love me?" he stutered.

"Why I don't know—" she hesitated.

Ronald seemed not to hear. A wild gleam had come into his eyes and suddenly he rudely plunged into a speech as a man who has lost control of his mind.

"You look all right to me, y'know," he said. "Your lines are good and you're just about the size I want. The big ones are hell on upkeep."

"Why Ronald—Mr. Jenks!" exclaimed the girl in amazement.

"I'll try you for six months anyway, and if you're as good as you look, then it's a go," he said, gazing blankly at the wall.

"There, there, you're only over tired, that's all," answered the girl. "Just you wait here a moment and I'll bring you a nice drink of gasoline."

This gave her an opportunity to leave him and communicate the news to the husky butler who would put Ronald in the nice, cool outside air where he might freshen his twisted thoughts.—Harry Irving Shumway in Motor Life.

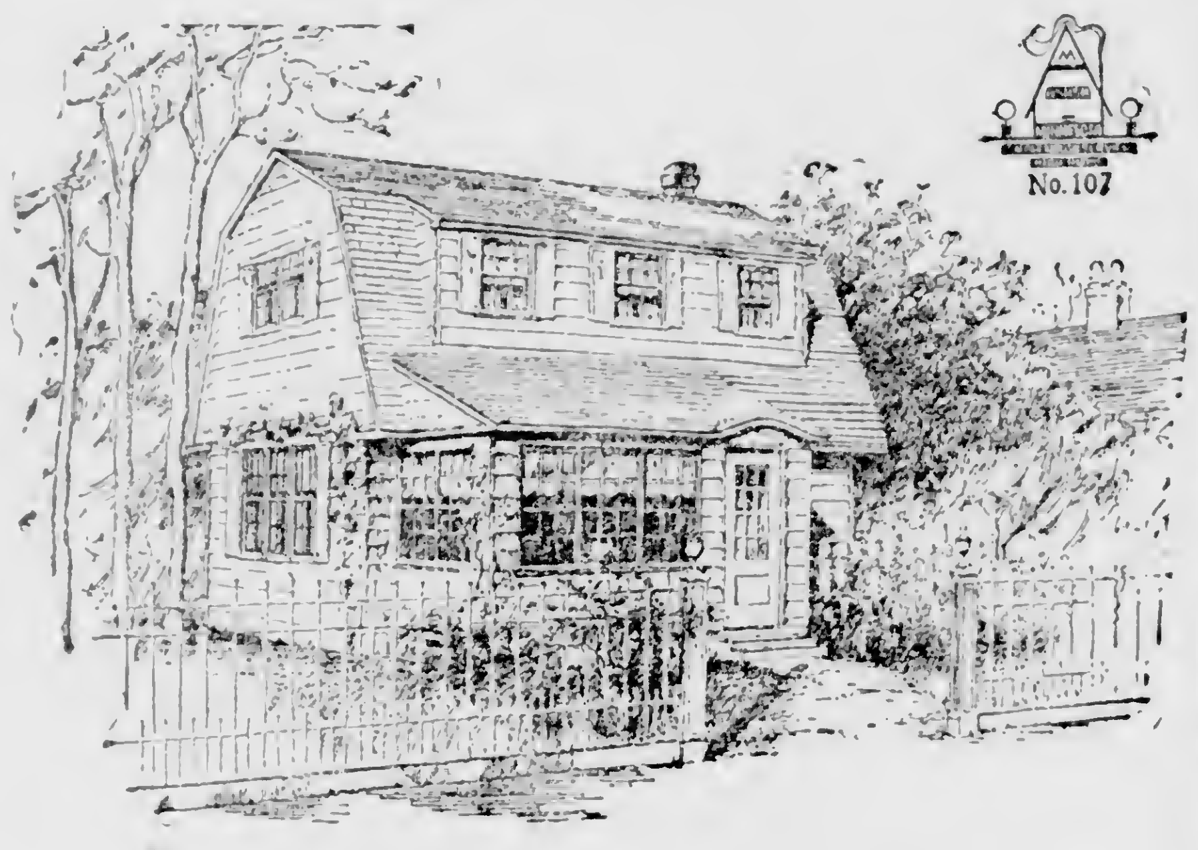
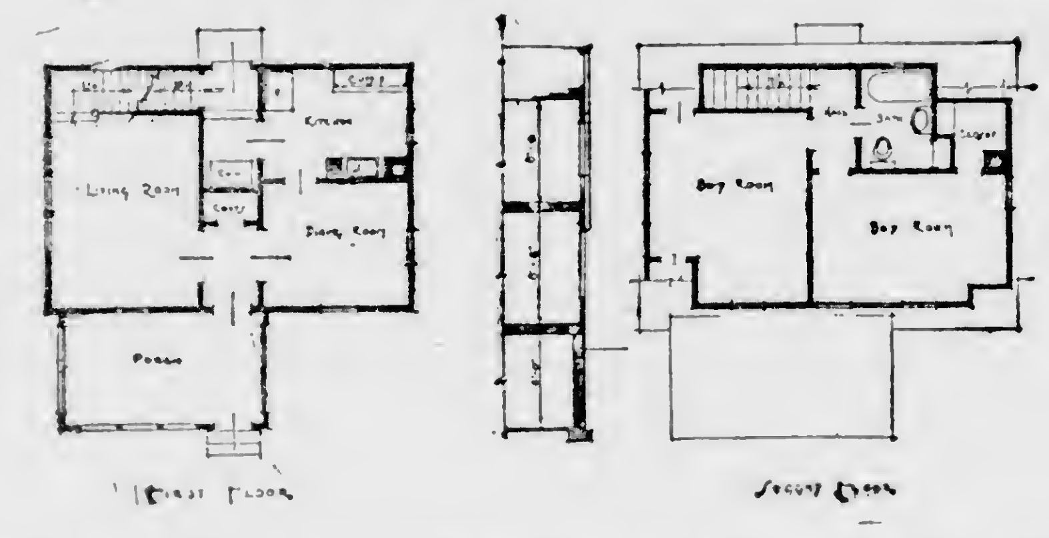
Dutch Colonial House Finds Popularity





IF YOU want to build a home as an investment you will do well to study this Dutch Colonial plan.

Perhaps the best word that explains the popularity of Dutch Colonial style is the word "simplicity" both in design and straightforward construction. On the first floor of this home is an attractive sun porch, a living room, a dining room and kitchen. On the second floor are two large, light, airy bed rooms and bath.

From the sun porch, which may be either glassed or screened, is an entrance to a small hall with a closet adequate for coats and outer wraps. At the left is a spacious living room. The handsome stairway at the far end of the room and the group of three windows, breaking the long side wall, are decided features.

Because of its compact arrangement, the kitchen will be a pleasant place in which to work. An outside basement entrance and the placement of the ice box in the rear entry will save unnecessary tracking into the kitchen by delivery men.

Three windows in each sleeping room insure good ventilation. One of the sleeping rooms is provided with two closets, while the other has an unusually large one.

The outside dimensions of this home are 28x19 ft. It is estimated that to build this house, under present-day conditions and current prices of materials, it will cost $6,562. This includes completion of the house, heating, plumbing, electric wiring and full basement.

The plans, specifications, complete working drawings and details for this home are ready to use and offered t home builders by the Architects Small House Service Bureau of Mi nesota, Inc., 716 4th ave. s.

MUCH WORK IN PROSPECT

Actual Show for Week Slight; Architects to Figure on Schools.

While only ten permits for improvements estimated to cost $16,725 were issued at the building inspector's office during the last week, architects reported that considerable work is in prospect, and that from present appearances, they are counting upon considerable activity developing after the beginning of the new year.

Frederick W. Armstrong, secretary of the Duluth Builders' Exchange, asserted he had been advised by architects that a number of plans for schools and other public buildings at outside points would be filed at the exchange by architects within the next few weeks. It is expected that local contractors generally will take advantage of the opportunity to figure upon them. Included in the list is a high school at Frederick, Wis., a union passenger and freight depot for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads at Cloquet, Minn., and a teachers' training school at St. Croix Falls, Wis.

Contractors are making every effort to push work now in hand to completion, and it is hoped to get other structures inclosed, upon which foundation work is proceeding in order that interior work may be carried through during the winter months.

* * *

McLeod & Smith, contractors for the proposed new water and light department building on West First street is pushing through the excavating for the foundation by steam shovel. With favorable weather conditions, it is hoped to get in the reinforced foundations and footings within the next two weeks.

Charles Anderson is building a frame store and dwelling at 4301 West Fifth street to cost $5,000; Gunner Johnson, a frame dwelling at 5701 East Superior street, to cost $4,000 and C. H. Appleby, a double frame dwelling at 111-113 Greenwood street, to cost $6,000.

The Northwest is making a better showing than other parts of the country in building operations, according to the F. W. Dodge company of Chicago.

October building contracts in Minnesota and North and South Dakota amounted to $8,726,000, an increase of 24 per cent over the September figure.

Included in the October total were the following items: $4,616,000, or 53 per cent of the total, for public works and utilities; $1,985,000, or 23 per cent, for industrial buildings; $942,000, or 11 per cent, for residential buildings.

Contracts awarded in the first ten months of 1920 have amounted to $85,000,000 as compared with $59,000,000 for the same period last year.

Projected work reported in the first ten months of the year has amounted to $146,000,000, compared with $85,000,000 for contracts awarded. The greatest amount of deferred construction is in industrial plants.

REALTY TRADE MORE ACTIVE

Fourth Avenue West Frontage Sold; House Properties in Demand.

Improved inquiry, both for houses and business frontages, was noted by real estate opertors during the last week. A fair list of transactions for the season were put through and operators asserted that they are working upon other deals that are expected to reach the closing up stage shortly.

Among the central property transactions put through was a sale of forty feet frontage on Fourth avenue west between First and Second streets at a consideration of $15,000. As negotiations for sales of other frontages in the vicinity are in progress, the identity of the principals is under cover in the interval. The sale was closed through the F. I Salter company.

H. H. Hyndmann, sales manager for N. J. Upham company, reported the following sales during the week: House and lot at 1909 East Seventh street, for Rosa Block to E. Drummond to John Richardson at $750; lot in Kenwood to Axel R. Solon, and house and lot at 1620 East Sixth street for J. E. Coll to Ralph Morrison at $3,800.

N. J. Upham, president of the International Realty associates, has returned from St. Petersburg Beach, Fla., where in behalf of his organization, he put through the purchase of a large block of winter resort property. Approximately $3,000,000 is expected to be realized through the sale of the property by members of the realty associates in the various cities over the country.

While down there, Mr. Upham let contracts for grading streets, laying water mains and sidewalks and the building of a fifty-room hotel as part of the initial improvement to be undertaken.

Outlining the project, Mr. Upham said:

"The St. Petersburg Beach property consists of 2,000 lots on Long Key island, having four miles of water front on the Gulf of Mexico and Boca Ciega bay. It is connected with St. Petersburg, Fla., by a one-mile bridge. It has tropical vegetation and a very fine beach for bathing and automobile driving.

"St. Petersburg, Fla., between the gulf and Tampa bay, Mr. Upham says, is conceded to have the best climatic conditions in Florida, being cooler in summer and warmer in winter. It is especially known for its sunshine, weather reports showing that during ten years there have only been fifty-seven days that the sun has not shone some time during each day. The afternoon paper there gives away its edition each day the sun does not shine. The surrounding country has fine automobile roads among orange and grapefruit groves and truck gardens and it is the most productive section of Florida. The waters about St. Petersburg are famous as the best fishing grounds in the United States, abounding with all kinds of fish from 150-pound tarpon to many smaller species. St. Petersburg has a permanent population of 15,000 showing an increase of 251 per cent in ten years according to the U. S. census. Forty thousand to 50,000 tourists go there in the winter months and each year thousands are turned away for lack of accommodations. St. Petersburg started a few years ago as a health resort physicians sending people there from all parts of the country. Since then it has become one of the most popular places for winter tourists. Though having much greater natural advantages it has lacked two factors that have hastened the development of the Florida east coast cities. First, large fashionable hotels, and second, a beach development. In spite of the lack of big hotels, the wealthier classes are now pouring into St. Petersburg in rapidly increasing numbers, overcrowding the better hotels at $7 to $15 a day rates, and paying $2,500 and upwards for the better class of furnished houses for the winter season. Negotiations are now pending for a $1,500,000 fireproof hotel, and the development of its beach is now assured by the associates who expect their property to become the highest priced residence property in St. Petersburg as similar properties are in the east coast cities.

"The Florida east coast cities are a result of the intensive development of the Flagler millions, in the building of the Flagler railroad system and its very large and fashionable hotels, together with the tremendous publicity campaigns they carry on throughout the country to create patronage therefor.

Palm Beach has a permanent population of only 8,000, and Miami 28,000, while St. Petersburg has 15,000 without any of this publicity and intensive wealth development. Business property in Palm Beach sells for $2,000 a front foot, in Miami at $4,000 a front foot, and in St. Petersburg at $1,000 a front foot. Water front beach residence property in Palm Beach and Miami sells for $150 to $300 a front foot, and on the interior streets on the island property from $50 to $100 a front foot, while residence lots on the main land sell at from $50 to $100 a front foot. Some high grade residence lots in St. Petersburg sell for $100 a front foot, but most of this property sells at from $30 to $50 a front foot. Lots on St. Petersburg Beach will be first sold at $20 a front foot or $1,000 a lot, which will include shell paved roads, cement curbs, sidewalks and water mains.

"About $200,000 has already been spent in development of St. Petersburg Beach, it having a $50,000 casino or dancing pavilion, cafe and bath rooms, also a water system, a brick paved street the length of the island, and shell paved cross streets. Additional improvements are now being rushed by the associates, and they expect to commence selling the property about the first of January. Their property will retail out at about $3,000,000.

"There is an enormous demand for houses in St. Petersburg, notwithstanding local and northern people are building with feverish activity. High building costs are not a factor. Houses sell before completion. Building permits for houses in 1920 run over $2,500,000 or about ten times the amount built in Duluth this year though this city is six times larger. Furnished houses rent from 20 per cent to 30 per cent of their building costs for the winter season alone.

"Some Duluth people are now forming a syndicate to build houses for sale at St. Petersburg Beach this winter in order to participate in the large profits that can be made there."

EVELETH PROTEST TO BE PRESENTED

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—To protest against the increase of 50 per cent in the valuation of real estate in Eveleth the courtroom of the city hall was packed at a mass meeting last evening and a vote was unanimously carried to send a delegation to St. Paul to meet with the state tax commission for the purpose of presenting their grievances and having the new rate decreased if possible.

It was clearly pointed out by speakers that property transfers which have taken place in the last few months upon which the tax commission based its decision to increase the taxes have given fictitious impressions to the commission and that the properties thus transferred will never again bring such high values because of the fact that they were made upon a fictitious market when there was an unusual demand for property. Wages were high, mines were being worked to full capacity, the housing situation was a serious one and property was sold at almost any figure that was asked for it, it was stated. One of the speakers, a real estate owner, said that valuation in Eveleth has reached its apex and that property will never again be sold for as much money as it has been in the last couple of years.

To Name Committee of Five.

It was voted to have the chairman appoint a committee of five to make plans for the protest to be made before the tax commission and to request the city council for funds to finance whatever plan is decided upon. It was also decided to co-operate with other towns affected by the increase on the range in making a fight against the increase announced.

Mayor Victor E. Essling acted as chairman of the meeting and H. J. Coleman was the secretary. Those who spoke against the increase in valuation were: Solomon Sax, R. M. Cornwell, J. S. Wilson, E. H. Hatch, C. B. Hoel, H. L. Burns, Charles Jesmore, C. C. Mather, George A. Perham, George Mesberg, D. A. Murray, J. C. McGilvery, Peter Peterson.

TACONITE SOLDIER IS TO BE BURIED

Coleraine, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Clarence Bennett of Taconite is being brought home from France under government escort. The funeral will be held at the Taconite village hall on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. P. A. Schwarz officiating. Interment will take place at Lakeview cemetery. The funeral will be in charge of the Whitley-Bennett Post at Taconite which is named for the deceased soldiers of that village.

He married Miss Mata Loux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loux, who is also a graduate of the Greenway high school. A daughter, Edith May, was born to them. The father has never seen the child. Mr. Bennett's mother died a few years ago and while he was serving in France his father passed away, leaving besides Clarence two other sons, Cecil and James, and a daughter, Gertrude.

D. & I. R. ORE HAULING IS MUCH CURTAILED

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cold snap has caused a lessening of ore shipments here over the D. & I. R. railroad, only ten train crews working today, less than one-half of the number employed before the weather turned cold. The ore is coming mostly from the Virginia district.

The ore steaming plant was put into service early in the week. It is not known how long shipments will be continued but the expectation is that ore will continue to go down the lakes from this port as long as boats arrive, two being in port now. Two weeks and possibly three weeks more of shipping unless the weather gets worse is considered a fair forecast.

PARTLY CLOUDY

PARTLY CLOUDY

If the weather keeps like it is today, there will be little trouble with the weather man; and only the roads would prevent a good deal of touring tomorrow. The sun rose this morning at 7:08 and will set this evening at 4:36, giving nine hours and twenty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A further but generally slight drop in temperature has occurred in nearly all districts east of the Rocky mountains. Thermometers registered zero or slightly below last night in South Alberta, South Saskatchewan, Montana and Wyoming. Fair weather is the rule in Central and West Canada and states east of the Rocky mountains. During the last twenty-four hours snow flurries and fresh to strong west winds occurred on Lake Superior. Snow or rain fell during Friday or last night over Southwest Montana, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington in connection with low pressures of very moderate strength centered over Arizona and off the Washington coast."

INJURED BOY HAS FIGHTING CHANCE

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leo Smegel, 13, who had his right arm cut off when he was run over by a locomotive on the railroad tracks leading to the Missabe Mountain pit in Virginia Thursday afternoon, is better at More hospital than he was yesterday morning and has partly regained consciousness. Although his skull suffered a bad fracture, both of his legs were broken and badly mashed and it is feared he was hurt internally, physicians declare that he has a chance to recover. The boy talks a little, but has not regained sufficient control of his mental faculties to say anything of an intelligent nature or relate anything as to the circumstances connected with the accident in which he was so badly injured, and as a result of which his brother, Thomas, age 15, died yesterday morning. The body of Thomas Smegel was taken to Virginia for burial yesterday.

Victom's Funeral Monday.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The condition of Thomas Smegel who was run over by a dump train at the Missabe Mountain pit Thursday is reported from Eveleth as satisfactory but he is still unable to give a story of the accident. The funeral of his brother, Leo, who died of the injuries received at the same time, will probably be held Monday.

WANT AITKIN COUNTY TO IMPROVE ROAD

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Recommendation that the Aitkin county board consider the condition of the highway between Aitkin and Hill City, which has been described as by far the most scenic route in the Northwest section but which is said to be in a "deplorable" condition, is made by the Chisholm chamber of commerce in a letter sent to the board and also to civic clubs of Hibbing, Chisholm, Virginia, Eveleth and Grand Rapids.

One of the routes from the Twin Cities to the range, the letter says, leads through Brainerd and Aitkin and thence to Grand Rapids. This route takes in the stretch of highway mentioned in the letter as needing improvement.

Local civic clubs are asked to take a stand on the matter of urging the improvement and it is expected that they will make recommendations to the Aitkin county board similar to the Chisholm organization's recommendations.

VICTIMS' BODIES ARE TAKEN TO SUPERIOR

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bodies of John Hurley, conductor, and J. E. Both lived in Superior many years until transferred to Kelly Lake by the company.

Services for Hurley will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Le Sage's undertaking parlors, Superior. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

The body of Williams will be taken on the 6 o'clock Soo Line train to Ladysmith this evening. The conductors and trainmen brotherhoods have charge of funeral arrangements.

The program: March, "Viking," (H. L. King); overture, "Enconium," (F. Luscob); march, "Over the Top," (Crosby); patrol, "Blue and Gray," (Dalby); novelty, "Our Boys Welcome Home," (F. H. HIBBING'S VERSION OF FOOTBALL ROW

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia's refusal to play the Hibbing high school football eleven at Virginia this afternoon is considered here a concession of the championship of the Mesaba range to the local eleven. Hibbing's season is now ended unless Bemidji high school officials, who have been repeatedly asked for a game either in Hibbing, or at Bemidji, arrange a game with the locals. Thus far the Bemidjians have consented to no arrangements but are laying claim to the championship of Northern Minnesota.

Virginia's decision not to play came to Supt. Alexander Thursday afternoon after the local official had issued a challenge, upon appeal of members of the local football team, for a game on the Virginia field. Reasons advanced for Virginia's refusal are that the Virginia team has had no chance to practice and the field is in poor condition. Considering the fact that the city teams played on the Virginia field only two days ago and that the Hibbing team has not had one minute's practice since last Monday, there seems to be no valid reason for not playing the game, local fans believe.

Denies "Revolt" Story.

Contrary to reports appearing in a Duluth paper, there was no "revolt" of members of the Hibbing school eleven in demanding the game be played in Virginia. They merely waited upon Supt. Alexander in a body headed by their captain, Milton Schmidt, and expressed their anxious desire for a game. Supt. Alexander assented to their proposition of conceding to Virginia the latter's demand that the game be played at Virginia and immediately communicated with Supt. Duffield of Virginia with the result mentioned.

A game with Bemidji on a Minneapolis field has been suggested by some fans as a solution to determining the championship of Northern Minnesota. Coach Vance's team has practically disbanded but it would be an easy matter for the players to reassemble and practice for such a contest.

LEGS, BACK AND SHOULDERS ACHED

This Illinois Man Tells His Experience Fighting Rheumatism.

"I took medicine for years for my rheumatism but I might as well have thrown my money in the street for all the good it did me," said Mr. Charles Schauer of No. 53 Iroquois street, Freeport, Ill.

As Mr. Schauer is now free from rheumatism an account of his experience will interest those who still suffer.

"My legs from the knees down were always cold and they ached. The muscles were sore and the cords stiff. When I bent my knees they seemed to grate. I had a continual backache and pain in the shoulders.

"My circulation was so poor that my hands and feet would get numb and I would have to rub them. I had so much pain that my nights were restless.

"After years of useless effort to get well I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got a box. I thought the pills helped me and bought a second box. By the time I had used that one I felt more at ease and slept better. By the time I had taken six boxes the pain in my back and shoulders had left me and I was on the road to recovery. My hands and feet were no longer cold, the soreness is gone from the muscles and I am recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to everyone who has rheumatic pains or who suffers from poor circulation of the blood."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood by enabling it to absorb more oxygen. This oxygen burns up the poisons of rheumatism and other impurities. By keeping the blood rich and red you protect yourself against relapses which are the rule where the blood is thin and impure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by your own druggist or will be sent direct by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box. Write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for free booklet, "Building Up the Blood," containing a special chapter on the treatment of rheumatism.

MARKET HAS GOOD BULGES

Wheat Closes Higher on Millers' Inquiry; Flaxseed Turns Strong.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 13.—An upturn came about in the wheat market today as a result largely of short covering operations inspired by reports of Eastern millers' inquiry that had not been in evidence for some time back. It was noted by operators that the Winnipeg market is now out of line, with readjustments in its levels that had come about lately, and that has to some extent directed attention to American spring wheat to fill current needs. The market eased off from the top levels set on realizing sales, and the close was easy.

December spring wheat closed 3c up at $1.70½ asked, March 1¾c up at $1.71 asked, and December winter 3c up at $1.69½ nominal.

December durum closed 3¼c up at $1.79¼ asked, and March 3c up at $1.77½ asked.

Spot rye closed 3c up at $1.56, December 3c up at $1.49, and May ½c up at $1.39 asked.

Oats closed ⅝c off at 44¼c for spot, and Barley unchanged at 70@92c for spot. At Winnipeg December oats closed 1⅛c off at 55¾c.

Flaxseed Turns Strong.

Flaxseed prices recovered moderately, with some support from crushers reported and light offerings. The close was firm at the top for the session.

November flax closed 2c up at $2.33 bid; December, 2c up at $2.33 bid; January, 2c up at $2.36 bid, and May, 2c up at $2.47.

At Winnipeg, November flax closed 1½c up at $2.32½ and December 2½c off at $2.29½ asked.

Broomhall cabled: "It is reported that the British government bought a good quantity of Australian wheat. We still think that the Royal commission will buy very little American wheat in the near future. There was a fairly large business in wheat yesterday for export. CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—There was a general rush to buy wheat at the start today by commission houses which disclosed a badly oversold condition and prices advanced sharply with December in the lead. After starting ¼c to 6c above yesterday's finish, with December $1.79¾ to $180, and March $1.70¼ to $1.70½, the market underwent a slight reaction.

The undertone in wheat was strong and the spread between December and March widened out to around 10c, the widest in more than two weeks. At the finish, prices were up ¾c to 4c with December $1.79¾ to $1.80 and March $1.69¼ to $1.69½.

Trade in corn was light and of a local character. Short covering in sympathy with the upturn in wheat sent the market up but the best prices were not maintained due to increased pressure. After starting unchanged to 1c higher, with December 74⅞c to 75½c and May 79⅞c to 80¼c, prices suffered a setback.

Corn was under pressure, and a rally toward the close brought prices up near where they finished. The close was unchanged to 1c net higher with December 74½c to 74⅝c and May 78¾c to 79¼c.

Oats were in sympathy with other grains and opened ¼c to ½c higher with December 48⅜c to 48½c and May 53⅜c to 53½c.

Provisions were firm with grains and hogs.

WOOL MARKET.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 13.—The Commercial Bulletin says: "There has been a slight increase in the demand for wool in the American markets this week, but generally at the expense of values. "The goods market is still unsettled, although it is hoped that with the termination of the wholesale clotheries' agreement on prices for suits on Nov. 15 and overcoats Dec. 1, that prices will be substantially reduced by wholesalers and retailers alike, to the end that improved demand may be induced from the ultimate consumer."

SHARP DECLINE IN CHINO COPPER

Apart from a break of $1.50 to $21.75 in Chino, a new low price level for the stock in sometime, a better tone was shown in the market in mining stocks at New York today.

Anaconda sold around the close fractionally off at $45.87, Butte & Superior 87 cents up at $11.12, Great Northern Ore 50 cents off at $30.50, Inspiration unchanged at $38.75, and Utah 37 cents off at $54.

Commenting upon the current situation in the mining stocks market, Skilling's Mining Review of today says:

"The copper shares, despite the low price of the metal and the general depression, are in a good technical position. The companies may now be drawing on their surplus cash, but that is what they accumulated it for, to use in just such emergencies as exist today. There is no copper issue quoted on the New York Stock exchange today that cannot be purchased with substantial profit for the investor who is willing to wait a reasonable period. A prominent Duluth banker looks for improved conditions in business and in the stock market around the first of the year, or at least early in the year 1921. It may be expected that the stock market will discount the assured approach of normal good times, and the market will be up by the time the turn in business and industry is recognized by everybody."

Logan & Bryan wired from New York: "The stock market situation was the subject of considerable conjecture after the close yesterday. It is reported that several impaired accounts had been forced to liquidate. Commission houses insisted that a large part of the selling came from interior sections for the purpose of providing funds with which to strengthen their banking position. Out-of-town institutions are said to be steadily drawing funds from this center. There was a small element that continued to hold to the long side, who insisted that the heavy liquidation, together with the large amount of short selling, had improved the technical position of the market to an appreciable extent. It is suggested in some quarters that some of the powerful groups might join hands without giving notice to the speculative element and buy stocks in large volume just when another decline seems to be imminent."

General Electric declared the regular quarterly dividends of $2 per share and a semi-annual stock dividend of 2 per cent both payable Jan. 15 to stock of record Dec. 8.

Consolidated Electric directors voted to offer new stock to share holders at par in ratio of one new share for each five outstanding on Dec. 8.

A New York wire said: "There are very many strong factors in the copper metal situation today, according to specialists in the metal. One copper authority points out that "Germany will need an enormous amount of copper during the next year, as that country has reached a period where it is doing a large amount of manufacturing and it needs enormous quantities for replacement. It will probably take at least 500,000,000 pounds of copper to supply the needs of Germany. The Swiss government is planning the development of its hydro-electric resources which are estimated at 15,000,000-horse power. This will involve about $300,000,000 for installation.

SEARCH MORE WELLS FOR MISSING WOMAN

Langdon, N. H., Nov. 13.—Solution of the disappearance four years ago of Mrs. Blanche Wright Whitney was sought again today by county authorities in abandoned wells and water holes on farms here from which her husband, William B. Whitney, county road agent and former selectman, departed without notice Oct. 30. Sheriff Barton said that while there had been no confirmation of the story of John Whitney, 15-year-old son of the missing man by a former marriage, that his stepmother was killed in a quarrel with Whitney and her body buried in a well, he felt the circumstances warranted exploration of the entire farm.

Having gone to the bottom of one well yesterday with the finding only of bones believed to be those of an animal, the authorities turned today to another old well packed with stones and debris.

The second wife of Whitney, whose body is being sought, was Miss Blanche Wright of West Jefferson, Ohio, before her marriage. She met Whitney in Montana, where they had adjoining tracts of government land under development, it was said.

Would Deport Larson.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 13.—Carl Larson, Salt Lake shoemaker, said to be former secretary of the Communist-Labor party in Utah, was arrested late yesterday by government officials, who announced that proceedings looking to his deportation as an undesirable will be started soon.

To Reduce Price of Bread.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—A general reduction of 1 cent a pound in the price of bread will be made in Minneapolis by wholesale bread makers, Monday, Nov. 15, it was announced today. Marked drops in the prices of wheat and flour are responsible for the change, the announcement said.

STOCKS DROP STILL LOWER

Losses Recorded of One to Five Points—Closing Weak.

New York, Nov. 13.—Liquidation of the general stock market, notably speculative issues, was resumed in heavy volume during today's brief session. The movement continued to center in oils, steels, equipments and such specialties as leather, tobaccos and sugars. Further depreciation of rails of the better class also resulted. Losses ranged from 1 to 5 points, these, in many instances, representing lowest levels for a year or more. The decline was checked for a while in the later dealings, but gained further momentum toward the end on pressure against Southern Pacific. The closing was weak. Sales approximated 650,000 shares.

The Badgers are equally determined to win. Thousands of returned alumni are here for homecoming. Both teams are in perfect condition without an injured man on the roster of the first squads. Capt. Weston and Tebell will be playing at the end positions for Wisconsin for the first time since the Ohio game when they were taken out with injuries.

Present indications point toward lower rates for money during the next few years, which means that holders of early maturing securities will be obliged to reinvest their funds at lesser yields than are now obtainable. ADAMS BUYS MORE LANDS

Additional Property Acquired by Discoverer of Cuyuna Range.

Brainerd, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hewitt Exploration company has sold to Cuyler Adams, discoverer of the Cuyuna iron range, considerable mineral lands in what is known as the Clearwater district of the south range. The land lies in parts of sections 3, 4, 9, 18 and 26 of township 45, range 28, and is believed to carry manganiferous ore. The consideration of the deed was $6,228.

The Maroco mine has made good time in uncovering ore. They started hydraulic operations on the north range Sept. 1 and, in spite of several delays reached ore in less than fifty days.

Some time this month the Joan Mining company plans on unwatering Joan No. 3. The Feigh mine is installing machinery in the power house. They are building an engine house and a dry house, and installing steam heat in all the buildings. The boilers are being moved into the new boiler house. In the meantime all mining operations at the Feigh are shut down.

Meacham Stops Shipping.

At the Meacham mine shipments have ceased and ore is being stockpiled. At the Kennedy mine in Cuyuna shipments from the stockpile have been resumed to clean up the small tonnage left from the work done on the stockpile during the summer.

At the Croft mine shipments are just about concluded. The greatest tonnage ever shipped from the Croft mine went forward this year.

The Portsmouth mine has been making its first shipments this year. The mine is still in operation, and stripping is in progress to extend the limits of the pit. This mine ships manganiferous ore.

Adjoining it on the west is the Wearne pit, state lease, operated by the Island Steel company. Only manganiferous ore is mined, but this year the mine has been idle. The Armour No. 1, also operated by the Inland Steel company, has shut down for the winter in the pit portion of the mine. From now on the mine will be operated wholly by underground methods and the pit will be abandoned.

Rowe Mine Active.

At the Rowe mine in Riverton, operated for the Pittsburg Steel Ore company, a small tonnage remains unmined and the operator is endeavoring to get out the ore within a few years' time. Shipments this year will be about 125,000 tons. Adjoining this mine on the south is the Sagamore pit operated by John A. Savage & Co. Stripping is now in progress to increase the pit area. Shipments this year from this mine totaled 163,000 tons. Plans are now being prepared to provide for drying, washing and sintering the ore. Sintering is a process whereby the very fine particles of ore are treated by heat and made lumpy.

The only railroad construction work in the district is being conducted by the Northern Pacific railway company, just south of Trommald. The branch line between Ironton and Trommald crosses the ore body of the Maraco mine and it is necessary to shift the track eastward 400 feet for a length of about a quarter of a mile. This change will not affect the present trackage in the village of Trommald.

The only underground mine operating on manganiferous ore is the Merritt mine, and the latest information is to the effect that it will close shortly. Presumably this is only for the winter and thereby avoid handling ore twice by first placing it in the stockpile and loading it afterward into cars. About 25,000 tons were shipped this year by the Merritt mine.

MINERS' WAGES NOT TO BE CUT

President of Anaconda Copper Company Denies Rumors at Butte.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—President C. F. Kelley has set at rest the story which has been put in circulation by radical papers and agitators to the effect that the Anaconda and other mining companies had entered into an agreement to make a cut in miners' wages. Mr. Kelley says that no such action is contemplated. While Mr. Kelley has made no definite pronouncement on the subject of a close down of more mines, the prevailing opinion is that the properties now operating will continue. The Anaconda company has twelve properties in operation and in addition there are the North Butte, the East Butte, Davis Daly, the Tuolumne and a few other smaller concerns. In some of the properties there is only development work proceeding, while in all there is a curtailment of production of at least 50 per cent. Notwithstanding the condition of the zinc market the Anaconda company continues to get out all the ore it can and it is treated at the electrolytic plant at Great Falls which is working to capacity.

There are no two opinions among the mining men as to the fact that all properties are operating at about an even break. The Anaconda company, owing to the richness of its silver ore, is believed to make a fair profit on its general operations. Some mining men claim that with copper at 15 cents a pound there is not a property in the district making any profit on its copper output. The Steward mine of the Anaconda company is in an unusually rich body of ore at depth and large quantities of this ore are being hoisted. The big Washoe smelter at Anaconda is working at a little over 40 per cent capacity.

To Produce Aluminum.

There is now no doubt the Anaconda Copper Mining company is going into the production of aluminum on a large scale. The company has secured some 800 acres of ground from farmers in a locality known as Mica, a few miles southeast of Spokane. All this ground was secured after many months of investigation by prominent mining engineers among the clay deposits. In order to further the new enterprise the company is going to establish a branch of its mining and metallurgical department at Spokane or some point near Mica. According to information obtainable the Anaconda company will start operations early in the coming spring on its newly acquired ground.

Phosphate Fertilizer.

The Anaconda company will have a large supply of fertilizer made from phosphate on hand by next spring, according to present calculations. The phosphate is to be secured from Soda Springs, Idaho, and will be shipped to Anaconda for treatment at the smelter there. In order to facilitate the shipment of phosphate the company has entered into an arrangement with the Union Pacific Railway company to construct a short line of railway from its line to the phosphate beds. A large force of men is now engaged in building this road of about four miles. Just as soon as the road is completed the shipment of phosphate will commence. It is intended to establish selling agencies at all the principal agricultural centers of the country and to supply the farmers with a grade of fertilizer much above the quality now in use at a cost very slightly above the present prevailing price, but so much better that the question of the slight increase in price will be of no consequence.

Old Alta to be Revived.

The old Alta mine in the Corbin district which has been taken over by a company of Eastern capitalists represented by Frank V. Whitney of New York and Royal W. Irvin of Chicago, has not been in active operation for about twenty-five years. In the old days it was a producer of silver in immense quantity and of great value. Offices have already been opened at Corbin and preparations are going ahead for the development of the property on an extensive scale. Machinery entirely modern in character has been ordered and in the meantime men have been put to work making repairs on the surface as well as in the shaft.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior company has decided to discontinue the production of concentrates owing to the condition of the metal market and the low price of zinc until such time as better prices prevail for the zinc. However, the company has not decided to entirely close down operations, but will, according to the announcement of Manager Charles Bocking, proceed with an active campaign of development work in the Black Rock mine, employing as many men as possible. The closing down of the Black Rock for ore hoisting has thrown out of work several hundred men.

WILL CHRISTEN VILLA SCHOLASTICA NEW BELL

Christening ceremonies for a huge 2,000-pound bell to be hung in the new tower at the Villa Sancta Scholastica will be held tomorrow afternoon at the villa. Rt. Rev. John T. McNicholas, bishop of the Duluth Catholic diocese, will conduct the ceremonies.

The bell was recently purchased at a cost of about $1,000 of which more than half was donated by friends of the institution. The bell was taken into the big hall of the building today for the christening ceremonies and will be hung in the tower Monday.

The ceremonies are expected to attract a large number of the Duluth clergy and friends of the school. The bell is named after St. Benedict and St. Scholistica, twin brother and sister, a monk and nun, after whom orders of that name have been named.

MEADOWLANDS HAS HEAVY FIRE LOSS

Meadowlands, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The worst fire in the history of Meadowlands occurred Thursday morning starting in the apartments above T. M. Froelich's general store, about 10:30 o'clock, and before it was checked it had destroyed the store building, the blacksmith shop and garage of Neil McRae and the hotel run by Mr. and Mrs. Lengstorf, causing a total loss of about $25,000 with only partial insurance. A strong south wind hampered fighting the fire, carrying flames to buildings adjoining the store and within two hours all the buildings were in ashes. The store building belonged to H. C. Hanson of Hibbing and the hotel to Mrs. Ford of Duluth. It is understood the store building was worth about $5,000, and that the contents were insured for about $6,000. Much of the store contents were saved. The store was the pioneer building of Meadowlands and contained the first postoffice. Much of the hotel furnishings were saved.

NOT TO BUILD NEW CLOQUET PAPER MILL

Cloquet, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. J. McNair of the Northwest Paper company stated today that the story in Friday's Herald to the effect that his company would build a new paper mill on the site of the old water-power sawmill was based on rumors and without foundation.

The work of dismantling the water-power mill will, however, go on as stated in the story.

There is a current rumor that instead of building a new paper mill as rumored, the Northwest Paper company will add to its present plant, but Mr. McNair makes no definite statement to that effect.

FROST CHECKS ORE SHIPPING

Outgo Expected to Continue to Dec. 1, Though; Fleet Held Up.

Ore is moving slowly from the various docks at the Head of the Lakes, Two Harbors, Superior and Ashland as a result of the cold weather which has frozen the ore, making it necessary to use steam and hot water to thaw it out before it can be unloaded from the railroad cars to the boats. Locally the steam and hot water are supplied from locomotives and from a hot water thawing plant which the Missabe people have installed at Proctor.

Heavy northwest and westerly winds which have been prevailing the last several days have tied up a large fleet of ore carriers all along the lower lake route. It is expected that the first of these will begin to arrive tonight and will continue to come in such numbers for several days as to cause a congestion at this end of the route.

A prominent vesselman said this morning that he expected the ore shipping season from this port will continue until Dec. 1 or even later, depending wholly upon weather conditions.

When the agent stepped in Bennington dropped one bottle smashing it on the cement floor, but, out came the agent's big gat and no more bottles were dropped. Search revealed one more bottle downstairs and another was found upstairs in the living apartments. About noon an agent called on Milt Robertson of this village and after search he discovered a case of Canadian whisky and six of American whisky in his living rooms.

PRINCE OF WALES IN ROLE OF POET

London, Oct. 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The latest role in which the Prince of Wales has appeared is that of a poet. The following verses were written and recited by the prince on the occasion of the ceremony on the warship Renown, attending his first crossing of "the line," on his trip to Australia:

Apostrophe to Neptune.

(By H. R. H., the prince of Wales.)

King Neptune, I am proud to wear
This honorable and handsome collar
Although from all reports, I hear
There's still a great deal more to foller.

I'm glad to meet your charming wife
And all the members of your court.
From all I've seen I'll bet my life
That Amphitrite's quite a sport.

I hear you're handing out some dope
To each expectant frightened lad
Made up of pills and shaving soap.
Why! Is not that just quite too bad?

I hear your bears—Say! What a noise.
They're hungry to begin the baiting.
I know I'm "for it" king! So boys
Don't let me keep the party waiting.

In Memoriam

ROHR—In sacred memory of my beloved husband, George Rohr, who passed into eternal rest 1 year ago today, Nov. 12, 1919.

The crown of life he weareth,
He bears the shining palm,
The "holy, holy" shareth,
And joins the angel's psalm;
But I still must wander,
Through this land of woe,
Till I shall meet him yonder,
And all his joys shall know.
MRS. ELIZABETH ROHR.

THAT'S MY FARM—

It seems to be everyone's ambition, and a good one, to some day own a farm. Abraham Lincoln said: "No other occupation opens so wide a field for the profitable and agreeable combination of labor and cultivated thought as agriculture."

Farm life is healthy, carefree and independent. Realize your independence—consult the "Farms for Sale" Ads now—and you will have taken a long step toward the realization of that longing.

FARM LANDS

It Will Pay You to Get Our List

CHEAP LANDS

We have some especially fine tracts of low priced lands. These lands are scattered, but are choice listings that we have picked up during the summer. Much of this land is well timbered, other tracts from 40 acres up are very suitable for farming purposes. If you wait to buy for speculation and with a view to farming it at the same time you had better consult us before you buy.

IMPROVED FARMS

Our improved farm list contains some of the best money-making farms in Minnesota. Several of these farms are the equal of any in the state. We have a selected list that we can recommend as big bargains—in some cases the selling price is hardly equal to the value of buildings alone. If you want a money-making farm, one that pays a big yearly income, select one of our under-priced improved farms. Tell us what you want and we will submit a few bargains.

TIMBER LANDS

We have sorted out some especially fine timbered tracts that will pay well to log this winter. The better tracts will go quick, so we would urge those planning on timbered lands to act now.

THE GLAD HAND OF WELCOME

Will be extended to you by your old friends and neighbors now living at Rio Linda on our ten and twenty-acre poultry and fruit farms in the suburbs of beautiful Sacramento, California. You have planned for months and years that some time you would go to California to live and get away from the long, cold winters. Here is your opportunity. Our new book, "Poultry and Orchards," tells you all about these little farms and what our people are doing and about their daily cash income from their large flocks of white Leghorn hens. We will mail you this book on request if you will write and tell us when you plan to make the trip to California.

TONE OF THE WHOLESALE MARKETS IS HEALTHIER

Eager Buying Is Expected When Retail Prices Are Reduced.

Lower Interest Rates Not Far Off, Best Authorities Agree.

Foreign Trade Is Hampered By Unstable Medium of Exchange.

By THEODORE H. PRICE.

(Copyright, Theodore H. Price Publishing Corp.)

Washington, Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the week the prices of many commodities and not a few securities have declined to levels that seem to have brought them well within the bargain zone and the buying since, for the first time this year, has been based upon the theory that the prices of some things were now below intrinsic values. Wheat, cotton and sugar have all sold at the lowest prices touched since the armistice, but the depreciation has been philosophically accepted as inevitable and salutary, and the tone of the wholesale markets at the end of the week is rather healthier.

In cotton goods drastic cuts have been announced and present quotations for standard fabrics average fully 50 per cent under the highest figures paid during the post war period.

On the stock exchange many industrial stocks declined violently, the demoralization being largely due to rumors that one or more important commercial concerns were in trouble and would be liquidated by their bankers, which is the modern substitute for an assignment or a formal confession of bankruptcy. Thus far, however, nothing sensational has developed, though it is reported and believed that one of the leading department stores will shortly announce a slashing cut in prices and that many others will soon have to do likewise.

Of General Benefit

If this policy is widely adopted the public and the business community generally will benefit, for the chief obstacle to the free distribution of goods has been the unwillingness of the retailer to sell upon the parity of the present wholesale prices. The consumer has been reading the newspapers. He or rather she, for the women do most of the buying, knows that the primary markets are lower and has procrastinated in her shopping until there was some evidence that the widely advertised reduction in the cost of living applied to the articles that she required.

A large potential demand has been thus created, and there is every indication that the vacuum will be filled by eager buying when retail prices approximate those hitherto regarded as normal. All Americans are not thriftless and extravagant fools. There are many who have worn old clothes and refrained from buying new house linen and other necessaries for the last three or four years. They are able to buy and will buy largely just as soon as reasonable prices reward their patience and self restraint, and while the luxury trades may suffer by deflation there is every reason to expect that those who deal in staple and necessary commodities at reasonable profits will soon be as busy as ever.

MINISTERS ARE NEEDED

Low Salaries Have Reduced Their Number to Inefficient Minimum.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—Low salaries for ministers of the gospel have reduced their number to an inefficient minimum, according to a report submitted today to the council of the boards of benevolence of the Methodist Episcopal church. The report came from Dr. Joseph B. Hingeley, chairman of the board of conference claimants, the organization which has had charge of raising the pension funds of the church.

Inadequate salaries and the resultant hardships have caused among ministers physical disability and mental poverty, forced clergymen to take up "side lines" in order to make a livelihood or else driven competent men from the profession and have kept from the work "the best equipped and most intelligent youth," according to the report. Discussing the dearth of ministers the report said:

Dearth of Ministers.

"In one denomination 3,388 congregations did not have regular pastoral care. In another there were 994 fewer ministers than in 1914. A denomination having 963 congregations had only 627 settled pastors and another reports an average net gain of 25,680 members but of only thirty-four ministers."

The report gave a comparative list of average salaries paid by various denominations but said the figures were misleading because the "larger salaries make the average a maximum amount for most of them." According to these figures the Protestant Episcopal church pays an average of $1,242, the Presbyterian (North), $1,177; the United Presbyterian, $1,096; the Dutch Reformed church, $1,170; the Methodist Episcopal (North), $1,176; the Congregational, $1,042, and the Baptist (Northern), $950.

"The best young men are not deterred from coming into the ministry from fear of sacrifice during their active years," said the report, "but they are unwilling to face poverty at the end of their career."

The report said that the Federal in-

WOULD GET TO BROWNSVILLE

President-Elect Harding's Vacation Broken Up By Heavy Storm.

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—His vacation broken up and roadways to the outside word temporarily blocked by one of the worst storms in the history of this section, President-elect Harding planned to make another attempt today to get into Brownsville to spend in comfort the remaining two days of his visit to Texas.

He already had said goodby to the frail seaside cottage that has housed him through three days of wind and cold, but his effort to get away came to grief when his special train, narrow gauge and gasoline propelled, broke down just outside of Point Isabel. After a dismal four hours on the wind-swept prairie he returned here last night, but his train was held for another try about noon today. This offered his only avenue of departure, for the wagon roads were impassable.

In Brownsville Mr. Harding is to meet Senator Fall of New Mexico.

During the morning Senator Harding did some more work on the speech he is to deliver Thursday at New Orleans just before he sails for Panama.

Day of Adventures.

The adventures of the president-elect in his unsuccessful efforts yesterday to get away from Point Isabel had many humorous and melodramatic touches. But both Mr. Harding and his guests bore their misfortunes good naturedly and came back smiling.

It was early in the day that Senator Harding decided he no longer could hope to be comfortable in his little frame cottage overlooking Laguna Madra, apparently a special target during the past three days of the cold, wet gulf coast norther that overturned his ambitions for tarpon fishing and golf. He asked about the automobile facilities for the trip to Brownsville, but abandoned that avenue of departure when he learned by telephone that some members of his party who started to motor in last night had arrived after daylight and had walked almost all the way. So he appealed to the narrow gauge.

One Trip a Day.

It was an epochal, but hectic day in the history of the Rio Grande railway. Hauling presidents-elect is not its specialty, for ordinarily its train makes but one trip to Point Isabel and back, bringing out mail and provisions during the morning and taking in a load of fish late in the day. It usually moves leisurely, two or three hours being given over by the Mexican train crew to a safe and sane journey over the twenty miles.

But yesterday it taxed its facilities to accommodate the entire party of thirty-five. Railway officials decided to sup-

HUSBAND OF MISSING WOMAN ARRESTED

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—William B. Whitney, for the body of whose second wife authorities have been searching on his farm at Langdon, N. H., was brought here today from Richmond, Me., where he was arrested last night on a charge of forging a check. He was to be taken to Langdon today. Whitney disappeared from Langdon, Oct. 30, went to Richmond and bought a farm.

On last Tuesday under the name of William B. Clark he married Mrs. Agnes Clark, a widow of Charlestown, N. H. His wife and her 13-year-old son, Gordon Clark, were with him when he was brought here today.

Whitney had lived eight years at Langdon. After he left the town, John Whitney, his 15-year-old son by his first marriage, is alleged to have said he saw his father strike down his stepmother four years ago and bury her body in a well.

Excavation of the well was begun last Friday and the search since has been extended to other parts of the farm. Whitney declares that at the time of her disappearance four years ago his second wife had started for the West to visit relatives.

SEBASTOPOL OCCUPIED BY BOLSHEVIK TROOPS

Whole of Crimean Peninsula Said to Be in Hands of Soviet.

Wrangel's Army Reported to Have Been Practically Wiped Out.

Anti-Bolshevik Commander Takes Refuge on French Warship in Harbor.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Sebastopol has fallen, the Russian Bolsheviki having occupied the city last night, according to unofficial information received by the French foreign office.

The Bolsheviki are reported to be masters of the whole Crimean peninsula.

Gen. Wrangel, members of his staff, and M. Martel, French high commissioner at Sebastopol, were taken on board the French warship Waldeck Rosseau and are expected to arrive in Constantinople late tonight or tomorrow.

The foreign office's information regarding Sebastopol came through the usual unofficial diplomatic channels. Official confirmation of the news is not expected by the foreign office until M. Martel reaches Constantinople. It was conceded, however, that the whole of the Crimea must be given up as lost by the Wrangel forces.

Ships Loaded to Capacity.

The Waldeck-Rousseau and the other French and the American and British ships at Sebastopol did not leave that port until the Bolsheviki were within the walls of the city. These ships, according to the foreign office advices, were loaded to capacity with refugees and the remnants of Gen. Wrangel's troops. Probably 100,000 refugees were left behind.

The fate of these refugees is causing anxiety, as the American relief organizations have left the Crimea. The majority of the refugees have been dependent upon the American relief workers for their sustenance. The hope was expressed that means might be devised by which that organization would continue its work.

Hope for Reorganization.

French officials were loath to concede that Gen. Wrangel would cease to be a factor in the Russian situation, and they voiced the hope that he might reorganize the remnants of his army in Constantinople. Because of the Crimean developments and the junction effected recently by the Turkish Nationalists and Bolsheviki, and the occupation of Batum, the position of the soviet regime in the Black sea territory was pointed to as stronger than it ever had been.

The reports indicated that only a few members of Gen. Wrangel's staff had managed to escape. The staff as a whole, it was said, had been virtually wiped out, its members either being killed or taken prisoner.

Propaganda behind Gen. Wrangel's lines had much to do with the collapse of the front, according to information

URGES FARMERS TO HOLD THEIR WHEAT

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 15.—If every farmer in the wheat belt would hold his wheat for twenty days the price would go to nearly $3 a bushel and would remain high, Abe Slaughter, national organizer for the Wheat Growers' association of America, said here today. Mr. Slaughter is here at the head of a delegation of seven Oklahoma farmers to organize the wheat growers of North Dakota.

After a conference this afternoon these men will visit the various county seats throughout the state to form organizations for co-operative action on the part of all farmers in North Dakota.

Bankers in states already organized by the wheat growers are giving the farmers full co-operation in the plan to hold the wheat, the representatives of the association say.

DEATH RATE IN U. S. SHOWS BIG DECREASE

Washington, Nov. 15.—The 1919 death rate in the death registration area of continental United States, embracing 81 per cent of the total population, was shown in statistics made public today by the census bureau, to be the lowest recorded for any one year. The rate of 12.9 per 1,000 of population, shows a drop of 5.1 per 1,000 from the unusually high rate of 1918 resulting from the epidemic of influenza.

The total number of deaths in 1919 was 1,096,436, of which 111,579, or 10.2 per cent, were caused by heart disease, while tuberculosis resulted in 106,985 or 9.8 per cent, the statistics showed. Deaths attributed to pneumonia totaled 105,218; influenza, 84,113; nephritis and Bright's disease, 75,005, and cancer and other malignant tumors, 68,551.

Three states—Delaware, Florida and Mississippi—were added to the registration area in 1919, making a total of thirty-three states, the district of Columbia and eighteen registration cities in nonregistration states in the area.

BREAD PRICES DROP IN THE TWIN CITIES

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—Retail bread prices in St. Paul dropped 1 cent on pound loaves and 2 cents on pound and a half loaves today, following similar reduction by wholesalers.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—Wholesale and retail bread prices dropped 1 cent on pound and 2 cents on one-and-one-half-pound loaves here today.

N. P. Mail Car Burns.

Billings, Mont., Nov. 15.—A through mail car attached to Northern Pacific train No. 3, Minneapolis to Seattle, was destroyed by fire late Saturday, near Pompeyas Pilar, east of here. All first class mail was salvaged, railroad officials say, but a few parcel post shipments and a large quantity of newspapers were burned.

TAX REVENUE MAY BE CUT BY LESS PROFITS

Federal Officials Turn Attention to the Business Conditions.

Situation May Soon Have Repealed the Excess Profits Tax.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Business conditions throughout the United States are more a subject of discussion among government officials nowadays than questions of foreign policy or national politics. The passing of the election has brought back to some extent the nonpartisan viewpoint which prevailed during the war. Men are not so likely to express opinions that reflect on the opposite political party. There is the beginning here of a real appreciation of the big problems ahead.

For instance, much talk has been heard about repealing the excess profits tax. Congress will probably do something about it in due time, but the interesting question is being asked whether the drop in prices as well as profits will not actually reduce the revenues that have heretofore been expected from the excess profits taxes. Some observers have gone so far as to suggest that for all practical purposes the business situation will before long have repealed the excess profits tax.

Readjustment Without Panic.

On the other hand, the Federal reserve board which stepped in last spring and began restricting credit is getting to be as much a topic of controversy as the League of Nations. Defenders of the Federal reserve board insist, for example, that the country is witnessing a readjustment without a money panic and that the board has been fully justified in its action by current developments in the economic field.

There has been much talk about the export market in its relation to the political situation abroad, and while it is quite usual to hear it said that the bottom has dropped out of the export market, nevertheless the last reports issued by the department of commerce indicate a gain in both exports and imports. The exact analysis of the export trade in commodities has not been made, and there seems to be no doubt that some lines of business have suffered from the inability of foreign countries to raise the necessary credit to finance American exports.

On the whole, the information available in the national capital on business conditions throughout the country reveals a continued disinclination on the part of the consumer to buy. Stocks have therefore piled up in many businesses. Manufacturers who have had orders cancelled are, however, using the opportunity to cut down labor overhead and to weed out inefficient help.

Change With New Year.

It seems to be generally expected that the first of January will witness a marked change. With stocks running

TO INDORSE NOLAN FOR SPEAKER AGAIN

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—Members-elect of the new Minnesota house will confer in St. Paul Friday on matters of organization, and may take initial steps toward working out the problem of legislation to aid co-operative selling organizations.

The conference has been called by J. B. Pattison of St. Cloud and ten other old members of the house. It will be attended by nearly all the members-elect outside of the Nonpartisan league minority of thirty, it is expected. Speaker W. I. Nolan, who has pledges of support already from about eighty of the 131 house members, will be indorsed formally for re-election.

Preceding the general caucus on Friday, there will be caucuses in St. Paul Thursday of the Second and Third district delegations.

The Ramsey county delegation met at the St. Francis hotel Saturday night, principally for the purpose of indorsing W. I. Nolan for speaker, and Oscar Arneson for chief clerk. Out of the twelve members of the delegation Nolan and Arneson received nine votes.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 DEFEATED AT POLLS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—Mail reports from the various county seats in Minnesota confirm earlier wired reports on the Nov. 2 election to the effect that Amendments No. 1, No. 2 and No. 4 were adopted, and No. 3 was defeated. The amendments adopted are for good roads, extending the probate judge term to four years and amending of an existing amendment to make possible local taxation of railroads. The defeated amendment would have provided the legislature with authority to fix income and occupational taxes.

SINGLE TAX PARTY SPENT $2,548.85

Washington, Nov. 15.—Expenditure of the single tax party in the presidential campaign totaled only $2,548.85, according to a report of the party's national committee filed today with the clerk of the house of representatives. Receipts were placed at $3,122.65 and there were no individual contributions of more than $500. The list included several donations from persons living abroad.

To Consider Intricate Problems of World Affairs at Once.

Geneva, Nov. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Opening of the first assembly of the League of Nations was announced at 11 o'clock this morning by the ringing of all the church bells in Geneva.

Just before that hour a procession of Swiss officials marched from the city hall to the hall of the reformation, where the delegates were assembling. The paraders marched through streets bedecked with the flags of virtually all nations except Germany, Austria and Turkey. Never before in history, it is believed, had the flags of so many nations flown together.

Only a few American flags were noted among the colors displayed. The Swiss national and cantonal ensigns predominated in the decorations.

Geneva, Nov. 15.—Determination to meet intricate problems in world affairs and to lay firmly the foundation stones of the League of Nations was evident in the demeanor of delegates of forty-one countries when they convened here today for the first session of the assembly of the league. Although differences of opinion have already arisen relative to the Danzig question, the makeup of the commission on mandates, the protection of racial and religious minorities in Balkan states and the admission of Germany to the league with some of her former allies, there was today an evident disposition on the part of delegates to meet every situation with fairness and to endeavor to reach decisions which would be acceptable.

Prominent in Politics.

Men who have been long prominent in the arena of world politics were present when Paul Hymans, temporary president and former Belgian foreign minister, appeared on the platform of the Hall of the Reformation and called the meeting to order. A. J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, was not able to be present but there are present a number of men whose names have become well known during the last few years. Among them were Tomasso Tittoni of Italy, Leon Bourgeois and Rene Viviani of France, Viscount Kikujiro Ishii and Baron Keishiro Matsui of Japan and Jose Quinones de Leon of Spain. South Africa was represented by Lord Robert Cecil, former British assistant secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Lord Robert was one of the leading proponents of the league during the Versailles peace conference, but was not selected by Premier Lloyd George as one of Great Britain's representa-

IRON RIVER, MICH., FIRE HEAD KILLED

Iron River, Mich., Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claude R. Brown, captain of the fire department, was so severly injured this morning, while fighting a fire in the Bee-Hive pool and billiard room, that he died shortly after being taken to the hospital. The building and contents were almost totally destroyed. The loss is fully covered by insurance. The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil stove in the pool room.

GIBBONS APPEALS FOR THE RED CROSS

Washington, Nov. 15.—The following signed statement of Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore and spokesman of the Roman Catholic church in America, was made public here Saturday night:

"In the development of its peace time program, so broad as to meet every form of suffering and distress which face the American people, the American Red Cross has written another chapter in its history, perhaps less dramatic than that of war-time, but none the less glorious in its spirit and its object. Its thorough influence and its splendid organization have been to the interest of the people of America who, by reason of circumstances, need just the help which only such an organization as the American Red Cross can bring.

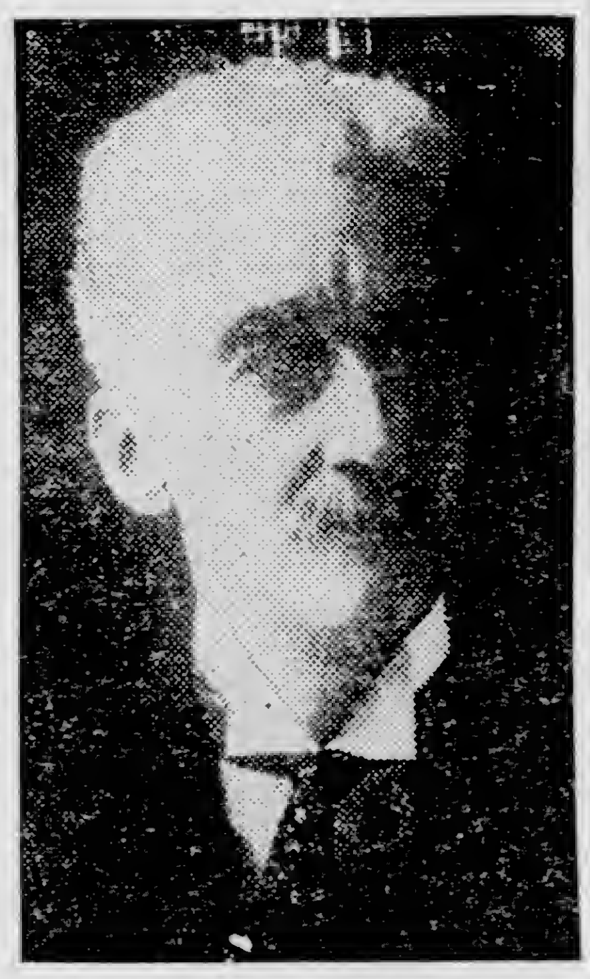
"Throughout the year the Red Cross has been devoting its attention to the welfare of the people at home as well as that of foreign people and is contemplating and daily putting into operation projects that can result only in the increased help and happiness of America. In every field of its effort its record bespeaks enthusiasm and desire to serve. That its work may be continued with the same success the American Red Cross needs the support and encouragement of every American. It is my earnest desire that all will lend their aid to this magnificant organization during its fourth roll call."

FREEZING WEATHER AS FAR SOUTH AS TEXAS

Washington, Nov. 15.—There was freezing temperature today as far south as Central Texas and zero weather in part of Wyoming and Eastern Montana, said reports to the weather bureau. A disturbance over the east Gulf of Mexico was expected to advance northeastward and be attended by rains and snows in the Middle Atlantic and New England states and local snows in the Upper Ohio valley and the lower lake region within the next thirty-six hours.

Falling temperatures in the Ohio valley and Tennessee tonight and Tuesday in the east gulf and Atlantic states was forecast.

ELECTED FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS



PAUL HYMANS.

Geneva, Nov. 15.—(Havas.)—Paul Hymans of Belgium was elected president of the League of Nations by the assembly of the league at its first session here today. He received 35 out of 41 votes. M. Hymans is a former foreign minister of Belgium and head of the Belgian delegation in the assembly of the league.

ACTRESSES MEET DEATH

Two Are Believed to Have Been Murdered in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Two young and pretty actresses lay dead today in the morgue while police searched for clews to their death early yesterday in Grant park within a few hundred feet of the skyscrapers lining Michigan boulevard. The girls died under circumstances that indicate murder.

A mysterious telephone call notified police yesterday that the bodies were lying on the lake front fifty feet from the Chicago Yacht club, at the foot of Jackson boulevard.

The call was traced to an insurance office on the fourteenth floor of an office building six blocks from the lake front. The elevator operator said he took a stranger to the fourteenth floor but the man apparently had walked downstairs. Both girls' hair was matted with burrs. There are no burrs of the kind in Grant park. The bodies were bruised and covered with blood.

Identifies Bodies.

James Meeks and Robert McCarthy, employes of a theatrical company playing here, identified the bodies as Miss Maree Alma Ramey, a stock show player and vaudeville actress, and Miss Lillian Thompson, said to be the daughter of John Thompson, chief engineer of the New York Hippodrome. Meeks and McCarthy and the girls had an apartment on the North side.

Last Seen Saturday Night.

The two women left the apartment at 9 o'clock Saturday night and visited an Italian grocery, where they purchased olive oil, chestnuts and wine. Police were unable to find anyone who saw them between 9 o'clock Saturday and 9 o'clock Sunday morning, when the bodies were found.

Miss Ramey, whose real name is said to be Mary Rhodes, was born in Altoona, Pa. She was married to Jim McCauley, an actor, five years ago. Miss Thompson married Joseph McAree, an electrician in Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 19, 1919.

OWNERS OF NEW YORK MOVIE HOUSE HELD FOR DEATHS OF CHILDREN

New York, Nov. 15.—A crusade for stricter enforcement of the city ordinance forbidding motion picture proprietors to sell tickets to minors unless accompanied by parents or guardians was started by the police today as a result of the panic on the Lower East side last night when six children were trampled to death in a mad rush following a false fire alarm.

The police department sent warnings to all movie houses that the ordinance would be strictly enforced and violations would be vigorously prosecuted.

Bernard Weinberg and Max Schwartz, proprietors of the Catherine theater, and Joseph Polivani, janitor, were arrested after the tragedy last night. They were charged with criminal negligence, and they were held without bail for arraignment this forenoon.

In Critical Condition.

Most of the twelve other youngsters, seriously injured, when older children, men and women bowled them over in their scramble toward the exits, were said to be in a critical condition early today.

The panic occurred when some of the patrons, noticing the curling shadows cast on the screen and catching the odor of smoke, yelled fire and dashed simultaneously for liberty. The smoke was caused by the janitor in starting a fire in the furnace. In the confusion that followed scores of little tots were hurled to the floor, furnishing a wailing, writhing carpet over which the others escaped. Rescuers said the children were so intertwined that four or five clung together when an attempt was made to pull one out.

NO LOSS OF LIFE FROM SHIPWRECK

Half of Those on Board Already Removed From the Vessel.

Steamer, Downbound With Ore, Strands on Pancake Shoals.

Reports Indicate That the Vessel Will Be Total Wreck.

That half of the crew of the stranded steamer Francis J. Widlar, wrecked on Pancake shoals, opposite Whitefish bay, has been taken off and the rest of them will be taken off today, was the substance of a telegram received here this morning by H. H. Dinham of the Duluth Shipping company, local agents of the vessel. The dispatch said that the sea is going down and the rescue work today will be much easier than was possible before. Half the crew was taken off late yesterday and no casualties are reported. The telegram to Mr. Dinham said that tugs are either on their way to the scene or are there now removing the rest of the crew from the stranded freighter.

All Will Be Rescued.

Sault Ste. Marie Mich., Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—From information gathered through wireless dispatches it is thought here that all the crew of the steamer Francis B. Widlar will be rescued. Capt. Forbes' wireless dispatch from the steamer William Livingstone last night asked for the life saving crew at Crisp Point to be rushed to the scene of the wreck on Pancake shoals. Lack of communication with the coast guard stations at that hour prevented word being sent.

Used as Dispatch Boat.

A dispatch this morning from Whitefish Point indicates, however, that the tug Iowa which was lying alongside the Livingstone last night evidently was used as a dispatch boat successfully. Crews from the life saving stations at Crisp Point and Vermilion Point were leaving at 9 a. m. for the wrecked vessel. Capt. Forbes of the Widlar was on board the tug C. E. Ainsworth, a fishing tug operating in Batchewanna bay to the south of Pancake shoals, which was at Whitefish coaling up from a barge prior to returning to Pancake. Pancake Shoals is about fifteen miles from the light saving station across the lake. The weather this morning at Whitefish was cloudy with a twenty-four mile wind. The Livingstone, contrary to last night's report, was upbound and evidently proceeded on her way.

To Rescue Rest of Crew.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 15.—The Great Lakes Towing company tug Iowa was fighting its way early today through the storm-tossed waters of Lake Superior toward Pancake shoals, bent upon rescuing a part of the crew of

FEW RETURNS ON ELECTION

Early Reports Indicate Success of Premier Venizelos.

Athens, Nov. 15.—Victory in the Greek elections held yesterday was claimed early this morning by Premier Venizelos. Actual returns, however, are as yet meager.

The issue of the campaign was the return of Former King Constantine to his throne, from which he was deposed during the World war. Following the death of King Alexander three weeks ago the throne was offered his younger brother, Prince Paul, who in answer said only in the event the people decided against Constantine would he consider accepting the Greek government's offer.

Premier Venizelos led the forces opposing the return of Constantine, and if he has succeeded in the elections, it is conceded he will have a deciding voice in the selection of the next sovereign of this country.

Few Minor Clashes.

The day was calm throughout Greece, no grave incidents occurring except a few minor clashes between supporters of Premier Venizelos and the opposition. They were promptly dispersed by streams from fire hose. All meetings had been forbidden since Friday, but newspapers carried on the fight up till yesterday.

Opposition journals presented a dispatch they alleged had been sent by King George of England to Queen Sophia, wife of Former King Constantine. This purported telegram read:

"Dearest cousin: I am glad you will soon return to Greece."

They also printed assertions that public opinion in the United States favored the return of King Constantine to the throne. Newspapers loyal to Premier Venizelos countered with an interview with Edward Capps, American minister here, denying these statements. He was quoted as saying Americans, as well as the Allies, did not favor Constantine.

TONE OF THE WHOLESALE MARKETS IS HEALTHIER

Eager Buying Is Expected When Retail Prices Are Reduced.

Lower Interest Rates Not Far Off, Best Authorities Agree.

Foreign Trade Is Hampered By Unstable Medium of Exchange.

By THEODORE H. PRICE.

Editor Commerce and Finance.
(Copyright, Theodore H. Price Publishing Corp.)

Washington, Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the week the prices of many commodities and not a few securities have declined to levels that seem to have brought them well within the bargain zone and the buying since, for the first time this year, has been based upon the theory that the prices of some things were now below intrinsic values. Wheat, cotton and sugar have all sold at the lowest prices touched since the armistice, but the depreciation has been philosophically accepted as inevitable and salutary and the tone of the wholesale markets at the end of the week is rather healthier.

In cotton goods drastic cuts have been announced and present quotations for standard fabrics average fully 50 per cent under the highest figures paid during the post war period.

On the stock exchange many industrial stocks declined violently, the demoralization being largely due to rumors that one or more important commercial concerns were in trouble and would be liquidated by their bankers, which is the modern substitute for an assignment or a formal confession of bankruptcy. Thus far, however, nothing sensational has developed, though it is reported and believed that one of the leading department stores will shortly announce a slashing cut in prices and that many others will soon have to do likewise.

Of General Benefit.

If this policy is widely adopted the public and the business community generally will benefit, for the chief obstacle to the free distribution of goods has been the unwillingness of the retailer to sell upon the parity of the present wholesale prices. The consumer has been reading the newspapers. He or rather she, for the women do most of the buying, knows that the primary markets are lower and has procrastinated in her shopping until there was some evidence that the widely advertised reduction in the cost of living applied to the articles that she required.

A large potential demand has been thus created, and there is every indication that the vacuum will be filled by eager buying when retail prices approximate those hitherto regarded as normal. All Americans are not thriftless and extravagant fools. There are many who have worn old clothes and refrained from buying new house linen and other necessaries for the last three or four years. They are able to buy and will buy largely just as soon as reasonable prices reward their patience and self restraint, and while the luxury trades may suffer by deflation there is every reason to expect that those who deal in staple and necessary commodities at reasonable profits will soon be as busy as ever.

MINISTERS ARE NEEDED

Low Salaries Have Reduced Their Number to Inefficient Minimum.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—Low salaries for ministers of the gospel have reduced their number to an inefficient minimum, according to a report submitted today to the council of the boards of benevolence of the Methodist Episcopal church. The report came from Dr. Joseph B. Hingeley, chairman of the board of conference claimants, the organization which has had charge of raising the pension funds of the church.

Inadequate salaries and the resultant hardships have caused among ministers physical disability and mental poverty, forced clergymen to take up "side lines" in order to make a livelihood or else driven competent men from the profession and have kept from the work "the best equipped and most intelligent youth," according to the report. Discussing the dearth of ministers the report said:

Dearth of Ministers.

"In one denomination 3,388 congregations did not have regular pastoral care. In another there were 994 fewer ministers than in 1914. A denomination having 963 congregations had only 627 settled pastors and another reports an average net gain of 25,680 members but of only thirty-four ministers."

The report gave a comparative list of average salaries paid by various denominations but said the figures were misleading because the "larger salaries make the average a maximum amount for most of them." According to these figures the Protestant Episcopal church pays an average of $1,242, the Presbyterian (North), $1,177; the United Presbyterian, $1,096; the Dutch Reformed church, $1,170, the Methodist Episcopal (North), $1,176; the Congregational, $1,042, and the Baptist (Northern), $950.

"The best young men are not deterred from coming into the ministry from fear of sacrifice during their active years," said the report, "but they are unwilling to face poverty at the end of their career."

The report said that the Federal in-

WOULD GET TO BROWNSVILLE

President-Elect Harding's Vacation Broken Up By Heavy Storm.

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—His vacation broken up and roadways to the outside word temporarily blocked by one of the worst storms in the history of this section, President-elect Harding planned to make another attempt today to get into Brownsville to spend in comfort the remaining two days of his visit to Texas.

He already had said goodby to the frail seaside cottage that has housed him through three days of wind and cold, but his effort to get away came to grief when his special train, narrow gauge and gasoline propelled, broke down just outside of Point Isabel. After a dismal four hours on the wind-swept prairie he returned here last night, but his train was held for another try about noon today. This offered his only avenue of departure, for the wagon roads were impassable.

In Brownsville Mr. Harding is to meet Senator Fall of New Mexico.

During the morning Senator Harding did some more work on the speech he is to deliver Thursday at New Orleans just before he sails for Panama.

Day of Adventures.

The adventures of the president-elect in his unsuccessful efforts yesterday to get away from Point Isabel had many humorous and melodramatic touches. But both Mr. Harding and his guests bore their misfortunes good naturedly and came back smiling.

It was early in the day that Senator Harding decided he no longer could hope to be comfortable in his little frame cottage overlooking Laguna Madra, apparently a special target during the past three days of the cold, wet gulf coast norther that overturned his ambitions for tarpon fishing and golf. He asked about the automobile facilities for the trip to Brownsville, but abandoned that avenue of departure when he learned by telephone that some members of his party who started to motor in last night had arrived after daylight and had walked almost all the way. So he appealed to the narrow gauge.

One Trip a Day.

It was an epochal, but hectic day in the history of the Rio Grande railway. Hauling presidents-elect is not its specialty, for ordinarily its train makes but one trip to Point Isabel and back, bringing out mail and provisions during the morning and taking in a load of fish late in the day. It usually moves leisurely, two or three hours being given over by the Mexican train crew to a safe and sane journey over the twenty miles.

But yesterday it taxed its facilities to accommodate the entire party of thirty-five. Railway officials decided to sup-

HUSBAND OF MISSING WOMAN ARRESTED

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—William B. Whitney, for the body of whose second wife authorities have been searching on his farm at Langdon, N. H., was brought here today from Richmond, Me., where he was arrested last night on a charge of forging a check. He was to be taken to Langdon today. Whitney "disappeared from Langdon, Oct. 30, went to Richmond and bought a farm.

On last Tuesday under the name of William B. Clark he married Mrs. Agnes Clark, a widow of Charlestown, N. H. His wife and her 13-year-old son, Gordon Clark, were with him when he was brought here today.

Whitney had lived eight years at Langdon. After he left the town, John Whitney, his 15-year-old son by his first marriage, is alleged to have said he saw his father strike down his stepmother four years ago and bury her body in a well.

Excavation of the well was begun last Friday and the search since has been extended to other parts of the farm. Whitney declares that at the time of her disappearance four years ago his second wife had started for the West to visit relatives.

SEBASTOPOL OCCUPIED BY BOLSHEVIK TROOPS

Whole of Crimean Peninsula Said to Be in Hands of Soviet.

Wrangel's Army Reported to Have Been Practically Wiped Out.

Anti-Bolshevik Commander Takes Refuge on French Warship in Harbor.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Sebastopol has fallen, the Russian Bolsheviki having occupied the city last night, according to unofficial information received by the French foreign office.

The Bolsheviki are reported to be masters of the whole Crimean peninsula.

Gen. Wrangel, members of his staff, and M. Martel, French high commissioner at Sebastopol, were taken on board the French warship Waldeck Rosseau and are expected to arrive in Constantinople late tonight or tomorrow.

The foreign office's information regarding Sebastopol came through the usual unofficial diplomatic channels. Official confirmation of the news is not expected by the foreign office until M. Martel reaches Constantinople. It was conceded, however, that the whole of the Crimea must be given up as lost by the Wrangel forces.

Ships Loaded to Capacity.

The Waldeck-Rousseau and the other French and the American and British ships at Sebastopol did not leave that port until the Bolsheviki were within the walls of the city. These ships, according to the foreign office advices, were loaded to capacity with refugees and the remnants of Gen. Wrangel's troops. Probably 100,000 refugees were left behind.

The fate of these refugees is causing anxiety, as the American relief organizations have left the Crimea. The majority of the refugees have been dependent upon the American relief workers for their sustenance. The hope was expressed that means might be devised by which that organization would continue its work.

Hope for Reorganization.

French officials were loath to concede that Gen. Wrangel would cease to be a factor in the Russian situation, and they voiced the hope that he might reorganize the remnants of his army in Constantinople. Because of the Crimean developments and the junction effected recently by the Turkish Nationalists and Bolsheviki, and the occupation of Batum, the position of the soviet regime in the Black sea territory was pointed to as stronger than it ever had been.

The reports indicated that only a few members of Gen. Wrangel's staff had managed to escape. The staff as a whole, it was said, had been virtually wiped out, its members either being killed or taken prisoner.

Propaganda behind Gen. Wrangel's lines had much to do with the collapse of the front, according to information

URGES FARMERS TO HOLD THEIR WHEAT

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 15.—If every farmer in the wheat belt would hold his wheat for twenty days the price would go to nearly $3 a bushel and would remain high, Abe Slaughter, national organizer for the Wheat Growers' association of America, said here today. Mr. Slaughter is here at the head of a delegation of seven Oklahoma farmers to organize the wheat growers of North Dakota.

After a conference this afternoon these men will visit the various county seats throughout the state to form organizations for co-operative action on the part of all farmers in North Dakota.

Bankers in states already organized by the wheat growers are giving the farmers full co-operation in the plan to hold the wheat, the representatives of the association say.

DEATH RATE IN U. S. SHOWS BIG DECREASE

Washington, Nov. 15.—The 1919 death rate in the death registration area of continental United States, embracing 81 per cent of the total population, was shown in statistics made public today by the census bureau, to be the lowest recorded for any one year. The rate of 12.9 per 1,000 of population, shows a drop of 5.1 per 1,000 from the unusually high rate of 1918 resulting from the epidemic of influenza.

The total number of deaths in 1919 was 1,096,436, of which 111,579, or 10.2 per cent, were caused by heart disease, while tuberculosis resulted in 106,985 or 9.8 per cent, the statistics showed. Deaths attributed to pneumonia totaled 105,218; influenza, 84,113; nephritis and Bright's disease, 75,005, and cancer and other malignant tumors, 68,551.

Three states—Delaware, Florida and Mississippi—were added to the registration area in 1919, making a total of thirty-three states, the district of Columbia and eighteen registration cities in nonregistration states in the area.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—Retail bread prices in St. Paul dropped 1 cent on pound loaves and 2 cents on pound and a half loaves today, following similar reduction by wholesalers.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—Wholesale and retail bread prices dropped 1 cent on pound and 2 cents on one-and-one-half-pound loaves here today.

Billings, Mont., Nov. 15.—A through mail car attached to Northern Pacific train No. 3, Minneapolis to Seattle, was destroyed by fire late Saturday, near Pompeyas Pilar, east of here. TAX REVENUE MAY BE CUT BY LESS PROFITS

Federal Officials Turn Attention to the Business Conditions.

Situation May Soon Have Repealed the Excess Profits Tax.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Business conditions throughout the United States are more a subject of discussion among government officials nowadays than questions of foreign policy or national politics. The passing of the election has brought back to some extent the nonpartisan viewpoint which prevailed during the war. Men are not so likely to express opinions that reflect on the opposite political party. There is the beginning here of a real appreciation of the big problems ahead.

For instance, much talk has been heard about repealing the excess profits tax. Congress will probably do something about it in due time, but the interesting question is being asked whether the drop in prices as well as profits will not actually reduce the revenues that have heretofore been expected from the excess profits taxes. Some observers have gone so far as to suggest that for all practical purposes the business situation will before long have repealed the excess profits tax.

Readjustment Without Panic.

On the other hand, the Federal reserve board which stepped in last spring and began restricting credit is getting to be as much a topic of controversy as the League of Nations. Defenders of the Federal reserve board insist, for example, that the country is witnessing a readjustment without a money panic and that the board has been fully justified in its action by current developments in the economic field.

There has been much talk about the export market in its relation to the political situation abroad, and while it is quite usual to hear it said that the bottom has dropped out of the export market, nevertheless the last reports issued by the department of commerce indicate a gain in both exports and imports. The exact analysis of the export trade in commodities has not been made, and there seems to be no doubt that some lines of business have suffered from the inability of foreign countries to raise the necessary credit to finance American exports.

On the whole, the information available in the national capital on business conditions throughout the country reveals a continued disinclination on the part of the consumer to buy. Stocks have therefore piled up in many businesses. Manufacturers who have had orders cancelled are, however, using the opportunity to cut down labor overhead and to weed out inefficient help.

Change With New Year.

It seems to be generally expected that the first of January will witness a marked change. With stocks running

TO INDORSE NOLAN FOR SPEAKER AGAIN

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—Members-elect of the new Minnesota house will confer in St. Paul Friday on matters of organization, and may take initial steps toward working out the problem of legislation to aid co-operative selling organizations.

The conference has been called by J. B. Pattison of St. Cloud and ten other old members of the house. It will be attended by nearly all the members-elect outside of the Nonpartisan league minority of thirty. It is expected. Speaker W. I. Nolan, who has pledges of support already from about eighty of the 131 house members, will be indorsed formally for re-election.

Preceding the general caucus on Friday, there will be caucuses in St. Paul Thursday of the Second and Third district delegations.

The Ramsey county delegation met at the St. Francis hotel Saturday night, principally for the purpose of indorsing W. I. Nolan for speaker, and Oscar Arneson for chief clerk. Out of the twelve members of the delegation Nolan and Arneson received nine votes.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 DEFEATED AT POLLS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—Mail reports from the various county seats in Minnesota confirm earlier wired reports on the Nov. 2 election to the effect that Amendments No. 1, No. 2 and No. 4 were adopted, and No. 3 was defeated. The amendments adopted are for good roads, extending the probate judge term to four years and amending of an existing amendment to make possible local taxation of railroads. The defeated amendment would have provided the legislature with authority to fix income and occupational taxes.

SINGLE TAX PARTY SPENT $2,548.85

Washington, Nov. 15.—Expenditure of the single tax party in the presidential campaign totaled only $2,548.85, according to a report of the party's national committee filed today with the clerk of the house of representatives. Receipts were placed at $3,122.65 and there were no individual contributions of more than $500. The list included several donations from persons living abroad.

FREEZING WEATHER AS FAR SOUTH AS TEXAS

Washington, Nov. 15.—There was freezing temperature today as far south as Central Texas and zero weather in part of Wyoming and Eastern Montana, said reports to the weather bureau. Hymans is a former foreign minister of Belgium and head of the Belgian delegation in the assembly of the league.

ACTRESSES MEET DEATH

Two Are Believed to Have Been Murdered in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Two young and pretty actresses lay dead today in the morgue while police searched for clews to their death early yesterday in Grant park within a few hundred feet of the skyscrapers lining Michigan boulevard. The girls died under circumstances that indicate murder.

A mysterious telephone call notified police yesterday that the bodies were lying on the lake front fifty feet from the Chicago Yacht club, at the foot of Jackson boulevard.

The call was traced to an insurance office on the fourteenth floor of an office building six blocks from the lake front. The elevator operator said he took a stranger to the fourteenth floor but the man apparently had walked downstairs. Both girls' hair was matted with burrs. There are no burrs of the kind in Grant park. The bodies were bruised and covered with blood.

Identifies Bodies.

James Meeks and Robert McCarthy, employes of a theatrical company playing here, identified the bodies as Miss Maree Alma Ramey, a stock show player and vaudeville actress, and Miss Lillian Thompson, said to be the daughter of John Thompson, chief engineer of the New York Hippodrome. Meeks and McCarthy and the girls had an apartment on the North side.

Last Seen Saturday Night.

The two women left the apartment at 9 o'clock Saturday night and visited an Italian grocery, where they purchased olive oil, chestnuts and wine. Police were unable to find anyone who saw them between 9 o'clock Saturday and 9 o'clock Sunday morning, when the bodies were found.

Miss Ramey, whose real name is said to be Mary Rhodes, was born in Altoona, Pa. She was married to Jim McCauley, an actor, five years ago. Miss Thompson married Joseph McAree, an electrician in Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 19, 1919.

OWNERS OF NEW YORK MOVIE HOUSE HELD FOR DEATHS OF CHILDREN

New York, Nov. 15.—A crusade for stricter enforcement of the city ordinance forbidding motion picture proprietors to sell tickets to minors unless accompanied by parents or guardians was started by the police today as a result of the panic on the Lower East side last night when six children were trampled to death in a mad rush following a false fire alarm.

The police department sent warnings to all movie houses that the ordinance would be strictly enforced and violations would be vigorously prosecuted.

Bernard Weinberg and Max Schwartz, proprietors of the Catherine theater, and Joseph Polivani, janitor, were arrested after the tragedy last night. They were charged with criminal negligence, and they were held without bail for arraignment this forenoon.

In Critical Condition.

Most of the twelve other youngsters, seriously injured, when older children, men and women bowled them over in their scramble toward the exits, were said to be in a critical condition early today.

The panic occurred when some of the patrons, noticing the curling shadows cast on the screen and catching the odor of smoke, yelled fire and dashed simultaneously for liberty. The smoke was caused by the janitor in starting a fire in the furnace. In the confusion that followed scores of little tots were hurled to the floor, furnishing a wailing, writhing carpet over which the others escaped. Rescuers said the children were so intertwined that four or five clung together when an attempt was made to pull one out.

NO LOSS OF LIFE FROM SHIPWRECK

Half of Those on Board Already Removed From the Vessel.

Steamer, Downbound With Ore, Strands on Pancake Shoals.

Reports Indicate That the Vessel Will Be Total Wreck.

That half of the crew of the stranded steamer Francis J. Widlar, wrecked on Pancake shoals, opposite Whitefish bay, has been taken off and the rest of them will be taken off today, was the substance of a telegram received here this morning by H. H. Dinham of the Duluth Shipping company, local agents of the vessel. The dispatch said that the sea is going down and the rescue work today will be much easier than was possible before. Half the crew was taken off late yesterday and no casualties are reported. The telegram to Mr. Dinham said that tugs are either on their way to the scene or are there now removing the rest of the crew from the stranded freighter.

All Will Be Rescued.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—From information gathered through wireless dispatches it is thought here that all the crew of the steamer Francis J. Widlar will be rescued. Capt. Forbes' wireless dispatch from the steamer William Livingstone last night asked for the life saving crew at Crisp Point to be rushed to the scene of the wreck on Pancake shoals. Lack of communication with the coast guard station at that hour prevented word being sent.

Used as Dispatch Boat.

A dispatch this morning from Whitefish Point indicates, however, that the tug Iowa which was lying alongside the Livingstone last night evidently was used as a dispatch boat successfully. Crews from the life saving stations at Crisp Point and Vermilion Point were leaving at 9 a. m. for the wrecked vessel. Capt. Forbes of the Widlar was on board the tug C. T. Ainsworth, a fishing tug operating in Batchewanna bay to the south of Pancake shoals, which was at Whitefish coaling up from a barge prior to returning to Pancake. Pancake Shoals is about fifteen miles from the life saving station across the lake. The weather this morning at Whitefish was cloudy with a twenty-four mile wind. The Livingstone, contrary to last night's report, was upbound and evidently proceeded on her way.

To Rescue Rest of Crew.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 15.—The Great Lakes Towing company tug Iowa was fighting its way early today through the stormtossed waters of Lake Superior toward Pancake shoals, bent upon rescuing a part of the crew of

FEW RETURNS ON ELECTION

Early Reports Indicate Success of Premier Venizelos.

Athens, Nov. 15.—Victory in the Greek elections held yesterday was claimed early this morning by Premier Venizelos. Actual returns, however, are as yet meager.

The issue of the campaign was the return of Former King Constantine to his throne, from which he was deposed during the World war. Following the death of King Alexander three weeks ago the throne was offered his younger brother, Prince Paul, who in answer said only in the event the people decided against Constantine would he consider accepting the Greek government's offer.

Premier Venizelos led the forces opposing the return of Constantine and if he has succeeded in the elections, it is conceded he will have a deciding voice in the selection of the next sovereign of this country.

Few Minor Clashes.

The day was calm throughout Greece, no grave incidents occurring except a few minor clashes between supporters of Premier Venizelos and the opposition. They were promptly dispersed by streams from fire hose. All meetings had been forbidden since Friday but newspapers carried on the fight up until yesterday.

Opposition journals presented a dispatch they alleged had been sent by King George of England to Queen Sophia, wife of Former King Constantine. This purported telegram read: "Dearest cousin: I am glad you will soon return to Greece."

They also printed assertions that public opinion in the United States favored the return of King Constantine to the throne. Newspapers loyal to Premier Venizelos countered with an interview with Edward Capps, American minister here, denying these statements. He was quoted as saying Americans, as well as the Allies, did not favor Constantine.

NO PRESENT DANGER OF TYPHOID IS CONTENTION OF AUTHORITIES

Few Bacilli Found in Tap Tests; No Break in Intake Pipe Suspected; Would Improve Supply Rather Than Injure It, Reed Declares; Reservoirs Chief Danger Point; Should Be Covered and Frequently Cleaned; Safeguards for Future Needed.

From a searching inquiry at the water and light department the records of the city health department and the state laboratory, where the city water is tested daily, there is little to justify rumors that there is any present menace in the water supply. There have been traces of the colon bacillus in the water at different times during the summer, especially during July and August, but nothing warrants the belief that these traces are not due to animal bacilli instead of human bacilli. The presence of colon bacilli does not mean trouble, but the possibility of trouble and the need of precautions.

The inquiry has developed the fact that while there is still an urgent need of a survey of the water supply and the sewage disposal, as advocated by The Herald, not to eliminate a present danger, but to safeguard the future, the present condition of the water supply is as good as, if not better than any other supply in the state. There were two traces of impurities found in the water during the month of October and these developed, not at the pumping station and intake, but from service taps downtown after the water had passed through the mains and reservoirs.

During August, when possibly more traces of colon bacilli were found in the water than in any other month of the year, there were nine traces found in water taken from the tap in the New Jersey building and less than half this number were found in the water taken at the pumping station at Lakewood, proof conclusive that much of the bacilli found in the water develops in the reservoirs, possibly from animal matter blown into the reservoirs from the roadways and possibly from seepage caused by water sheds.

Animal bacilli, according to authorities, if not typhoid laden, are not accompanied by typhoid germs, although there is no means of determining which is animal and which is human bacilli. The only possible manner in which human bacilli can get into the Duluth water supply is from sewage reaching the intake pipe of the Lakewood pumping station in such quantities as to overcome the action of the chlorine used, which at the present time is between 16 and 18 units, or just enough to neutralize any impurities that may enter the intake. This amount of chlorine is used solely as a preventative in case such impurities should reach the intake and not through the knowledge that there are impurities.

Chlorine in the water is not noticeable to the taste, according to health officials, and much larger quantities could be safely used, were it found necessary and if reports from the state laboratory showed that traces of colon bacilli were being discovered from samples of the water taken at the intake. Chlorine used in the proper quantities will destroy all traces of bacilli and make the water perfectly safe and pure.

Intake Break Possibilities.

The question of a possible break in the intake pipe at the Lakewood pumping station was taken up with D. A. Reed, manager of the water and light department. He declares his belief that in the case of a break, the water supply would be benefited rather than harmed, as repeated tests show that the water is much colder, by several degrees, nearer the shore at that point, that at the month of the intake. Currents, according to Mr. Reed, have been determined by floats which prove that the natural flowage of the lake water here is from the east, passing the pumping station between the intake and the shore and coming close to the shore about a mile east of the Lester river, where the coldest water is always found. This was the point where Mr. Reed advocated that the pumping station should be located, and not at the present site. He also explains that only a short distance beyond the intake there is often seen from the shore a distinct line of turbid water with the blue, or cold water between that and the shore line.

The intake pipe may leak, Mr. Reed admitted, but he did not believe so, as the pipe line was constructed with ball and socket joints to conform to the bottom of the lake. The intake is 1,500 feet from the shore and lies sixty feet below the surface. The current here is strong from the east and not along the shore line and it would be impossible for surface and shore water to enter the pipe line, even within a short distance from the shore, Mr. Reed declares.

Germs Have Poor Chance.

Health authorities declare that the water from the lake is exceptionally cold and that germs will not thrive long in water of this temperature. To produce an epidemic of typhoid it would almost be necessary to introduce the polluted water into the intake pipes within a short time and with the location of the pumping station the distance it is from the sewers, there is little possibility of such an occurence. Some years ago when the intake pipes were in a different location and much nearer to the sewer outlet, an epidemic of typhoid occurred. A repetition of that would be impossible under the present conditions, health authorities declare.

Duluth has been exceptionally free from typhoid during the last few years, according to records of the city health department. What few cases were treated in the city came, for the most part, from outside sources where the disease was contracted. Last year thirty-three cases were reported to the city health department, of which only three could be charged to Duluth. The history of each one showed that they either brought the germs with them from other locations or came to the city after they were stricken. So far this year but twenty-eight cases have been reported with only two originating in Duluth. In none of these cases was the cause definitely attributed to the city water supply.

Reservoirs' Condition Poor.

Inquiry also brought out the fact that the present condition of the city reservoirs is not the best. According to city officials who examined the reservoir at Fifteenth avenue east at the time the water was low this summer, a great deal of sediment was found to have accumulated in the bottom of it since it was cleaned out, which it is declared has not been during the last eighteen months. Being uncovered it receives a great deal of the dust and dirt blown over it, and in the case of the Fifteenth avenue east reservoir, which adjoins the Chester Park boulevard, a great deal of this dirt and dust raised by passing teams and other vehicles, finds a resting place on the water. It is believed the West Duluth reservoirs are much worse. It is the opinion of city commissioners that these reservoirs should be covered and cleaned out at least every six months.

Authorities connected with the water supply, in the health department, the water and light department and in the state laboratory, all are emphatic in expressing their opinion that the water supply of Duluth is the best in the country and that there is no foundation to the persistent rumor that it is impure. There has been traces of impurities, the same as in the past, but at the present time it can be said to be absolutely pure, according to them.

They agree with The Herald that a survey of the water supply and of the sewage should be made and a report filed and that the city should take steps to safeguard the future water supply according to the findings of the survey. That there is no danger at the present time they all agree, but in years to come, if nothing has been done, the continued increase in the amount of sewage dumped into the lake will affect the water supply. Action should be taken before that time, they declare.

FOND DU LAC TRIBE TO GET ANNUITIES

Cloquet, Minn., Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indians of the Fond du Lac reservation will receive their annuities from the government on or about Nov. 27. The payment will be made by G. W. Cross of Red Lake, as disbursing officer and the amount to be paid to each man, woman and child of the Fond du Lac band of Chippewas will be about $17. This money comes from the income from the tribal fund in the hands of the government and as there are from 800 to 900 Indians in the Fond du Lac band, the total amount of the payment will be about $15,000.

TETRAZZINI WINS ALL HEARTS IN DULUTH

Gifted Artist Sings to Great Audience and Receives Ovation.

One of the largest audiences ever crowded into the New Armory greeted Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini and her splendid company of artists last Saturday night. The reception accorded the beloved coloratura soprano was more than an ovation. Tetrazzini and the members of her company won the good will of their audience instantly, and Tetrazzini was forced to give two encores after her first number. After that the applause was so continuous that she was kept bowing, smiling and giving encores until nearly 11 o'clock.

All of Tetrazzini's program was given in her native tongue except one. This was her famous "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," which was given by request. She sang this number with the full accompaniment of her company, Francesco Longo at the piano, Max Gegna, cellist, and Henri Bove, flutist. As soon as the first note of this famous old song was struck, there was a round of applause. The whole company entered into the spirit of the song with enthusiasm, and it was Tetrazzini's smiles as much as her wonderful voice that brought forth rounds of applause at the close.

After all possible has been said of the work of Tetrazzini and her company, it must be admitted that their friendliness and the delight they took in entertaining was one of the finest features of the evening. They appeared like a happy family giving an evening's entertainment to their friends and neighbors rather than a company of celebrities coming hundreds of miles to a strange city for a formal concert. Several times Tetrazzini stepped across the stage and shook hands with members of her company after they had done a particularly pleasing bit of work, and to them this no doubt meant more than their salaries.

The serenade given by the quartet from the Lighthouse to Tetrazzini last Saturday will long be remembered by the gifted singer, and before leaving Duluth, she sent a generous check to the Lighthouse to aid the blind at that institution. She said that she was unable to express her appreciation adequately without doing something of lasting benefit to them.

The audience Saturday night was a gathering of music lovers from far and near. Superior, Two Harbors, and many other cities of the ranges and other parts of the Northwest were represented and every seat in the Armory was occupied.

Mrs. George S. Richards, who sponsored the concert, had everything perfectly arranged and everybody was seated and the auditorium was perfectly quiet during the entire program. Her work in presenting the entertainment not only won the admiration of the immense audience but was very favorably commented upon by W. H. Leahy, manager for Tetrazzini. Mr. Leahy and his wife were guests of honor at the concert.

WOULD HIT TENURE OF POSTMASTERS

Washington, Nov. 15.—Postmasters of the first, second and third classes, who were placed under the civil service rules by executive order of President Wilson, may not be so secure in their life jobs as they had anticipated.

Already there is a well organized movement to urge upon President-elect Harding that he inaugurate a revocation of this order.

Senators and congressmen, who believe that the order should be revoked, have the natural desire of rewarding their constituents and, in justification of their position, claim that President Wilson's order was not issued until practically every Republican postmaster had been removed and their places filled with deserving Democrats.

The order, since it was issued in 1917, has resulted in the appointment of many Republican postmasters, including the one at Boston, Mass., at Grand Forks, N. D., and in several Minnesota offices. The order applies only to vacancies.

KILLS ONE BANDIT AND WOUNDS ANOTHER

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—One alleged bandit was shot and killed and another wounded late last night when they attempted to hold up a small lunchroom in the downtown section. Ralph Cook, proprietor of the place, was held by the police pending further investigation.

According to the story Cook told police the two men came into his place and ordered sandwiches. While he was preparing them, he said, he was ordered to throw up his hands and his cash register was looted. As the men turned to go, Cook said he obtained a gun from under the counter and fired at the bandits, killing one and wounding the other.

The dead man has not been identified. The wounded man, who is shot through the hip, gave the name of Fred Montgomery. He will recover.

Although Cook was held, the police expressed the belief that the shooting was justified under the circumstances. They will make a formal investigation before releasing Cook, however.

MURPHY CASE UP TO COUNCIL

Former Police Chief Expected to Ask Reappointment at Weekly Meeting.

The meeting of the city council this afternoon was expected to be enlivened by the appearance of Former Chief of Police John Murphy and friends to urge the commissioners to influence Commissioner W. F. Murnian to reappoint him as chief. It was also intimated that a petition signed by a majority of the patrolmen and other police officers would be presented to the council.

Commissioner Murnian has steadily refused to commit himself as to his action with regard to the appointing of a chief of police, although he has intimated his decision would be announced the first of this week. Even though strong pressure is brought to bear to have Mr. Murphy reappointed, friends of Commissioner Murnian are frank to say he will not appoint the former chief.

Commissioners who have been approached by Mr. Murphy and his friends to ask their assistance in influencing Commissioner Murnian have refused to take any part in the matter. Some have even told Mr. Murphy that they were not in favor of the reappointment. Mr. Murphy has paid the commissioners a number of visits during the last week but has received no promises from any of them, they declare.

and those who have profited by the war-time extravagance philosophically and turn their attention to things more worth while. We heard last week of an automobile dealer, formerly a house builder, who had wound up his recent business and resumed his old vocation. His versatility is to be commended and is mentioned in the hope that others may follow his example.

It would be easy to paint a picture of acute demoralization against the background supplied by the news of the week, but it would be misleading for, despite the shutting down of some factories and short time on others, the fact is that the American people are making the necessary readjustments with little discomfort and that not a single business failure of magnitude has been reported despite a decline that has averaged nearly 50 per cent in the price of many important commodities such as cotton, corn, wheat and sugar.

There is not much to encourage pessimism in this record. The picture is not however, entirely symmetrical as yet. Coal must come down, so must shoes, paper and many other staples including bread, which is not appreciably lower despite the decline in wheat and the lesser fall inthe price of flour. And when the canvas is complete it should be varnished with easier money and framed by the lower wages that will have to be accepted if the readjustment is to be equitable.

Bank clearings reported to Bradstreets last week showed a decrease of 12.8 per cent from last year, though outside of New York the loss is only 5.8 per cent.

The best authorities agree that the lower interest rates are not far off, and this view appears to be supported by the readiness with which high grade bonds continue to be absorbed.

Reduction in Wages.

As to the necessary and inevitable reduction in wages there is not the same unanimity of opinion. It is, however, reassuring to note that the carpenters in Baltimore have waived the advance to ten cents an hour to which it is said they were entitled under an agreement with the bosses and have announced that they preferred steady work at ninety cents an hour to irregular employment at one dollar. In other cases where wages have been cut the reductions have been accepted without protest and the Ford factory at Detroit reports that it is turning out more machines with a reduced force working five days a week than it produced when a larger number of men were employed six days.

On the other hand the American Federation of Labor is reported to be raising a fund of $20,000,000, with which to fight the 'open shop" spectre that some of its officers think they see emerging from the present conflict between the New York clothing manufacturers and their employees. Twenty millions is, however, a large sum and the revelations now being made in New York with regard to the exploitation of labor by its leaders will not make it easier to collect wage assessments.

The election has been almost forgotten except for the hope of lower taxes that it inspired. It is much to be feared that this hope will be disappointed for it is already intimated that the congressmen will vote to raise their own salaries from $7,500 to $12,500 a year, which would not be a very auspicious beginning. The state of New York is also making preparations to issue the $45,000,000 bonds that it will be necessary to sell to provide the bonus voted at the last election to those citizens of the state who served as soldiers or sailors in the war. State taxes will have to be increased to provide for the interest and sinking fund on these bonds and while Secretary Houston has expressed himself as in favor of repealing the excess profits tax he has explained that the supertaxes on large incomes will have to be increased to meet the resulting deficiency. It would therefore seem necessary that Senator Harding should appoint an alchemist secretary of the treasury if we are to get any real reduction in taxation, failing which the ides of March will continue to be a sad season for those whose incomes run into five or six figures.

Mexican News Encouraging.

Looking beyond our own borders the news from Mexico is encouraging. Mexican 5 per cent bonds due in 1945, originally placed at 99½, have recently advanced from 30 to 49½ and other issues are proportionately higher.

In other foreign countries the situation is less reassuring and except in Great Britain financial paralysis would seem to be indicated by the continued decline in the value of their currencies. Francs, marks, lire and Austrian crowns have all sold at the lowest prices thus far recorded and show but little recuperative power. Exchange on the European neutrals and South America is also lower and hard to sell. Sterling fell to $3.33 and though it has recovered slightly the difficulty of obtaining reimbursement for the goods that we have to export continues to be the most disturbing factor in the situation.

Until some genius shall find a way to provide continental Europe and South America with a stable medium of exchange it is much to be feared that our foreign trade will continue to contract and that we shall have to content ourselves with the profits to be derived from our intra-national business. In an economic sense we are becoming a hermit nation and while we can grow rich trading between ourselves our profits and our opportunities for service will be limited by our isolation.

low, the feeling seems to be that buying by the merchant will have to begin and that the consumers will also find it necessary to join in the buying procession. In some lines like building a change isn't expected until spring. The drop in lumber prices and in the cost of other materials is such as to warrant the belief hereabouts that the American people will begin to solve their housing problem as soon as the diminution of the winter snow permits the carpenters to begin work.

Another reason for optimism in Washington, however, is the certainty that European markets will come back to America just as soon as financial stability is accomplished. Everybody seems agreed that Europe needs American goods and needs them desperately, and that the refinancing of Europe will bring full production to American factories again.

Yet there is very little said here about governmental aid to credit operations in Europe. The European countries themselves adopted a resolution at the international financing conference at Brussels looking with disfavor on the extension of more loans by governments. Yet that conference did make several suggestions for the betterment of trade by new credit plans.

With the election out of the way, official Washington may decide to take a more active part in international credit operations even in advance of thenew administration.

Cutting Government Expenses.

The cutting down of governmental expenditures will probably be agitated during the coming session of congress, but as Republican Leader Mondell once told the writer it is one thing to talk about cutting down appropriations and it is quite another thing to face the people of the states and cities who suffer from the cut in the amount of money spent in their immediate environment.

Another thing with the high cost of living: Many government employes who originally got their jobs through political influence haven't been especially enthusiastic about staying in the government employ when attractive positions are available in the business world. The Republicans will find the house cleaning job they have been promising the country a very easy task in many respects, but the hard part of that will be to get competent persons to come to Washington to replace those who are every day resigning to enter the business or professional world at higher salaries than the government has been able to afford.

Many of the government departments have already given evidence of their ability to cut down their payrolls, but when all is said and done official Washington isn't expecting that the amounts saved by dismissing employes will compare with the big amounts that will have to be raised to pay the interest on bond issues and other obligations of the government. With the excess profits tax falling off in revenue and with liquor taxes naturally diminished the question of how the money is going to be raised is puzzling everybody. It is seriously advanced by some officials that taxes will go up instead of down unless the tax burden is distributed over more years than was originally planned.

Some of the experts say this may temporarily ease the load, but that in the long run the plan will not prove economical. Briefly, now that the election is over, Washington is changing from the political to the economic phases of reconstruction.

DULUTHIANS WILL GO TO STATE HEALTH MEETING

A vigorous attack upon tuberculosis and other preventable diseases will be launched at a conference of public health workers to be held in St. Paul next Wednesday, in connection with the annual sessions of the Minnesota Public Health association.

Dr. A. L. Laird and Dr. H. G. Lampson, superintendent and field agent, respectively, at Nopeming sanatorium, will be in attendance. A delegate from the St. Louis County Public Health association will be chosen within the next few days, according to Dr. A. L. McDonald, president. Dr. E. L. Tuohy, L. B. Arnold and Mrs. F. L. Barrows, members of the board of trustees of the state association, have announced that they will probably be unable to attend. It is likely that one or two delegates will represent social organizations in Duluth and on the range.

The conference will develop final plans for the 1920 Christmas seal sale, which finances the public health work in every county and sustains the supervising state and national organizations. A report on the accomplishments of the last year will be followed by the formulation of a program for 1921.

Dr. A. J. Chesley, director of the division of preventable diseases of the state board of health, will be the principal speaker at an open forum luncheon, which will open the conference. He will discuss community health work. Maj. Chesley was health commissioner for Poland and directed health relief work in France and Germany. The latest methods of health education and detection will be portrayed in motion pictures.

Officers of the Minnesota Public Health association will be elected at the annual meeting of the board of directors.

PREDICTS REBUFF FOR REPUBLICANS IN 1924

New York, Nov. 15.—With the prediction that the Republican party in 1924 will meet "with a similar rebuff" to that received by the Democrats in the recent election, J. A. P. Hopkins, executive chairman of the Committee of Forty-eight, issued a statement last night outlining the plans of that party, which he explained, will fulfill its pledge to put an opposition party in the field in time for the next election.

"Such a party," he said, "must be established on a solid foundation, upon a constructive, economic platform, which will appeal to the American people as a whole, and under a unified leadership whose experience will be equal to the test. The organization will be democratically financed and intelligently administered."

"There was never a time in the history of our country," he added, "when the opportunity for real service was more inviting."

Steal Much Whisky.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 15.—A band of whisky thieves yesterday broke open two freight cars in the south Broad street railroad yards here and stole 588 cases of whisky and forty-four barrels of alcohol. The whisky is valued at $32,340 and the alcohol at $35,200. The loot was carried off in motor trucks after a railroad policeman had been kidnaped. The robbers had emptied two freight cars and were breaking into the third car, when the police surprised them. The thieves fled down the railroad tracks through the maze of cars and escaped.

Why it is reasonably priced

If Palmolive was made in limited quantity for the favored few, if its use was restricted as in the old days when Palm and Olive oils were the perquisite of royalty, Palmolive would be a very expensive soap.

But because millions use it, the price is no more than that of ordinary soap.

Thus every woman may enjoy its beneficial action, and can obtain it always wherever she may be. Palmolive is sold everywhere by leading dealers.

Why you must wash your face every day

BECAUSE the network of tiny pores and minute glands, which constitutes what we call the skin, must be cleansed thoroughly every day. Otherwise they clog with dirt, dust and oil secretions. Then you soon have blackheads and pimples.

Wash away these poisonous secretions every day with the mild, soothing lather of Palmolive. This freshens the complexion and allows the skin to breathe.

Result, a clear complexion, a smooth complexion, a fresh, rosy complexion, a complexion blooming with the beauty of health.

Be sure to use Palmolive

Its ingredients are the mildest, most soothing of natural cleansers. The use of Palm and Olive oils was discovered 3,000 years ago in ancient Egypt. They produce a wonderful profuse lather, mild and rich as cream.

Massage this creamy lather lightly into your skin with your two hands Then dash on the rinsing water. Finish with Palmolive Cold Cream.

Do this thorough cleansing just before bedtime and you will wake with a becomingly fresh complexion.

(If your skin is very dry, apply a little Palmolive Cold Cream before washing. This will keep it smooth and flexible.)

Crude Oil and the Automobile

IN 1913 (when there were 1,009,000 automobiles in the United States) oil producers drilled about 25,000 wells. The average paid for crude was 95c per barrel.

In 1914 producers had a little discouragement. The price for crude oil fell off to 81c average, and they drilled only 23,000 wells. These wells, however, proved exceptionally prolific and crude prices dropped to an average of 64c a barrel (40c in the Mid-Continent field). As a consequence of the over-production, the bottom dropped out of the gasoline market and low prices prevailed.

The low prices of crude made exploration of new fields unprofitable, and in 1915 only 14,000 wells were drilled. This halt in production enabled demand to creep up on supply, and caused crude to advance until it reached $1.10 per barrel.

Encouraged by the better prices offered, producers put down 24,000 wells in 1916. The unprecedented demand aroused by the war caused petroleum prices to soar, and, notwithstanding the activities in the producing field, prices have continued to advance because demand exceeded supply.

In August, 1920, the number of new oil wells brought in for that month alone was 3,513—the highest oil production mark in the history of the United States. Yet so great was demand that Mid-Continent crude stood firm at $3.50, and Pennsylvania crude at $6.10 per barrel, the present prevailing prices.

The market price for crude is not apt to go off appreciably while demand continues to increase as during 1920.

Since 1913 the number of motor vehicles in the United States has increased to approximately 7,459,607, and the forecast for 1921 is 10 million motor vehicles in the United States.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is straining every fibre and sinew of its highly specialized organization to increase the yield of gasoline from crude petroleum.

How well it is succeeding is indicated by the fact that an eminent authority states that the Burton process, orginating in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has produced 40 million barrels of gasoline from heavy distillates, and has thus saved approximately 150 million barrels of crude oil that would otherwise have been necessary to produce an equivalent amount of gasoline.

NEFF PREACHES APPRECIATION AS BOOST FOR GOOD SERVICE

Tells Knights of Columbus That It Is Essential in Public Business and Individual Effort; Urges Applause for Encouragement of Good Actors.

Appreciation was the main thought advocated by Bentley P. Neff in an address on "Our Civic Responsibilities" before Duluth council, Knights of Columbus. Mr Neff stressed good-fellowship among individuals, attention and approval or well grounded disapproval of acts of public bodies, such as the city council, attention to development of the city through clubs, and so forth. In part, his address was as follows:

"The war has taught us many lessons—among others a greater respect for our flag, the principles of the brotherhood of man, and has given us a greater civic conscientiousness. The greatest evils in a man's relationship to civic affairs are lack of attention, listlessness, selfishness and a too evident willingness to let the other fellow do the work.

"All humanity is divided into two classes—those who stand and those who lean. Those who stand are men who think for themselves, who work out their salvation by sturdy development of their own personality, and who subject all problems to the test of their own individuality. They are the builders, the creators, the leaders. They hold high their own opinions and make them high by force and study.

"Those who lean are those who let their individualities decay and who take their opinions from others. They are the herded followers, the blind and unthinking—in other words, the crowd. Too often they are the stumbling blocks that cumber the march of progress.

"Duluth is essentially a commercial city. We all want to see Duluth grow and at the same time we want it a city of splendid people, good homes, well governed and well represented by those we send out as our emissaries.

"City government and city planning should be topics of careful study because it is a fact the world over that the cities that have made the most important civic advances have also made the most spectacular industrial progress. Therefore, working upon this theory, we can see how necessary it is that each and every one of us contribute his share, does his part and assumes his individual responsibility in civic affairs. We cannot permit our work in civic affairs to be done by proxy. A citizen owes a debt to the community in which he lives, and he cannot and should not criticize the civic authorities or is, in fact, anyone responsible for the welfare of the community, unless he is an active worker in the city's cause. Let me impress the truth upon you. that Duluth will always be just exactly what its citizens make it. The character and standing of this city will always be the sum total of the character and standing of the citizens.

"I am a great believer in community clubs—organizations where neighbors can get together and talk things over. Representatives of these community gatherings should attend at least the monthly meetings of the Commercial club, which is and always has been an open forum for the expression of opinions of any one who attends on the civic questions of the day. The club should be the clearing house for the entire city and the conclusions reached there, representative of the citizenship at large should have a very material influence on how this city is conducted.

"Individually, our citizens should take an interest in our fire halls and visit them, should take an interest in our board of education and at frequent intervals attend the monthly meetings of the board. Weekly meetings of the city council should be liberally attended. The clubs which are maintained to make Duluth a desirable place in which to live should be liberally supported.

"While a simple thing, perhaps, let me again call your attention to the benefits to be derived from applause at our local theaters. We all know that appreciation brings out the very best there is in us. Working on that theory, if we want to get as much as we can for the price of admission, why should we hesitate to stimulate the players to their greatest activity by witholding applause?

"It is interesting, although depressing, to see the number of people in local audiences who do not applaud. Far be it from me to attempt to tell people what they should do, but as one who has been in charge of a large selling force for years, permit me to say this: That if you want to get the best there is out of a person don't fail to show some appreciation. Audiences that respond create a good impression, and the actors and actresses who are continually going all over the country can in a good many different ways and under many circumstances say a good or bad word for Duluth.

"We don't need to stop with our public departments in our ambition to have a good city. How about visiting some of our industrial plants—plants that are distributing in Duluth millions of dollars each year in payrolls? Have you any idea the encouragement it gives a manufacturer to have a citizen come in and look over his plant?

"Getting down still further and reducing the proposition to where it must always finally be reduced—to the individual. Don't let us hesitate to show our appreciation for one another.

Let our faults and weaknesses be as they may, let us make up our minds that the lack of good fellowship will never be one of them. For good fellowship is as old as man. It is one of the elemental things—rooted in man with good and evil, love and hate. Its temples are wherever men get together—its shrines and sanctuaries the hearts of men.

"More than the impetuous comradeship of youth, it is the settled faith of men in men. Passing all boundaries of nation, creed or calling, it asks only the open heart, the honest purpose, the cheerful countenance. Its password is the kindling eye, its pledge the hearty handclasp, its finest messages are unspoken. It is the golden age made manifest. Rites, religions, men and measures pass, good fellowship remains, for it is eternal love of life, eternal faith, eternal charity and cheer."

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY IS IN SESSION AT GENEVA

tives. The action of the Union of South Africa in naming him to act in behalf of that British dominion was one of the most interesting developments of the work preliminary to the meeting of the assembly.

From South Americas.

Most of the South and Central American republics have full delegations here, among whom are Honorio Pueyrredon of Argentina, Dr. Gasto Da Cunha of Brazil, Antonio Huneus of Chile, Manuel Peralta of Costa Rica, Dr. Carlos Urueta of Colombia, Aristides Aguerro of Cuba, Harmodio Arias of Panama, Dr. Mariano H. Cornejo of Peru, Dr. Juan Carlos of Uruguay, and Dr. Arturo R. Avila of Salvador.

The United States was not represented officially but throughout the session there will be present American "observers," who will keep Washington fully informed of developments. At a meeting of the council of the league yesterday, arrangements were made for the United States to have a representative on the financial commission, as well as the commission on economics and mandates should she so desire.

To Elect President.

Election of a permanent president and several vice presidents and the appointment of a few committees was the first work to be disposed of by the assembly. It is believed the next ten days will be devoted to discussions on the agenda of the meeting, and during this time commissions will be at work on different questions to be laid before the assembly. It is believed the adjournment will not be taken for three or four weeks.

A definite system of disarmament and a plan for using the economic blockade against nations that transgress the orders of the league will be among the principal subjects discussed. In addition, the plan for an international court which was framed at Brussels last summer will receive attention. Japan is not expected to bring proposals on racial equality before the meeting, but she is expected to take a prominent part in the deliberations.

The result of the presidential election in the United States has been a topic of conversation among delegates here, but there has been no indication that any effort has been made to get in touch with either Washington or with W. G. Harding, the American president-elect.

come tax returns listed only 1,671 clergymen as having an income of $3,000 a year, and that while New Jersey ranks first among the states in the average salaries paid clergymen, the figure there is $1,270 a year, which is less than the $25 a week which stenographers average.

Reformer's Creed."

A "reformer's creed" was offered by Rev. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary of the church's board of temperance and morals. The first article had to do with Americanization which it defined as "that achievement of national unity as an equipment for world service which the nation found it needed at the outbreak of the war and which need was just as imperative before we found it out."

The article advocated English as the exclusive basis for American education in the grade schools and as the medium of communication through every American published newspaper. "We must eliminate little foreign language groups segregated from the rest of our people," said the creed.

Discussing next "the divine right of democracy," the creed reiterated "the sovereign right of the people" to elect their own governing officers and advocated continuance of the direct primary system and extension of the initiative, referendum and recall.

Reverence for law, extension of prohibition, crusades against gambling, prize fighting and prostitution, and a national censorship of moving pictures were further articles in the creed. Another article said: "I believe in an educational and moral suasion campaign against the personal use of the doped cigarettes which the tobacco trust foisted upon the country in war times."

Bible teaching in the public schools was advocated and also Sabbath observance "as it stood before the German-American alliance trampled it in the mire of our American cities, to establish on its ruins their continental Sunday, adapted to a beer garden civilization and bolstering the type of German imperialism that went to crash."

Home Mission Work.

Expansion of the home mission work of the Methodist Episcopal church in industrial centers, universities and colleges, among negroes in the North and at army and marine bases, was described by Rev. David D. Forsyth, corresponding secretary of the church's board of home missions and church extension.

"Checks sent out for maintenance in the first quarter of 1920 were three times as large as the first quarter in 1919," said the report.

In cities 596 pastors are being aided to the amount of $205,351 and 597 special workers have been employed at a cost of $697,418, according to the report. In rural fields 2,977 preachers are receiving aid at a cost of $695,859 and 1,054 churches, parsonages and parish houses are under construction, the home missions board contributing about $1,250,000 to these projects. In addition, the report pointed out, the department of church extension is looking after $900,000 worth of loans on churches and parsonages.

The permanent fund of the board, the report said, had been increased by more than three-quarters of a million dollars in the quadrennium and now contains $2,814,000.

Methodist Schools.

Reporting on the work of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church, Abram W. Harris, former president of Northwestern university and corresponding secretary of the board, told the church council that 130 educational institutions are sponsored by the board. Of this number 43 are colleges or universities, 32 are professional and graduate schools, 36 are secondary schools for whites and 19 are schools for negroes. He said the property of the schools is valued at more than $39,000,000 and that their productive endowment is in excess of $34,374,000. Students total about 51,200 and the alumni number 119,834.

CREW OF STEAMSHIP WIDLAR BEING TAKEN OFF

the Becker line steel freighter Francis J. Widlar that was wrecked during one of the most severe storms in the lake's history.

Capt. Arthur Forbes of Ashtabula, Ohio, in command of the stricken vessel, probably accompanied by some members of the crew, was picked up last night by the steamer Livingstone.

Capt. Forbes, who is assumed to have fought his way to the channel in a small boat in order to notify the world of the plight of his crew, sent a wireless message for aid immediately upon boarding the Livingstone. His message made no mention of loss of life.

Capt. Forbes' message was the first word received as to the fate of the steamer, that had been more than seventy-two hours overdue at this port. The vessel carried a crew of thirty-three men.

First intimation of the Widlar's fate was received here Saturday night, when Capt. William Mesier of the steamer John Erickson reported that he had sighted the Widlar drifting helplessly upon the shoals during the storm.

The tug Iowa put out yesterday afternoon for Pancake shoals, located ten miles northeast of Whitefish bay, and several miles off the course of lake steamers. Wireless reports last night showed the Iowa standing alongside the Livingstone after Capt. Forbes had been taken aboard. The Iowa later received instructions to seek aid of the life savers at Whitefish Point if the tug was unable to remove the remainder of the Widlar's crew.

Capt. Forbes' message emphasized that the demolition of the Widlar was complete.

Due to lack of telephone and telegraph facilities the Crisp Point life savers could not be notified of the Widlar crew's plight last night.

No Word From Livingstone.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 15.—No word had been received here from the steamer Livingstone reported to have on board part of the crew of thirty-three of the steamer Francis J. Widlar, wrecked on Pancake shoals, or from the tug Iowa, which started for the scene of the wreck. The Livingstone had been expected to arrive here some time this morning, but it is now understood she was upbound for Marquette.

The belief was expressed in marine circles this forenoon that Capt. Forbes and such of his crew as are believed to have been with him may have been transferred from the Livingstone to the tug Iowa.

While the steamer Livingstone is equipped with wireless, no word has come from her since she flashed Capt. Forbes' message that the Crisp Point guard station be asked to send aid to the men left on his stranded ship.

The tug Iowa does not carry wireless equipment and what success she has had in attempting the rescue of the stranded crew will not be learned until she returns here probably late this afternoon.

According to the last word from the steamer Livingstone, the Widlar was breaking up on Pancake shoals. A gale is blowing and a snowstorm raging about the scene, one of the most exposed parts of Lake Superior.

Tug Standing By.

Sault St. Marie, Mich., Nov. 15.—The steamer Martian, locking down at 10 o'clock this morning reported having picked up a wireless message to the effect that the wreckage tug Iowa is standing by the stranded steamer Widlar, but is unable to get out to her because of the heavy seas. The Martian picked up the message about 9 a. m. today.

Will Be Complete Wreck.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 15.—The Becker Steamship company, owner of the steamer Francis J. Widlar, this morning received a wireless from Capt. Forbes, master of the steamer, that the Tug C. E. Ainsworth had taken part of the crew off the Widlar and would return for the remainder of the crew this afternoon. Capt. Forbes reported that the Widlar went ashore Friday night and is a complete wreck.

ply two trains, and one of them came out before noon and sidetracked, waiting for orders. The other was not so fortunate. Half way out it was derailed and at 2 o'clock, the hour set for the departure, the second train was not yet in sight nor was there any word from it.

Single Track.

Because there is but a single track over the long stretch, train officials waited nearly an hour for the tardy second section of the presidential special, but the president-elect and the senators and millionaires who are his guests were on board and the driver grew impatient, cranked up his engine, and started.

The train consisted of the motor, an old style narrow gauge baggage car and a passenger coach of similar proportions having general characteristic of a small town street car. The seats ran lengthwise instead of across the car and a small stove in the center of the aisle vomited smoke and sparks as it battled valiantly against the icy gale.

Less than two miles out on the prairie the driver sighted the delayed second section coming toward him and threw his own motor in reverse to come back into Point Isabel. Then the tragedy of the day occurred. The load was too great for a reversed engine, and the crank shaft and one of springs under the car gave away simultaneously.

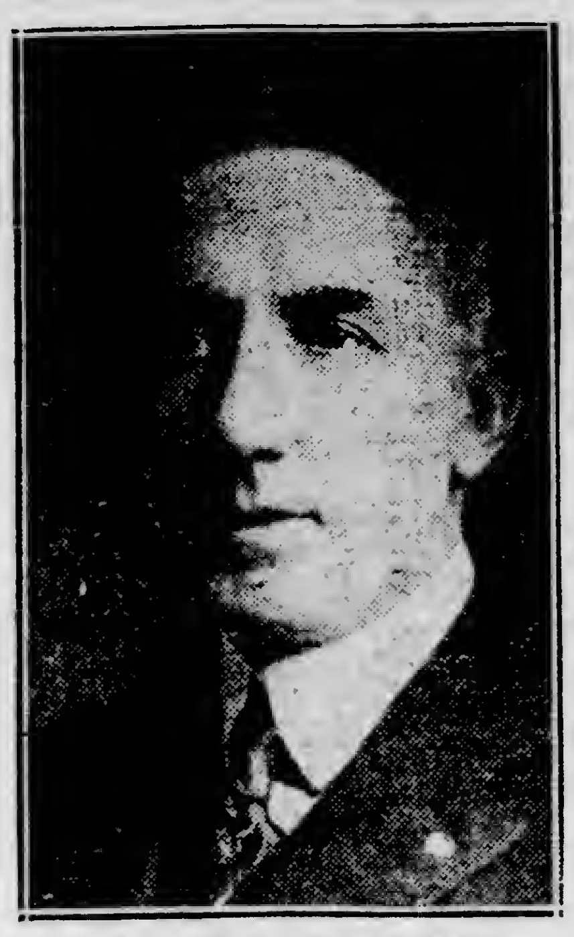
Night Came On.

Night came on during the long wait, while the Mexican trainmen worked and swore and the wind whistled through the presidential car. Newly made friends in Point Isabel heard of the accident through Mexicans who walked back along the track, and at nightfall a basket of sandwiches and several bottles of coffee were brought out to the marooned passengers. Mrs. Harding served, sitting on a suitcase in the aisle and laughing at her troubles.

Presidential dignity and isolation went by the board. For Mr. Harding himself, was one of the most active and cheerful members of the group. His car was unlighted and was also overcrowded, and as the overcoated passengers went up and down the aisle the red hot stove took its unfailing toll and kept the enclosure pungent with the smell of scorching cloth.

It was more than three hours after the accident, and well after dark, that the train crew finally pronounced the engine working. To combine the forces of the two engines a railway tie had been roped in place between them and it caused another delay because it had to be removed to permit the chauffeur to the presidential motor to crank up, but after much sputtering and the use of much Spanish profanity, the entire caravan rolled slowly away in the direction of Point Isabel.

WELL KNOWN YOUNG MAN PASSES AWAY



CHARLES GORE IRVINE.

Charles Gore Irvine, aged 47, manager of the hardware department of the Duluth Marine Supply company, died last night at the home of his mother, Mrs. John Irvine, 429 Fourth avenue east. He had been ill since August with brain fever.

Mr. Irvine was born in Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 17, 1874, and came to Duluth in 1893. He resided in this city continuously since that time. For the last six years he was employed by the Duluth Marine Spply company and prior to that time was a department manager for the Kelly-How-Thomson company.

Mr. Irvine was a great devotee of amateur sports, particularly in baseball, hockey and curling. He has also always taken a keen interest in civic affairs and has been prominently identified with many of the local clubs. He held membership in Ionic lodge, No. 186, A. F. & A. M., the Scottish Rite bodies, the Duluth Curling club, the Duluth Boat club, the Duluth Commercial club, the Lions' club, the Ridgeview Golf club and Clan Stewart, Order of Scottish Clans. He was also a member of the First Methodist church of this city.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Susan Irvine, widow of the late Capt. John Irvine, he is survived by one brother, Thomas E. Irvine and three sisters, Mrs. George Dion, Mrs. J. F. Dennis and Mrs. William D. Jones, all of Duluth.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday. Definite announcement of time and place has been deferred pending word from out-of-town relatives.

reaching official circles here. The Bolsheviki, it is declared, spread reports that Gen. Wrangel was a reactionary and that his success would mean the return of czardom, and absolute monarchy, and distributed pamphlets and booklets to reinforce these statements.

On the other hand, it is reported that the extremely conservative party of Russians considered Gen. Wrangel too liberal and advanced in his views, and information reaching the foreign office alleges that this element plotted his downfall.

Wrangel's Army Wiped Out.

Constantinople, Nov. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The army of Gen. Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevik leader in South Russia, has been wiped out, and a number of his generals have committed suicide. A mob in Sebastopol pillaged the American Red Cross stocks.

The American torpedo boat destroyers at Sebastopol are evacuating officers and their families. The American destroyer Humphreys has gone to Yalta to take off the Red Cross supplies.

The United States transport Faraly has arrived here with 300 sick and wounded, who were cared for by the American Red Cross.

It is said that the reds were joined by some Ukrainians in spreading terror among the population in the Crimea.

Refugees at Constantinople.

Constantinople, Nov. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Thirteen thousand refugees have arrived here from Sebastopol, but because of the lack of accommodations in the city, they are still aboard ships moored in the Bosporus. It is understood 30,000 have been permitted to take passage from the Crimean city. It was found impossible to provide ships for the entire population of 80,000. Two thousand wounded men also have arrived, and have been distributed among the French and Russian hospitals.

Gen. Baron Wrangel is declared to be without hope, but he is remaining calm and directing the work of removing civilians from Sebastopol.

The United States destroyer Fox arrived here today with a party of fifty American Red Cross workers who have been engaged behind Gen. Wrangel's lines. Hope is expressed that all Red Cross personnel will have been removed from danger by night. Fragments of Gen. Wrangel's army have been embarked on Russian and French warships, and Gen. Wrangel probably will leave on the French battleship Waldeck Rousseau.

Will Observe Neutrality.

London, Nov. 15.—As Great Britain has never recognized the Wrangel government in South Russia and is proceeding with negotiations aiming at opening of trade relations with soviet Russia, the British navy will continue to observe strict neutrality in the Black sea, it was stated today. The admiralty denied reports from Constantinople that the British navy would assist in the blockade of Black sea ports.

British ships have not been called upon to transport refugees from the Crimea, and the admiralty said today it had not been decided whether they would assist in getting the refugees away.

Curling Hair This Way Preserves Its Beauty

That dull, dead appearance of the hair no longer troubles the woman who has adopted the silmerine method of keeping her tresses in curl. The result is very different from that produced by the drying, devitalizing waving iron. The hair appears more naturally wavy and curly, and the application is really beneficial to the life and growth of the hair.

Any druggist, of course, can supply the liquid silmerine. A small quantity should be put on just before doing up the hair, using for the purpose a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair from root to tip. The effect is delightfully surprising, and there is no discoloration, no stickiness, greasiness, nor any other unpleasant accompaniment. The hair is quite manageable, no matter how it is fashioned.—Advertisement.

HASN'T FELT BETTER IN 40 YEARS, HE SAYS

St. Paul Man Feels as Spry as When a Boy Since Taking Tanlac, He States; Eats Anything He Wants.

"I can honestly say I don't believe I was in better health forty years ago than I am right now," declared C. A. Bergman, 738 Marshall Ave., St. Paul, Minn., in telling of his recent remarkable improvement by taking Tanlac.

"My health was all broken up and I was going down hill right along. My stomach bothered me so bad I couldn't enjoy a single meal; in fact, was afraid to eat much of anything. I had pains and cramps that nearly doubled me up, and my heart palpitated so bad it scared me. I was nervous and jumpy and was troubled a great deal with constipation and headaches. Many a night I had to get out of bed and pace the floor to get my mind off my misery so I could rest a little.

"But Tanlac fit my case exactly and I took a turn for the better in a few days after I started taking it. And now I am in great shape and feel as spry as I did when I was a boy. I am never troubled in any way whatever now, eat anything I like and can do as much work as I used to years ago. I am a great believer in Tanlac and prize it above all other medicines."

Tanlac is sold in Duluth at the W. A. Abbett drug stores under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. Also the leading druggist in every town throughout the Northwest. Wm. LAWMAKERS' PAY SMALL Wisconsin Solons Expected to Again Try to Boost Allowance.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—Salaries paid Wisconsin legislators for their legislative duties are likely to be once again the subject of discussion and probably of a new attempt at constitutional amendment, according to opinions expressed here. A joint resolution introduced in the 1917 and 1919 sessions was defeated at its last reading largely on the ground that it would have removed all constitutional restriction on the amount legislators might vote for their wages.

Wisconsin lawmakers receive less pay for their services than those of most other states considering the length of term they have been required to serve during the past twenty years. A constitutional amendment voted in 1881 set the salaries of both senators and assemblymen at $500 regardless of the time the houses were in session. There has been no change since.

Whether certain of the members will follow in the footsteps of their predecessors and do odd jobs while here in order to meet living expenses, is once again a subject of speculation. One assemblyman in the last session waited on tables at the capital cafe while another set out to walk here in order to have his 10 cents a mile traveling expense left for spending money.

Prior to 1881, when the present salary scale was set by constitutional amendment the average length of the session was seventy-four days or two and a half months. The assemblymen of that period received on an average $200 per month for their services.

Average Salary $110 Per Month.

Since 1881 and through the 1919 session the average time of a session has been 139 days, or more than four and one-half months with the average salary cut to $110 a month. Sessions during the past decade have been on an average of 161 days or nearly five and a half months which resulted in average salaries being cut to below the $100 mark.

While prices have been continually on the rise, wages of the legislators have remained the same and the length of the sessions has increased. There has been considerable agitation to bring about a raise. In the 1917 legislature this agitation resulted in joint resolution which proposed that:

"Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services a sum to be paid at such time and in such manner as shall be prescribed by law. The compensation prescribed for members of the legislature immediately prior to the adoption of this amendment shall continue in force until changed by the legislature in a manner consistent with the other provisions of this Constitution."

Two legislatures must pass on each amendment to the Constitution before it is presented to the people. The 1919 legislature failed to give its approval, so the proposal was dropped. If introduced again it cannot be voted on before 1922, so that at least two more legislatures must serve at the present salary of $500.

No provision is made in the Wisconsin Constitution to compensate members for service in special sessions. They receive the usual 10 cents a mile for carfare but no other pay.

FACE HIS MISFORTUNE.

Twice Mistaken for Inkinen, John Mauer Gets Letter From Sheriff.

John Mauer of Orr, Minn., who is unfortunate enough to bear some resemblance to Mike Inkinen, wanted by the authorities for the Johnny Jones murder of June 5 last, doesn't relish the prospect of being arrested every few days as a murder suspect.

He has been taken in tow twice by the authorities on the suspicion that he is Inkinen, once at Fargo and the second time at Virginia. Saturday he came to Sheriff Frank L. Magie to get a letter which will protect him from further arrests when he is away from his home town.

The letter reads:

"To whom it may concern: This is John Mauer. He looks like Mike Inkinen, wanted in the Johnny Jones murder case, but looks are deceiving. He is not Mike Inkinen. He has twice been arrested as Inkinen. Mr. Mauer is a hard working, law abiding citizen of this state and will be grateful if he is not further molested by anyone confusing him with Inkinen."

FARM BUREAU TOWNSHIP UNITS BEING FORMED

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. J. Hedlund, county agent of Benton county advises the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation headquarters at university farm that all townships in his county have their own organization, called township units of the farm bureau, and 704 members secured for the Benton county farm bureau since the membership campaign was started in Minnesota this fall.

The movement for township organization has so far been carried to only two more counties, Bowman and Blue Earth. Every township in Norman county will be organized by the end of the week, according to J. S. Jones of university farm, leader of the membership campaign. The work is also proceeding favorably in Blue Earth county, where more than one-half of the townships have organized local units of the farm bureau.

The state campaign leader was at North Branch last week to launch the membership drive in Chisago county. Solicitors also began their work in Winona county and reported an average of 100 members a day. In Anoka county 520 signed up in five days, in Becker county 500 in five days, in Meeker county 350 the first three days. Rough roads and cold weather have been encountered by the membership crews, but the campaign is moving successfully in spite of them.

PART-TIME EDUCATION

Bill to That End to Be Offered Next Gopher Legislature.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—There are more than 15,000 children in Minnesota who were forced out of school for economic reasons and who now are to a large extent, idle, according to reports to the state board of education.

These children, according to the officials, have left school to enter upon commercial activities, but not being qualified or fit to hold their "jobs," they were thrown out of employment and forced to idleness.

The children, after leaving school, went into any activity which was open to them and after failure in that particular line, chose other fields of activity not particularly adapted to their ability and as a result were constant searchers for employment. This, according to officials, finally dwindled into carelessness for work, later into disregard for unemployment, and finally in numerous cases to criminal acts.

About 1,500 in Duluth.

Of this vast number of children about 7,000 are to be found in Minneapolis, 4,000 in St. Paul and approximately 1,500 in Duluth, the remainder being found in the smaller urban centers.

The state board of education, backed by the school system of the state, labor, employers and many civic, social and other clubs, will propose to the next legislature a scheme of compulsory part-time education for persons between 14 and 18 years of age not now enrolled in the various schools of the state. This proposed legislation would make it compulsory for children of those ages to attend a certain given number of hours to various educational activities each week and thereby remove a cause for the unsettled condition of the children forced by economic reasons into these conditions.

The law, according to the education officials, would in a large measure provide the proper training for the children coming under this act and thereby remove the cause for the continued unemployment and changing of positions.

It is the purpose of part-time education as proposed in the bill drafted by the state board for presentation to the legislature to compel the attendance of these children in school for at least 144 clock hours each year. In addition to giving the children a special training in various fields of activity it will also be a means of increasing the civic intelligence of the child and will help to lift them out of the hopeless economic situation into which they had or would drift, the officials stated.

Twenty-one other states are operating compulsory part-time schools and classes for children of this group and report that this law is a powerful agent in education toward the elimination of idleness.

WOUNDED EX-SERVICE STUDENTS GIVEN AID

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—Scabbard and Blade, an organization of wounded soldiers at the University of Wisconsin, plans to extend its organization throughout the country, E. M. Burkey, its president, announced today. Present groups at Columbia university, New York, and at Northwestern university will be asked to join.

When it was found recently that a number of the wounded men had not received their checks from Washington, the others chipped in $5 each from their weekly allotment and now have a fund of $485 from which $306 was loaned last week to take care of those who were without funds. It is now planned to raise $1,000 to be placed in reserve under L. H. Toige, co-ordinator, who has charge of the Federal board students.

Students in Scabbard and Blade have been active since the opening of school. Although wounded, many of them without arms and legs, and all in impaired health as a result of their injuries, the men have maintained a regular social schedule and are now planning a series of athletic contests.

The wounded men at Wisconsin come from every quarter of the country the registration shows. Mississippi, Louisiana, Washington, New York, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Iowa are represented besides Wisconsin.

E. M. Burkey is president of Scabbard and Blade, Reno W. Pinto is vice president, Maynord Brown, secretary; Romin Koelch, treasurer, and Adam Scolton, in charge of activities.

PROPOSED CERTIFICATION OF BADGER LIBRARIANS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—The next legislature will be asked to provide laws for certification of librarians in the state, C. B. Lestor, secretary of the free library commission, said today. Proposals are made that distinct grades of service be established and that a definite standard be required of all who would serve as operating heads of these institutions.

Grading would be based on the financial ability of the city. In those of the first and second classes library certificates can be held only by those who equal requirements of high school teachers in the same town. Those for the two lower grades are lower than for any teaching certificate in the state. The basis of grading is academic education, formal library training and library experience. Equivalent attainments shown by examination can be substituted for the academic education and formal library training under the proposed plan.

A state library certification board is proposed as the governing body. It would consist of five members appointed by the governor from nominees, two of whom would be selected by the Wisconsin Library association, one selected by the governor from the library trustees of the state, one by the library commission from its members and one to be a member of the university to be selected by the president.

HIGHER AWARDS TO WOMEN ARE URGED

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 15.—Adequate financial provisions for the state department of labor and industries, and an extension of the scope of the state compensation law, are among the recommendations to the next legislature in the biennial report just completed by John P. Gardiner, commissioner of labor and industries.

The report urges that a revision of the salary law be made, which would properly recompense capable employes and make some flexibility in apportioning salaries.

Mr. Gardiner points out that in connection with the workmen's compensation law the services of three additional special agents could be utilized in advising and assisting injured persons and in making investigations of cases reported. A medical director, the report adds, would be found invaluable in advising in connection with the cases that come to the department and in reviewing the medical certificates in all settlements placed on file.

Increase of the maximum amount paid under the present compensation act is also urged in connection with the women's compensation law. The laws should be made that the act would be given more scope and should be made to cover occupational diseases and clear up doubts regarding certain classes of workmen who have been exempted as farm laborers.

Other recommendations revising the present compensation law include the revision of the permanent partial schedule especially so as to make allowances for the healing period and for the period of re-education; amendment of the total permanent section so as to permit payments for life in certain cases; extension of the period of compensation in fatal cases that children may receive compensation during actual dependency; and provision for expert supervision of the medical service under the act.

Nothing to do till next Monday

WHAT'S more, when you have a 1900 Cataract Electric Washer, you finish the wash bright and early each Monday!

Do you know why?

It's because of the magic figure 8. In the 1900 Washer the water is forced through the clothes in a figure 8 movement, four times as often as in the ordinary washer. Thus it washes the clothes faster!

And the nice part of it is, you can wash everything in your 1900, for there is not a single part in the tub to cause wear and tear, or to pull off buttons. The water is forced through your clothes entirely by the action of the tub—not by the action of any parts in the tub. When you have finished the wash, there are no parts to lift out and clean either.

The 1900 works easily, smoothly, and at a cost of less than 2c an hour. It washes the clothes snowy white and clean in 8 to 10 minutes.

The wringer also works electrically, and can be moved from the washer clear around to the clothes basket without moving the washer an inch.

Our Special Trial Offer

We will deliver a 1900 Washer right to your home, and demonstrate it for you. Then after you have seen what it will do, you may start paying for it on terms to suit your convenience.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

Enough has been developed about the city's water supply to show that in its relation to this vitally important subject Duluth is in the position of a man who has reason to think that things aren't going just right with him physically.

The sensible thing for that man to do is to go to a good doctor and have himself thoroughly examined. If there is nothing the matter with him, it will be worth while for his peace of mind to find it out. If there is something the matter with him, he is taking it in time and he will find out what he must do to put himself right physically, whether it is simply a change in diet or a drastic operation.

Perhaps there is nothing wrong with the city's water supply. If so, there has been unrest enough about it to make it worth while to find it out, because the knowledge will give the community peace of mind. Perhaps, though there is nothing seriously wrong now, there is danger that there will be trouble in the future. If that is so it is wise to find it out and take steps to avoid it, and very foolish not to.

The Herald has not brought this subject up to scare the community needlessly. It is not recommending anything whatever except a thorough expert investigation; and that does not mean analysis of a few samples of water or a flying visit from an expert, either. It means a prolonged study of the water, of the sewage systems at the head of the lakes, of the currents in the lake and their relation to the flow of sewage into the lake—of the whole subject, in a word.

A visiting public health man of wide experience who happened to be in town when The Herald brought this subject up was interested in the discussion, and learned what he could about the situation. This was his verdict: "Duluth might run along twenty-five years as it is without trouble; and on the other hand it might have a serious typhoid epidemic next summer. Duluth ought to find out right away precisely where it is situated and what the danger is and how to meet it."

That sounds like good sense to The Herald, and that is why it is urging a thorough investigation.

The Rotary club last week voted to ask the civic council, representing all the civic bodies, to take this matter up; and it was wise. The civic council was organized for just such purposes, so that it might be the agency in enterprises for the public welfare of the various organizations making it up. It should go into this question of the water supply in a thorough way, and The Herald is sure it will have the fullest cooperation from the city authorities.

AN IDLE DREAM.

The tonnage taxers are with us again. They have their bill about ready, they announce, and they say that it will bring in eight or ten million dollars in new revenue every year. Also, they talk about the "saving" that will mean to the ordinary taxpayer.

That particular forecast is a delusion and a snare. It is the most foolish and fruitless imaginable. It never is fulfilled, and we fear never will be.

If this measure should be passed by the legislature, signed by the governor and get by the scrutiny of the courts, doubtless it will produce a large revenue—at the expense of the mining counties and to the unearned profit of the counties that have no mines.

But—mark this for future remembrance in case this sectional brigandry should prevail—it won't reduce state taxes by a nickel, nor save any taxpayer a penny.

Such things never happen. What does happen is that the taxpaying body—the legislature—joyously expands its spending power to the new limit; and that's ALL that happens. And as government is the most wasteful enterprise we have, most of the new money will be wasted.

Minnesota ought to know that this is true. It had a vivid demonstration of it a few years ago. The railroads had been paying a tax of four per cent on their gross earnings. The rate was increased to five per cent, adding millions to the state's receipts. In the campaign to bring about that increase in the railroad gross earnings tax it was promised—and the promise probably was believed by those who made it—that the result would be to reduce the state tax rate and save money for the taxpayers. Did it? It did NOT. The only result was such an increase in the state's spending that the state tax rate not only did not go down, but actually went up—and up a good deal, too.

If the tonnage tax raid is carried out, it will be because a majority of the state, having the power, uses it tyrannically. But nobody should be for a tonnage tax in the hope of lowering his own taxes. It won't happen. Legislatures aren't built that way.

> Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits.
> —Mark Twain (Pudd'nhead Wilson).

DULUTH NEEDS A CITY PLANNING COMMITTEE.

The question of the water supply enforces the conviction that Duluth needs a city planning commission with authority and resources that will enable it to get somewhere.

A city that grows without a plan is pretty sure to be as absurd a creation as a house would be that was built by putting all the various varieties of building craftsmen on the job without giving them a plan to work by. This is the axiomatic argument for a city plan, and for a city plan a planning commission is needed.

If there WERE a city planning committee, it would be the proper authority to take up for investigation and recommendation the question of the water supply.

There is no reason whatever why the city council should not pass an ordinance creating a city planning commission of five, seven or nine non-salaried members with city funds enough to employ the necessary help to collect the facts on which recommendations could be based.

The Commercial club city planning committee did splendid work a few years ago, and it has gathered a large amount of material that would be at the disposal of the new commission, but that is doing us no good now because it has simply been filed instead of being put where it could accomplish something.

The idea of creating a city planning commission under the city government deserves the consideration of the city commissioners.

EVEN HARVEY APOLOGIZED.

We wonder if the Republican party will take in the right spirit a bit of advice. This is that it get rid not only of the cartoonist who produced that infamous if not blasphemous caricature which shocked the religious sensibilities of so many people when it appeared in Harvey's Weekly near the close of the campaign, but of the spirit of malignant party bitterness that makes it possible to draw and publish such cartoons.

To those who had followed the political cartoons of the author of this exceptionally vicious picture it was no surprise. The spirit of most of them was bitter, gross, indecent. They must have offended many who sympathized with the cause they were intended to support.

Such campaigning, in either party, cannot in the end be anything but mischievous, whether it is expressed in speech, in the printed word or in caricature. No man who would take such a picture as Murillo's famous representation of the Immaculate Conception, and distort it to the malicious purposes of a campaign abuse, is fit to do campaign work for any American pary.

That those who protested against this campaign cartoon were not unduly sensitive is made clear by the handsome apology which George Harvey printed in his paper in the issue following the election. In part it was as follows:

> There appeared in a number of this journal dated October 23 a cartoon whose publication was justly resented by many devout Christians, especially of the Roman Catholic faith.
>
> I was personally absent from the city, and not only never saw the cartoon as drawn or in proof, but was so fully occupied with other pressing matters that I actually did not see it in my own paper until my attention was drawn to it by its reproduction in the (New York) World.
>
> I am not disclaiming responsibility for the appearance of the picture in my paper. I am simply telling how it happened. If there are people who really believe that I would consciously outrage the faith or religious sensibilities of any fellow-being, I cannot help it. If there are others who think I am so idiotic as to attempt to win an election by deliberately alienating the support of thousands of voters, I cannot help that. If there is one sane, living persons who honestly believes that I would knowingly have printed that cartoon, I can do no more than concede his existence. Frankly, I do not believe there is.
>
> Obviously, nevertheless, I have a distinct obligation to express deep regret that the shocking picture ever appeared in my paper, and this I do with full sincerity.

And obviously, the best way to make reparation for this scandalous offense is to see to it that the author of it does no more campaign work.

The Housewife's Dream

Elizabeth W. Klots in Life.

Scene—Employment bureau; clerk seated at desk. Enter housewife. Clerk springs up and pulls out chair.

Housewife—I want a cook.

Clerk—Certainly, madam. We have 392 waiting in the other room. Please be seated while I call one.

(Opens door, through which surging mob can be seen. Beckons and returns with applicant, who, advancing, cringes before expectant employer.)

Housewife—Sit down! (Applicant crouches on edge of chair while housewife inspects her through lorgnette.) I want a cook.

Applicant (in frightened whisper)—Yes, mum.

Housewife—I have nineteen in family.

Applicant—Oh, I like large families. In my last place there were twenty-seven.

Housewife—Be quiet! I will do the talking. I expect you, besides doing all the cooking, on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays to do the washing; Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays the upstairs work and ironing, and Sundays take out eight of my children, the youngest of whom is six months.

Applicant—I just love children.

Housewife—Silence! Every third Saturday you will clean the cellar thoroughly; second Tuesdays all windows are washed, and fourth Mondays I expect you to scrub the piazzas. I live in a deserted village seventy-five miles from New York, and will give you three hours off every week and pay you $28 a month. Oh, yes, one thing more! You will do all the housekeeping, as I am practically a nervous invalid and never lift my finger.

Applicant (so eager for the place that she is almost in tears)—Oh, it sounds grand, mum; just the place I have been looking for, and I would like to say that in my odd moments I can do the mending, and am handy in the garage in case the chauffeur leaves, or—

Housewife (interrupting, calls to clerk and waves applicant away)—Take her out! She talks too much. I know she would drive me mad. Send in another.

(Clerk advances and leads now sobbing applicant from room.)

Humor in Screen Life

L. M. Cooley in Life: From a frequent attendance at the modern motion picture comedies one gains a very exact idea of what is humorous. Wouldn't it be possible to use these ideas, which are so amusing on the screen, in livening up home life?

From the comedies we learn that to throw a liquid or pasty substance at a person is a most humorous thing. Since this is true, the father of a family, on arriving home from the office, can at once create an atmosphere of jolly mirth by hurling a lemon pie at his wife or daughter. Or, if the evening is particularly dull, let him seize a bucket of soapy water and pour it over his guest's head, maintaining at the same time a serious expression. This will cause an unbridled outburst of laughter from every member of the family, and especially from the guest.

An unusual source of entertainment can be found in spreading a coat of thick paint on the floor just before one of the family enters the room in a hurry. If for some reason he fails to lose his balance, he may be tripped, so that the force of the joke is not lost.

Destruction of property never fails to amuse on the screen. Why should it not be equally successful in the home? The tired business man may be aroused from his abstraction and worry by seeing his son smash a chair into the floor lamp, or, if there is no floor lamp or chair, let him grab hold of the chandelier and swing back and forth, kicking any person who comes within range of his feet.

Instead of entertaining guests with the usual cards, dancing and home-brew, let the family use the more modern methods which are so unquestionably successful at the movies. A whole evening of unalloyed delight can be provided by slinging plates around the house or by shoving out a wall. In apartment houses this latter method is distractingly funny, since it provides amusement for two families instead of one. If the guests are not entirely satisfied with these diversions, try flooding the house and letting each person float around the room on a piece of furniture, using a broom for a paddle.

Flattery

The New Statesman, London: It is impossible to tell the whole truth to an average human being and still to remain on terms of friendship with him. There is little friendship without make-believe. If two men are close friends, you may take it that they have been pretending to a considerably higher estimate of each other than they would set down in a perfectly honest diary.

It is not necessary that they should deliberately lie to one another, but they must discreetly conceal a certain amount of the criticism that is going on all the time behind the bones of their skulls.

What is said in a spirit of truth is set down to malice. Can a man be your friend if he steals the crown from your head? Can he be your friend even if he steals a single jewel from your crown—especially the paste jewel? We have all—the greatest and the meanest of us—paste jewels in our crowns. Will a true friend point them out to a world that is already over-much inclined to scoff? Or will he not rather organize a claque that will pretend to be dazzled by diamonds?

Man is not only a realist. He is also a lover of romance. He dreams of what he would be quite as often as he deplores what he is. He cannot help being attracted by people who make his dream appear true. There are some men who are such intense egoists that they can believe in the truth of their dreams without any assistance from other people. Southey agreed that his "Madoc" was "the best English poem since 'Paradise Lost.'" There was no need to tell him so, he knew it already.

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON.

The Wet Home

I stand upon the shore and peep at creatures that infest the deep, all sorts of things with fins and scales, from shrimps and lobsters up to whales. (Of course you'll say, with scornful grins, these haven't either scales or fins; smart alecks always gather near to show where little breaks appear.) As I was saying, on the shore I stand and hear the breakers roar and wonder how the things that roam forever in that briny home can stand such moisture all their lives, and not get mad and beat their wives. No magazines or books are there, no glowing hearth, no easy chair; there's nothing for a fish to do but soak itself the long years through, and dodge the bigger fish that strive to catch and swallow it alive. There's no place for a fish to go, no lecture hall or movie show. I have a sympathy profound for all the fish that scoot around, and ply their fins and wag their tails, the sharks, the devilfish, the whales. I would invite them from the deep, and give them beds in which to sleep, and places where they might get dry, and noggins of denatured rye, but they can't understand the tongue in which the invitation's sprung. And, maybe, as they see me stand in solemn grandeur on the land, they wonder why I don't wade in, and like them wield the trenchant fin.

(Copyright by George Matthew Adams.)

The Reasons Why There Was a Landslide

Editorial in the Grand Rapids Herald-Review.

It wasn't the League of Nations issue. It wasn't the unpopularity of Woodrow Wilson, personally nor officially. It wasn't any of the issues incorporated in the platform of either party. It wasn't due to the superior campaign methods of the Republican managers, nor the lack of it on behalf of the Democrats. It wasn't due to the winning personality of Warren G. Harding nor to any deficiency as a campaigner on the part of James M. Cox.

Notwithstanding the long and sometimes bitter controversy over the adoption or rejections of the League of Nations Covenant, the people of the United States will ultimately demand that this country shall become a member of the league, and that, too, practically as it was handed to the senate by Mr. Wilson. Without reference to parties the people look forward with assurance that the next administration will immediately join the United States with the nations of the earth in a compact to make future wars impossible. The sovereign citizens of this Republic did not give heed to the campaign claims of the Democrats that the Republicans, under the leadership of Harding, would fail and refuse to make the United States a member of the League of Nations. It was taken for granted that any party would do that, and no fear was created in the minds of the people that this country would forsake the hope of the world.

The party principles laid down in the two platforms—Republican and Democratic—were not even discussed through the campaign.

The wounded soldier in the White House is not despised by the American people. In the country's heart of hearts Woodrow Wilson holds a grand reserve all his own and no character in history will displace him as one of the world's greatest statesmen. No, the vote recorded on Nov. 2 was not a protest against the president.

The causes that swept Warren G. Harding into the presidency were a multiplicity of insignificant incidents of the war and conditions that have arisen largely therefrom. Every war measure employed during the period of the country's active participation in hostilities created a feeling of resentment among certain citizens in every community throughout the land.

The draft was bitterly objectionable to a percentage of those affected thereby. The methods employed in the sale of bonds and war savings stamps were condemned and resented by many. The strenuous drives made in behalf of the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the K. C., the Salvation Army and similar organizations, each contributed a share toward the creation of sub-conscious opposition to things as they were in the days of the World war. No measure employed caused more violent opposition among the thoughtless and selfish and gluttonous than the enforcement of Federal food regulations under the direction of that master executive, Herbert Hoover. There were millions of people in the country who agreed that all war activities and restrictions were desirable and necessary, except as each individual felt a real or fancied inconvenience and hardship applied to self. The forcing of idlers into useful employment was exceedingly distasteful to a large army of human parasites. The conservation of man power, in which the delivery of goods to customers by retail dealers, was largely eliminated, was the cause of much complaint, especially among the women of the country. The housekeepers who had long been accustomed to the habit of ordering the daily necessities by phone and getting prompt service, were forced to visit the store in person and carry home their purchases. This requirement was not only an inconvenience entailing additional labor and loss of time, but it was undignified and in some instances even considered humiliating. Many women had not forgotten the indignities thus thrust upon them and expressed their disapproval Nov. 2.

Liberty bonds selling at a discount, when assurances had been iterated and reiterated a thousand times in every community through press, pulpit and platform that Liberty bonds would forever be as good as gold, dollar for dollar. Of course they will be, to those who hold to maturity. But the small buyers, as a rule, are not provident people. Most of them hurried to a purchaser and sold them at a discount. They wanted the money to spend, probably for an automobile that wasn't needed, or a piano that nobody in the household could manipulate. For their own lack of good judgment the administration is blamed. War taxes confront the people at every turn. Nobody is on friendly terms with war taxes. And everybody would favor abolishment of the nuisance, except, of course, the tax the other fellow pays.

It was by act of congress that Liberty bonds were put on the market. War savings certificates, thrift stamps, war taxes of every description, the creation of food regulations and penalties for violation thereof, all were the creation of congress. Yet the Federal administration was held responsible for everything that anybody saw fit to criticize, and they voted as they criticized.

While the people of the United States as a whole appeared to approve and insist upon the enforcement of all war measures, individually the verdict was by no means unanimous. There were vast numbers who felt inwardly that somehow they were the goats in particular instances and resented it. This general feeling was due to the freedom of personal conduct of the American people. Not only had we become accustomed to exercising every liberty granted to us legally and socially, but in addition thereto we demanded some special licenses not provided for in the codes. Hence, it naturally followed that any infringement of our customary habits or liberties, or licenses, were not graciously accepted. Not much was said, but deep was the feeling. The sum total of those disgruntled individuals made a vast army of voters who found the first opportunity to express their disapproval by voting against the party that was in power when these disagreeable experiences were inflicted upon them.

At no period of the world's history has such widespread prosperity prevailed in any country as has been experienced in the United States during the past four years. In all the ramifications of industry demand and prices have prevailed at the very peak. The prices of commodities of every class and kind have soared to dizzy heights. Wages have doubled and quadrupled until nobody wants to work unless he or she can be the sole dictator of the hours of labor and the amount performed. Loyalty to the employer by the rank and file of employes has been utterly destroyed. High prices and high wages have induced a lavish extravagance that suggests national insanity. This condition has been the foundation for grave apprehension and has been the cause of suggesting a change of administration with the vague hope that sane conditions may supersede the delirious debauch that now prevails. Manufacturing plants are months and in some instances years behind with urgent orders. This is largely due to the prevailing conditions of labor in every industrial center. "Give us a change," has been the cry, "even though it be a change to the soup house and the bread line."

Added to these indefinite and baseless reasons for the landslide was the pro-German and pro-Irish vote of the country. While the American soldiers shot the Germans to defeat on the fields of France and Flanders, the sympathizers in this country of the dethroned kaiser have had the secret satisfaction of helping to defeat the party in power when disaster fell upon the world's arch enemy. A large element of the Irish population of this country cast a vote of protest against the Democratic party because President Wilson failed to free Ireland and demolish the British empire when he had his army and navy mobilized.

In addition to all these, of course, was that considerable number of very respectable American citizens who voted for Harding because they were Republicans and had a legitimate excuse for doing so.

On the whole, it wasn't such a glorious victory after all. The balance of power lay in the votes of the amalgamated malcontents of the country. Mr. Harding evidently got them all. If he can succeed in satisfying the aggregation responsible for his election he will prove himself to be the most adroit politician and the greatest statesman that the ages has produced. In the meantime it is not unreasonable to anticipate that at the end of four years he will have become seriously estranged from certain elements of his 1920 following.

Health Talks

By William Brady, M. D.

Running All the Time

What makes a person have a cold all the time?

Query propounded by a new reader.

One doesn't. It just seems all the time. Exaggeration is an inherent human trait. If we lose an hour or two of our regular night's sleep we swear next morning that we haven't slept a wink. If we have an ordinary attack of appendicitis or something, our nurse and doctor assure us a week later that it was the worst case they have ever seen. If one or two rascals give us a bad deal we conclude that the whole world is wicked. If we have more than two attacks of coryza in a season we declare that we are running full time. If we have such an indisposition in fine warm weather we are not much frightened and we say little about it; but if the weather happens to be inclement when we are so indisposed we are voluble about it, hence the popularity of the catching cold delusion. Has anyone ever found a climate, a season or a place in the sun where there are no respiratory infections or where there is less illness therefrom per thousand population than the average? If he has he keeps the secret well.

Coryza is an acute inflammation of the lining of the nose chambers invariably due to infection. Not every alleged "cold in the head" is coryza. Victims of chronic or permanent diseased conditions of the nose chamber linings or of the several spaces or sinuses (air chambers) communicating with the nose chambers, are abnormally sensitive to and they react abnormally to atmospheric changes, temperature changes and changes of clothing. They experience a stuffiness, an engorgement or congestion of the nose chambers and perhaps increased secretion or running at the nose from trifling alterations of external or surface conditions, and they thoughtlessly say, "I'm taking cold" or "I'm catching more cold," although the unpleasant symptoms disappear within minutes or an hour after restoration of the usual surface conditions. Not so with coryza; when you have coryza you have it good and proper for a few days. The sad part of it is, though, that easy-going folks who think in the channels set for them believe what these misguided chronics say and conclude that you do take cold from drafts, dampness, change of weather or change of clothing.

Where superstitution holds sway reason hasn't a chance.

The stuffiness and running at the nose, which these unthinking chronics so lightly call a "fresh cold," is purely mechanical. There is no actual inflammation and no actual disturbance of health—no feverishness, no aches or pains, no malaise, nothing, in fact, that warrants the conclusion that drafts, dampness or other atmospheric factors have any causative effect on diseases of the breathing organs. Indeed, no evidence has been found to support the theory that congestion or engorgement of a part of the body with blood favors or predisposes to inflammation of that part.

Some chronic disease condition makes a person imagine he has a "cold" all the time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Removing Stain From the Teeth.

Please tell me what will remove a greenish stain on the teeth near the gums, and also whiten the teeth.—Miss C. R.

Answer—Brush the teeth with two or three drops of tincture of iodine on the wet brush. Follow this immediately with a brushing with a few drops of aromatic spirits of ammonia on the wet brush. Then brush with a few drops of peroxide of hydrogen on the wetbrush. Do this perhaps three days in succession, as often as may be necessary.

Onions.

As I am very fond of onions, would like to know whether they are wholesome? Do you think walking outdoors is better for the health than exercising in a gymnasium?—M. H.

Answer—Onions are wholesome, slightly laxative, rich in vitamins, contain food iron, antiscorbutic (prevent scurvy). The fancied sleep-producing effect of onions is doubtful. In my judgment walking in the open air is better than any gymnasium exercise for the general health.

Blood Pressure.

What can one do to prevent high blood pressure? Will high pressure return to normal if the cause is removed?—Mrs. C. M.

Answer—Obey the laws of hygiene and so avoid the disease states of which high blood pressure is a sign. High pressure will return to normal if the disease of which it is a sign can be cured. (N. B.—Don't write to ask me what disease high pressure is a symptom of. That is for your doctor to determine).

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man, Dayton, Ohio.

Not looking each of you to his own things, but each of you also to the things of others.—Phil. ii, 4.

The best thing to take people out of their own worries is to go to work and find out how other folk's worries are getting on.—Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney.

It is more blessed to give than to receive.—Acts xx, 25.

This is true whatever be the character of our acquisitions. There are riches of learning; but what are the highest advantages of intellectual culture? Is one to study and travel, read and write, simply for the sake of being a student, a writer, a walking library of knowledge or an encyclopedia of information? Our instincts tell us that we are not to live simply to acquire; society does not want mere effigies, whether stuffed with bran or brains, but the world wants men, living, working, serving others, who acquire in order to impart, who have at heart the good of the race.—Arthur T. Pierson.

Remarks About Kings

("God said I am tired of Kings."—Emerson.)

God said, "I am tired of kings."
But that was a long while ago!
And meantime man said, "No,
I like their looks in their robes and rings."
So he crowned a few more,
And they went on playing the game as before,
Fighting and spoiling things.

Man said, "I am tired of kings!
Sons of the robber-chiefs of yore,
They make me pay for their lust and their war;
I am the puppet, they pull the strings;
The blood of my heart is the wine they drink.
I will govern myself for a while I think,
And see what that brings!"

Then God, who made the first remark,
Smiled in the dark.

Out Among the Neighbors

Rambling Comment on Northwest Men, Newspapers and Communities.

Some North Dakota counties, represented by holdover Nonpartisan senators in the legislature, may invoke the recall to determine whether that kind of representation shall continue. In urging it the Fargo Forum declares the recall is justified in every district where it is evident a majority of the voters are opposed to a continuation of the Townley policies. If the Independents can thus gain a working majority in the senate the much-maligned recall law will have gained a lot of friends.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of This Date, 1900

A St. Paul dispatch says the condition of United States Senator Davis is serious. Acute inflammation of the kidneys has been discovered and, his system having become much weakened from the poisoned foot, this renders his condition very dangerous. In fact it is now regarded as doubtful whether he can recover.

The Dutch cruiser Gelderland, with ex-President Kruger of the Transvaal on board, has arrived at Suez. Mr. Kruger remains secluded in his cabin. His health is good.

Chairman E. L. Millar of the St. Louis county Republican committee is being mentioned as a possible candidate for the position of secretary to Governor Van Sant, but there is suspicion that the office which Mr. Millar really covets is that of surveyor of logs, now held by Mr. Brady and which G. Fred Stevens thinks he can fill.

The grand jury in the district court yesterday, in its final report, said concerning conditions in Duluth: "From evidence produced before us in other cases, we are satisfied that there is a neglect on the part of the city authorities to enforce existing laws in reference to saloons. In several cases we found that saloons were kept open for business on Sundays, as well as all night Sunday."

Paul Phillips arrived from Sioux City, Iowa, yesterday to visit his mother, Mrs. M. A. Phillips.

Among the people who arrived from the range towns yesterday were M. L. Fay of Virginia and John Pengilly, J. Klobucher and Otto Swain of Ely.

The congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian church has voted unanimously to extent a call to Rev. John Wilson of Winchester, Ind. It is believed that Mr. Wilson will accept and will arrive here with his family by Dec. 1.

Gus Stewart and Silas Stewart, Grand avenue grocers, expect to leave soon for Coleraine, where they will spend the winter.

O. S. Lund and family from La Crosse, Wis., have arrived to make their home at West Duluth.

The season shoot of Company C has closed. The records show that Corporal Edward G. Simpson wins the gold and silver medal presented to Company C four years ago by Company C of the Third United States infantry. Carl Anderson is second, only four points behind the winner. The lieutenants' prize also was won by Simpson, with Anderson two points behind and Sergeant John Olson six points behind the winner. The Company C gold medal for beginners was won by S. A. Pickett.

At the annual meeting of the Duluth Improvement association, held in the Chamber of Commerce building, Luther Mendenhall was re-elected president, Milie Bunnell vice president, Thomas E. Hill secretary, and F. J. Pulford treasurer.

THE OPEN COURT

Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about topics of general interest, but discussion of sectarian, religious differences is barred. Letters must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.

THE CASE OF THE FARMER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have read the splendid editorials you have written on the League of Nations; I agree with you perfectly because your arguments are unanswerable.

But I have read your editorials in vain to find a single constructive measure of relief for the farmers of Minnesota. And, now, you finally discover that there is something wrong. Your editorial of Tuesday would indicate that you are beginning to appreciate that behind all that stir of the farmers, there must be something wrong and that if we can do what is right there will be no nonpartisan menace.

But your proposition of co-operation, however desirable, is not enough. The farmers have been organizing for over twenty years and they haven't even reached first base yet. Hundreds of people have tried to help, and I was one of them, only to find themselves ostracized, discredited and even ruined financially. Every co-operative movement had to meet the competition of organized wealth, and a legislature either hostile or indifferent. How many co-operative creameries, elevators and potato warehouses have been destroyed through the organized fight against them! But possibly all that sacrifice has not been in vain, if after twenty years of plodding the farmers find at least one daily paper in the state which discovers that the farmers have a grievance. At last! And now that you realize that the farmers have a complaint, will you kindly propose a real remedy?

During the war, when the government fixed the price of wheat, we farmers sold our wheat at $2.08, and then drove to the feed store to buy feed for our hogs and paid five cents a pound for corn or at the rate of $3.00 a bushel. We did not complain then, but sowed more wheat in order to feed the starving world. And now, we have that wheat. It cost us from $1.80 to $2.25 a bushel to raise our wheat, and now we are asked to sell it for what we can get for it. What is true of the wheat situation is true of practically every product raised on the farm. No market for wool, none for potatoes nor truck of any kind unless such commodities are so scarce that the consumers are willing to pay any price to get them. Every year thousands of bushels of fruit rot on the ground in Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska (I have seen that with my own eyes), because there is no decent market.

I have seen hundreds of farmers' wives leave their babies to the care of children while they went out into the fields to help harvest the crop only to find that after a year's labor, their efforts failed to bring proper compensation. People think that farmers are well off. I wish I could think that myself. But they are not. Their wealth consists of the accumulation of years of labor by the entire family and the increase in the value of land, if they are fortunate enough to be able to hold their land. I have traveled through sections of Southern Minnesota in which only one farmer out of ten owned their farms and the others were mere renters. Do you wonder that the farmers are looking desperately for relief? Do you wonder that Townley can organize such an army of farmers willing to give their notes to finance a farmers' league with teeth in it?

And now I am glad that you have realized at last that something must be done. That it is not a question of socialism, nor Bolshevism, nor free love, nor anything of the kind, but that the farmers want just plain justice and if they cannot get it through private markets, that they will get it through public markets with the assistance of the state. The issue is simply this: If the state can do a thing better than private enterprise, let the state do it, but if private enterprise can do a thing better than the state, let private enterprise do it. Private enterprise has had a long chance, and I am willing that it shall have more if it will only turn over a new leaf and work for the interest of Minnesota instead of only talking about it.

A. I. JEDLICKA.

Proctor, Minn., Nov. 12.

The Herald's "admission" that the farmer needs help is nothing new; The Herald has made that statement repeatedly. It regrets that it has no more tangible remedy to suggest than that co-operative marketing be helped instead of hindered. It has no such respect for the way public agencies handle the affairs already entrusted to them as to warrant it in supporting proposals to turn marketing and warehousing functions over to the state to operate. Co-operation has proved itself in many agricultural fields, notably in marketing fruits. It ought to be tried further—it is already successful in a small way through farmers' elevators—before we conclude that the only alternatives are state capitalism or complete reliance on the chamber of commerce.—The Editor.

SCHOOL FOOTBALL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I realize that a person of my years should not indulge in Open Court controversies, but I do wish to make my reply to "D. C. H. S. Student," who disagrees with me that Hancock has made a good record in high school football and cites numerous names of players who used to be on Central's team when they had one. Does not Mr. Student know that Hancock has played with Superior for the last four years and does he know how many times Duluth has won from Superior during that time? Thanks for the adding machines, we won't need them.

I thank "Student" for mentioning that the other ten players had something to do with Superior's victory. If you will refer to my previous letter you will note that I mentioned the fact that if Hancock was injured Superior would have a number of good men to substitute anyway.

The yells that Central used and practiced could be heard all the way to Sam Simon's grocery and I heard many residents of the vicinity remark that vilifying the opposition and winning games seldom went hand in hand.

ARMISTICE DAY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just a few words in regard to Armistice day at Eveleth. How fast some people seem to have forgotten Armistice day and all that it stands for?

Why do not the school authorities of Eveleth see fit to observe this great day as a holiday? Armistice day ought to be just a little more than an ordinary cold November day. It certainly was two years ago. Everybody rejoiced, bands played, people paraded the streets and everybody was smiling and happy. We were proud of our boys then. Are we going to forget all that they have done for us?

Come on, school authorities and others concerned, let's have a little more action next year.

A CELEBRATOR.

TOWNLEYISM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Shortly after the last registration day The Herald pointed out the fact that women living in the "swell" end of town had registered very heavily, while those in the working man's quarters had not. Hence, it was easy to account for the Republican "landslide." For some unknown reason to me the laborers do not care to have their women folks vote. The Herald thinks it a good time to dispose of Townleyism for all times to come, and go ahead and find out what the farmers are justly complaining about and fix it. The best way to find such a thing out is for such a man as the editor of The Herald to take $500 and his family out on a piece of raw land and "dig in." I am confident that in a short time Townleyism would look different to him. But The Herald knows very well what the farmer is justly complaining of, also that the Republican politician is unable to rectify the trouble simply because it is their "meat" to keep the farmer where he is. Mr. Preus and his supporters promised nothing and will give nothing to relieve the farmer and the producing class as a whole.

"But talking about political puzzles, will somebody explain why the district that went strong for Townleyism went so strong for Mr. Harding," asked The Herald. Well now this is a puzzle all right, but I shall make my guess.

The "Townley radicals" were not Socialists as The Herald, News Tribune and Minnesota Issues said they were, yet they believe in the right of free speech, free assembly and open public discussion of all matters concerning a democratic people which the Democratic party had destroyed. They were also profiteers (in mind) to a very large extent and felt angry because they did not share in the war profit.

I am, indeed, well satisfied with the last election inasmuch as the blame for future trouble cannot be put on the Socialist, organized labor and the alien, as they are not in power any more and please, Robert McNaughton, put that hammer away. We are now on the way to "unparallel prosperity" and can well afford to pay the price of coal. Profiteering is now sanctioned by the voters and the way to do now is to get in the game and play it strong.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallable. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person asking it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Interested, Duluth: When was Thanksgiving day first observed and has the last Thursday in November always been the date observed?

Ans.: Thanksgiving day was first officially observed in 1621 in Plymouth, Mass., a celebration to mark the successful venture into the new land of the band of Pilgrims. The first president, George Washington himself, established the custom of a proclamation to come from the presidential chair each year, appointing a day of thanksgiving. The observance was very irregular for many years, however, as few states celebrated on the same day, and some states did not recognize the holiday at all. The real credit for making the day a great national holiday to be celebrated in every city and state in the Union is generally credited to a woman, Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, long before the Civil war, began to write letters each fall to the governors of all the then existing states and territories asking that the last Thursday in November be observed as a day of thanks. By 1859 most of the states had followed her suggestion, and President Lincoln, just after the war closed, made the proclamation that has been followed by every president since.

Reader, Duluth: I would be pleased to have you answer the following question: After completing the course prescribed at the U. S. naval academy at Annapolis how long must the person spend in the navy on duty?

Ans.: Applicants who successfully pass the entrance examinations and are accepted must sign articles by which they bind themselves to serve in the navy for eight years, including the period spent at the academy. This means about four years' service after graduation.

J. F., Duluth: Can you please tell me if a man having enlisted during the World war and, without having been a single day in civilian life, re-enlists, receives this state's soldiers' bonus for the two enlistment terms or will he receive the bonus from the time of his first enlistment to first discharge?

Ans.: We understand that the bonus board has ruled that in cases of this kind the date of the first discharge following the close of the war, marks the limit for bonus claims.

E. C. A., Duluth: (1) Does the Canadian government have any land grants in the province of British Columbia? Does a person have to be a citizen in order to obtain land there? (2) To whom should I apply for a large map of the state of Minnesota where every section and township is numbered?

Ans.: (1) Write James A. Calder, minister of immigration, Ottawa, for this information. (2) Do not believe such a map is published for general use; you might inquire at the office of the state auditor, St. Paul, Minn.

ENOUGH BADGER NORMALS.

Committee Named to Ascertain Needs Makes Recommendations.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—Normal schools of Wisconsin are followers rather than leaders of educational progress, according to a report of a committee of city school superintendents appointed to investigate the status of professional service rendered by the nine normals of the state.

The two general reasons given for this reported condition are given as a general lack of realization on the part of those who shape the policies of the normal schools or the purpose for which they were created and for which they now exist and a scarcity of live professional pioneers willing to forge ahead in the more advanced fields of normal training.

Two general recommendations are made to remedy the situation as the committee sees it:

That no more normal schools be established in Wisconsin; that the normal school regents take steps at once to eliminate all courses and functions now fostered that cannot qualify under the heading of development of teachers for service and improvement of teachers in service and that within this field the policy be liberal both as to financial support and professional freedom.

Wisconsin Grain Show.

La Crosse, Wis., Nov. 15.—Grain men from fifty-two Wisconsin counties are making plans for the state's most extensive exhibition of high-class grains here Jan. 26 to 29, according to E. D. Holder, assistant secretary of the Wisconsin Experiment association. The show is part of the extension program of the association and the college of agriculture. The association, with 2,000 members, will hold its annual conference during the course of the show. The La Crosse chamber of commerce has decided to hold its midwinter carnival as a supplement to the show itself.

"My Little Girl Had a Severe Cough"
Says Mentho-Laxene Quickly Relieved Her

MOTHERS! MOTHERS! If only you could know as thousands of mothers do know, that Mentho-Laxene Home-made Cough Syrup is the best, cheapest and quickest acting medicine ever offered, you would not be so worried when your children catch cold—for colds often develop into serious ills, such as pneumonia, tonsilitis, croup, etc.

At the first sign of a cold, give this pleasant, pure syrup, and your fears will be needless. It is antiseptic; it is demulcent; it allays irritation, disperses inflammation and loosens the secretions promptly. Mrs. E. A. Paige, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes: "My little girl had a severe cough which it seemed I could not cure. Was afraid it would turn into pneumonia. I thought I would try Mentho-Laxene, and can say it relieved her of the cough, so that she sleeps all night without complaining at all." Myriads of mothers have had similar experience. Your druggist has it. A small bottle makes a pint, mixed with sugar syrup.—Advertisement.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF WIFE WILL BE TRIED

Cumberland, Wis., Nov. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fall term of circuit court for Barron county called for today at Barron, was adjourned until next Monday, Nov. 22, owing to the illness of Judge W. R. Foley.

The criminal calendar for this term is unusually large, there being twelve criminal cases booked for trial, the largest in the history of the county.

The most important case is that of the State vs. Arthur Johnson of Rice Lake, who is charged with the murder of his wife. It is claimed by the state that Johnson, becoming enraged because his wife went out to a dance, came and shot and killed her.

H. J. Young and Mrs. Annie Vollrath are charged with adultery; Lester Thalacker with larceny; Walter Libring and Harold Sutguy with burglary; Arthur Turner and Phillip Burton with rape; Ira B. Meyers with arson; W. B. O'Leary with perjury.

Another "Dr." Till Trial.

John Till, the "plaster doctor," who was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail for practicing medicine without a license, which conviction was recently affirmed by the supreme court, is again up for trial accused of practicing without a license. He recently left his "plaster" farm near Turtle Lake and located at Hudson.

Another important case coming up is State vs. Nels J. Hellstrand of Rice Lake, who was recently arrested accused of mailing threatening letters to W. A. Demers, cashier of the First National bank of Rice Lake, a former member of the Barron county draft board. Demers received a number of the letters and after the receipt of the second one, his new modern barn was destroyed by an incendiary, entailing a loss of $10,000.

John L. Dahl, recently elected member of the assembly, is district attorney and will prosecute all the cases, excepting the one against W. B. O'Leary, the judge appointing C. A. Taylor special prosecutor, which was the base of the present complaint.

Twenty-six civil actions and ten divorce cases complete the calendar.

Girl Student Found Dead.

Forest Grove, Or., Nov. 15.—Miss Edith Bartow, a student at Pacific university here, was found dead in her bed in the girls' dormitory at the school yesterday. Bound about her head was a towel which officers said had been saturated with an anaesthetic. Her associates said she had not been ill and nothing was found in the room to shed any light upon the case. Miss Bartow was 17 years old. Her mother, Mrs. E. V. Bartow lives in Portland.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache, no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Advertisement.

Those Smiling Faces—

That healthy look—you envy so

Everywhere you see them. Smiling, happy faces. Cheeks aglow. Nerves steady. Minds alert. You, too, can know real health.

Millions today who once craved health have now found the real health secret. Millions have found a way to keep fit. Once they did not know, and suffered. But now that time is past.

Their method of keeping well is the basis of all health. Medical science attests its soundness. Doctors endorse it. Men and women—young and old—are finding in it real health once more.

Most people today know that constipation is the beginning of most human ills. Till recent years, however, few realized that old-fashioned cathartics, slow-acting and uncertain of results, invited disease by allowing the poisoned waste matter to remain for hours in the intestines. Few realized the vital importance of a quick-acting physic.

Medical Authorities Know

Medical authorities now agree that promptness is the first requirement of a laxative. Time counts—results must be sure and quick.

Foul breath, coated tongue, mental depression or pimply skin mean that poisonous waste matter is doing its destruction—polluting the blood—undermining your health. Kidney diseases of a serious nature commonly result. Colds, headaches, auto-intoxication, rheumatism, pneumonia and other ailments are pitfalls to which constipation frequently leads.

No time must be lost in removing the intestinal waste. A day—even half a day—is too long. Your physician will tell you this. Complete—and prompt—elimination of the waste matter is essential.

What Physicians Recommend

Leading physicians everywhere recommend a harmless mineral water for prompt, complete action. This water is known as Pluto. It is certain—quick—never-failing. Its effectiveness is due to the minerals it contains.

These minerals soften the waste accumulation. The water helps to flush it gently away. Elimination is sure, prompt and complete. The action is pleasant and gentle—entirely free from the griping effects of old-fashioned cathartics.

Try this for real health: Take home from your druggist's a bottle of Pluto Water. Use it first thing in the morning, or before meals. Note the prompt results. Note the pleasant, harmless action. See how completely it ends the constipation and restores normal, healthy activity. Feel fit once more!

Many people avoid constipation by taking Pluto Water at regular intervals. Thousands of physicians are now recommending that Pluto Water be kept always in the home. It is equally effective for children and grown-ups. As a laxative take ¼ tumbler of Pluto; as a cathartic, ⅓ tumbler; as a purgative, ½ tumbler—add hot or cold water to fill glass. Bottled at French Lick Springs, Indiana.

Dreams of little old BROADWAY!

Camel CIGARETTES

Dear Old Boy Pete: Dallas, Texas, Sunday.

This corner of the U.S. mainland is so wonderful in its bigness and bustle I guess I go mouth wide open and eyes staring! Why, Pete, Texans don't talk in miles—it doesn't mean anything! They'll tell you that this place, or that, is an all day trip, or two days and a night distant, etc! And, old yardstick, you've got the feet, just let it sink in deep that Texas is not only over 800 miles wide but it is our fifth State in population!

Heard a bird in the Adolphus hotel say that when he comes off the west border he figures he's close home to Baltimore when he's across the Lone Star state! Say, try that jump between Texarkana and El Paso! Some jaunt!

Pete, everything grows big down here—business as well as folks hearts! I like the way they never forget! Here I was walking on Main Street yesterday when as fine a type of man as ever wore one of those broad Texas smiles came up to me. "How are you, lieutenant," says he. "maybe you'll call back that day at Camp Dick when I brought over a bunch of Camels for the boys," he continued. Right there a Camel conference started!

Golly, Pete, this party coins Camel compliments faster than the mint makes money! "Lieutenant," says he, "I know when I'm 'set'! I've smoked cigarettes for five years! (NOW LISTEN, PETER!) I know Camels and I know their marvellous mild, mellow body and refreshing flavor and wonderful Turkish and Domestic blend! A million Camels wouldn't tire a smoker's taste!" Pete, that's some testifying!

Between you and me, I'll be gazing at tall buildings and things around 43d. & Broadway—N-e-w Y-o-r-k—about the hour this note hits Boston's Back Bay! Write me at the same old stand!

Sincerely
Shorty.

A FEW ARTISTS have learned the value of unfinished wood as a framing for pictures in a high key. Go to the picture framer and ask to see the unfinished moldings. They are a pale warm tan, natural wood color that is both appropriate and charming with landscape in soft, light colors. One artist I know takes these unfinished frames, rubs a little gold into them and then rubs into the gold touches of blue and dull green and orange—whatever harmonizes with the colors in his picture.

Here is another opportunity to express your individuality. Don't take just whatever the frame shop hands out to you, but think out the framing for your own pictures. Recently I acquired a charming autumn study in oils—gold and blue and distant mauve—which through mistake was placed in a dark gray frame. The frame hung over the sleepy atmosphere of the picture like a sullen rain cloud. I had it removed and replaced with a frame which continued the tones of the soft, mellow distance—a blur of silver and mauve and blue. There was no break to the eye, and the feeling imparted was that one was surrounded by the haze of autumn.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums made effective decoration at the annual luncheon of the Twentieth Century club given at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Northland Country club. Covers were laid for 140 guests. Aside from its being a great social success the affair also was very interesting and stimulating. Mrs. O. A. Oredsen, president of the Twentieth Century club, presided and in the hours following the luncheon very well received numbers were given by Mrs. H. C. Almy, contralto, and Miss Miriam Smith, pianist, two accomplished musicians of Superior. Mrs. W. C. Crumpton read an original poem and Mrs. J. O. Bach, first vice president of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, gave a very inspiring talk on "The New Renaissance."
